LAD TAKES 70 MILE CANOE TRIP ON SKEENA

Norton Youngs, jr., flouted the rampaging Skeena River Monday and became the envy of more than one Prince Rupert holiday maker stranded at Terrace.
Norton, a high school student, decided Friday that he would emulate the old voyagers so, when he got a ride to Terrace, he took his canoe along. While motorists at Terrace were becoming jittery over the prospects of getting back to the city, the lad calmly put his canoe in the water and headed west.
He landed at Telegraph Point, 70 miles from Terrace, at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, a little more than eight hours after leaving Terrace. He "took it easy," he said.
At Telegraph Point, friends picked him up in a car and drove him and his canoe the final 30 miles to Prince Rupert.

THINKS FORCES IN PRIBILOFFS

VICTORIA, (C)—Dr. G. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, believes the Pribiloff Islands in the Behring Sea, famed for fur seal herds, have been garrisoned by the United States for an emergency.
First Canadian to visit the islands since the Second World War, Dr. Carl said in an interview that he receives frequent radio messages from the governor of the islands.
The Pribiloffs are in a strategic position on the great Arctic Circle Route from Edmonton to the Orient. The Americans built a large airfield on the larger island of St. Paul during the war.

Yesterday the convention called for an extension of Canada's immigration policy, favoring immigrants from Britain. The Dominion can now absorb immigrants the convention felt, reversing a stand of two years ago against immigration at that time.
One of the outstanding social features of the convention was a great Victoria Day dance on Monday night.
Delegate Philip M. Ray attended the Saskatoon Rotary Club luncheon in the Bessborough Hotel on Monday.
Delegate J. S. Wilson arrived Monday to join the Prince Rupert group.

'MOB ACTION' FOLLOWS DANCE

What the city police described as "mob action" resulted in a constable being injured and the escape of a man being arrested for drunkenness on Second Avenue near McBride Street at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning.
Constable Robert Harmon had a tooth knocked out, suffered bruises about the face and had his uniform torn by a group of men, said to number about 80, who apparently resented the police action in arresting a man who allegedly was creating a disturbance.
Constable Harmon and Constable A. L. Rossiter responded to a call from the Civic Centre where, it was reported to police headquarters, a drunken native was creating a disturbance among a crowd which was leaving a dance.
The two policemen had difficulty putting the man in the wagon and, during the struggle, a crowd, obviously sympathetic to the native, gathered around. As the policemen tried to drive away, several men opened the back door of the police wagon and released the man.
Constable Harmon separated him from the crowd for a second time and placed him back in the police car. He was released a second time and borne away by the crowd.
During the confusion, blows were exchanged and the police say that Constable Harmon was "kicked in the face." He lost a tooth and received bruises on the face.
The native, centre of the disturbance, escaped after being borne off by the mob.

Flooded Rivers Rage Throughout Province

KIMBERLEY, (CP)—Flooded Mark Creek continued to rage today as its seasonal peak still approached and Public Works department officials braced themselves against worse water damage.
Two thousand workers battled floods along the Kootenay, Columbia and Fraser rivers.
A dam on Gaspard Creek broke near Clinton causing $50,000 damage.
About 3,000 acres are flooded at West Langley and Salmon Flats and Mayor C. Swan of West Langley has requested Attorney General Gordon Wismer to close beer parlor and liquor stores.
The Attorney General has authorized the swearing-in of special constables from the militia. Heffley Creek has isolated North Thompson communities by sweeping away a highway bridge and washing out 300 yards of C.N.R. right-of-way.
The Fraser River has breached the dykes at two places at Agassiz.
Pulp and paper mills spend $85,000,000 annually in transportation.

Thousand Feet Of Track Out At Salvus; Highway Unsafe And Closed

ALDERMEN VOTE CHLORINATION TO DISCONTINUE

Chlorination of Prince Rupert domestic water supply was officially halted by city council last night "until there is visible proof of disease attributable to conditions of the water."
The safeguard, imposed during the war by the military authorities, was terminated by a 5 to 3 vote of the aldermen in the face of a written opinion by the Prince Rupert Medical Association that its "members were unanimous in their feelings that chlorination of the city water supply should be continued."

The recommendation to halt chlorination was introduced by Alderman Arthur Brooksbank, chairman of the health committee, for the second time this month after earlier argument had failed to arrive at a vote.
Two weeks ago the initial move was made by Alderman George Casey and, after discussion, the matter was referred to the health committee for recommendation.

The committee, Alderman Brooksbank declared, had decided that chlorination was an "eastern movement" and that, while there was a need for it in the east where the water was bad, there was no need for it in Prince Rupert.
He dismissed the Medical Association's opinion by saying that "doctors have eastern training and eastern viewpoints."

"The committee felt that any time there was disease attributable to the water supply, chlorination could be quickly re-imposed," he continued. "Chlorinating this city's water now is like giving a healthy man medicine. Besides, the city has to bear the expense of it."
Voting in favor of discontinuing chlorination were Aldermen Brooksbank, Casey, Rudderham, Morin and McKay while Aldermen Black, Stone and Nickerson voted against dropping it.

HIRSUTE ELIXIR MAY HAVE BEEN STUMBLED UPON AT PRINCE RUPERT

The greatest of all fish bi-products may have been discovered by accident right here in Prince Rupert. Who knows, hirsute blessedness may now be restored, making possible a double blessedness—luxuriant beards for the cheeks and chins of the very young who would appear more mature or a return of the beloved locks to the elder men whose baldpates have bereaved them of the coveted youthful look.
Calling at the Daily News yesterday was Miss Pat Galloway of Fraser Street who brought with her for the editor's inspection a can of cat and kitten food produced from fish which had been laid away for a time. Reopening it a day or so ago, Miss Galloway found firmly growing therefrom a mass of hairy substance which she firmly believes issued from it in some unexplainable way.
The "hair" is kinky and woolly and as fine as ever emerged from any brunette head, being jet black although gray at the roots.
The fish food is a product of this coast.

Terrace Cut Off Except by Air—Pacific and Usk Evacuating—Repetition of 1936 Looms as Water Still Rises

Conceding that they are in for a fight with flood conditions in the Skeena River, already eight feet above normal and steadily worsening, Canadian National Railways offices here late yesterday afternoon ordered back to Prince Rupert the regular eastbound passenger and express train which was dispatched east on schedule Monday evening but was able to get no further than Kitwanga, 153 miles east, where a fifty-foot washout of the track made it impassable and has been gradually becoming longer. Up to yesterday afternoon it had been hoped to either bridge or detour the wash-out but prospects of that being speedily affected dimmed Tuesday afternoon as Skeena waters continued to rise. Railway officials definitely are looking for further trouble and felt it advisable to bring the train back to Prince Rupert without delay in case it might be caught between washouts. The train contained ten express cars of halibut destined for the United States. It got back at 12:15 last night.

Further washouts on the railway line have been developing and the train, which was to have come in last night from the East, was turned back to Jasper from New Hazelton late yesterday afternoon. Mail and express for Prince Rupert is being re-routed via Vancouver and should arrive here at the end of the week. However, it was reported today that there was a large slide on the Vancouver line near Kamloops.
Railway officials today gave Sunday as the earliest time by which there could be any hope of resumption of railway service in and out of Prince Rupert and that would depend on when the water of the Skeena River started to recede.
Its continuing rise is not only preventing a start being made on repairs but is steadily increasing the damage.
Five smaller washouts, in addition to the large one near Kitwanga, were known to have occurred up to midnight last night—one near Usk, one at Pacific, two near Dorreen and one near Ritchie. In addition to the washouts, there is water over the track at other points.
Wires went down early this morning so there was no word of the situation since then. Logs and debris coming down river are knocking down telegraph poles.
Major new serious development in the Skeena River flood situation came this morning with the report that 1000 feet of railway track had been washed out one-quarter of a mile west of Salvus, 58 miles east of Prince Rupert. This completes the isolation of the Terrace district both by railway and highway.
From Terrace came word by telephone late yesterday afternoon that preparations were being made to evacuate the low-lying villages of Pacific and Usk which were the worst sufferers in the historic flood of 1936 when the Skeena River last went on the rampage and stopped railway traffic for six weeks.

Following a trip as far as East Kwinitsa where he found swirling, muddy water of the Skeena River over the road for a considerable distance up to two feet in depth, District Engineer J. C. Brady of the public works department ordered the highway closed in the interests of public safety. "If a car should get caught in a swirl alongside the river, anything might happen," he said. "The road is certainly unsafe for traffic." At least one bridge is afloat and in addition to Kwinitsa, there is also water over the road in the Shames area.
A statement issued by Mr. Brady said: "The Prince Rupert-Terrace section of the highway is closed owing to Skeena River flooding over a long section up to two feet deep. When water recedes sufficiently repairs will be made and the road opened as soon as possible."
One of the last motorists to come in over the highway from Terrace Monday night was Duncan McRae who left Terrace at 6:35 p.m. He reported gravel bed streams on the Amsbury Hill in freshet then, one already running over the road and wearing it away. At that time the water on the road east of Kwinitsa had reached a depth of eighteen inches, a small bridge there being then afloat.
One of the local cars which became stuck owing to the fan drawing water over the ignition of the engine was that of L. C. Eby who had to be extricated and towed into Prince Rupert.

BRUNN'S ISLAND BEING EVACUATED
It was learned from Terrace by long distance late this morning that Braun's Island community was being evacuated of its dozen or so families which, with their stock and such effects as could be removed, were being taken to higher ground. Braun's Island suffered severely in the 1936 flood. Public works department was endeavoring to reinforce the banks of the Skeena River just below the Terrace bridge near the Kerr and Sherwood homes. The Skeena River has overflowed the highway just east of Terrace.
Two feet of water was reported in the general store at Usk today. Remo, west of Terrace, is also taking evacuation steps.

Arabs Reject Truce Order

CAIRO, (C)—The Arabs today rejected a cease-fire appeal by the United Nations.
The announcement, given at Damascus by the Syrian Premier, came as the U.N. Security Council deadline approached. The deadline is set for tonight.
The Jewish military braced itself for an Arab onslaught and Israel's provisional government informed the Council that it has reconsidered its previous willingness to comply to a cease-fire order.
Jerusalem underwent its first air bombing Tuesday, but there are no details.

Are Being Flown In From Smithers

Arrangements were being made today to fly back from Smithers James T. Harvey and O. G. Stuart of this city who were caught in the interior by the week-end trains and unable to return by highway or train. Also at Smithers awaiting return here are Mrs. Harvey and family and Miss Zona Hedley.

Clean-Up Campaign

THE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN in Prince Rupert, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is in its second and most intensive week and we would heartily commend the matter to the attention of all good citizens. For the majority of people who realize that cleanliness and tidiness is one of the prime attributes of good citizenship, no particular emphasis may be required. It is instinctive and natural for the most of folk to wish and strive to be of best appearance and to be ashamed of carelessness and untidiness in their persons as well as their premises.

Not only do we desire to be neat and clean for our own comfort and satisfaction but also that we may have the respect and admiration of our neighbors and friends.

There is also the important consideration of having a city the appearance of which will win us good name from the many visitors who come among us particularly in the nearing few months of the tourist and holiday season. Indications are that Prince Rupert will receive a large quota of such visitors this year—their numbers being limited only by the capacity of the facilities to handle them. Many of them will be from far afield and it is highly desirable that our community should create in their eyes a good impression for attractiveness and cleanliness.

It is a way for every citizen to help in putting over an effective public relations job for community, district and country.

CATERING TO TOURISTS

THE PROBLEM now is not attracting tourists to Prince Rupert. They are coming anyway. The important thing is taking care of them, making things interesting and pleasant for them when they get here. And that is something that is not receiving the attention it should. Are we preparing to make conditions here for the tourists such that they will go away pleased, recalling how well they were attended to and served? Are we going to make their visit something memorable to recollect or are they going to remember Prince Rupert as a tiresome and boring place where time hung heavily and from which they were glad to get going? Are they going to go home and tell their relatives and friends that there is nothing to do or see in Prince Rupert? They might easily do that and, if they do, we will have ourselves right here to blame.

The pursuer of a coastal liner which will handle a lot of tourists into Prince Rupert this year inquired anxiously of the editor of the Daily News in the course of conversation Monday what he could tell his passengers when they inquired what they could do and see in Prince Rupert. He was obviously most concerned that everything possible should be done to show off to the best advantage everything of interest which Prince Rupert had to offer the tourists.

The discussion came down to what was being done in the way of local motor transportation—organizing tours for the visitors which steamers will bring to Prince Rupert during the summer. In the Alaska towns, which seem to have a fuller appreciation of the tourist business than we do in Prince Rupert and certainly cater to them more than we do, motor tours are organized and the steamship companies co-operate in the way of selling tickets for such shore tours. It is something that could and should be done at Prince Rupert and it is hoped that the local taxi people will really be able to get down to business this year and do something systematic about it. It is an opportunity for the development of already existing local business, possibly on a co-operative basis. If the people who are already here do not do something about it, somebody else may see the opportunity to come in and do it.

VICTORIES NEVER FINAL

WHAT WE ARE BEING TAUGHT these days is not that struggle for right is fruitless, that defence of liberty is vain. What is being taught us is that democracy's victories are never final, that struggle is inherent in existence, that as some one has well put it, there is no discharge in life's war. The heroes of history that we revere, the men who gathered to their breasts the spears of tyranny, could not win for succeeding generations immunity from evil. Enough that in their time and that through their courage and devotion they kept the lamp of freedom burning. It is our task in our time, with pain and sorrow, to keep it from going out.—N. Y. Times.

Reminiscences and Reflections

By W.J.

First impressions go a long, long way. Baggy trousers, overdue shave, old egg stain on vest, greasy hat-band, one-sided heels and shoes a stranger to polish. Brother, this isn't the pressure of poverty. It's mainly due your own laziness. A city can become that way too. Tourists are always discerning and critical, and sometimes they feel like giving a loud cry of mingled dismay and disappointment. Don't have them leave, feeling that way. Tidy up and do it now!

Remarked The Empire, published in November, 1923—November went out with a bang. Murray Fuller's car was turned upside down. The Westholme Theatre's sign was blown down. H. O. Crewe's house was tangled up with a telegraph pole. Plate glass in the Knox Hotel was smashed. Cow Bay mariners were up all night. A shingle blew through Frank Dibb's dining room window, striking a cut glass set on the buffet.

Premier King has told friends in Ottawa that, when he retires to private life, he may do something in the way of newspaper work. "Well, Mr. King could do worse than start a 'reminiscences and reflections' column."

Major-General Worthington, speaking recently on defence and the need of highway or railroad to Alaska as close as possible to the Pacific, favored the route originating at Hazelton. So has the Spokane Chamber of Commerce. About as long ago as anyone can remember the region around the Skeena and Bulkley Rivers has been regarded as a point possessing certain natural advantages—a junction not to be overlooked or disregarded.

Some one in Manitoba won the beautiful automobile raffied in connection with the celebration of Empire Day in Prince Rupert. Oh well, everyone cannot have a car, although sometimes crossing Third Avenue on foot, you might think different. A Manitoban, 2000 miles to the east, captures the glittering prize. How much more speedy, smooth and comfortable, than the Red River cart!

EVEN THE WIND AIDS PUBLICIZE PRINCE RUPERT

Even the wind is helping to publicize Prince Rupert.

A gust in the German Rhineland whirled a page of the Saturday Evening Post into a garden where a German woman read the story "Seattle Ponders a Bad Dream" in halting English.

Elsa Wacker, who describes herself as "a Catholic, 35 years and the bookkeeper of a large firm" in Weisbaden-Bleibach, wrote Mayor Arnold that "I have seen a picture of you in your office as town's Mayor and I have had the wish to write you." The picture was one published in the February 4 issue of the Post.

Miss Wacker's salutation began: "The Town's Mayor, Miss Nora Arnold, Prince Rupert, Alaskan."

Object of her letter was to start correspondence with some one in Prince Rupert and to receive booklets of this country to study.

The Post story about Prince Rupert also brought the city to the attention of two young men in Holland who would like to settle here. In a letter to Mayor Arnold they describe themselves as young technicians with "experience, knowledge and a zest for work. Both have had training in the pulp and paper industry."

Mayor Arnold has passed the letter along to the Dutch vice-Consul at Terrace who is interested in colonization.

POST-WAR PARIS NOT HEAVEN IT WAS IN 1920'S

Gone Are the Days When Struggling Artists Could Eat Well for Five Francs in Left-Bank Bohemia

By Paul Henisart

PARIS, (Reuters) — Paris's left-bank Bohemia today reflects the striking changes in the French capital's cultural life brought about by the German occupation and the war.

On the pavement terraces of the "Cafe des Deux Magots" and the "Cafe de Flore," celebrated meeting places of the art and literary world for the last 50 years, no one talks seriously these days about another "lost generation."

To begin with, there is an aversion to identify oneself too closely with any previous experience or forms of expression.

But more important still, the situation confronting the youths who make up the new, second, post-war generation of artists is by no means identical with that of 1918.

It is generally believed that the remarkable renaissance of the 1920's which saw the fulfillment of outstanding American writers abroad such as Ernest Hemingway, Ezra Pound, Malcolm Cowley and Glenway Westcott and brought recognition to painters like Picasso, Braque and Modigliani, has only a limited influence on this section of Bohemia.

The writers, painters, sculptors, dramatists and intellectual hangers-on and ne'er-do-wells who inhabit the quarter of St. Germain des Pres today are an incongruous blend of neophyte existentialists determinedly shedding all vestiges of Anglo-Saxon restraint, and hard-working craftsmen.

NEW HUNTING GROUNDS

Bohemia of 1948 has even moved from its hunting grounds. From the crossroads of the Boulevard de Montparnasse and Boulevard Raspail, which it used to haunt 20 years ago, it has moved to the pleasant neighborhood of St. Germain, grouped around one of the oldest churches in Paris, dating back to the 10th century.

The migratory instinct of the artistic colony in Paris contrasts with London's Chelsea and New York's Greenwich Village which are relatively stable communities.

By moving to St. Germain, the Bohemians have merely com-

Driverless Car Rolls Over Bank

Dr. C. H. Hankinson's car wandered off by itself Friday night with damaging results. Dr. Hankinson parked the new vehicle on Eleventh Street while he visited a patient but, apparently, failed to cinch the parking brake tight enough. Anyway, during his absence, the car started to move. It went off the edge of the road, rolling over an embankment three times before it came to a stop. Dr. Hankinson sent the car south on Saturday for major body repairs.

pleted a cycle which began before the First World War when artists living there decamped and headed for Montparnasse. St. Germain has regained its former popularity, one observer explained, because it is nearer the Seine—nearer, that is to say, to the river in which desperate artists can commit suicide.

Very few, it should be stated, actually reach the point at which this becomes necessary. Post-war conditions, however, have almost eliminated the charm which Paris used to have for struggling artists. A Paris where one could eat well for five francs (less than 20 cents) or eight with wine, and where there was no problem about finding experimental venues in which to publish or studios in which to paint, is gone.

Soaring prices, an acute housing shortage, government controls which beset any new printing venture, a shrunken market for canvases due to currency exchange difficulties, have all reduced a bygone heyday to a pleasant legend.

To live up to minimum Bohemian standards nowadays requires at least 15,000 francs (about $70) a month—or about the wage of a middle-bracket civil servant in France.

Have you $10.00 in UNITED STATES Money?

Existing regulations make it illegal for any Canadian resident to retain in his possession more than $10 in United States cash.

You are required to turn in to your bank, for exchange into Canadian money, any amount you have in excess of $10 in United States funds, without delay.

THERE'S A REASON

The reason is that Canada must have the U.S. dollars spent here by tourists, in order to make them available for the payment of imported goods and services needed to keep production and employment at a high level.

NEW SHIP TO BE HONORED

Maiden trip arrival at Prince Rupert, her port of registry, by the new Canadian National Coast Steamships liner, Prince George, now nearing completion at Yarrow's in Esquimalt, will be marked by a suitable welcome for which the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce is now making plans. An appropriate presentation will be made to Capt. E. B. Caldwell, who has been appointed skipper of the vessel.

The Prince George is due here June 21 on her initial voyage in the Alaska tourist service but may be here earlier than that with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce on a special charter cruise.

Halibut Closure to Effect Employment

The number of unemployed at Prince Rupert is possibly no greater than usual at this season although the stopping of halibut fishing June 1 has caused an impression that work will not be so readily found. There are a good many strangers in town and, of these, a proportion are from the prairie provinces.

NOVA SCOTIA GIRL BRIDE

St. Andrew's Cathedral was the scene of a pretty double ring ceremony recently when Helen Doris MacLeod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. MacLeod, Antigonish, Nova Scotia, became the bride of L/S/A Charles Tyne Stokoe, R.C.N., son of the late Mr. Stokoe and Mrs. Stokoe of Monitor, Alta. Rev. Basil S. Prockter officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by Charles McNab, was radiant in her gown of white brocaded taffeta with a sweetheart neckline, adorned by three strands of pearls, the gift of the groom. Her floor length veil was held in place by a garland of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Marjorie Bryan, the bride's only attendant, wore a red rose taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of iris and pink carnations.

R. A. Gordon Hay R.C.N., was groomsman with Stokers James Fraser and Donald Stewart as ushers.

Mr. Prockter proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held at the Navy canteen, H.M. C.S. Chatham. Following the reception the happy couple left for a honeymoon in Massett aboard the Coquitlam.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokoe will make their home in Prince Rupert.

Col. J. L. Ralston, who served as a Minister of Defence in the second great war and whose funeral was held Tuesday in Montreal, made a brief visit to Prince Rupert during the early stages of the war with Japan. Col. Ralston was making a tour of the coast at the time.

Local Flowers Score In Edinburgh Show

Two-tone delphiniums grown from seed sent to the Old Country by Arthur Bayne, Alfred Street nurseryman, captured first honors in a flower show in Edinburgh. Mr. Bayne has been advised. They were an odd hybrid variety with rose petals and baby blue centres. They were sent by Mr. Bayne to friends with no idea of their show possibilities. However, he was naturally gratified to know that Prince Rupert grown seed should win such recognition.

MEN'S FASTBALL ON WEDNESDAY

This evening has been set for the opening game in the Men's Fastball League for the current season.

Commission Chairman Staff Sergeant Johnson will be on hand to officially open the season and will possibly throw out the first ball.

The playing field has been renovated and some necessary repairs made to the backstop and everything is in readiness for the opening of the six-team league.

After all preliminary opening features the piece de resistance will be a league game between Angelo Astoria's Co-op nine and Don Nixon's Canadian National Recreation Association team. Both these teams claim to be ready to field stronger line-ups than they did last year and both sides are confident of starting the season with a win.

Gordon and Anderson meet 99 Taxi in the second game of the season on Saturday evening and games will then be played every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

At the last meeting of the commission with all team representatives it was decided to put into operation a new idea in regard to the umpires for all games this season. The new plan, endorsed by all teams, is to make the home team for each game responsible for providing one umpire and the visiting team the second. All umpires must be approved by all teams in the league and must be able to officiate behind the plate or on the bases.

This puts the onus of responsibility for choice of arbiters on the teams playing. One important stipulation was made to this ruling which is that any umpire used must be one who has been approved as an official by the league which includes the managers of all teams in the league.

A partial list of already approved umpires for the current season includes the names of Johnny Comadina, Alex Bill, Benny Windle, Wally Landon and Neil Ross.

SAVOYS TAKE INITIAL GAME OF CITY BASEBALL SCHEDULE

SAVOY 7, MOOSE 6

First game of the 1948 baseball schedule opened at Roosevelt Park last night with Savoy, sparked by Jack Sharpe on the mound, defeating their ancient rivals the Moose by a score of 7-6.

If the first game is an indication of the type of baseball to be played in the three-team league this summer, fans can expect an interesting season on the bleachers. League authorities have apparently arranged the teams evenly enough to provide strenuous competition.

Moose, in a manner reminiscent of last season, drew first blood by scoring heavily in the first two innings but were overcome by a fifth-inning Savoy rally which the lodge brothers brought on themselves by an error.

The opening inning saw Shier, a youthful veteran of last season, get on base on a fielder's error and score off a hit by Benny Windle. Lorne Vanetta, a newcomer to the city league, clouted a single and was brought home by Warren on a fielder's choice play.

Savoy remained scoreless during the first inning, but brought in a run in the second when they got on base on a third-strike catcher's error and made the circuit.

Savoy scored again in the third. Pavlikis clouted a single and was brought home by Davis. The second inning was Moose's—and Shortstop Benny Windle's big inning. Benny clouted a two-bagger that scored three runs—Shier, McKinnon and Vanetta. Moose remained scoreless from

DRAMA GROUPS MUST EARN FINANCIAL AID

Writer-Director Says Canadian Theatre Movement To be Successful Must be Built "The Hard Way"
TORONTO, (C)—A subsidized national theatre and regular pay for semi-professional actors would help Canadian drama along immeasurably, but one of its warmest advocates feels these steps alone wouldn't be enough.

Raymond Card of Toronto, whose writings and directing efforts won him one of seven Canadian Drama Awards in 1947, says drama, like any other art, must be built "the hard way," starting spontaneously with a small group of enthusiasts. The financial support from government or private individuals—comes later.

"It would only hinder the growth of true art to subsidize people who have not contributed anything worthy and the right sort of drama would not necessarily be produced if the government offered to build a theatre in every community," said Mr. Card, president of the Shakespearean Club of Toronto.

Eventually community theatres are necessary and both actors and directors should be paid, but only after they have proved themselves. "Acting is a full-time job and it takes a lifetime to become proficient at it," said Mr. Card. "It should be paid if Canada is going to reach the heights of dramatic greatness."

Generally, a colony of artists was most likely to initiate the necessary enthusiasm to start a dramatic movement in a community. Once the leaders appeared the rest was comparatively easy.

"All art requires leisure, and you'll find it more highly developed in the older portions of the country," he said. He pointed to Quebec as a province which takes its drama seriously, mainly because it has settled down to community life.

"Until the First World War, original Canadian drama was almost entirely limited to cowboy and Indian stories, with scattered efforts at dramatizing the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Now the trend in Canadian playwriting was more pronounced and often veered toward comedy "which is actually harder to write than a serious play."

FRONT YARD PATIO NOVEL IDEA FOR MODERN HOUSE

A modern treatment of the landscape planting around this modern home, expands the walk to the front door into the dimensions of a paved terrace.

In the center of the terrace is planted a small tree, of the flowering crab, or hawthorne type, which will produce a beautiful display of bloom each spring, and provide shade the rest of the year, while never growing so large as to dwarf the house.

Against the walls of the house are broad border plantings of dwarf annual flowers. While annual chrysanthemums are suggested by the artist to fill the beds, with a ribbon of dwarf ageratum to edge them, there are many other annuals which could be used.

Like most of these new houses in this day the lines of this one are severely plain, depending on good design and correct proportion for a pleasing effect. The flowers should harmonize with the coloring of the house, preferably in harmonious contrast with the walls.

Against grey walls, bright pink or red flowers, bordered with white alyssum would be striking. The red could be obtained with lilliput zinnias celosia, petunias, or scarlet salvia.

If the walls are cream, or buff, dark blue-purple beds would be attractive such as could be obtained from balcony blue, or elk's pride petunias bordered with a dwarf marigold of the harmony type.

Against white walls, a pink flower bed would be harmonious such as could be planted with pompon asters, annual pinks, or small flowered pink petunias.

Annual chrysanthemums have both single and double flowers. The singles have a dark center, surrounded by a zone of color different from petals. Purple, scarlet, orange, rose, yellow and white are included. They are late in flowering, but once started the flowers continue until frost kills the plants.

RARE DAFFS GROWN HERE

F. J. Fuller, First Avenue, has succeeded in growing to beautiful blossom the "Mrs. Backhouse" daffodil, which is new and rare in these parts. Two of the delicate blooms, with light pink trumpets and white petals, he brought into the Daily News office yesterday. Mr. Fuller's attention was first drawn to the "Mrs. Backhouse" daffodil through having seen that they took first prize in a London Horticultural Society show. He has four bulbs, each with eight blooms.

Mr. Fuller has also raised successfully the Beershaba type of daffodil, also not often seen here, eight blooms issuing from one bulb. These open in a cream shade and later turn white.

ADVANCES IN CANCER FIGHT

Advances that are being made in the campaign against cancer along educational, research and therapeutic lines were reviewed at a meeting in the Civic Centre Monday evening by Dr. John Ganshorn, Vancouver cancer specialist, and Rex C. Bell, executive secretary of the Canadian Cancer Society for British Columbia.

Particularly gratifying, said Dr. Ganshorn, was the growing realization of the importance of early diagnosis and treatment of cancer. As a result, an ever-increasing number of cures was being achieved through x-ray, radium and surgical treatment. Hope was expressed that new treatments might be opened up through development in the field of atomic research and radioactivity.

Optimistic mention was made by Dr. Ganshorn of a new radiotherapy treatment for cancer now under study by Dr. Ivan C. Tchaperoff, radiologist at St. Joseph's Hospital, Victoria.

The importance of being on guard against the wiles of quacks, such as John Braund of Australia, who could cause loss of vital time through deferment of legitimate treatment, was stressed by Dr. Ganshorn. There was still to be kept up in the campaign against cancer the fight against fear, ignorance and superstition.

"Cancer," declared Dr. Ganshorn, "is a treacherous thing. Usually it starts with some little thing which is seldom painful. Always be watchful of and seek early treatment of sores that do not heal up, particularly around tongue, mouth and lip, painless lumps and irregular bleeding, increase in size or change in color of warts, moles and birthmarks, persistent indigestion, difficulty in swallowing. The percentage of cures is steadily increasing with early treatment."

Mr. Bell spoke of the organization now engaged in the fight against cancer and what, through a steady building up of funds, was being accomplished by the Canadian Cancer Society in the way of public education, the National Cancer Society, in research, and hospitals, clinics and foundations in the work of treatment. These were the national organizations. In British Columbia there were the British Columbia Cancer Foundation and the British Columbia Cancer Institute. Order of the Eastern Star, Rebekahs and Daughters of the Empire were assisting invaluably in auxiliary work such as the making of dresses and the raising of funds to assist needy patients in obtaining treatment.

An accomplishment of the past year had been the opening up of the fine new $50,000 cancer clinic at Vancouver.

During a discussion period which preceded the close of Monday night's meeting, Dr. Ganshorn conceded that there appeared to be more incidence of cancer now than previously but he accounted for this in the fact that people were living to a greater average age now than before and also to the fact that there was more and earlier diagnosis today.

Mrs. J. D. Fraser, president of the local cancer society, presided over Monday night's meeting.

Mining Corporation Executive on Visit

ALICE ARM—Executive of the Mining Corporation of Canada, J. H. Paterson of Toronto arrived here at the first of the week aboard the Cardena to pay a visit of inspection to the Torbrit mining property where mill construction is now under way by the Northwest Construction Co. Mining Corporation controls Torbrit which is now the largest new mining development on the north coast of British Columbia.

SKIS OF AUSSIE WOOD

CANBERRA—Recent tests have shown that some Australian timber is suitable for skis. Such species of wood as mountain ash, brown stringy-bark and blackwood are comparable to hickory in density, toughness, stiffness and hardness.

City Merchants

City merchants are asked in future to have copy for all display advertisements into the Daily News office by 4 p.m. of the day previous to their publication.

This co-operation will greatly assist the mechanical department in keeping to the regular hour for publication.

HER HE-MAN "HUSBAND" IS A SHE—Vida Lorene Danner (left) and her "husband," who looks like a big strapping hunk of a man, are shown together after they were taken into custody by Fresno, Calif., police on a charge of vagrancy following discovery that the couple who lived together for the past more than four years are both girls. The "husband," who worked as a cook in a local restaurant, was known as Carl Devine. The Carl should have been Cora. Vida worked in a tavern as Mrs. Carl Devine.

What City Council Did

... Learned that the finance committee is continuing its study of the possibility of financing the installation of a new $250,000 telephone system and will report as soon as a definite conclusion is reached.

... On recommendation of the finance committee, approved the appointment of R. W. Long as Acting City Clerk in the absence of City Clerk H. D. Thain who is leaving tomorrow night for a trip to Trail and Nelson.

... Approved the following sales of city-owned property as reported by the finance committee:

Lot 24, block 37, section 5, (Ninth Avenue West) to William A. Pilfold sr. for $325.
East half of Lot 27, block 9, section 5 (Sixth Avenue West), to Roy Boychuk for $200.

Lots 9 and 10, block 22, section 1 (Corner Fifth Street and Second Avenue) to David G. Stenstrom for $2,850.

... Approved a board of works report that the City Engineer has been authorized to repair the intake on the waterline from Shawatians Lake to the old pumping station which is being repaired for stand-by use.

... Adopted a board of works recommendation that two city trucks, a 3/4-ton Dodge and a 2-ton Ford be traded in for a new 3-ton Ford truck. The additional balance payable by the city would be $1,677.

... Gave first reading to a bylaw permitting the amendment of the Trade License bylaw to provide that busses travelling exclusively on inter-municipal routes be charged $20 for every six months period, instead of $40 as formerly. The reduction was requested by the licensing committee because it was felt that such busses do not use city streets as much as busses travelling wholly within the city.

... Moved acknowledgement of the gift of a patchwork quilt donated for the Pioneer Home by the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation.

... In reply to a query by Alderman Casey, City Clerk Thain reported that in its efforts to dispose of the former Seal Cove School, the city must get permission of the provincial government since the crown grant for the site restricted it to school purposes only. However, Mr. Thain felt that it might be possible to obtain authority from the government to dispose of the building.

... Heard Alderman Casey castigate Alderman Brooksbank for "misinforming the council in the matter of the liquor interdiction of residents of the Pioneer Home. According to Alderman Casey, Alderman Brooksbank, chairman of the Pioneer Home committee, had informed council that the interdiction imposed last winter, could not be lifted for six months. Alderman Casey said that he had learned otherwise, that it could be lifted at the discretion of the police magistrate. City Clerk Thain, who was charged with having the interdiction lifted, said that he would see to it immediately.

... Tabled for further information the city's agreement with the Civic Employees Union which is based on settlement reached in Vancouver. Details of the

MAY DAY MINUTES

"Grass Widow" made a hit in the parade. In fact the judges allotted the costume wearer a prize but W. Griffiths, who was behind the dark glasses and within the green grass skirt, calculated he was a bit old for the competitions and turned the award back.

Robert Irvine, J. G. Bateman, and E. D. Anderson were a great help in assisting the sports committee run off the boys' and girls' races. There were other volunteers too including several of the fair sex who helped with refreshments.

Retiring Queen Alice Nickerson charmingly discharged her "royal" duties although she still requires the assistance of crutches when walking.

Benny Windle and Louie Van Pykstra clowning their way right into the hearts of the kiddies with their mad capers. The two clowns were in practically every race and, although they permitted themselves a good head start, they gathered nothing better than consolation prizes.

A unique feature of the King Edward School car was a mechanical merry-go-round sign designed by Joe Goscoe.

Older boys and girls seemed reluctant to display their speeds and, as a consequence, five relay races were cancelled due to the lack of sufficient teams. The prizes were turned over to the schools so that contests may be held at a later date.

During the latter hours of the dance Mel Skallmerud, a member of Sammy McCaig's orchestra, had a shocking experience when he put a hand on the metal microphone while holding his electric guitar in the other.

KUCHING, Sarawak—The government is constructing a fleet of floating dressing stations to provide hospital services in this virtually roadless, heavily jungled country. Rivers offer the only means of travel in the interior.
