Walkout Threatens American Meat Supply

100,000 Packing House Workers Go Out on Strike

CHICAGO (CP)—Picket lines formed in front of United States meat packing plants today as 100,000 C.I.O. employees went on strike despite a last-minute plea by President Truman.

Pickets were posted in several cities, including Chicago, where 20,000 meat plant workers were involved. The stoppage affects 142 major plants and threatens to cut in half the United States supply of meat.

The packing house workers are demanding a wage increase of nine cents an hour which was recently granted to American Federation of Labor workers in the industry, of whom 150,000 remain on their jobs.

"The strike must proceed," the packing house men answered President Truman who sought an 80-day delay to continue negotiations.

CHICAGO — The strike strategy committee of 100,000 C.I.O. packing-house workers voted last night to go on strike against the country's major meat packers, despite a plea by President Truman to stay on the job.

The committee said that "delay would serve no purpose and the strike must proceed." Truman had asked the union and the meat packers to continue negotiations until a board of enquiry reported to him on April 1.

Mr. Gardiner, has told the Commons that a very considerable portion of the loans which Canada has extended to war-devastated countries is never going to be paid back. He said further that the greater part of the wheat exported from Canada is going to countries which cannot pay for it.

MONTREAL FIRES TAKE SIX LIVES

MONTREAL — The death toll in a series of major fires here was set at six last night, with a property loss of more than $1,000,000 when the eighth fire in the metropolitan area since Saturday had been extinguished.

Two firemen, three children and a machine shop operator died in the fires since Saturday.

STRIKE LIKELY TO ENGLUF ALL COAL INDUSTRY

PITTSBURG — Mushrooming of the soft coal walkout of 200,000 miners is likely to engulf the United States industry within a day as miners lay down their tools in support of John L. Lewis' demands for $100 pensions.

Twenty thousand miners have stopped in Illinois and miners in 11 other states are idle. In Washington mediation officials doubt whether another injunction against Lewis could find anything to restrain.

400 CLOSE TO DEATH IN WILD TRAIN RIDE

BROCKVILLE, Ont. — Speeding 70 miles per hour, a locomotive hauling a seven-car pool train from Toronto Saturday night heeled over dangerously during a one-mile brake slide 13 miles west of here, threatening the lives of 400 passengers.

With a baggage car ablaze, the eastbound train lurched and plunged as the air brakes were applied. Passengers said they were flung from one side of the train to the other. Flying metal from a shattered piston rod pierced a tank of illuminating gas under the baggage car, setting it on fire, while a dangling engine rod rammed into railway ties causing the locomotive to lurch.

FORESEE TOUGH RUSS POLICY IN TURKEY

WASHINGTON — The democracies are looking toward Turkey for signs of renewed Russian pressure after Moscow appoints a new ambassador to Ankara—trouble shooter Alexander Lavrishev.

The records describe him as an "advocate of Soviet policy of getting tough with Turkey, possibly with the aim of reopening a Red Campaign to take over the Turkish borders and the strategic Dardanelles. Authorities believe, however, that the most immediate critical areas are Italy, Finland and Greece on the Russian expansion program.

NEW YORK — The United States five-power Palestine Commission predicts an increase in strife, bloodshed and chaos in the Holy Land this spring as conditions are steadily deteriorating in Palestine.

In a report circulated among delegates, the commission charged the British with refusal to co-operate in implementing the partition.

WARTIME HOUSING EMPHASIZES SALES IN LOCAL HOUSE POLICY

Tenants of houses administered by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation who are unable or unwilling to buy the house they occupy will be fully protected, J. L. McEwen, Prince Rupert district rental office manager, said today.

Explaining the sales procedure, Mr. McEwen pointed out that "the tenant has the first opportunity to purchase his home, but the tenant in some instances does not occupy the unit best suited to his needs. Consequently, he may wish to buy a different house in another section of the project. When this happens, the tenant of the other house is given the option of buying. If he declines, an exchange of homes may be arranged and he is compensated to an amount of $15 to cover moving expenses."

Mr. McEwen emphasized that a tenant who does not wish to purchase will not have to exchange houses more than once. He also stated that under no circumstances will a veteran tenant be disturbed by the sale of his house to a non-veteran tenant of another unit.

The whole policy of selling these rental houses has been undertaken only because many

Jeers, Peashooters, Dead Cat Greet Tim Buck at Varsity Rally

VANCOUVER (CP)—Shouts, jeers, peashooters and cap pistols greeted Tim Buck as 2,000 University of British Columbia students greeted the Labor-Progressive Party at a campus meeting.

At one point a dead cat landed on the platform. Tim Buck left the meeting, despite a plea by the Labor-Progressive Party Club president, Norman Littlewood, to hear him. Earlier Buck called for unity at the polls with the C.C.F. to defeat the Tories and Liberals.

Students stayed to hear John Hladun, former Communist, denounce the Russians and Buck as an agent of Moscow imperialism.

NEW ATOM SMASHER DEVELOPED—A pilot model of their new atom smasher, "the Yale linear accelerator," is displayed at New Haven, Conn., by two of its builders: Howard L. Schultz (left), assistant professor of physics, and Carol Montgomery, an associate professor. They expect by next June to be developing energies of from 15 to 20,000,000 volts. It may prove a great aid to nuclear physics since, thanks to the "accelerator," the product has less energy loss than the cyclotron or betatron.

Scene Execution

Orderer Kept Up to Very End: When Austin Nelson, 65, was hanged recently, he did what he had promised to do—delay the proceedings by pulling the rope away from the gallows twice. He kicked and blackened the faces of the executioners. He protested against the gallows placed over his head and made weapons. He was convicted of having a gun on him, a liquor store prosecutor he would make no chances taken. He was taken to a cell for in his old days and a dummy pistol, a knife, and a spoon which he had apparently made into a knife.

SOLID HOPE

PLENTY OF PEOPLE are always hoping to get something for nothing. Sir Stafford Cripps knows that easy money is more attractive to most people than hard work, but he cast his vote for the latter when approached by a group of bankers proposing a £2,000,000,000 state lottery as a solution for Britain's economic crisis.

Sir Stafford—a religious man and an astute one—gave sound practical reasons for rejecting the scheme. He may well have agreed with the further objective of the Churches Committee on Gambling that Britain needs production above all else, while a lottery "undermines the spirit of disciplined work." It is a curious but encouraging fact that, in the context of present-day Britain these words can hardly be suspected of being a "capitalist" slogan, intended to keep the worker a "wage slave."

You can gamble on the toughness of British moral fibre. More exactly, you can build on it.

'PLAYING OUR GAME'

THE TRIALS of the Japanese war-makers draw to a close in a Tokyo which firmly believes that the victor nations conducting the trials are meditating a new war of their own.

In opening the final defence arguments, the venerable Somei Uzawa declared:

The Japanese were a peaceful race living within their islands until forced from their self-imposed seclusion by the western powers.

It is useful for the western powers to remember that it was American and British gunboats which first gave feudal Japan a rude lesson in the role of military force in a trade-hungry, power-hungry modern world. It is useful to remember that western diplomacy encouraged Japanese military adventures so long as they promised to restrain the power of Czarist Russia in Asia. It is useful to remember President Theodore Roosevelt's words, "Japan is playing our game," when the Japanese made a grab for Korea in the Russo-Japanese War.

This earlier tutelage in the philosophy of force in no way justifies the calculated aggression of Japan's fascist-minded rulers in a world that has slowly been developing an international conscience. It does, however, put a weighty responsibility on the western powers not to repeat past mistakes, thus betraying the principles of justice on which the war crimes trials are predicated.

A civilian research organization has just recommended that no reparations be taken from Japan except primary war facilities. It recognizes that an industrialized Japan might again become a strong military power, but believes an economically weak Japan could be an even greater source of unrest in the Far East. Crucially important is the "effective control" it recommends for preventing a revived industry from becoming a prelude to revived military power.

No temporary advantage of Japanese revival should tempt Americans into forgetting the need for continued controls. The hopeful beginnings of reform in Japan do not yet justify them in making the blithe assumption, "Japan is playing our game."

RUSSIAN DIPLOMACY

RUSSIAN DIPLOMACY has rested on the timidity of western statesmen. Russian diplomacy is more dangerous than Russian generalship. England, especially, has been imposed on. She has been bullied, and is so still. She has not dared to declare her soul to be her own from the beginning to the present day. France, too, has been bullied. But both together have been frightened out of the only policy which could at once have guaranteed their own respectability. If at the outset they had used a manly style of language adequate to the position they hold, and the pretensions they set up before the world, if they had proved that bluster and swagger could not impose on them, the autocrat would not only have refrained from attempting it, but would have entertained for them a very different feeling from that contempt which must now animate his bosom. There is only one way to deal with a power like Russia, and that is the fearless way.

The foregoing was not written yesterday. The author, Carl Marx, eminent in the Socialist-Communist world, penned it a century ago. He was then serving as a New York correspondent, stationed in England, and relations between Russia and Britain were gradually becoming more strained. This eventually resulted in the Crimea War.

SWEDEN BUYS PLANES

LETTERBOX

Editor, Daily News:
In Saturday Sermon of March 13, in Prince Rupert Daily News I note what Rev. Basil S. Prockter has said in part, namely: "I would rather see a man dead drunk every Saturday night imploring the mercy of Almighty God than I would see a respectable man who is so sure of himself he feels he neither wants nor needs God."

Most people will appreciate Mr. Prockter's sentiment I believe—unless on the contrary, they would rather see the dead drunk dead.

But Thursday night, might better have been the time stated, in my opinion, in that seemingly it has become so largely popular.

Again, Thursday night, as versus Saturday night, could take care of any possible "hang-over" and insure Thursday night's imbibing of a possible attendance at church on Sunday. Which might eventually bring about his attending Prayer Meeting Wednesday night and resulting in his either forgetting or foregoing his imbibing Thursday night. In fact in the saying of today, "Most anything could happen in this fast moving world."

Thank you.

VIOLET INGALLS.

FILM COUNCIL MEMBERS NOW NUMBER 53

Representatives at last night's Film Council monthly meeting expressed satisfaction with the results of the recent membership drive which so far has brought in 53 member organizations.

With membership fees and donations coming in steadily, the Council is on the verge of realizing its $200 objective—the sum necessary for purchase of a block of films to establish a film library. The next goal is to raise $500 with which to buy their own projection equipment. In the meantime, a newly arrived loan projector from the National Film Board is available to all members free of charge, upon reservation with Sgt. L. A. N. Potterton.

Charles Collins reported that projectionist classes under the instruction of himself, Don Forward and Joe Goscoe, were going well. Several trainees graduated Monday night.

A feature of the general meetings in future will be the previewing of current films. This will give each representative on the Council an opportunity of deciding which films would be most suitable for his particular organization.

The meeting agreed on a new method of raising funds to meet current expenses of the Film Council. It was decided to charge 25c in addition to the rental on special films ordered through the Council secretary from the National Film Society. This charge is not made for the basic deposit films to be kept at the firehall.

A documentary film "Eye Witness" giving background to news events is among the films available.

PRINCE RUPERT IN MACLEANS STORY

A story entitled "Young Cedars Must Have Roots," appears in the current Macleans. It is termed fiction, and deals chiefly with native life on the British Columbia coast, with frequent references to Prince Rupert. There is a love interest, and the author, Hubert Evans, tells the tale well. The allusions to Cow Bay, the floats and boats, stores and show, the C.N. park and totem poles are faithfully drawn, and pictured with insight and understanding. Macleans has a wide circulation.

A colored fluid has been developed for use with contact lenses as a replacement for external sun glasses.
