B. C. Medical School

A MEDICAL SCHOOL has been one of British Columbia's outstanding educational lacks. It is satisfactory, therefore, to know that it has been definitely decided to meet it although, like all other good things, we will have to realize that it is something that must be paid for. It will be costly too.
 The medical school will tie up in a way with the new hospital insurance plan and will also fit in with the health and medical insurance plan which is bound to come some day in the natural development of social services.
 With its own medical college, British Columbia will no longer depend upon the other provinces such as Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec for the training of its medical men. It will relieve a situation which is very serious now where some young British Columbians, even though doctors are so scarce, are being denied entry to the medical profession because they cannot get enrolment not only in Canada but in the United States or Old Country. It will also assist the pursuit of medical research within the province and will increase the standing and prestige of the University of British Columbia.

STUDENTS WENT TOO FAR

WE ARE NOT defending the Communists nor upholding the principle of allowing the schools to be used for the dissemination of that political creed, which it is generally conceded is being used subversively these days. When we say that the conduct of students in Windsor, Ontario, in wrecking the headquarters of the Labor Progressive Party in the Ontario city was quite inexcusable. It was just going further along the line from a recent disorderly incident at the University of British Columbia when Tim Buck, for whom or whose doctrines we have, of course, no brief, was driven from a platform on which he had legally enough arranged to speak.
 The Windsor students, of course, went quite too far and their action should be followed with some sort of prosecution. It was in keeping neither with the elementary process of maintenance of law and order or with the general democratic principles of British and Canadian fair play and freedom.
 The L.P.P. is not even an illegal party in Canada and, even if it was, of course, there would have been no justification for the students taking the law into their own hands as they did. Their conduct was nothing more than uncalled-for and unjustifiable hoodlumism.
 The L.P.P., probably quite rightly, is open to a lot of suspicion and criticism but it and its followers are also entitled to ordinary civilian protection whether we like them or not.

MAIL DELIVERY JUSTIFIED

PRINCE RUPERT'S school population is between thirteen and fourteen hundred, from which it is not unreasonable to estimate a city total of about ten thousand. There are families and dwellings all the way from Westview to Seal Cove and from the harbor, all the way back nearly a dozen avenues. This is not news. It is just leading up to the re-expression that Prince Rupert should have a postal delivery service.

FREIGHT RATES

THERE IS a great deal of argument about the effect of the decision of the Transport Commission to allow a 21% rise in freight rates. Many who followed the hearings hold that this rise is not required while rail traffic is heavy and should not have been made effective until needed. The chief controversy rages around the claim that freight rates have not been equitable in the past; therefore increases should have been allowed only where the lower rates were in force. This claim is based on the contention that freight rates should be based on cost of hauling rather than on the existence (or lack of it) of water competition.
 This is why the government at Ottawa is now moving to have the whole freight rate structure examined by parliament or the government to assist in arriving at a rate level that will bind Canada more closely together.

OCTOGENARIANS WED EASTER SUNDAY—Four weeks ago, when 85-year-old Turner Chambers of Los Angeles, Calif., first cast eyes on his new next-door neighbor, Mrs. Lucy Emma Grace, 84, he remarked: "There is the woman I have been looking for." He didn't waste any time. Within two weeks he had popped the question, was coyly put off, but finally accepted after a few days. They were wed on Easter Sunday. This photo was made as they obtained the marriage license. It will be the second marriage for each. Chambers has eight children, 13 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. His bride has nine children, 37 grandchildren and 33 great-grandchildren.

 mightly close to being drowned." At Fishery Bay, just above Kincolith, they were met by Derrick and the deKergommeaux's and managed to dry their clothes and get warm. Misfortune, however, still had not finished with them.
 Morven anchored his 30-foot gillnetter a few yards offshore for the night, only to discover that a thin film of ice had formed on the water and chewed its way through the cedar planking at the waterline. Hastily starting the engine, he ran the boat at the beach before it filled and sank.
 They patched the vessel and, with the deKergommeaux's, came to Port Edward. Morven brought the boat to McLean's boat shop here for repair.
 "I was born and brought up at Aiyansh, but right now I don't care if I ever see the Naas River again," he said seriously. "It's a dirty piece of water to put a boat in."

SWIMMING POOL NEEDED
 Editor, Daily News:
 In little more than two months summer holidays for the school children will be commencing. Will the new swimming pool park be ready for them? The present one at McClymont Park is certainly too small. Yes, we do have the Salt Lake but some children are not so lucky as to have parents and have to stay behind for lack of transportation.

CO-ORDINATION PLANNED FOR WESTERN ROADS

Western Canadian motorists will have the prospect of being able to drive through the four western provinces guided by uniform safety signs on standardized types of highways when plans of the Northwest Highway Association are completed.
 A preview of this plan for co-ordination was given to the Rotary Club Thursday by W. Youngman, assistant chief highway engineer of the Manitoba Provincial Department of Public Works.
 In the city to visit his brother C. L. Youngman, he is returning east after attending a conference of the Northwest Highway Association at Harrison Hot Springs. The conference was attended by engineers from Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.
 "Our ultimate intention is to bring all the provinces into the association and standardize our highways as much as possible for the convenience and safety of motorists," he said.
 Basis of the co-ordinated type of highway is a 44-foot road bed with a 24-foot hard surface and the same type of safety signs throughout the Dominion.
 During the meeting William Simmons and Trevor Hill gave brief biographical talks. Guests at the meeting were O. W. Pearson, Vancouver; R. M. Spankie, K.C., Ottawa; D. G. Stewart.
GLOVES IRREVERENT
 In the early days of the church it was considered irreverent to appear gloved before a member of the clergy.

be possible or not, the struggle continues as though decreed by nature, something that Mr. Letchford has, apparently, not detected.
 "Thou only canst see nature. There nature also nature join. And be thyself men men on earth."

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS
 For the information of our advertisers, A.B.C. auditors make a complete, annual audit of our circulation.

Audited Distribution for your Advertising

GOOD advertising copy and attractive layouts are, of course, essential to the success of your advertising. But from the standpoint of final results the answer depends upon the distribution of your advertising.

When you buy newspaper advertising you are paying for an opportunity to talk to people about your merchandise and service. What you get for your money, therefore, depends upon how many people there are in your audience, where they are, how this audience was obtained, and many other facts that indicate the value of the circulation as a market for what you have to sell.

The Bureau is a national, co-operative association of publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Every year one of the trained auditors employed by the Bureau makes an audit of our circulation records. This audited information is issued in official A.B.C. reports covering each member publication. You avoid guesswork and speculation when you advertise in an A.B.C. newspaper.

FRANKFURT, @—The United States Army still kept silent yesterday on the incident of a Czechoslovakian mystery plane that landed at a Bavarian airport Tuesday with 26 persons on board. Where it was coming from or where it was going or the actual identity of the passengers was not made known by the Army.

Meantime the Russian-sponsored German news agency ADN said last night that the plane had been forced down by United States aircraft after getting lost enroute from Prague to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia.

Bavarian military government sources at Munich said they understood the plane had come down of "its own free will."

Another report was that the pilot of the plane had been overpowered and forced to land by Czechoslovak passengers.

BERLIN @—The Berlin situation was quiet today and may remain that way for a few days while Marshal Vassily D. Sokolovsky, Russian military commander-in-chief, is out of the city. It is believed he has gone to Moscow to consult with his government. First intimation that he was away came when British officials called at his office to deliver a protest note and were told that he was out of town.

Marshal Solokovsky yesterday blamed the British with a traffic violation in Monday's British-Soviet plane collision. The Russian military commander said that, unless he was assured that British planes will observe four-power flight rules, he intends to "take measures for the protection of the safety of air traffic over the Soviet occupation zone."

He turned down the idea of a four-power investigation of the crash which occurred at Berlin's outskirts and killed fifteen persons, favoring, instead, an inquiry by a Soviet-British commission.

Meantime, British authorities said today that, since they felt no assurance or protection was being given their planes over Russian-occupied territory in Berlin, they might be constrained to resort to the use of fighter escorts for transports.

ANOTHER ROYAL ROMANCE SEEN

NEW YORK @—The New York Times said in a London dispatch that rumors of the engagement of Princess Margaret and Prince George of Denmark "became stronger today."

Prince George, 27 years of age and nephew of King Frederick IX, in recent months has been seen frequently in the company of Princess Margaret who will be eighteen on August 21.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Lee, who have been holidaying in the south, returned to the city from Vancouver on Wednesday.
