The Power Situation

LAST year the failure of the Falls River hydro-electric plant to maintain the power supply of this city caused everyone in Prince Rupert great inconvenience and discomfort. Hardship occurred in some cases with loss of money and business by many people. Great was the indignation at that time and there were threats of all sorts of action. With the ending of the crisis, public feeling soon quieted down and little more was heard about the matter. The power company promised that it would have a new emergency diesel plant in operation before another winter emergency arose.

Now the emergency has arisen—due, it is granted, to entirely unforeseen and certainly most exceptional conditions. Yet the emergency might well have been caused by foreseen conditions in the experience of the new type of winters which Prince Rupert appears to be getting with fair consistency.

Prince Rupert people cannot be blamed if they have felt more than a little irritated over the inconvenience of the past few days and are concerned about just such a new situation arising as occurred last winter and which had been threatened the winter before.

True, the new plant at the dry dock—at least a third of it—will be in operation within the next few days. There are some who question whether even the full 2400 kilowatts to be developed there will be a supplement or a stand-by adequate to meet the situation. It would, to some, appear questionable, should another severe cold winter come and both Falls River and Shawatans become dried up, whether there would be sufficient power to meet Prince Rupert's greatly increased demands—to say nothing of the new industries adjacent such as the Nelson Brothers Fisheries plant.

Prince Rupert people are doing a good deal of speculating about the power supply these days and are in a critical mood. Granted there is a fundamental feeling of goodwill towards the company and a tolerant understanding of weather conditions, it is imperative, however, in order to preserve public goodwill—the most valuable asset which private enterprise must merit if it is worthy of survival—that the company should make well ahead of time preparations necessary to meet the requirements of this rapidly developing community.

A man wrapped up in himself makes a very small parcel.

SETTLING THE WAR

IN AN ASSESSMENT of the needs of immediate moment in the Korean situation, it would appear that, first, the military situation must be stabilized and, second, all possibilities of a political settlement be explored. In fact, those could be the bases of policy in Europe, in the Middle East, in Southern Asia and the Far East.

The two bases are complementary. Attempts to reach any settlement except from the position of stability would simply lead down a dangerous path of fruitless appeasement, invite intensification of offensives in the hope of extorting more and more concessions and merely mean indefinite prolongation of the cold war.

Stabilization is not merely a military operation. It implies and involves, as Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain has said, "the strengthening of our social, economic and military defences." The purpose of all would be to render the free world strong and stable enough to resist the impact of all offensives that might be directed against it.

Then to seek solutions on political lines does not, by any means, imply appeasement but is plain common sense. If and whenever Russia and her associates realize the futility and danger of continuing the cold war, they must be given every opportunity of securing peace by negotiation.

If Russia and China are prepared to end the conflict which they began the door should be left open for them to do so. Every possibility should be explored if they show any willingness to co-operate. But if they are not willing, if they are resolved to continue their efforts to disrupt and destroy the political, social and economic stability of the other camp, there can be nothing for it but to continue strengthening defences and to prepare resolute resistance to every form of assault against any part of the free world.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
CHRISTMAS BOOKS

IF YOU WERE to say to me, "We are very hard up this year and can't afford to give many Christmas presents," I might answer, "Aren't we all?"

But even for a dollar or two you can send a really nice present to the kind of friend you can't ignore.

For instance you could send Dorothy Livesay's latest book of poetry CALL MY PEOPLE HOME. It is published by Ryerson Press, and is for sale in most stores for just one dollar. Many people heard this moving documentary poem over the CBC radio. It tells the story of the heartbreak of the mass deportation of the Canadians of Japanese ancestry.

The late beloved U.B.C. professor, Garnet Sedgwick, told a group of which I was one that this was one of the really great poems written by Canadians.

The little chap-book also contains seven shorter poems by Dorothy Livesay.

EDNA JAUQUES also has a new book of poetry called FRESIDE POEMS. Price $1.25. Mrs. Jauques writes of simple, homely themes, and this book is in her best tradition.

PENCIL STUB STANZAS, by Gus Sigurdson, is he-man stuff, with ringing rugged poems of war logging camp and even Vancouver's skid road.

Gus publishes his own book at $2.25 (address 4333 Parker St. Vancouver).

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S latest book in the war series is called THE HINGE OF FATE. Sells for $6. Mine has just this minute come in so haven't had a chance to get into it yet.

The best book on Korea is published by the Canadian Institute of International Affairs and is called KOREA TODAY by George M. McCune. Sells for about $4. Address C.I.I.A. 230 Bloor West Toronto.

BRUCE HUTCHISON'S thrilling story of the Fraser River country is called THE FRASER and sells for $4.50.

The best novel that I have come across for many a year is still THE EGYPTIAN by Mika Waltari. It shows what happens when a king by decree tries to enforce what we might now call Christian ideals on a people not yet prepared to accept them.

It is also a rattling good story for its own sake—with plenty of love interest, travel and adventure to keep you reading eagerly. Sells for $4.

THE BEST BOOKS of all are the standards and classics which are available by hundreds in the cheap paper covered editions.

Coroner's Job Different Now

WINNIPEG — Manitoba's provincial coroner, Dr. I. O. Fryer, says the coroner of medieval times had a vastly different job from his modern counterpart.

Ancient coroners, or "crowners" spent most of their time keeping watch over crown property, he said in a service club address.

In this category came buried treasure and salvage of the sea, including shipwrecks and whales or sturgeon either washed up on shore or caught near the coast. Dr. Fryer said the modern coroner's work is often misunderstood by the public who think he spends all his time with corpses involved in cases of violent deaths.

Activities of the modern coroner actually include detective, medical and pathological work as well as work of an executive, administrative and legal nature.

In Manitoba, about 750 cases a year are investigated, most without the help of a jury. During an average year in this province about 500 jurymen are subpoenaed and 1000 witnesses sworn in for coroner's hearings.

"Why, no, lady—you haven't seen me before."

Labor's Candidates Christmas Trees From Kamloops

WILLIAM GRIFFITHS

DARROW GOMEZ

Here are Labor's two candidates in the aldermanic election this year. They are William Griffiths, president of the Marine Workers and Industrial Union and for many years an active trades unionist, first in Wales and then in Prince Rupert following his arrival in the city a few years ago. Darrow Gomez is a member of the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union. Both Mr. Griffiths and Mr. Gomez are ex-service men, the former having served in World War I with the Imperial Army Ordnance Corps and the latter with the Canadian Army in World War II, landing in Normandy on D-Day and winning the Distinguished Service Medal.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

This day nine years ago a Japanese air fleet attacked Pearl Harbor and one of the worst defeats in United States naval history became a matter of record. There had, from day to day, been vague rumors, but no one appeared to attach much importance to any of them. Then, when proud fighting ships lay blazing and shattered and hundreds of seamen lay lifeless and dying, came sudden and sharp realization. Washington suffered a shock. So did the nation, and in particular, the ports of the Pacific, including Canadian.

It was a grey, mild Sunday morning in Prince Rupert. Perhaps there was not the excitement there was in Seattle, but everywhere, faces were grave and there was a persistent call for more news. None could tell what might be next, or how soon it would occur. Japan, for the time being, was master of the Pacific, in all its vastness.

It can hardly be said all the casualties have happened in the field in the Far East. General Rockingham reports that some of his most highly prized decorations are missing. The belief is they were stolen.

War will never yield but to the principles of universal justice and love and these have no sure root but in the religion of Jesus Christ.—William Ellering Channing.

Newfoundland is impatient. Some of her public men are saying that if greater progress is not made, it is to be expected that a move for annexation to some other province will be launched. Why the rush? Its only a year or so since Newfoundland became a province. The

By the time the last freight car is rolling another specialized harvest will have commenced further west. Ten tons of holly is expected to move by Canadian National Express this Christmas with shipments commencing next week and continuing until December 20, holly is speeded by passenger train to wholesalers and retailers across the nation from farms located in the Fraser Valley and on Vancouver Island. Individual holly shipments from home gardens to relatives and friends will swell the Christmas express business now building up to a seasonal peak.

HOUSEKEEPING

FEAST OF FAT THINGS IS ULTIMATE IN PERFECTION

Solomon spoke of "a feast of fat things" as being the ultimate in perfection. In more recent times, "living on the fat of the land" has been expressive of all the luxuries of living. In the modern way of life there are other classes of foods which are prized as highly as most types of fat.

Of all edible fats, the fat of milk is considered the most delicate and therefore fresh cream and butter are preferred in many cases where fat is used. To make one pound of butter the cream from ten quarts of milk is required. The nursery rhyme says "Betty Botter bought a bit of butter to make her batter better." Many a homemaker agrees with the idea and adds "a bit of butter" to vegetables, soups and desserts as well as batters because of the rich smoothness and flavor it imparts. Home economists say "It's better with butter."

Nothing beats a topping of crunchy, buttered crumbs on a casserole dish. Often such a topping makes the family forget that they are eating leftovers. Another idea for topping is used on biscuits. Use your favorite recipe for baking powder biscuits but substitute $\frac{1}{2}$ cup cornmeal for $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of the flour. When the dough is rolled and cut, dip the tops of the biscuits in melted butter, then in cornmeal. Bake as usual in a hot oven, 400° F., and serve with butter and maple syrup, honey or jam.

Many types of fats have their uses in cooking. For deep frying it is essential that the fat should have a high smoking temperature. Lard, vegetable oils and vegetable shortenings are good for this purpose. Chicken or goose fat may also be used if the supply is sufficient. Beef and veal drippings and butter scorch too easily to be used for frying. Any of the edible fats may be used for sautéing... that is par-frying. The average homemaker, today, wastes the fat which is rendered out from roasts and buys shortening for the many cooking uses.

Beef dripping is usually too hard to use satisfactorily for anything but pan frying but if 2 cups of rendered beef fat are melted with 1 cup of pork fat or lard the resulting shortening will be soft and may be used for baking. Stirring the fat vigorously, several times during cooling, makes it soft and smooth. The drippings from smoked pork may be used in making pastry for meat pies or in recipes such as gingerbread or spice cookies.

Suet is not a rendered fat but finely chopped suet gives a particular quality to steamed puddings and mincemeat. Proper storage of fats is important. Butter is relatively perishable and absorbs odors readily, therefore, it should be kept closely covered in the refrigerator. Lard will keep almost indefinitely if stored in the refrigerator and for a limited time if kept at room temperature. Shortenings (hydrogenated fats) may be satisfactorily kept in closed containers at room temperature.

Rendered household fats should be stored in a tightly covered crock, a tin container or an opaque jar in a cool dry place away from light.

The best method of measuring, say $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of solid fat, is to fill your measuring cup $\frac{1}{2}$ full with cold water, then add fat until the water measures 1 full cup. Be sure all the fat is completely submerged in the water while measuring. Pour off the water and the fat remaining is the exact amount needed.

BLAME FOR WAR

elsewhere, majority rule must prevail," Mr. Mawer said. "Domination is only bad when it comes through minority rule."

Stressing the activities of the Economic and Social Council of the UN as contact with races, Mr. Mawer reviewed the United Nations' Korean problem prior to present hostilities.

CAIRO AGREEMENT

"In the Second World War, United States, United Kingdom and China agreed at Cairo that Korea be freed from foreign domination. The Soviet Union adhered to the Cairo declaration. But for military expediency in the demilitarization of Japan it was agreed that United States should occupy the southern part of Korea to the 38th parallel and the Soviet troops should occupy that part of Korea lying to the north.

"The policy of the Soviet Union was clear from the start. According to them only Communists were democratic and the Soviet Union would consult no other political groups in regard to the formation of a national government for all Korea," he maintained.

Mr. Mawer continued: "It can be seen that but for the abortive invasion of South Korea in June, the strong Soviet orientation of North Korea would have continued—aided by the large Soviet embassy staff in the North Korean capital.

"Meanwhile the Korean commission made efforts to contact the Soviet authorities in the north but without success," said Mr. Mawer, recounting strict censorship of the north.

"A large majority of the General Assembly decided that the commission should continue its work and that, in particular, it should hold free elections in Korea. This was done in the spring of 1948 and Syngman Rhee was established at Seoul as the head of the lawfully elected government of the Republic of Korea.

"Although not perfect, this government was returned as a result of an expression of the will of the majority of the Korean people and as such was entitled to recognition. This was given by the United Nations General Assembly on December 12, 1948. It was declared that all members of the UN are bound by that decision and that no other government was in existence.

"Events in the Soviet zone in the north followed the usual pattern of absolute control of all social movements—suppression, then abolition of opposition as expressed through newspapers and the like, all this coupled with a violent program of specious propaganda designed to discredit the United States in the eyes of South Koreans and to point out the alleged illegality of United Nations efforts at mediation.

"Elections in the north on August 25, 1948, also followed the familiar pattern with the Korean Democratic Front gathering 99.6 per cent of the vote. The formation of groups of armed troops totalling well over 100,000 men came as a matter of course," the speaker indicated.

"An honest understanding of the war—and do not be taken in by the Communist-inspired phrase, civil war," he warned, "must inevitably begin with the report of the Korean commission which reached the Security Council at its meeting of September 4. "It begins with these words: 'The invasion of the Republic of Korea on June 25 by the armed forces of the North Korean authorities was an act of aggression initiated without warning and without provocation, in execution of a carefully-prepared plan.'"

"From the start, the objectives of North Korea have been to secure by force what could not be gained by other means.

And this we condemn," affirmed Mr. Mawer. After a question period at the end of the talk Mr. Mawer was given a special vote of thanks by the chairman, Mrs. Blackaby. The president of the club also welcomed a new member to the local branch, Mrs. Gordon Graham, who has recently moved here from Chilliwack. Mrs. J. A. Rutherford accompanied at the piano in the singing of the national anthem.

Wish Women
Senior Plans
Ideal Home

MURIEL NARRAWAY
Senior Press Staff Writer
DON—A house having the dreams and hopes of British women goes on for the first time. Mrs. . . .

this ideal home. Determined to show authorities "just what women want," a women's organization sent questionnaires to some 400,000 housewives across Britain. The replies were forwarded to a six-woman committee to be stirred and blended into the final recipe.

The completed model goes on show next March at an "Ideal Home" exhibition in London's Olympia Stadium. "Our house will not be a dream one in the usual sense of the word," says Lady Alben Clark, chairman of the sponsoring organization. "It will be the kind of house that can be built today, taking into consideration such things as cost material shortages and building restrictions."

FAMILY OF FIVE
This first woman-planned house in Britain will be designed for a young couple with three children and a working-class income. Downstairs there will be a combination kitchen-living room, dining room and scullery, upstairs three bedrooms and a bathroom.

Ideas submitted describe everything from type of flooring, interior decoration, heating and cooking systems and labor-saving devices. A majority suggested rounded corners that can be easily cleaned, skirting flush with walls, panelled casing to stairways and plenty—plenty—of cupboards.

Kitchen improvements head the list. The women want: among other things, well-placed sinks with two draining boards, a lighted pantry large enough to stand up in and if possible light over the sink.

Those who scanned the suggestions were surprised that about 75 per cent approved the idea of an old-fashioned copper wash-boiler and solid fuel for heating and cooking. It was stressed that the kitchen range should heat the water supply and provide an open fire for the kitchen.

Low handrails for doorways and low handrails for stairways used by children are warmly recommended. All locks, power plugs and light switches should be high enough to be beyond range of tiny hands.

A Devon housewife asked for "wide stairs that go straight up without permanent waves and twists." A Warwickshire woman wanted working quarters of each home at the extreme ends of the building for greater privacy.

Site for the house and cost of erecting it fully furnished will be borne by a London newspaper (Daily Mail) as a tribute to the women who planned it.

Claims Education Fails To Produce

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (C)—Modern education has failed notably to produce the qualities that New Zealand business men want in their employees, according to a survey by the Auckland Chamber of Commerce.

Whatever other advantages the new education has, members of the Chamber by a large majority said that it does not produce good junior clerical workers.

The employers answered a questionnaire on whether standards of work by young employees were improving or declining. Half the employers said there had been a marked deterioration in the last 10 years. Others said the decline in standards had started earlier.

Those questioned included manufacturers, retailers, wholesalers, importers, exporters, accountants and insurance, banking and law offices.

On the question whether young employees showed accuracy and care in arithmetic, 64 per cent of the answers were in the negative. About the same proportion said they were not satisfied with the legibility and neatness in writing.

On English grammar, including vocabulary and expression, well over half the employers said they were not satisfied.

The report said that the result of the questionnaire indicate that in those subjects where commerce requires a certain degree of proficiency the standard of juniors is unsatisfactory.

DIFFERENT ATTITUDES

"The position disclosed is most alarming," it said. "The admission that the broadening of the curriculum in the interests of culture means less time available for the three R's demonstrates the different attitude held by the schools towards these subjects."

Apart from the ability of juniors to carry out their work satisfactorily, their attitude to their employment is also to be criticized, according to the survey. It found that the new teaching methods have not given employees a good approach to their work.

Only 14 per cent of the replies showed satisfaction on the question of an employee's thoroughness and dependability. Forty-eight per cent agreed that they were punctual, conscientious and loyal to their employer. And 73 per cent agreed that the junior workers were "imbued with common sense in their application to work."

Questioned whether the attitude to work and the employer was better or worse than 15 years ago, 80 per cent said it was worse. The Chamber of Commerce, declaring it was depressing to find such low standards in spite of alleged improvements in educational methods, has forwarded the report to the minister of education, R. M. Algie.

Suggestions To Cafe Operators

PORT ARTHUR (C)—George L. Wenzel of Austin, Tex., suggests Canadian restaurateurs should "make a little love to the public."

Mr. Wenzel, a restaurant consultant, conducted a two-day course here.

He said showmanship and a little knowledge of the science of cooking are necessary attributes in the successful operation of a restaurant. There is definitely something lacking in the majority of Canadian restaurants, he said. "Your business should be operated with a little of the Barnum and Bailey circus flavor. Make a little love to the general public and treat the children with special attention."

Mrs. F. G. Rainsford and son Ian arrived in Prince Rupert yesterday aboard the Prince George to join Mr. Rainsford, who moved here from the south to work for the Forestry Department of the Columbia Cellulose six months ago. The Rainsfords will live at Terrace.

Blackwood On Bridge

When Mr. Dale, the master of bridge Humanics, plays with strangers the first thing he does is try to size up the abilities of the various players. Recently he was visiting in a certain city and dropped into the local bridge club where he cut into a game with three players he had never seen before.

Mr. Dale held the North cards and his partner was introduced to him as Mr. Sharpe. East dealer. Neither side vulnerable. North (Mr. Dale) S-9 H-Q J 7 4 2 D-7 2 C-J 8 7 6 2

Plan Reunion Of Regiment
TORONTO—The storied 48th Highlanders will muster again next May in Toronto. The reunion, to mark the regiment's 60th birthday, is expected to bring together more veterans than in 1928, when the 48th held what was termed the British Empire's largest single-unit gathering. More than 4,000 attended from across Canada.

Brig. E. W. Haldenby, Toronto architect who served with the 48th in two wars, heads a committee of officers and men working on plans for the reunion. It will last three days, May 25-27, permitting travel on the May 24 holiday.

Separate stag dinners of First World War veterans of the 15th, 92nd and 134th battalions—all 48th units—and of Second World War veterans are planned for the first day.

On the second day, the spectacular Highland trooping of the colors will be performed in Varsity Stadium with the salute taken by A.V.I.P. as yet unnamed. That night, a mass dinner will be held in the armouries.

Feature of the final day, Sunday, will be a memorial parade and service at the 48th Highlanders' Memorial in Queens Park. The 48th Highlanders Club (Church Street), Toronto, is already taking registrations for the reunion and arranging special rail transportation.

New High Mark—

Enrolment At School Is Record

Enrolment in Prince Rupert schools climbed another 20 in November to reach a new high record city total of 1,349. This compares with 1,266 at the same time last year. Figures were obtained from the Principal's reports.

Following are the enrolment figures with last year's figures in brackets:

Booth	Enrolment	Pct.
Booth	479 (454)	93.3
Borden	273 (236)	92.86
Conrad	276 (253)	93.4
King Edward	321 (317)	94.3
Digby Island	19	87.3
Pt. Essington	51	85.1
Pt. Edward	32	81.1
Pt. Simpson	7	82.

One accident report was contained in the report from Principal A. H. Hurst of Booth Memorial School. A boy had cut his hand when a piece of glass tubing had been broken while he was trying to put it through a hole in a stopper. The cut required medical attention.

Principal J. S. Wilson of Borden Street School reported the fence agreed upon at the last school board meeting had been installed and that the city had repaired the road cribbing.

The principal of Port Edward School gave an explanation of the dropping off in attendance 20 cases of communicable diseases among the pupils.

MAY CLOSE SCHOOL

The teacher at Port Essington reported she had difficulty maintaining attendance. The board decided to send letters to parents in the area advising them that continued low attendance might force them to close the school, since enrolment was so small.

Reporting for King Edward School Trustee Bruce Brown said the furnace was working well after repairs following a breakdown in November.

Trustee Mrs. E. W. Becker reported the lavatories and approaches to them at Booth School were badly in need of paint. It was decided to have the work done during the Christmas holiday.

A delegation from the school janitors asked the board for an across-the-board increase in salaries of $15 per month. The request was granted effective January 1, 1951.

A letter of thanks from the Kinsmen's Club for the board's cooperation in their Halloween shellout was received and filed.

A letter from A. P. Gardner & Company informed the board they had opened an office in Prince Rupert and asked the board's consideration when appointing an auditor. The secretary was instructed to acknowledge the letter and state the letter would be kept on file for reference.

A request from the teachers at Port Essington to have their Christmas holiday extended one day to give them five days at home instead of two was granted.

Accounts for November were approved and ordered paid. Ordinary expenses were $2,032.17 for October, and $21,631.18 for November. The building account amounted to $91,982.32.

It was agreed to accept from James Collins $200 cash for the teacherage at Port Essington.

Treasurer—Grant Stewart
Secretary—W. H. Doumont

A special meeting of the local troop's group committee and interested public will be held tonight to discuss the new two-year achievement plan. Commissioner Jordan is here to promote the plan which will co-ordinate administration.

BASKETBALL HOLIDAY

A letter from Principal Hurst asking permission to allow the basketball team two days off before the Christmas holiday in order to make the trip to Ketchikan received the board's approval. Mr. Hurst will accompany the team.

A letter from Principal Robert G. Moore of King Edward School stated the tape recorder used by the music teacher had proved valuable in instruction and asked that the board take over the cost of repairs and replacements. The request was granted with the amount to be spent left at the discretion of the school secretary.

Another letter from Principal Moore asked permission for two teachers to leave early for their Christmas holidays in order to make better connections. Both requests were refused.

A letter from the Department of Education approved the cost of $4 per week per pupil to bring students in from Port Edward but asked that they try to find a less expensive means of transportation.

A letter from B.C. Bridge and Dredging asked permission to use the Booth School 220 volt three phase power outlet to operate their power equipment. They were advised that they could make the necessary arrangements through Northern B.C. Power Company.

A request from the teachers at Port Essington to have their Christmas holiday extended one day to give them five days at home instead of two was granted.

Accounts for November were approved and ordered paid. Ordinary expenses were $2,032.17 for October, and $21,631.18 for November. The building account amounted to $91,982.32.

Employment Good Here

Industrial Payrolls Being Well Maintained

Prospects for employment in the Prince Rupert area continue good with junior clerks, stenographers and sawmill workers most in demand. Shortage of housing for workers is the main drawback to expansion of the city, an official said yesterday.

"We have to have more houses," he said, "or burst wide open."

Mining continues to be exceedingly good with a good many more men employed now than at the same time last year in the Hazelton-Smithers area. However Dorreen Mine has been closed down for the winter. Torbrit silver mine at Alice Arm is still working as are Silbak-Premier and Indian mines. Metal prices are good and the situation generally satisfactory.

Khatzemyaten logging camp of Columbia Cellulose has been closed down but logging operations at Terrace and Smithers are active.

Bulkley Valley Collieries are generally active. It is expected Columbia Cellulose Company will start stockpiling coal from Telkwa early in the new year.

Interior sawmills, where weather permits, are operating. There is a good demand for labor from them.

The shipyards here are busy at the moment but it is expected there will be a decrease in demand for manpower in the near future.

Construction employment continues good. Columbia Cellulose is still employing many men. They have gone on a six day week.

Work is proceeding rapidly on the new schools and the new theatre. Work at the latter place now is mostly interior finishing. In addition, there are many smaller jobs progressing.

There is still a great shortage of junior office clerks and stenographers. Lack of proper accommodation is the cause put forward.

Fishing is in about at the lowest ebb for the year. There are a few loads of block fish being landed. Although herring fishing has been active in the north, local boats have not yet been engaged in the fishing. There has been some herring landed at Port Edward by Vancouver boats. Fishermen have settled with companies for the same prices as last year. It is expected the demand for both meal and oil will be good this year.

HARD TO POLICE

More than four-fifths of the area of the Federation of Malaya is still covered by jungle.

Anton Halverson Is Laid at Rest

Friends and pioneers met at Greenville Court yesterday for the funeral service of Anton Halverson, 88 year-old Prince Rupert citizen, who died Saturday in the city hospital.

Ald. G. B. Casey, Robert McKay, O. A. Johnson, A. O. Morse, Charles Lundquist and Knut Halberg were pallbearers at the service conducted by Rev. E. Soland.

Hymns, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and "My Hope is Built on Nothing Less," were sung with organ accompaniment by Mrs. J. C. Gilker.

Mrs. Alex Drummond, the deceased's daughter from Vancouver, and other members of the family attended the service. Next of kin are: Mrs. Anton Halverson, wife; three children, Carl, Hilda and Theodore; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. All of the grandchildren, except Frank who lives here, are in Vancouver. Two sons, Richard and Rudolph, and one daughter, Heiga, died previous to their father's death.

Among the friends of the funeral of Mr. Halverson, who lived 45 years in Prince Rupert working as a blacksmith and member of the Valhalla Lodge, were G. Gustafson and Victor Johnson. There were many floral tributes.

for Contented Babies

"A Prescription from My Doctor"

"No wonder I'm healthy and contented! My Carnation Milk is nourishing as milk can be; easily digested because it is homogenized and heat-refined; it has 400 units of "sunshine" vitamin D in every pint. Mother knows it is safe, because Carnation is sterilized after it is sealed in its air-tight can; and a Carnation formula is so easy to prepare. Ask your doctor about a Carnation formula for your baby. Carnation is the milk every doctor knows."

Extra Body-Building Benefits for Children of All Ages

AFTER BABY'S bottle days, no need to change from the milk the doctor recommends. For "creaming" cereals and desserts, children love the flavor of undiluted Carnation—and it has twice the food value of an equal amount of bottled milk.

FOR DRINKING, making cocoa or cooking, dilute Carnation with an equal amount of water for a milk of extra smoothness and rich flavor.

"Flame and Arrow" Here

An epic spectacle of romance "The Flame and the Arrow," comes to the Capitol Theatre for a week-end engagement. Starring Burt Lancaster and Virginia Mayo it is filmed in Technicolor.

The story is of medieval Italy revolving around the historical episode when the mountain men of Lombardy rose up under the daring leadership of Dardo and fought the Hessians who were seeking to run their country. Against such a background, the story projects the romance which takes place between the leader of the rugged Lombardians and the royal Anne of Hesse.

The film has been one of the most talked-about in Hollywood. Action marks "The Flame and the Arrow" with Burt Lancaster himself a former circus acrobat, doing all his own climbing, fencing and archery. for the crossbow was the weapon of the day to acrobatic feats. The story also calls for a group of lumberjacks to invade the royal castle as a ruse with stunts high in the rafters of its great hall.

Neighbors Help Big House Move

RICHLIA, Sask. — Robert Williams, a veteran of the South African and First World Wars, lost a leg a year ago. Now he knows that the friendly pioneer spirit still lives in this community 80 miles southwest of Saskatoon. Neighbors worked three days moving his house to a new location, insulating it, lining it with beaver board, laying new linoleum and installing electric lights. Native Art Of Indians

Archaeological Hobbyist Says It Should Not Have Been Ignored

Cause of at least some of the difficulties that have been encountered in handling the Indians of this country has been the failure to admit that these people had an aboriginal culture of their own worthy of acceptance said Frank Smith, contractor's accountant and hobbyist in archaeology, who was the speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday. Mr. Smith proposed that the natives be given a full chance to develop those talents as a means of assisting them in becoming useful and accepted citizens—Canadians all.

Diving deep into historical research concerning the Indians, Mr. Smith said it was conceded that these peoples had not evolved on this continent but had come from outside. Their physical characteristics indicated that they had come in successive waves. The Indians of this coast were of a late type and probably of Mongolian ancestry.

Mr. Smith then proceeded to classify the native tribes of British Columbia including the Haidas, the fighting "Vikings of the North," and the Tsimseans, the traders, all with their aboriginal cultures which, unfortunately, had not been perpetuated following the coming of the white man.

The speaker's discourse was followed up with a showing of an extremely interesting series of slides depicting native arts and relics, many from Mr. Smith's own valuable collection. These included totem poles of which the Haidas and the Tsimseans had been the greatest carvers, their art reaching its peak after the introduction of metal tools but which, unfortunately, had all but died out now.

Presiding over yesterday's Gyro luncheon was Past President Maurice Bruges in the absence of President A. J. Dominato. In addition to the speaker of the day, Rev. T. G. Sieber of First United Church was a guest.
