Alaska Bases Being Readied For Attack

By MURLIN B. SPENCER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Steel helmeted troops, carrying rifles, pistols and gas masks, are on the alert at Alaska's air and military bases. They are taking no chances of a possible surprise attack.

Tanks and additional combat troops are expected to augment air force and infantry soldiers at the big Elmendorf air force base here.

Given even a little warning, "we could put up a hell of a fight right now," said Lt. Gen. Nathan Twining, commander-in-chief of the Alaskan command.

This wartime preparedness extends on a long line running generally southwestward from Ladd air force base at Fairbanks in the northern interior to Kodiak at the western entrance to the Gulf of Alaska. This will be Alaska's line of defense in the event of an attack.

Since Americans started shooting in Korea, all troops in the Alaska area, even service troops, are being trained in the use of ground weapons. All have been assigned positions to take in case of an emergency.

All precautions are being taken against the possibility of sabotage or fifth column activity from within.

It is obvious that primary precautions are being taken against the chance of attack by paratroops. It is for this that Twining awaits tanks, which are highly effective against troops dropped from the air.

With even a brief warning, Twining believes a real fight could be put up against such an attack. Jet fighters would slash at troop-carrying planes in the air and ground troops would battle the invaders who reached the ground.

But it also is obvious that to be sure of holding, the over-all commander of all Alaska forces could use more troops and more and heavier equipment.

To the north and west of the Fairbanks-Kodiak line, the defenses are another story. At Nome, near the Bering strait where Alaskans can look across the water toward Russian territory nearly 100 miles

Vet Allowances Being Extended

An announcement of particular importance to Imperial and Allied ex-service men of World War I with twenty years residence in Canada has, after many years of effort, recently been advised to the Dominion Command of the Canadian Legion by the Chairman of the War Veterans' Allowance Board in Ottawa. This information is being drawn to the attention of those concerned by the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

If the plan now being considered by Parliament is adopted, qualified Imperial and Allied Veterans of World War I will be paid war veterans' allowance, as from April 1, 1950, in all cases where applications for war veterans' allowance are filed with the District Offices of the Department of Veterans Affairs prior to August 1, 1950. After July 31, 1950, allowances will be paid to qualified Imperial and Allied Veterans effective as from the date their application is received at the District Office of the Department.

Imperial and Allied Veterans are being advised to submit their applications immediately to the nearest District Office of the Department of Veterans Affairs. Those who neglect to do so stand to lose four months payment of allowances.

Prairies Have Cool Weather

WINNIPEG—With the exception of the Peace River area and certain outlying districts in southeastern Alberta, weather during the past week in the three prairie provinces has been relatively cool, according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture of the Canadian National Railways. Numerous scattered showers occurred in many districts.

Central Alberta, and especially the territory southeast of Calgary and north of Edmonton, requires additional rain to improve late sown crops and assist early sown crops that are now heading out at eight to ten inches in some areas.

Moisture conditions are excellent in Manitoba and in the major part of Saskatchewan with the exception of the southwestern portion and the area west of Saskatoon, where additional rain would benefit crops greatly.

Hot, dry weather continued in the Okanagan Valley during the past week. Vegetables are now moving freely and the cherry movement should commence within the next few days, although some movement has already occurred from the territory south of Penticton.

He was brought back to Terrace and admitted to the Outpost Hospital about 5 p.m. where he was found to have hip and pelvic injuries. His condition is reported to be fair.

Judge Reserves Appeal Decision

OTTAWA —Mr. Justice J. W. Estey of the Supreme Court of Canada today reserved decision on an application for leave to appeal the murder conviction of Frederick Ducharme, under sentence to be hanged July 14 for a sex killing in Vancouver. Ducharme was found guilty of killing Ferné Blanche Fisher, 45, a spinster, whose nude body was found last November 9 in False Creek near downtown Vancouver. Mr. Justice Estey promised a decision "as soon as possible" on whether Ducharme's counsel, Dugald McAlpine of Vancouver, would be permitted to carry an appeal to the full court.

McAlpine today completed presentation of the argument for leave to appeal, contending a point of law had been raised by the failure of the trial judge to instruct the jury on certain evidence.

Only Davies of Great Britain, who started the fourth round, tied with Locke and Roberto de Vincenzo of Argentina at 211 has a chance to keep Locke from his second successive open crown.

Defence Of Alaska

THE Seattle office of the Associated Press has sent Murlin Spencer, its bureau manager, to Alaska for a business trip and he writes from Anchorage that Alaska is on the alert for possible communist attack, from within or without, says the Ketchikan Chronicle.

But Mr. Spencer is suffering, as is the Alaska command, from feeling that because Anchorage is the largest city and the Third division is the largest division in Alaska, defense begins and ends there. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The truth is that neither the Anchorage nor the Fairbanks area is too important to a potential enemy from Asia, because they are so far from the vital shipping lanes to the northwest Pacific, and because they are far from the avenues of aerial attack on Seattle, Hanford, San Francisco and the Great lakes industrial region. They are just far enough north to be by-passed, and the lack of good defense bases to the south is Alaska's real weak spot, as this paper has declared on numerous occasions.

Consider, for instance, that the war in Korea has been raging for six days and American infantrymen are not on the scene in quantity as yet. Yet the communists have little air cover, a big airbase was open near Seoul most of the week on which to land them, and MacArthur has well over 100,000 troops in Japan. The air forces have been unable to slow effectively the march to the south and the navy, aided by several allies, is making a token blockade of the Korean peninsula, jutting southward from Manchuria.

We are translating this into what would have happened if paratroopers and bombers had moved onto Annette airfield, or Terrace, B.C., field, or Gustavus, Yakutat and Cordova airfields, all of which are far from any American bases that could send troops to their assistance. A dozen big enemy bombers would have had all this week to launch their attacks from Annette onto American stateside points and might well have done damage to Boeing's, the atomic plants in the tri-cities area, the airplane plants at Los Angeles and the steel mills of Gary or Pittsburgh.

To succeed, such an enemy attack would probably have had to be made at all these air bases at once, to scatter American counter-attackers so much that the one field the enemy wanted—probably Annette—would be easy to hold. It is farthest from Anchorage, whence would come the first counter-attack, and almost equi-distant from any help that might come from Fort Lewis or Whidby island.

We do not expect such attack but we do think that the concentration of troops in the Fairbanks-Anchorage area should be broken up and the old and trusted system of dispersions and defense in depth be followed. If we have too few troops in Alaska, at least we can have a little something at several points where they might be needed rather than a lot at a few points which would logically be by-passed.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT KOREAN BOYS WRITE THE WORLD MOVES

with dizzy speed. It is only a few weeks since I was writing in this column about the two boys who escaped from North Korea. We all remember their escape from the Immigration shed in Vancouver a few hours before the ship was to sail with them aboard as deportees.

Young Wan Lee and Pong Che Yue are still "hiding out" somewhere—maybe near, maybe far from where I write. But if ever human beings were justified by events then the two Korean boys are those human beings.

They plainly told the Canadian government that Korea was on the eve of an explosion—but nobody would listen to them. They solemnly declared that to send them back to Korea would be equivalent to a death sentence.

As they put it in their letter to the Vancouver Sun:

"We told so much true in paper here that they think we critical of Communist and also Red army. At any rate we cannot lose opportunity to save our life."

"Citizens, it is seem to be small problem but it is matter dead or live."

AT LESS TENSE TIMES I might be inclined to poke a little fun at our big allied statesmen. I might ask them "how come that two mere kids—stowaways—know more of the real score about what is going on in their country than the big diplomats who were caught flat-footed by the outbreak of real war?"

But I am writing this piece to report another letter written by the two boys. It was addressed to a mutual friend. In it the boys show that they are profoundly perturbed by the war in their homeland. Bitterly anti-Communist as they are, they make it plain that they are "loyal Koreans" and that what their country wants is "peace and unite."

WE ASKED THE BOYS, prior to their escape, why they feared to go back to south Korea—from whence they had come as stowaways to Canada. They told us quite frankly that Communist agents were everywhere in south Korea. But they made it equally plain that they had no confidence in the governing circles in south Korea.

They were the self same officials who had acted as the quislings for the Japanese, said the boy refugees.

SURELY IN THE TRAGEDY of these two boys we see the tragedy of an entire nation. We also see the possible remedy.

These boys are true democrats. They happen to be Christians—in fact are Roman Catholics. They do not want to live under a Communist dictatorship—because they have already done so and know by experience what it is like. But neither do they want to live under the rule of the very same kind of people who ruled Korea under the long Japanese tyranny.

The weakness of the U.S. position, in its world-wide struggle with the S.U. (Soviet Union) is that it has tied up with too many crooks, corrupt ruling classes, or reactionaries. That fact—and NOT the Communist appeal—was the prime cause of the debacle in China.

The U.N. upholders cannot win the shooting war in Korea—and they cannot win either the cold war or a real world war if it comes—without a platform of positive democracy.

In other words—you can stop Communism with Nehru-type democracies like those in India and Indonesia. But you can't stop it with Chiang Kai-Sheks or Rhee Syngmans.

Pakistan Is Good Market

HALIFAX — There is an encouraging future for business between Pakistan and Canada, said Mr. Browne, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner for Pakistan, told newsmen here yesterday aboard a Canadian National Railways train taking him to Ottawa after three years in that country and India.

Trade between Canada and Pakistan was increasing steadily, said Mr. Browne, who arrived here in the ss. Vulcania accompanied by Mrs. Browne. With the birth of Pakistan, firms had to learn to stand on their own feet and they were developing a keen and aggressive interest in the promotion of business.

"Pakistan is not highly industrialized," Mr. Browne stated, and it provided a big potential market for Canadian machinery and industrial equipment. The country was in a good financial position and the market is becoming highly competitive. It requires 300,000 tons of finished steel rail angle sheets and other items. This presents a big possible market which Canada could supply.

"From the viewpoint of exports to Canada Pakistan could provide this country with limited raw materials, he said, principally of these were wool, cotton, hides and skins, tea, chrome ore, sports goods, cutlery and surgical instruments.

Among other passengers who arrived from overseas and left here yesterday in the Canadian National train for Ottawa were Mrs. F. O. Riedl, wife of the Austrian Consul General to Canada, who is enroute to join her husband who took up his new post in Canada nine months ago. With her are her three children, Freddy, 10, Florian, 8, and Oswald, 3, and their maid, Anne Lore Presting.

Trying For French Gov't.

PARIS — Guy Mollet, secretary general of the French Socialist party, holds the centre of the political stage as he surveys the chances of forming the next government—the fourth since liberation.

President Vincent Auriol invited Mollet to "undertake a mission of information" on the possibilities of forming a cabinet to succeed that of the Catholic leader George Bidault and radical Socialist Henri Queuille. The Socialists precipitated the defeat of the government within the last twelve days.

Political leaders say Mollet has no chance of being accepted by the assembly as premier.

MAKE JAM THE MODERN SHORT-BOIL WAY

SAVE TIME, WORK, MONEY

Compare These Two Methods —

WITH CERTO

1. Mrs. A. makes jam the short-boil way with CERTO. She has 2 pounds of fruit prepared, ready to start at 9 o'clock.

2. The dotted line shows level of the prepared fruit in Mrs. A's saucepan.

3. Mrs. A. adds 3 pounds of sugar. A pound of jam made with CERTO contains no more sugar than a pound made the old long-boil way.

4. Mrs. A. brings the mixture to a full rolling boil; boils hard ONE MINUTE only; removes from stove and adds 1/2 bottle (4 ozs.) Certo. CERTO is the natural jelling substance in fruit in concentrated form.

5. Mrs. A. is able to pour and paraffin about 5 pounds (10 glasses) of jam from her 2 pounds of fruit. She gets sure results because she follows the CERTO recipe EXACTLY.

6. Mrs. A.'s 10 glasses of jam were made in just 15 minutes.

THE OLD WAY

1. Mrs. B. makes jam the old-fashioned long-boil way. She, too, is ready to start her jam making at 9 o'clock.

2. Mrs. B. starts off with the same amount of prepared fruit in her saucepan.

3. Mrs. B. uses the old "pound of sugar per pound of fruit" standard recipe. So she adds 2 pounds of sugar.

4. Mrs. B. boils the mixture about 30 minutes before the jam thickens to the desired consistency. This evaporates about 1/2 the weight of the fruit, darkens the color and carries off much of the natural fresh-fruit flavor in steam.

5. Mrs. B. pours and paraffins about 3 pounds (6 glasses) of jam from the same amount of fruit. Until it is finished she cannot tell for sure how well her jam will turn out.

6. Mrs. B. took 45 minutes to make her 6 glasses of jam.

Certo gave Mrs. A. sure results... much more jam... saved time, work and money.

Free Recipe Book

Under the label of every bottle of CERTO is a book of 78 tested recipes for jams and jellies. Different fruits need different handling, so CERTO gives you a separate recipe for each fruit. Be sure to follow the simple directions EXACTLY.

Dominion Day, Terrace, Quiet

TERRACE—Dominion Day in Terrace, this year, was one of the quietest known for many years. Cars were plentiful, passing through Terrace during the day to the coast or to the interior with quite a few out-of-town people spending the week-end here.

The day's activities were centered at the Civic Centre where children's sports were held in the morning and early afternoon. Members of the Canadian Legion and Legion Auxiliary were in charge of the events with bingo, ball throw, crown and anchor, and the refreshment stand drawing the crowds.

A ball team from Telegraph Point, which was to have played against the local team was unable to come to Terrace so a game was arranged with the men's team and the boys', not being so adept at fastball as at softball were badly beaten, the score being 14 to 1.

In the evening a large crowd danced to the peppy music of Frank Gavan's "Rhythmaires" in the auditorium of the Civic Centre.

Final Rites For Ivor Martinson

Many old friends turned out at the chapel of the B.C. Undertakers at Grenville Court on Wednesday afternoon for the funeral of Ivor Martinson, hall-but fisherman of a quarter of a century's standing out of Prince Rupert, who had passed away earlier in the week.

Rev. Canon Basil S. Prockter of St. Andrew's Cathedral officiated and Mrs. Fred Antrobus presided at the organ to accompany the hymns which were "Nearer My God To Thee" and "Lead Kindly Light."

Following the chapel service, interment was made in Fairview Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Olof Skog, John Orvik, Eric Roselle, Ivor Robertson, Hans Peterson and Archie March.

Beautiful floral offerings included wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wingham, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Roselle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Lien and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eni Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. Arling Grinstrand, Mr. and Mrs. Olof Skog, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kilby, Mr. and Mrs. Einar Mek, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Feero, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hagan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Petterson, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Olsen, Oscar and Marie Wingham, Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, Alf and Jeanette, Hans, May and Astri, Mrs. Ivor Robertson and family, John Olsen, Jack Molvar and Pete Wold, Mel Gunvor, E. Solem and A. Hord and John Orvik.

Salesman: "I've been trying to see you all week. When may I have an appointment?"

Wholesaler: "Make a date with my secretary."

Salesman: "I did, and we had a swell time, but I still want to see you."

Rev. Fred Antrobus, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated and Mrs. Antrobus presided at the organ to accompany the hymns which were "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me."

Following the chapel service interment was made in Fairview Cemetery. Pallbearers, all old friends of deceased, were Sid Hamblin, R. E. Moore, Reg Green, Reg Clarke, Casper Knutson and H. M. Daggett.

Eighteen members of Gyro clubs on the prairies arrived in the city on the afternoon train and were met by members of the local club.

There were eight cases of illegal fishing dealt with at Port Essington over the week-end, all being of a minor nature and bringing fines of from $10 to $25.

Jr. Softball Honors Even

Last night Boy Scouts and Annunciation School played two of the most evenly matched games of the current Junior Softball season.

The boys slugged it out for a win apiece. The Scouts took the first game with a score of 7-3. Annunciation won the second game 5-3.

This ties the boys up in the best of three series for play-off championship. The final game will be played next Tuesday night and promises to be one of the best junior softball games of the season.

In senior softball Saturday night Rupert Radio meets the Co-ops.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

A nephew of the King is selling part of his ancestral estate of 22,000 acres in order to help pay inheritance taxes. Many of the buyers were former tenants. The family of one tenant had worked on or around the estate for three hundred years. The place will feel real homelike.

The oil pipeline to run from Edmonton to Superior, Wisconsin, 1,150 miles, will cost $90,000,000 with construction payroll $27,000,000. It will about double the market and this is regarded as but the beginning. Plainly, there's more than wheat and below zero in Alberta.

Weather in Kamloops Tuesday was hot enough to fry an egg on the sidewalk. There has been negligence somewhere. Nowhere was there even a hint concerning bacon.

Prince Rupert children are learning how to swim. They could not put spare time to better use. Once, longer ago than one cares to admit, a ten year old found himself stripping on the sandy beach of the Bay of Fundy.

"Come on," said an elderly relative stepping into ice-cold surf. "Don't scare, I'm right here. Strike out, and kick. You know."

Did I? Not on your tintype. One eye was full of salt. All the other could behold was the rolling swell of blue sea with no land in sight. Frankly, the first attempt was a failure. But the second, later that day, was not. It was staged at a shallow, peaceful old mill pond, where you could not help discovering the knack of how to avoid drowning. Seemed so simple and easy once you knew how, and once enlightened, never forgotten.

This is indeed an island community. The townsite, Prince Rupert, is surrounded by water. So is Digby, where the wireless station and the thriving village of Dodge Cove are situated, with miles of surplus space and seashore. One of the group of small islands across the harbor was used as a cemetery during the early days. Tugwell Island will become an airport. An island on the way to Metlakatla, was a poultry raising centre for years. There is another small island across the bay from the dry dock yards. It's close to the mainland but an islet nevertheless.

It's costing Canada three

Mr. Claxton met the press early this week and made it clear that Canada would be well advised to have more air defence. He said nothing suggesting an emergency. Notwithstanding, when a Minister of the Crown speaks for publication, it is just as well to try and weight every word—especially when world interest is largely concentrated on Korea.

Statehood Report Excites Boy Scouts

There was a flurry of comment the other day at the Forge in Pennsylvania. Magnus Eyoelson of Prince Rupert is included in the provisional Boy Scout Jamboree Rumor spread that the Hawaii statehood had passed and now only awaiting president's signature. The Experts Say...

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HOME NURSING—The Canadian Red Cross society's new home nursing manual is a "must" for every household—particularly where there are children.

What to do in case of accidents—everything from treatment for frostbites to how to bathe baby is contained in this 200-page volume which the Red Cross says will have real meaning only if studied in conjunction with a course of instruction which consists largely of demonstration and practice.

The society's first reference book came out in 1923 at the time of the organization's plan to provide elementary instruction for homemakers in the care of the sick in the home. Since then the book has been revised several times and in this latest revision it has been completely rewritten. Mention is made in the preface of the Red Cross nursing services department which has gradually evolved a flexible program of home nursing instruction designed to meet the needs of both urban and rural communities in Canada.

To further promote home care for the sick, equipment also has been made available to home nurses and other members of the public by the establishment of sickroom supply loan cupboards in Red Cross branches throughout the country.

While the value of expert care given by professionally trained workers cannot be over-estimated, instruction of lay workers in home nursing develops volunteer service which greatly aids the professional worker, Helen G. McArthur, director of nursing services for the society, says in the preface to the book.

VOLUNTARY AID—Instruction of lay workers in home nursing also encourages the understanding and development of public health programs in the community. Thus many nurses, through Red Cross, voluntarily have given of their time and skill to teach Canadian women how to become more resourceful in caring for the sick, handicapped and aged in their own families.

Care of the sick and the aged is dealt with in this book which is made the more interesting through introduction of the activities of the hypothetical Harper family at the beginning of each chapter.

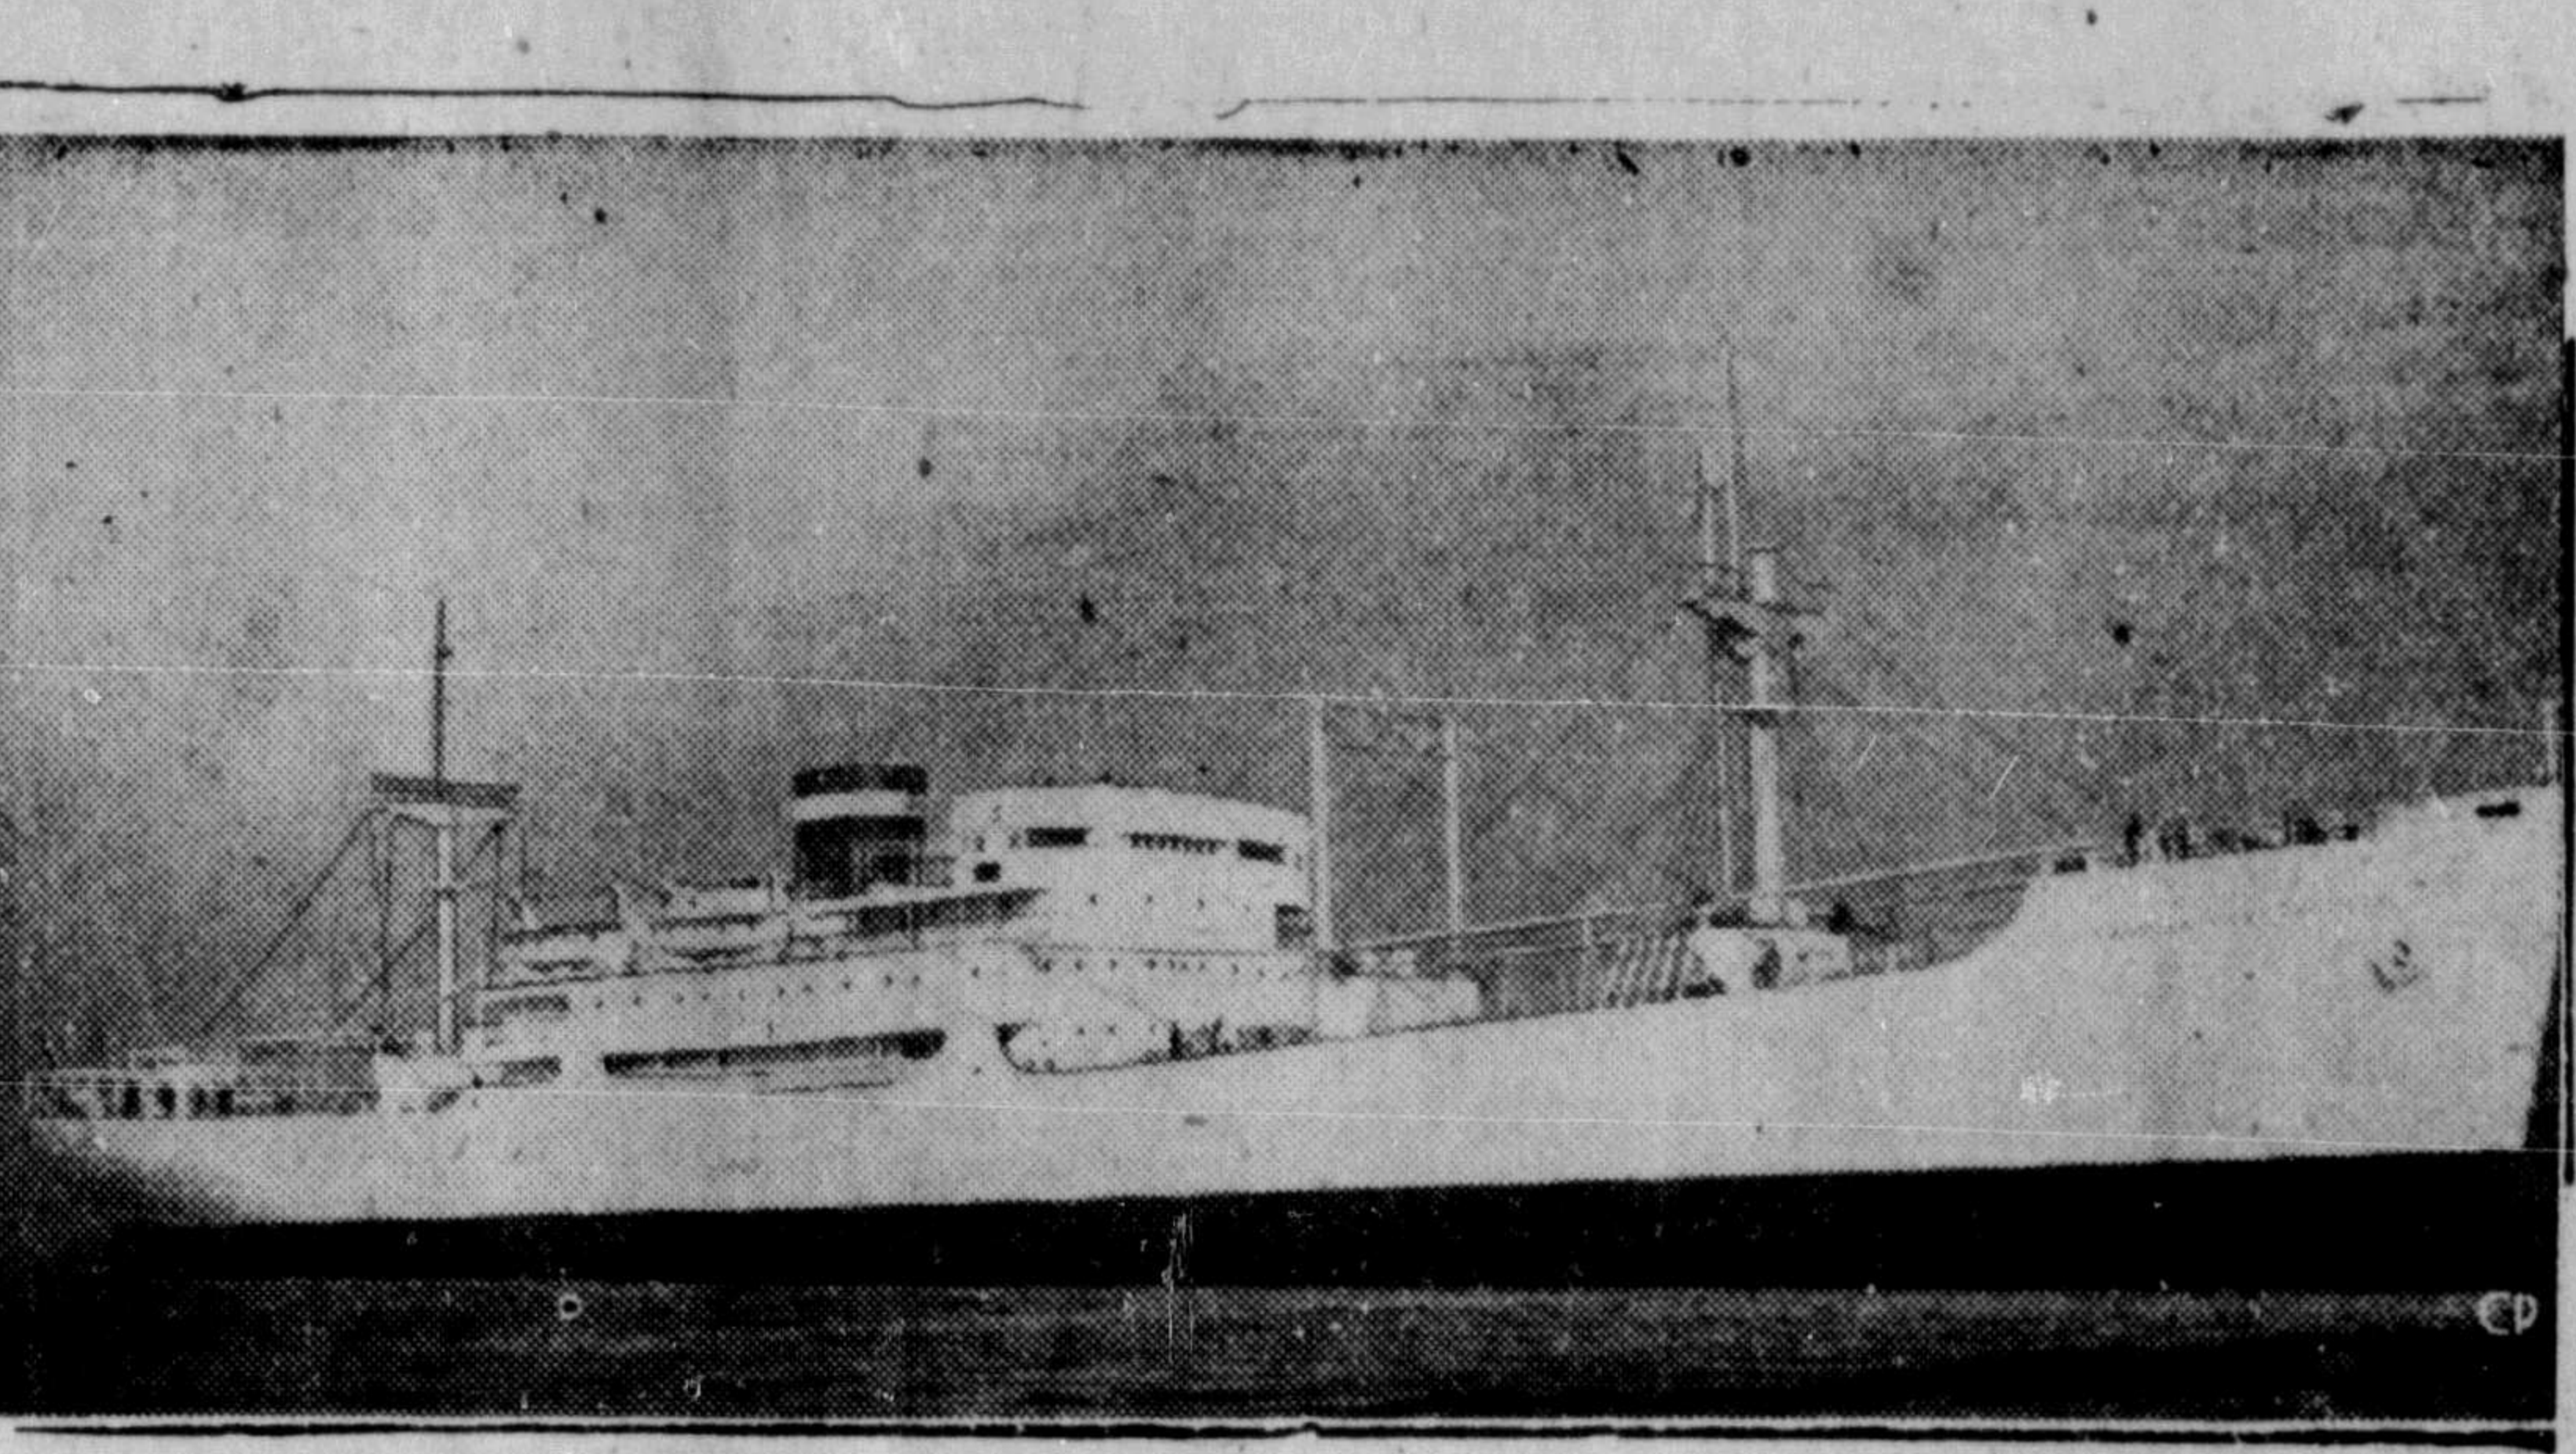

Four-year-old Linda Harper awakens during the night with the tummy-ache and her mother after checking Linda's temperature calls the doctor.

BE FAIR TO DOCTOR—Instructions continue from there: "The signs of an oncoming illness are not always readily noticeable... it is unfair... to telephone the doctor for every little ache and pain but it is also unfair to wait to call him until the illness has progressed far beyond its normal degree of severity."

This particular chapter deals with symptoms of illness and how to read a thermometer.

BRIGHT BIT—One of the brightest bits in the book is Mrs. Harper's special recipe for health:

"Take one individual any age,

Capt. Harry McLean, popular master of the Union Steamship Co's liner Chilcotin, will have the sympathy of many friends in the death of his wife which occurred on Monday of this week in Vancouver. Owing to Mrs. McLean's serious illness, Capt. McLean stayed ashore in Vancouver from the current cruise of the Chilcotin to Alaska. Chief Officer James Hunter took over command and Capt. "Wally" Walsh, former chief officer of the vessel and now agent for the Canadian Merchant Service Guild at Vancouver, came out to resume his old duties for the one voyage.

A. Yes, always.

Shriners Given Fine Welcome
Twenty-three past potentates from various parts of the United States with one from Canada and one from Mexico and other Shriners and their ladies, who spent several hours in the city Thursday evening while returning south aboard the steamer Chilcotin after a cruise to Alaskan waters, were given a tunesome and colorful welcome of distinctive Prince Rupert character.

The visitors were met soon after their ship docked by the Prince Rupert Shrine Band, which serenaded them, and by the patrol team of Job's Daughters, which put on one of their smart marching drill routines, all of which won much applause from the Shriners as well as a large crowd of people which gathered on the wharf to see the show.

After welcoming ceremonies and the making of a number of presentations, the Band and the girls' patrol, with Miss Edith Jordan as their majorette, led a parade to the Crescent Show grounds and then to the Moose Temple where a reception was held.

The official welcome to the visitors was extended by C. A. Berner, vice-president of the Prince Rupert Shrine Club in the absence of President A. W. Burnip. He referred to the good work of Shriners both in Canada and the United States in their crippled children's hospitals.

W. D. Smith was then called upon and presented to Mrs. Herman L. Englehardt of Oakland, California, wife of the leader of the visiting party, a handsome bouquet. Bouquets were also presented to Mrs. Peter Lein, wife of the leader of the band, and Mrs. Alex Mitchell, guardian of the

CHIROPRACTIC FOR HEALTH
STOMACH ULCERS
The stomach is an amazing efficient machine. When food enters it produces digestive acids in quantity and of the proper quality to deal with whatever the food and chemical make-up of the food may be. As food leaves the stomach the production of acid ceases.

That is what happens in healthy stomach. But all stomachs are not healthy. Some produce too much acid, or produce it when stomach is empty. The acid, no food for it to break down, acts against the delicate lining of stomach, and breaks down stomach wall, resulting in ulcers. To treat the ulcer itself is insufficient. The cause must be moved. As the quantity and quality of acid produced is controlled by the nerves supplying the stomach, it is obvious that, since the stomach is not functioning properly, nerves themselves must be at fault and should be examined.

This the Chiropractor does. He locates the vertebra interfering with the proper flow of nerve impulses over the stomach nerves and chiropractic adjustment, restores to its normal position. The stomach resumes its normal activity and longer irritated by the over-production of acid, the ulcer heals.

By correcting the cause, a permanent cure usually results, as testified by the thousands of stomach ulcer patients who have been restored to good health by Chiropractic.
