Hallowe'en Tonight

THIS is Hallowe'en—the night when spooks walk and the young folks indulge in traditional pranks which, as long as they are kept within due bounds and compatible with good fun and orderly conduct, are expected and entered into by all.

Orderly Hallowe'ens have been the habit in Prince Rupert in recent years. Good sportsmanship has prevailed and young folk have had their fun and nobody has been hurt. It may be relied upon that such will be the case again tonight.

Probably the good work of the Kinsmen's Club in its planning for Hallowe'en activities around their campfires has been largely instrumental in attracting the interest of the young folk along healthy and interesting lines. They have been doing a good service in this regard and their best reward will be another Hallowe'en in Prince Rupert tonight such as we have been having of late.

NEW CREDIT RESTRICTIONS

N IEW CREDIT restrictions imposed by the fed-Veral government, effective as from tomorrow, are designed to curb spending upon goods so that inflation may be combatted and production channelled into defence goods and also that Canadians may find it easier later to pay their tax bills.

Apart from these effects, however, it may be good discipline for Canadians to get more on a cash basis and less on instalment buying. The tendency of late has no doubt been for many people, through easy credit, to load themselves with obligations which might well result in embarrassment and trouble later on.

No one likes controls-especially when money is so easy as many people are finding it today-but present conditions cannot be expected to remain indefinitely and there may be many who feel hurt today who will be glad later that they had to call a halt.

EDUCATION THROUGH ADVERTISING

A CKNOWLEDGMENT of the effectiveness of \ education through newspaper advertising has been made again and again by provincial and federal governmental authorities.

Year in and year out adult education programs are carried through successfully and at relatively low cost by this means.

Yet in the field of excessive use of alcoholic beverages, one of the greatest social and governmental problems in Canada today, our departments of education and our liquor control authorities have been loath to use this or any other medium of mass instruction.

Why should not at least ten per cent of the net profit of provincial liquor sales go each year to the promotion of true temperance through planned advertising?

Over-indulgence is costing this nation millions of dollars annually in broken homes and broken bodies, a cost which is bearing directly on every taxpayer. The statistics are in large measure available. The story can be factual, free of preachiness, and fully and freely told.

Such an investment in adult education through advertising would make good sense and save good dollars.-Midland (Ontario) Free Press-Herald.

Catholic Church Is Wedding Scene

A popular local girl and a Vancouver man were the principals at a quiet wedding last Thursday morning in the Church of the Annunciation when Miss Florence Marie Cloutier, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cloutier, 316 Eighth Avenue West, became the bride of Richard Ernest Schafer, son of Mrs. F. Schafer of Vancouver. Rev. Father O. P. Mohan, O.M.I., performed the ceremony in the presence of a congregation of relatives and interested friends. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a light blue gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Bridesmaid was Miss Patricia Dumas while John Currie was groomsman.

At a reception held at the home of the bride's parents, the three-tier wedding cake was duly cut by the bride and groom. Serving of refreshments to the assembled guests was directed by Mrs. L. Letourneau and Miss Jeanette Cloutier.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left on the Prince George for Vancouver where they will reside.

FOREIGN MONOPOLY

It will be about time. Ever since pre-war days, Germa: Mercedes-built in a sky's-thelimit spirit-or Italian Alfa Romeo and Maserati machines have dominated international speed

In 1945, British racing driver Raymond Mays and designer Peter Berthon approached 160 car-and-component manufactur ers. They persuaded them to put up money for a racing car that would be sure to end the foreign monopoly.

After much hard work and many disappointments, the B.R M.—a 16-cylinder job with five gears and a new type of pneumatic springing-made its first public appearance three months ago. It flopped. The car refused o start. Mechanics who had toiled day and night to cure an engine defect couldn't get it

REPUTATION REDEEMED

But a couple of weeks later, at Goodwood track in Sussex, the B.R.M. got another chance. This time it acted as its sponsors had hoped. Showing powerful speed it coasted home ahead of the crack Siamese driver, Prince keg Parnell, who guided the B.R.M. to its first victory, commented after the race: "It's the most wonderful car I've ever driven. The acceleration was terrific and I had a lot in reserve.' He said he hopes to reach a speed of more than 200 miles an

The B.R.M. isn't out of the woods yet. Financial troubles are piling up now that the government has refused a grant. But the sponsors hope a clean-cut victory at Barcelona may change the picture.
