Economic and Financial Reform Measures Bring Country's Gravest Crisis

(By The Canadian Press)

PARIS—The month-old coalition government of Premier Andre Marie resigned early today over the issue of wages and prices and most observers believed the new crisis one of France's gravest post-war political tests.

President Vincent Auriol immediately went into conference with political leaders, including Paul Reynaud, Marie's finance minister, and former Premier Paul Schuman. The cabinet's downfall left France technically without a foreign minister at a moment of crucial conferences at Moscow, but Schuman will continue to fulfil the functions during the interim period.

Defence Head Makes Appeal For Solidarity

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "This nation is confronted with the greatest series of tasks that have ever fallen to the lot of any nation in history."

This statement by James Forrestal, Secretary of Defence, made before a group of 300 officers including chiefs of staff for army, navy and air, and more than 100 officers of General or Flag rank, scarcely ruffled the surface of heat-smitten Washington.

It meant that the responsibilities of the United States now were greater than the day Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor, but newspaper editors paid it little attention.

They were interested more in the warning Forrestal gave his highest-ranking officers of the three services that they must work together as a unit if an emergency comes.

The Navy Department issued texts of the statements by Forrestal; the Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Omar Bradley; Admiral Louis Denfield, Navy Chief of Operations, and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Air Force Chief of Staff.

A DESPERATE PLEA

Boiled down, the statements of the three chiefs were a desperate plea to their key officers to obey in the spirit and the letter the order from the secretary that there must be no jealousy among the forces and no weaknesses in the face of attack because of lack of team work.

Forrestal's reasons for making the appeal at this time were expressed in crisp, electrifying words. They were given to men who have worked in secret, air-cooled compartments of the vast Pentagon Building for weeks and months—worked with Canadians here on secret duty and officers from other friendly countries. "All of you in this room are too well-informed for me to have to emphasize the gravity of our position," he said.

MOSCOW — The resignation of the French government of Andre Marie is believed to have affected the delicate four-power talks going on here on the German crisis.

An authoritative source announced that there is little chance of any four-power communique on the month-long talks today. Up to last night it was believed likely that brief, four-power statement would be issued today covering progress of the talks.

YUGOSLAVIA HURLS CHARGES AT HUNGARY
LONDON — Yugoslavia has fired the second broadside in two days against a communist neighbor. This time it accused Hungary of trying to foment a revolution against Premier Tito's regime. Yesterday's protest came two days after a similar charge against Romania.

The displays were grouped on tables before a background of greenery that offset the riot of color which prevailed in the room.

Several outstanding exhibits received special prizes since they did not come properly within any given classes. The first outside exhibit in years was one from Terrace.

BUTTER RACKET IN EAST CITIES

TORONTO—The Telegram says that "tons of butter are being channelled secretly into cold storage vaults of disreputable brokers in Montreal and Toronto," preparatory to an expected lush black market this winter which will bring them a dollar a pound or higher. This is substantiated by dairy officials. The butter squeeze, in anticipation of acute shortages later in the year, is already on in Montreal. There are also reports of people installing home freezers, and trying now to buy as much as fifty pounds at a time to hoard against the expected times of scant supplies.

U.N. PROBES PLANE CRASH

TEL AVIV — A United Nations plane either crashed or crash-landed today north of Gaza near the front lines of the Egyptian and Israeli forces in southern Palestine, a United Nations official announced.

An investigating team of the United Nations truce committee flew to the crash scene to check unconfirmed reports that the United States pilot and two French officer passengers were killed. French senior observer, Col. Querru was aboard the plane.

U.S. Seeks To Internationalize Antarctic Area

WASHINGTON — The United States state department said today that the United States has opened talks with seven other countries aimed at some form of international administration to the Antarctic. It said that "some form of internationalization" would be the most effective solution to the conflicting claims for territory in the frozen far north.

CHURCH GUILT FOR RACE STRIFE

AMSTERDAM — Ecclesiastical leaders said today that the World Council of Churches will go on record as acknowledging the guilt of the Christian church for at least part of the racial strife over Palestine. A member of the sub-committee of the assembly said that "the Church must feel guilt in fact, because it has failed to solve the problem of anti-Semitism.

others in trying to locate Brager. However it was not until 9:45 Thursday morning that Captain Salvesen brought the body to the surface with a dragline.

Dr. C. H. Hankinson gave evidence of his findings after performing a post mortem. Besides lacerations to the chest, chin and dislocated neck, Dr. Hankinson reported a small fracture on the forehead and a cut over one eye.

Coroner M. M. Stephens presided at the inquest with Sgt. L. Pottler acting as examiner. Jury consisted of Hugo Kraupner, S. A. Cheeseman, Robert Silversides, R. A. Bruce, N. P. Kinslor and P. G. Jones.

CHAMP DROPS IN GOLF FINAL

RIVERSIDE GOLF CLUB, St. John, N.B. — Miss Grace Lenczyk, of Newington, Connecticut, defending her Canadian Ladies' Open Golf championship, was down two today to Mrs. Eddie Bush of Wilmington, Delaware, after nine holes of their 36-hole final. However, she recovered and squared the score at the eighteenth.

Charles Hughes Noted Jurist, Dies at 86

OSTERVILLE, Mass. (CP)—Charles Evan Hughes, who climaxed a long and notable career by serving as Chief Justice of the United States during one of the most turbulent periods of Supreme Court history, died here last night. He was 86 years old.

His tenure covered the monumental struggle over President Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1937 court reorganization plan, the dramatic events leading up to it, and the far-reaching reverberations.

During the flaming controversy the white-bearded jurist placidly directed the tribunal's proceedings just as he had done in the preceding years of tranquility.

Before his appointment by President Hoover in 1930 to succeed William Howard Taft, many other honors had been heaped upon Mr. Hughes. They included:

Governor of New York, 1907 to 1910.

Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, 1910 to 1916.

Republican nominee for President of the United States in 1916, when he was defeated by Woodrow Wilson.

Secretary of State from 1921 to 1925 in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets.

Regarded as one of the ablest lawyers in the country, he attracted national attention early in his career by his masterly conduct as counsel for a New York legislative committee which investigated the life insurance business. Out of that came the model on which state and national legislation dealing with life insurance still exists.

FATHER A MINISTER

He was born at Glens Falls, N.Y., April 11, 1862. His father was a Welsh Baptist clergyman. Both father and mother desired their son to enter the ministry and they were deeply disappointed when he chose the law instead.

One of his last opinions as Chief Justice held that negroes travelling from one state to another must be given railroad accommodations equal to those furnished white persons. This came after he had asserted in a radio speech that "race and bigotry, racial animosities and intolerance are the deadly enemies of true democracy."

LOMAKIN LEAVES FOR HOMETOWN

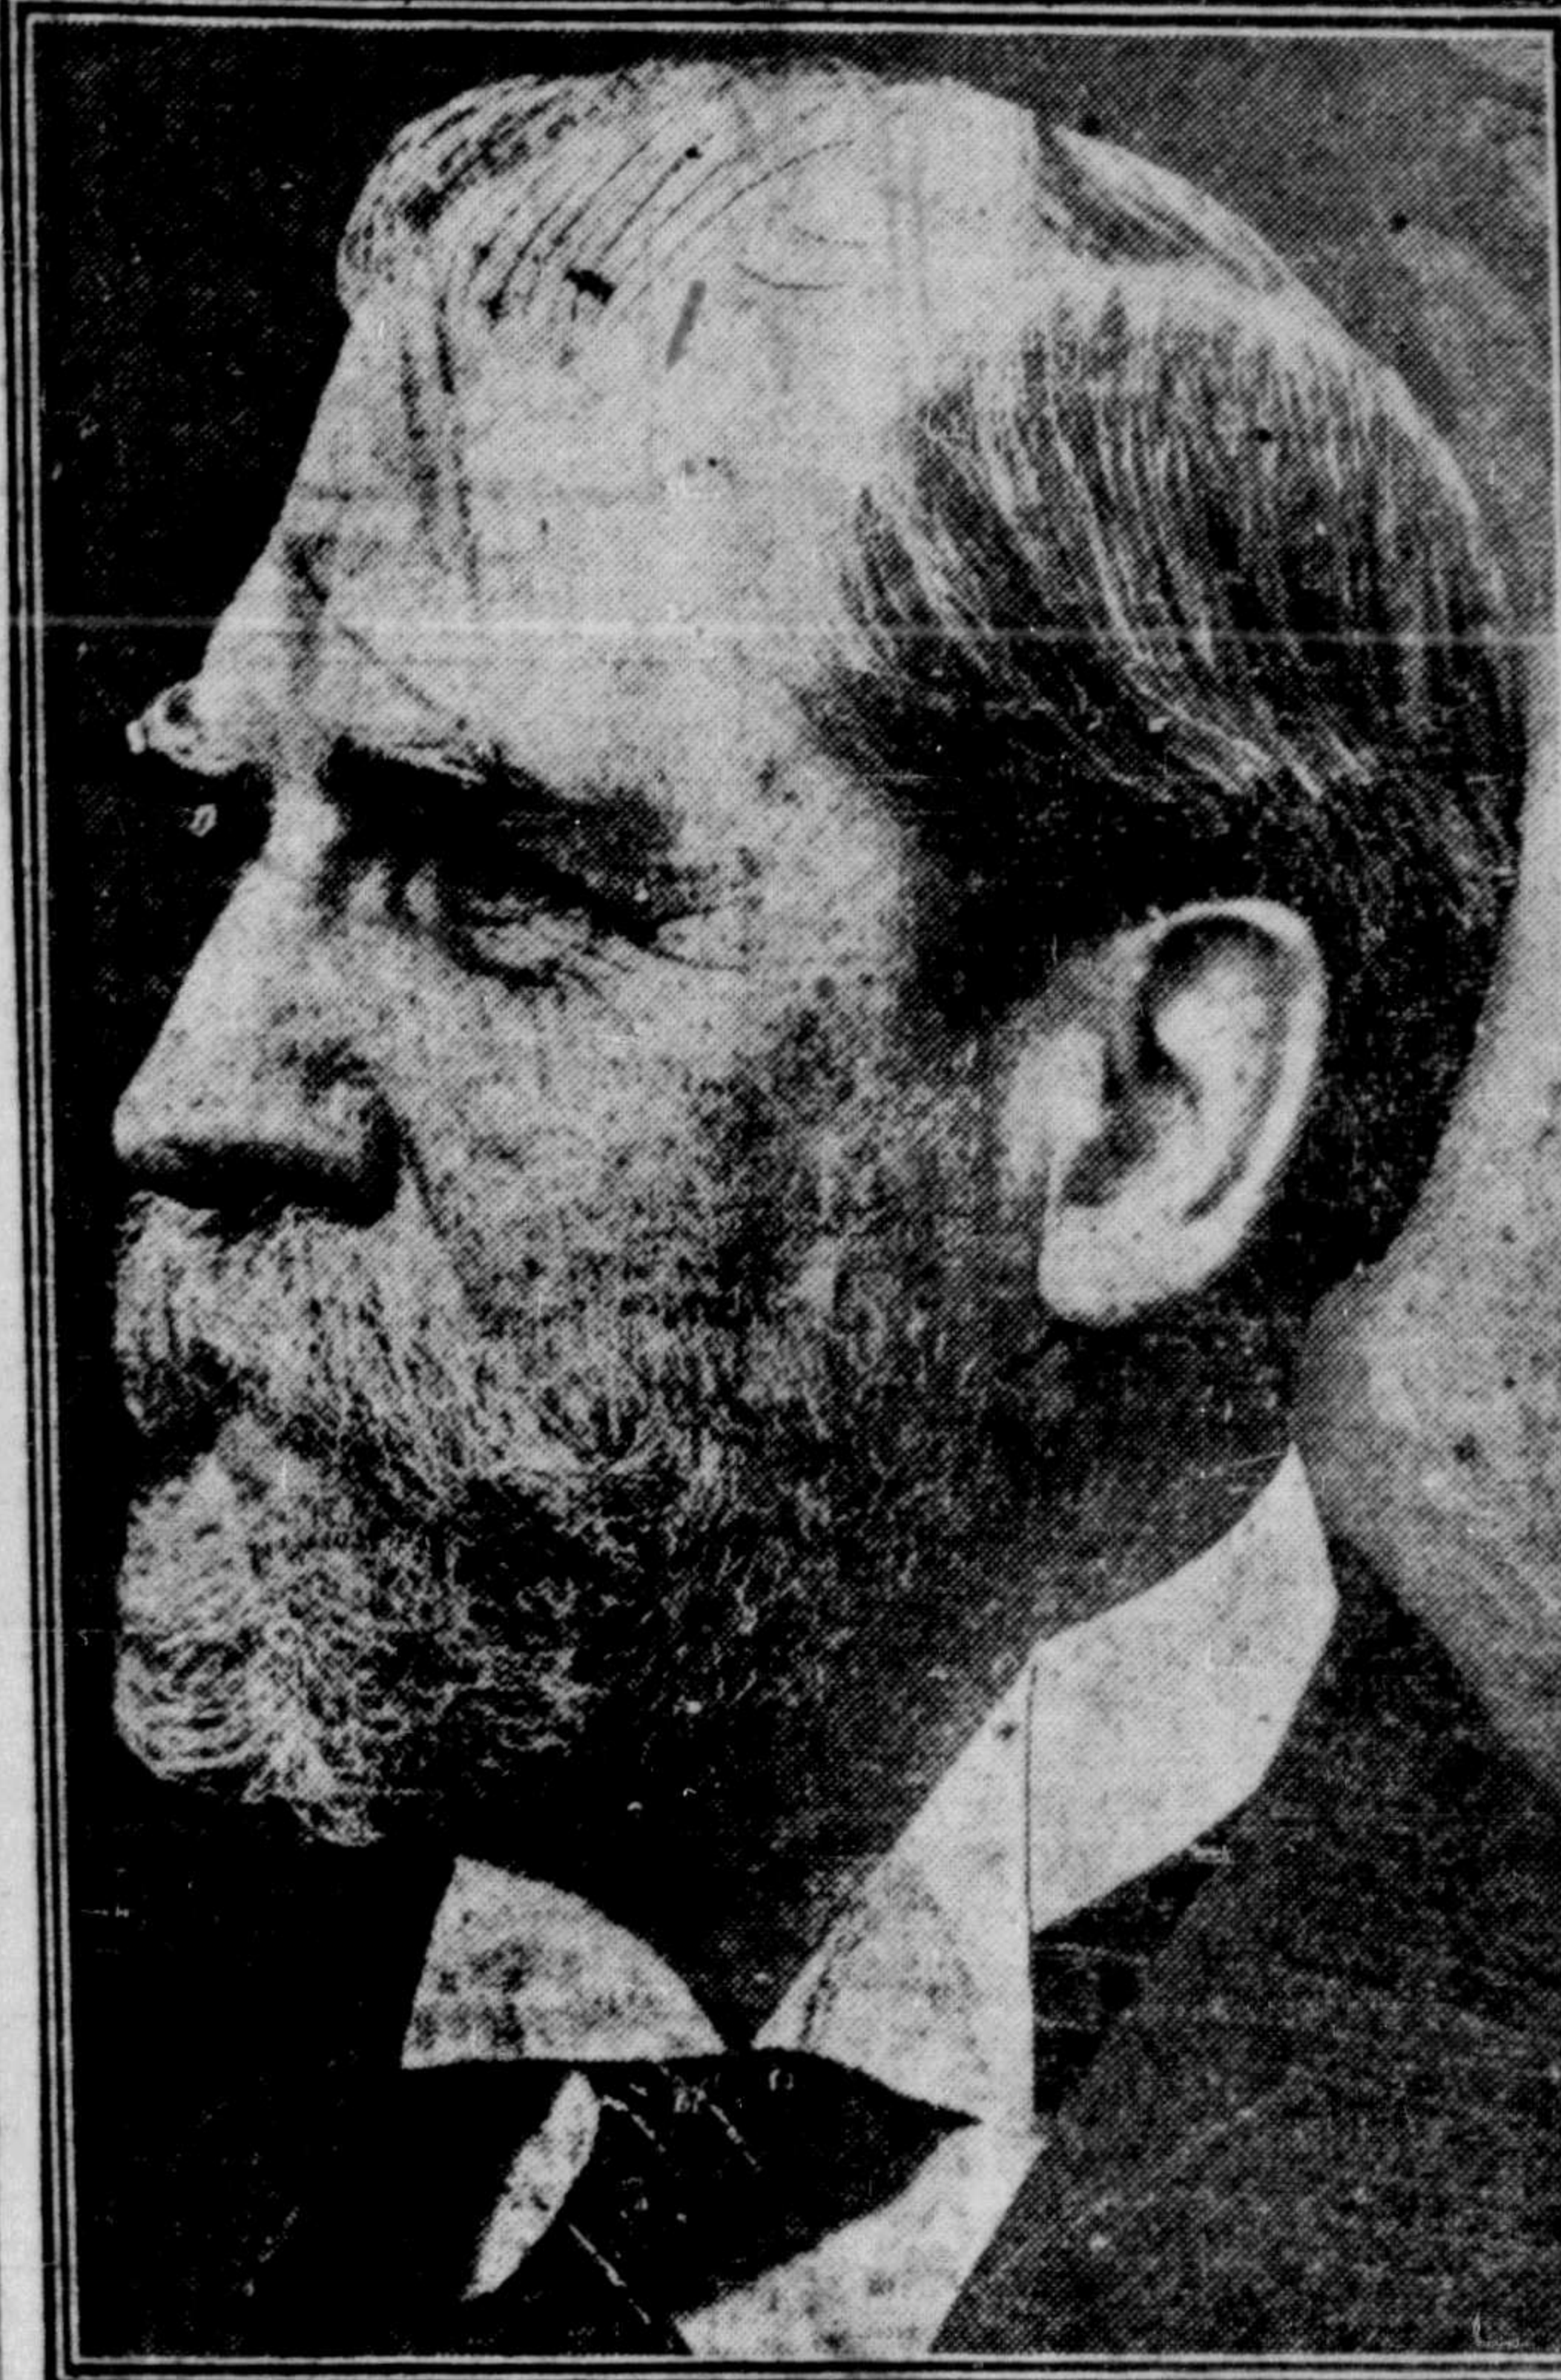

NEW YORK — Jacob M. Lomakin, stripped of credentials as Soviet consul-general in New York, today boarded the liner Stockholm to return to Russia. He had been recalled at the insistence of the United States government for his part in the Kosenkna affair.

RED COMMANDER PASSES BUCK

BERLIN — Berlin's Soviet commandant today evaded pleas by city council leaders that he protect their meetings from further invasion by communist demonstrators. Then he passed the buck to the Russian sector police, whom, it was reported, aided demonstrators the other day.

JURY FINDS YOUTH'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL

A verdict of accidental death was brought in by a coroner's jury today in the case of Ivan Brager, 18 year old crew member of the fish packer Universe, who fell from the government dock between 1 a. m. and 2 a. m. Thursday.

The jury found that Brager had fallen from the dock in front of the Royal Fish Company and struck the steel mooring line of the Co-op fish packer Kanawaka, causing injuries to his head, chest and chin and dislocation of his neck. Actual cause of death was attributed to drowning although in their summary the jury stated that the neck injury was in itself fatal.

Gerald J. McIntyre an employee of the Pacific Fisheries and Carl T. Anderson, engineer of the Universe who were with Brager during part of Wednesday night testified that all of them had been drinking beer before attending the Carnival Dance at the Civic Centre. At the end of the dance Anderson returned to the boat alone and was preparing for bed when he was aroused by shouts of "man overboard".

McIntyre who had accompanied Brager to the dock in a taxi raised the alarm. He had been on his way down the ladder when Brager fell past him. McIntyre heard the body strike what he took to be the rail of the Kanawaka and then heard a splash. Reaching the deck McIntyre could not see any sign of his companion either on the boat or in the water. It was then he hailed the Universe which was tied alongside the Kanawaka.

With a flash light a search was carried out by Anderson and McIntyre. A spot of blood showed on the rail of the Co-op packer and in the water there was a cloud of what they took to be blood. They called A. Salvesen, captain of the Universe who had been awakened by the commotion. He aided in the search and suggested that Anderson call the police.

Constable Jack White, with two other members of the provincial police answered the call and co-operated with the

The New Theatre

THERE ARE NOT MANY cities of the importance of Prince Rupert that only have one theatre, such as has been the case here for many years. The announcement of Famous Players Canadian Corporation that it is to erect a new first-run moving picture house here at a cost of some $125,000 is, therefore, very gratifying. Having gone on so long, even through the boom war years, with only the one theatre, the decision to build the second house at this time and, at the same time, keep the present one in operation, is an evidence of the company's confidence in the future here, a confidence that has become very much more definite in view of projected new industrial developments and the expansion of existing ones. As suggested, the establishment of the new theatre, official announcement of which is made today, will fill what citizens at least have considered a long-felt need and it is another happy omen for the future of Prince Rupert.

THANSCANADA HIGHWAY

THE RESOLUTION on Improved Transportation adopted at the National Liberal Convention in Ottawa earlier this month contained a clause calling for the completion of the TransCanada Highway. This project has been widely discussed for years and will eventually be carried out. The same difficulties are present in this question as were present when transcontinental railroads were built. The geographical spread of the country necessitates the investment of huge amounts of money in these projects, amounts which if expressed on a per capita basis are many times higher than they would be in any other country where the same services would be required. The building of highways is usually considered provincial prerogative but the tremendous cost of such a highway could not be carried out alone. The fact that this would be an interprovincial means of transportation appropriately brings it under the jurisdiction of federal authorities.

A PORT DAY THOUGHT

PORT DAY, one of Prince Rupert's leading summer events was celebrated Thursday, but despite the advantages of perfect weather, good organizational work and fine co-operation on the part of the Royal Canadian Navy, it could not be termed an entire success. From public reaction, it appears that its failure lay in its inability to provide the entertainment and diversion which the vast crowd that thronged the wharfside during the day had expected. There simply was not enough competitive or demonstrative events to maintain interest, nor were there enough entries in the events that were held. From the type of organizational work done by the Port Day committee, it would certainly not appear that the fault lay in that direction. No matter how carefully the ground is cultivated, it will not yield if the seed is not there. The seed in this case were the boats and boat owners, who obviously did not take enough interest in the marine celebration to turn out and make a day of it. It is known that Port Day this year was held in the middle of the fishing season, but in spite of that, there were plenty of boats lying inactive in the harbor to have made a mighty fine display had they entered the races and demonstrations. Appeals for entries were made weeks in advance of the gala, but preliminary entries were few. Port Day officials who hoped for on-the-spot entries were disappointed. Definitely there was a lack of interest among the fishermen and boat owners as a whole. And if Port Day is to be the success it deserves to be, in view of the amount of effort that is put into it and the justification for some sort of marine celebration in this hopeful port, it is the fishermen and boat owners who must help to do it. Prizes for the events ranged as high as $50, plus handsome trophies for the winners. While this cannot be considered big money, it certainly is not chicken feed, either, to look at it strictly from the commercial angle. The commercial angle however, is not the right one, since the prizes are not meant to be remuneration for work, but incentive for pleasure. An unsuccessful Port Day leaves behind a feeling of frustration which is entirely unnecessary if those who have the equipment only had the will to make it a success. The reason for doing so is apparent.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND HISTORY

Father of Pioneer Local City Solicitor Mentioned

Canadian National Railways tourist publicity, this season, includes a handsomely illustrated description and history of Prince Edward Island, Canada's smallest and most easterly province. One item tells of how, back in 1844, the Islander newspaper carried notice, to the effect that James H. Peters had been appointed to manage the estates of Samuel Curard. Later, Mr. Peters became a Supreme Court Judge. He had two sons, each of whom served as Premier of Prince Edward Island. One Fred Peters later in life, moved west, settling in Vancouver and later locating in Prince Rupert, where he practiced law and served as city solicitor.

The Cunard mentioned in the story, became head of the famous steamship line of that name.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Parker are leaving by car at the beginning of next week for an extended motor trip through British Columbia and the United States.

CITY RESIDENT DIES IN SOUTH

Carl Poulsen Succumbs To Brain Tumor in Vancouver

Carl Poulsen, well known Prince Rupert business man, died Wednesday in Vancouver where he went two weeks ago for treatment of a brain tumor by medical specialists. He was 58 years old and had resided in Prince Rupert for the last eight years.

Born at Aalborg, Denmark, Mr. Poulsen went to the United States as a young man, settling at Waterloo, Iowa, where he was employed in a farm machinery plant. Later, he removed to Wayne, Alberta, where he took up farming.

He went to Vancouver just prior to the war then came to Prince Rupert in 1940. He was employed as a plater at the dry dock here for two years before opening a grocery and restaurant business on Sixth Avenue east, just east of the Hays Cove bridge.

A year ago he visited Denmark where his mother and other relatives reside. Surviving him in Canada are his wife, one son, Erling, two daughters, Betty and Inez, and two grandchildren. There are also two nephews, John and Eric Poulsen, who arrived here recently from Denmark.

Mrs. Poulsen and son, Erling, arrived in the city Thursday afternoon from Vancouver, and plan to return south today. The funeral will be held at Vancouver on Monday.

NOTICE TO AIYANSH PEOPLE—Anyone returning home with empty boats kindly stop at the Philpott, Eviit dock and pick up material for the new church. (208)

MAYOR ARNOLD, MRS. VANCE GOOD GUESSERS

Mayor Nora Arnold and Mrs. Walter Vance know their babies, at least the babies of a generation ago.

They proved it by winning the baby guessing contest at the Civic Centre Carnival. Both ladies guessed 13 out of the 22 pictures of prominent people in their infancy which were posted on the lobby wall.

Their acumen wins them each a family membership in the Civic Centre.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the many friends who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, particularly Dr. L. W. Kerigin and Rt. Rev. J. B. Gibson, Bishop of Caledonia, who officiated at the funeral, and to those who extended sympathy and floral offerings.

ASTONISHING TUNA RUN—
CANNERY DELIVERIES
FALLING OFF—SEINING
IN OGDEN CHANNEL

The north coast tuna run is continuing with an intensity that is astonishing to scientists and fishermen alike. Whether or not prevalence of tuna off the Queen Charlotte Islands is a seasonal flash-in-the-pan or whether they have been there always but unrecognized is a source of puzzlement but nevertheless, they are being caught in a big way.

The Canadian fisheries protection vessel Laurier, which put out from Prince Rupert Thursday morning, ran into a school of tuna 30 miles southwest of Langara Island, according to a report received from Capt. Llewellyn Sheppard.

Capt. Sheppard radioed that he was proceeding southwest-wardly and continually taking on fish. The fish are being tagged and returned to the sea in the hope that they will lead to further discoveries which will add to the meagre knowledge of their habits.

The Laurier is using four lines, whereas most commercial vessels use six lines and the large American clippers many more.

Canadian fishermen from all parts of the coast have congregated off the Islands and many large American vessels are also operating on the grounds.

These American vessels are much larger than the Canadian boats and are equipped with large bait tanks which Canadian boats are now forbidden to carry because of the hazard of capsizing. The live bait is called sardine but in reality it is any small fish available. The voracious tuna are not particular enough to discriminate between fish and feathers, let alone between types of fish, when they are in a striking mood.

Weight of the tuna being caught in the northern area is between 13 and 30 pounds, although the larger size are fairly rare. Apparently the fish travel in schools of similar age groups, according to Robert Scagea, Pacific Biological Station scientist, who is aboard the Laurier.

According to Capt. Sheppard, the Laurier will prospect much farther out in the Pacific than she has already gone. Scientist Scagea believes that the present body of tuna may be merely the eastward rim of a fish population that extends for miles out in the blue water of the Japanese current. That speculation is one of the many questions that remain to be answered.

What ever the future of the tuna fishery on the north coast, at least its present status is one of prosperity for the port of Prince Rupert where more than 300,000 pounds have been landed in the last week.

The motor vessel Grommet Reeder of the Alaskan Transportation Co. docked here Friday morning to unload 14 carloads of frozen Alaska salmon and halibut for rail shipment to the eastern United States. She sailed overnight for Seattle.

Salmon deliveries to the Skeena River canneries dropped off sharply during the last week following the closing of the sockeye season and the opening of coho gillnetting. However, catches per boat were fair. Reason for the drop was the reduction of the number of boats in operation, which were reported to have gone down from their peak of 750 to less than 100.

Seiners in the Ogdan Channel are, where about 30 boats are operating, averaged between 1,000 and 1,200 coho salmon per day during the past week, while in the Queen Charlotte Islands area off Massett, the boats averaged about 2,000 pinks a day. The fish are being delivered by packer to the Skeena River canneries and the Canadian Fishing Co. cold storage plant at Butedale.

Seine areas being opened at the beginning of next week include the west coast of Banks Island, Whale Channel, Seaforth and Return Channels in the Bella Bella area and Rivers and Smith's Inlet. The whole of the Queen Charlotte Islands area, with the exception of the west coast, is open to seining.

PRINCE RUPERT ALL-STARS
CAPTURE HANSON TROPHY

Locals Edge Out Navy Team In Closely Contested Game

The Prince Rupert All-Stars eked out a two goals to one win over a clever and hard-fighting Navy All-Star eleven last evening in the second and final game of the two-game series for the Hanson Trophy and so regained possession of the cup.

After some even exchanges McCluskey got away and centred well but Nelson cleared. Then Murray and Poister forced a corner and Brodie caught Murray's fine corner kick well but cleared weakly. The Navy forwards led by Manifold attacked and Brodie had to be very smart to catch and clear a dangerous rebound.

Pavlikis sent a long forward pass through centre and Christison picked it up and went in close to put the locals a goal up. Kinch caught a dangerous centre. Murray and Poister again made a dangerous raid but Nelson cleared. Then Kinch fielded a great long shot from Veitch. Brodie had to save from McKay and McClusky. The Navy missed a great chance to equalize when Bayers place a shot from the penalty-spot just wide of the upright.

Onyski intercepted a pass and fed Murray but Nelson just cleared. White stopped Pavlikis. Murray centred well and Ferguson came through with two great clearances. Pavlikis shot badly with two openings and when Manifold sent Murray away the latter's cross just missed. Manifold missed a great chance when he got the ball in front of goal but his shot went straight to Brodie who did well to turn it over the bar. Bayers was clever. Gomez cleared Murray's centre. The Navy forwards again combined smartly but Nelson and then Ferguson broke up the attacks. Olsen checked smartly and gave Christison a nice through pass but Kinch ran over and kicked the ball off his toe. Nelson then was noticeable for a great clearance and Olsen sent Christison through again but Kinch saved the latter's header.

Hooks replaced McKay and a nice three-man move by McClusky, Manifold and Cragg gave Brodie an anxious moment. Pavlikis made a good run but Kinch saved. Navy were lucky to hold the locals out at the expense of a corner. Bob Currie crossed a beauty but Kinch came out to punch it away in great style. Lecour did a fine bit of clearing and then Kinch intercepted a good cross from Pavlikis. McCluskey got the ball into the centre and Hooks, Manifold and Poister worked the ball in for Poister to score the equalizer. Play now speeded up. Parkhouse centred well but Cragg cleared. Olsen broke up the Navy attacks frequently and Parkhouse and Ward combined with the latter's centre perfectly placed but offside nullified a score. Hooks was smart and Manifold was nearly through but Brodie came out to kick clear. McCluskey crossed a great centre that Brodie just saved at full length. Lecour checked Pavlikis. Bayers was fast and dangerous. White saved a dangerous situation and Currie centred well. Olsen again broke up a Navy attack with plucky, clever tackling. Kinch then saved well. Pavlikis was nearly through but offside brought him back. Gomez gave Christison a nice pass but Kinch saved. Manifold went close when Nelson bothered him. Ward was very clever in two beautiful plays but White cleared. Kinch cleared from Currie. Then the locals had Kinch

LETTERBOX
DISAGREES WITH MAYOR
 Editor, Daily News:
 I would like to express through the columns of your paper the concern and indignation which the members of the Prince Rupert Local of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union have felt upon reading recent reports of attacks made upon the trade union workers by Mayor Arnold.

We feel that her contention that production must rise while the wages to the workers should at best remain stationary is to say the least illogical. As a matter of fact, the need now is for considerably higher wages so that the workers of Canada may maintain the standard of living which they had last year. In spite of the fact that many sections of the trade union movement secured appreciable gains in 1947 and 1948, these achievements have in many cases been wiped out already by the rise in the cost of living. We are therefore left no alternative but to request compensating increases.

Thanking you,
 S. S. BOSHER,
 Secretary,
 Prince Rupert Local,
 United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

Member of U.S. Publishing Family Visits City in Sailing Yacht

Seiners, packers and trollers at the government wharf shared berths with stately company yesterday afternoon. The visitor was the "Novia Del Mar" a full-rigged auxiliary sailing ketch from San Diego, California owned by John Scripps publisher of a string of 6 daily newspapers on the West Coast; and a direct descendant of the man who made the name of Scripps famous in the newspaper world.

"Novia Del Mar" left San Diego August 10 in charge of Captain Sam Davis with a crew of five and Sunday at Vancouver, Mr. and Mrs. Scripps with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peel of La Mesa, California and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray of Pasadena boarded the ship for the north coast trip.

During the trip so far all the travelling has been done under power of the 140 h.p. Winton diesel which in calm weather gives the Novia Del Mar a speed of 8 1/2 knots. Winds haven't been favorable for sailing in the narrow channels of the inside passage and so far the only time the sails were hoisted to the mast head was when they needed drying after a soaking rain. Mr. Scripps and his party remarked that they had encountered very good weather on the trip up to a fact that rather surprised them after the stories they had been told about the amount of rain they could expect on the north coast.

Several members of the cruising party commented on the scenic beauty they had witnessed during the trip. The Novia Del Mar left for Ketchikan today and if time and weather permits she will sail as far north as Skagway before turning back home.

The Novia Del Mar has an overall length of 89 feet and a 20 foot beam. Built on the Atlantic coast 21 years ago and

SEEING... with CEE

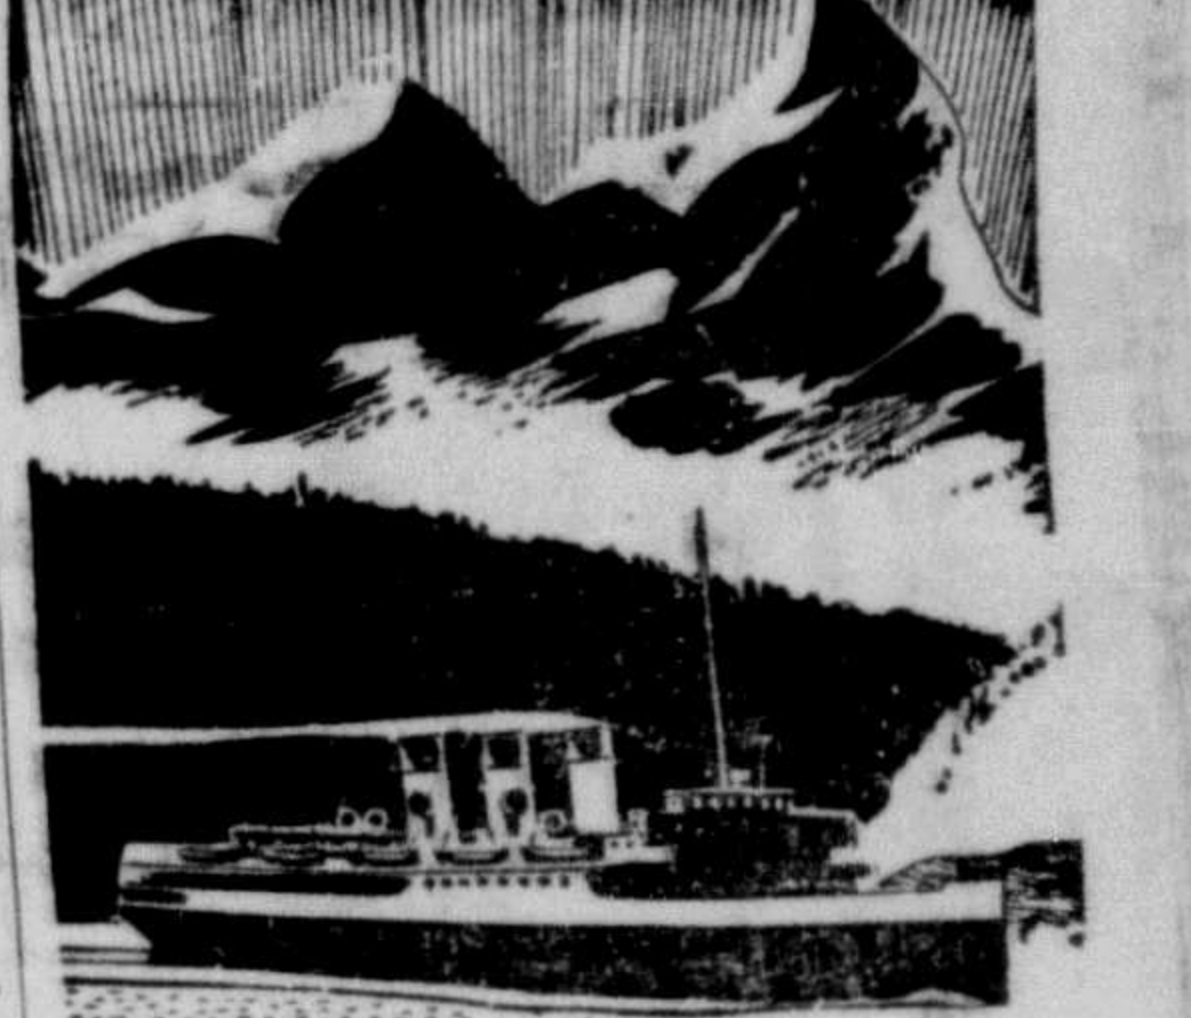

The automatic boys, those engineers who think up all the labor saving devices, are getting better and better. One of these days they are liable to do away with the housewife altogether. They could set up a remote control switch-board in the husband's office. From his place of business he could start the automatic washer, turn on the electric range where the roast has been placed and the automatic stop clock previously set. Of course there are a few details the back-room fellows haven't got around to yet. Housecleaning isn't altogether automatic and neither is care of a family but just give them time.

If you are fortunate enough to have a mantel place one of the local firms can add to its attractiveness by supplying the latest in wall bracket lamps. The backs are flat and fit snugly against the wall. A curved, frosted glass cover with a pine cone design etched in the centre gives this Canadian-made fixture a very lovely appearance especially when these lights are the only ones illuminated in the room.

We wouldn't call it a subversive movement but the Scotch influence is certainly making itself felt in the clothing trade. Plaids are seen everywhere and among the younger girls plaid skirts are favorites. Some have fancy leather belts and buttons down the back with the buttons concealed by a pleat. With the price of eggs sticking close to the roof, egg-cups aren't in great demand but there are some fancy new plastic ones on the local market now if you are interested. They come in sets of four and in four shades to each set so the children can pretty well choose their favorite color. The egg holders are flat faced with a wide base with the sides tapering in as they rise to the top. Keeping children warm in bed during the winter is a problem mothers often worry about.

Seeing the waddling little porcupine in his native surroundings there is little about him that resembles beauty but he is the source of material that contributes to the beauty of certain native handicraft. Natives of Eastern Canada dye his quills and in combination with sweet grass they work lovely designs on birch bark trinket boxes for the ladies. Extremely light-weight and colorful necklaces are also made from "porkeys" protection weapons. Blouses seem to be year-round favorites with the ladies and one of the latest styles is a creation in black and white. The silky jet of the blouse is relieved by white pique cuffs just below the shoulder and a collar of the same material.

TALKING OF TREES

Trees are vital to our tourist industry.

Each year British Columbia is host to thousands of visitors, drawn here by the hunting, the fishing, the scenic beauty of our lakes and mountains. All these are made possible by the forests which provide food and shelter for water in our streams, and the game, ensure cool, clear water in our streams, and "frame" and enhance the beauty of our country. Green forests attract visitors; blackened forests repel them.

BAND MAY GO TO BURNS LAKE

Greenville Concert Band, which made the usual hit with its playing on Port Day here, may pay a visit to Burns Lake late in September if arrangements now being negotiated are completed. If so, there will be a parade through the streets of Prince Rupert to the train as they depart, said Henry McKay, secretary - manager of the band, who called at the Daily News this morning to express appreciation for the warm welcome the bandmen were again given here. There was some difficulty in getting here at all, said McKay, because of storms at the first of the week. On future visits here, it would be appreciated if arrangements were made for the accommodation of the bandmen, he said, as living on the boats in port is inconvenient and has even resulted in damage to instruments.

Reader and Classified advertisers are requested to submit their copy to the office. Telephoned advertisements often lead to mistakes against which the Daily News cannot guarantee.
