GOOD NEWS AND BAD—
Skeena Member Reports To Chamber of Commerce

Groundhog Coal Development Far Off—Warehouse Out of Defence Plans—Aluminum Sure—Dry Dock Turned Over

E. T. Applewhaite, M.P. for Skeena, giving an account at last night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce on recent developments at Ottawa pertaining to Prince Rupert, mixed bad news with good and started off with the bad news. It was in regard to the Groundhog coal field development which Mr. Applewhaite said, without elaborating owing to his information being confidential, could not be expected to be "an economic factor within our lifetime."

In the matter of the Tugwell Island air field project, Mr. Applewhaite said even the minister of transport had been impressed after a meeting with Grant MacConachie of Canadian Pacific Air Lines and that the outlook appeared favorable.

The Skeena member said he had received the impression that every grain elevator in the country would be pressed into service this winter. He suggested that the Chamber communicate with Minister of Trade and Commerce C. D. Howe.

Short of war, Mr. Applewhaite expressed certainty, after meeting Vice-President McNeely Dubose of the Aluminum Co. of Canada, that the enormous project for this area was "absolutely OK." However, it was a long term undertaking and preparations might seem slow.

Turning to the former United States warehouse on the local waterfront, Mr. Applewhaite declared it seemed "definitely out" as far as the Department of National Defence or the Joint Defence Board was concerned. They had not been convinced of its necessity. Mr. Applewhaite admitted, however, that there was still the possibility of some civilian use. (Meantime demolition of the big building continues.)

Plans and specifications for the level railway crossing to the Fairview fishermen's flats had been received at Ottawa October 24 for checking and the member anticipated that tenders would be called within a few weeks.

Street mail delivery and other postal matters were being considered, Mr. Applewhaite said. If the mail delivery were instituted, he supposed it would be on April 1.

Murray Is Enthusiastic

Cariboo Member Sees Dreams of G.T.P. Founders Now Coming True

The year 1950 appeared to be seeing at long last a realization of the original hopes and ambitions of such men as Laurier and Hays for the port of Prince Rupert, it was suggested to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce at its dinner last night by George Murray, M.P. for Cariboo, who was one of the evening's guests. The dreams of these men he confidently predicted, would be fully realized within the lifetime of the young men of today.

Mr. Murray alluded to new developments in mining and timbering as evidenced respectively by the coming to life of silver mining and the great cellulose plant at Prince Rupert. The future of the farming industry was also due to be realized.

The Cariboo member looked to the day not too far distant in the future when there would be three trains a day rather than three trains a week running into Prince Rupert.

Mr. Murray also foresaw the port of Prince Rupert soon playing a full part in the shipment of wheat and food to the Orient instead of thinking of war and guns.

The Cariboo member referred to the happy manner in which he and E. T. Applewhaite, the member for Skeena, were able to work together at Ottawa. They operated on the understanding that what benefitted one riding must benefit the other. He paid tribute to the effectiveness of representation that Mr. Applewhaite was giving his constituents at Ottawa.

Department of Transport was still working on the matter of the International Load Line with a view to bringing Prince Rupert onto a parity with Vancouver, the member said. (The port committee had earlier presented a report to the meeting urging that this matter be pursued in view of the possibility of grain shipping being resumed here.)

ALASKA DEFENCES
WASHINGTON — Sen. Hunt (Dem-Wyo.) said today the Alaska defences are in "good shape" and he sees no need for any immediate strengthening there of either air or ground forces. But military housing, he said, is in sad shape. Some American personnel are living in structures people from other countries "wouldn't use for hog houses."

KILLS BLACKMAILERS
MUNCIE, Indiana — A prominent physician, Dr. Jules F. Le Duron, told police he shot two men to death because they had blackmailed him. Killed were Sibert Louis Carter, 27, and his brother, Ralph Winfield Carter, 35. Dr. La Duron told a reporter the brothers had been blackmailing him since his first wife disappeared 13 years ago.

BENTLEY TAKES LEAD
MONTREAL — Smooth play-making Max Bentley of the Toronto Maple Leafs today stands at the top of the National Hockey League scoring parade. The veteran centre last week collected six points to take over first place with 14 points—four goals and 10 assists. Montreal Canadiens' Maurice Richard, leader since the start of the season, is one point behind Bentley.

B.C. Budget Hits Record

VICTORIA — The British Columbia budget may break all records for expenditure, it was reported yesterday. The trend of revenues it is also reported, indicates that the budget can be expanded slightly without any taxation increase.

Chinese Communists May Plan New Attack

Important Reservoir Seems Prime Centre of Attention—Withdrawal Perplexes

SEOUL (CP)—United Nations forces expanded their slim bridgehead north of the Chongchon River today as some Communists mysteriously withdrew on the northwest Korean war front.

Two United States 24th Division regiments and a British Commonwealth brigade moved ahead 2½ miles after a heavy air bombing in the Pakchon area, northwest of the bridgehead at Anju. There was little opposition on this front although Red concentrations had applied heavy pressure as late as Monday.

Board Hears Two Members

Applewhaite and Murray At Chamber of Commerce—Highway Situation, City Managership Aired

Two federal members of Parliament—E. T. Applewhaite, Skeena, and George Murray, Cariboo—were in attendance and spoke to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce at its monthly dinner meeting last night and, in addition, the meeting dealt with a good deal of business of public importance. In the absence of President L. M. Felsenthal, Vice-President J. C. Gilker occupied the chair.

The general business included a report from Hugo Kraupner on the condition of the highway between Miller Bay Hospital and Oliver Lake over which there has been a good deal of discontent lately as reconstruction work slowly proceeds. Mr. Kraupner, who informed the Chamber that the contractors blamed government plan of doing the work for the trouble, stated that such trouble would continue for the next ten days and it would be advisable for all unnecessary traffic to refrain from using the road. The contractors expected to definitely have the work completed by December 10. At the suggestion of W. J. Scott, who thought there should be a thorough investigation to determine just who was to blame, the highway committee was instructed to inter-

Premier Talks Preparedness

OTTAWA — Prime Minister L. St. Laurent said last night that military preparedness is likely to be one of Canada's main problems "for a good many years to come."

At the same time steps taken by the United Nations to meet Communists in Korea were "strengthening the chances of preventing aggression elsewhere, provided we do not relax our efforts."

In an address to the annual conference of the Canadian Exporters' Association, Mr. St. Laurent said the only hope for security for the world "in the near future" is in the building up of armed strength sufficient to deter aggression.

1950 off-year elections taking place today mark another chapter in the saga of "Petticoat Politics."

Candidates of the two major parties—Republican and Democrat—are contesting for membership in the House of Representatives. Candidates of minor parties total 42, four in 1948—last election.

Frohmler, 59-year-old, is a strong candidate for the chair. Should she win, she would be the only woman to head a United States government in the country.

Mrs. Frohmler, auditor of Arizona—she is a Democratic state. Her nomination is handled by Dan A. Garvey and member of the house.

Harless, Her Republicanism is Howard Pyle, a radio executive.

Here For Neighborhood Meet

Neighborhood meetings headed by M.L.A., left Prince Rupert today for a meeting of the Native Brotherhood to discuss the amendment to the Indian Act, Bill 267. Mr. Ed Bolton has just returned from a tour of the Skeena and Naas valleys, where he got the opinions of natives on the proposed changes. Main points will be for taking Indians into citizenship in Canada. Matters concern retention of Indian claims, clearer definition of who are Indians and protection for them.

Attendees from this district: Frank Calder, Ed Bolton, Russ, Tom Gosnell and Sinclair.

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and northern and central British Columbia...

As Others See Us

IT TAKES the outsiders to appreciate the importance of things that are going on around Prince Rupert these days and to conjure up the effect of such events.

We think of two visitors we interviewed during recent days—George Schneider of New York, vice-president of Cellanese Corporation of America, and George Murray of Fort St. John, M.P. for Cariboo.

Coming from widely separated points and with distinctly divergent interests, both were impressed and enthusiastic about Prince Rupert.

Here in Prince Rupert we ourselves appear to be very complacent and smug. Very few of us appear to be gearing ourselves and our affairs to a new era of size, population and business expansion which is developing every day.

Times are good and improving in Prince Rupert. We are rapidly passing the good old small town days. It is necessary that we should keep pace with the changing conditions which bring new problems that must be handled differently and with a new outlook.

WRONG HIGHWAY ROUTE

A NOTICE read at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night from the Government Travel Bureau announced that the Big Bend Highway was being closed for the winter and would remain closed until May 22.

Whether the Big Bend Highway stays open or not may make little difference to Prince Rupert and it might be asked who are we to criticize. Nor is the primary mistake the closing of the highway at this time.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT THE PRICE OF MILK

ACCORDING TO the B.C. Prices Institute, harassed housewives can take a tip from Old Mother Nature.

There is a greater value in milk from cows kept out on the grass from mid-April till mid-November than in the milk from cows kept in the barn all winter and fed on dried farm produce.

THE INSTITUTE supplies a table of the comparative cost of various common foods, including fluid milk.

Table listing prices per 100 calories for various food items like rolled oats, corn meal, bread, etc.

The B.C. Prices Institute supplies a free monthly shopping letter on request to St. James B.C.

I HAVE never believed in bit-and-piece price, wage and profit control. I can't see any sense in having agencies like milk boards to set compulsory selling prices when so many of the things go into the final price are not fixed.

We in North America live under a system which tells the world that it is "free enterprise." But where is the freedom? Most of the things we buy or sell are governed by open or secret price fixing arrangements which nullify the so-called "law" of supply and demand.

We have milk boards which order price increases, even though the organization representing the majority of milk producers opposes such an increase, and shows that the increase will hit the farmer as hard as it hits the consumer.

Where the government itself is not only in the picture, we often have secret price fixing combines, as recently revealed by the Combines Commissioner for bread and glass.

Between the primary producer and the ultimate consumer there stand a whole army of toll-gate collectors who succeed in protecting their own position and profits, come what may.

I NOTICED that in the recent price boost of milk in Vancouver it was shown that half the price of what we pay for milk goes to the cow, the farmer, the farmer's family. The other half goes to the distributors who get the milk from the farm to the city table!

Could it be that there are just too many of these for the job they do?

Wolfe Tray Goes To Ontario Museum

TORONTO — A tray fashioned from silverplate that once belonged to Maj.-Gen. James Wolfe, who captured Canada from the French in 1759, has been presented to the Royal Ontario Museum.

It was commissioned in 1836 by Gen. Wolfe's nephew, who had inherited part of the general's silver. Some of the pieces were in need of repair and others were not in use at the time, the nephew decided to have them all melted and made into a single piece that would commemorate the general's victory on the Plains of Abraham.

The tray found its way into the hands of Mrs. F. N. G. Starr of Toronto. She and her late husband bought it on their 25th wedding anniversary with the thought of one day making it

Hold the Bridge Family Tradition

CANTIC, Quebec — When it comes to holding the bridge, old Horatius should take a back seat to the McGee family in this village 45 miles south of Montreal.

As operators of the swing equipment, the McGees hold the Canadian National Railway's swing bridge across the Richelieu here. Even the railway officials call it "McGee's Bridge," though officially it's the Richelieu Bridge.

Jim McGee, now 94, took over the span in 1898. He was succeeded by his son D'Arcy, recently retired at 65. Brother Charles followed but when he retires in 13 years there will be no new McGee to take over the job. Old Jim's other two sons deserted the bridge job, one for the United States and the other for a position as foreman of the CNR's Turot yards.

Interest In Bridge Club

The Civic Centre Bridge Club, which was threatened with suspension on account of lack of interest, has taken on a new lease of life. Last Friday evening revival of interest was indicated by the fact that six tables were in play.

Prize-winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. A. H. Silversides; consolation, Mrs. M. J. Dougherty; men's first, Mrs. J. C. Allen; consolation, Mrs. E. T. Applewhite.

With members taking turns in convening the parties, the next one will be in charge of Mrs. R. E. Moore.

Bootleg Hats Paris Secret

PARIS Reuters—"Bootlegged" hats are a secret of Paris millinery circles. They're on sale only to those who know their way around the Paris fashion underworld.

The first step is to obtain the address of a good hat-bootlegger—a rare bird because she must have a quick eye, clever hands and many friends.

Then the inevitable climb up flight after flight of stairs to the door which hides a woman's paradise. An eye appears at a peep-hole. Credentials are checked, more closely than if you were being admitted to the vaults at Fort Knox.

Once inside, it is a "prix unique" (one price) system—5,000 francs ($14) for any hat. But the choice includes the latest models from the leading milliners. If you have your heart set on a little Dior or a wonderful Legroux number which has tempted you, there it is—for 5,000 francs instead of the 20,000 francs which caused you to quail at the thought of your husband's reception of the bill.

A careful explanation to Madame Bootlegger suffices. She knows every hat in town and is capable of copying it so exactly that even its creator would be mistaken.

Officers Are Nominated

Nomination of officers for the election in December formed the greater part of the business handled last week at the November meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion. Mrs. G. V. Hanley and Mrs. Twaites were appointed nominating committee.

Two new members were initiated, the last of the year. No more applications will be considered until January.

Reports from the east and west sick committees were heard. Committee chairmen for Legion Week reported all events were in hand. Mrs. W. McKenzie was appointed delegate to the film council. Mrs. Elsie Anderson will be convener for the Christmas tree. New sick committees are—east, Mrs. Adelman and Mrs. Pat Anderson; west, Mrs. Skinner and Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Hanley reported on the card parties held in October. Mrs. Keays' group will look after the November card parties. A letter from Provincial Command concerning scholarships was tabled.

The monthly raffle was won by Mrs. Dorothy Keehn.

Enthusiastic About Mine

STEWART — John Howland, owner of the Unicorn group of mineral claims situated in the upper Salmon River area, has left for his home in Seattle. He is still enthusiastic over the possibilities of his group of claims and states that development work this season has more than justified his faith in the ultimate outcome of the property. He will be back next year to prosecute further development work.

Blackwood On Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

If you don't know Miss Lucy Brash, I'll bet you know someone like her. She's middle-aged and a spinster. She's jolly and popular. She's optimistic. She's VERY optimistic at the bridge table.

Miss Brash loves to bid—"What's the fun of playing if you can't bid?" Now and then she will pass her partner's cue-bid because—"I just didn't have a thing." But if she does have a few good cards (she doesn't need many), brother, you are really off to the races. South dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

North (Miss Brash)	South (Mr. Champion)
S-J 9 6 4	S-A Q 10 8 7
H-9 4 3	H-A 6 5
D-K J 6 5	D-8 4
C-9 7	C-A Q 6

There is an important point in today's hand. It comes up frequently. Mr. Champion opened the bidding on the South cards with one spade. Now if Mr. Abel passed, Miss Brash would be perfectly justified in raising to two spades.

This would be a chance raise, sometimes called a courtesy raise. It gives partner a chance to bid again. He may be just a queen short of an opening forcing two-bid and if he is, then game is a moral certainty, even opposite Miss Brash's modest holding.

But note that Mr. Abel did not pass. He overcalled the opening spade bid with two hearts. Now it is not necessary (or desirable) for the North hand to "stretch" for a spade raise. The overall automatically gives Mr. Champion another chance to bid if he wishes to do so.

As a matter of fact, a single raise of partner's suit, given after a special meaning. It means, "Partner, I am not stretching my cards. I have a good, sound raise."

Mr. Champion read that meaning into Miss Brash's bid today. He had well over a minimum opening and if his partner had a free raise, there should be a good play for game. So he jumped straight to four spades.

When the dummy went down, Mr. Champion let out a roar that shook the window panes. Mr. Abel's opening lead was the king of hearts and Mr. Champion won with the ace. He led a small diamond and when Mr. Abel played low he went right up with dummy's king. The right play, as usual.

Now the nine of spades was led off the board and permitted to ride. Mr. Abel won with the king, cashed the queen and jack of hearts and then led the ace of diamonds for the setting trick.

Remember—don't give your partner a "chance" when he doesn't need it.

LETTERBOX

HAVE DONE GOOD JOB

Editor, Daily News:
I would like to comment on Mill Opening in your issue of November 4th.

Your reference to the construction workers is, I feel, unfortunate. These men have done a tremendous job under most difficult circumstances and certainly any operation of the mill in the future will be entirely dependent upon the good work that they have done in the past.

W. C. R. Jones,
Mill Manager

NOT UNWORTHY

Editor, Daily News:
I am very concerned with the editorial entitled "Pulp Mill Opening" published in your paper Saturday, November 4, 1950.

To say the least, we were surprised to read that as "Constructionists" we are undesirable people, this by inference, if not a direct statement. It would seem that a small noisy minority has so impressed you, that you have concluded that all on construction are unworthy citizens. We take strong exception to this thinking and would like to have you consider the fact that many on the construction personnel will be transferred at a future date to production.

I would appreciate it if you would publish this letter. The ideas expressed in your editorial do not represent the thinking of anyone in an official capacity in this company.

COLUMBIA CELLULOSE CO. LTD.
C. H. Klotz,
Project Engineer.

(The editor certainly had no intention of reflecting upon the construction personnel as a whole, those holding responsible positions or those of the construction personnel who are deemed worthy of being transferred at a future date to production. We had certainly no intention of including all the "constructionists" with the "small noisy minority.")

After all he may know a basketball from a melon. ight Doc Montgomery will himself all excited again over ew entry in the senior divi- sponsored by Gordon and erson. The Doc has been gh these first nighters in er centers than this many e before but I am willing to er that he will be just as e before whistle time tonight has ever been. You see, the is just that way. In his first here, he broke in with a d that had been used to discipline and after an in- erent season we were much d that the popular little fighter was going to hang up the whistle. He didn't and we are happy to report so—it's nice to have men with his background around.

Gordon and Anderson look as though they are going to be the weak sister in this three-team set-up this year, due simply to the fact that they lack experience in many respects and will take a while to get used to themselves. Rupe Holkestad and Jim Flaten appear to be the backbone of the young club but from there out it will be youth and fight only. Big Bob Gill could prove himself with them, however, as he will be called upon to do most of the tough rebounding against the tall lads on the other two teams. He will have help from youthful Steve Dumas, who will definitely take a little time before he gains the experience needed to get around men like Beynon, Davis and Morgan.

Co-Op, who oppose Gordon and Anderson this evening, are very happy over their first win over the Brownwoods Club. They were a bit concerned when they looked at the line-up Alex Bill threw at them and, for my money, Brownwoods appeared to have an edge. I must admit, however, that Joe Davis amazed me the way he travelled through the game and Beynon, for that matter, was sensational—avoir-dupois and all.

Tonight could easily see the Fishmen take a two-game lead in the league race by winning handily due to depth of strength and experience but we'll probably change our tune as the season progresses—remember Bo-Me-Hi and their youth and inexperience and what they did when they got rolling.

New Sawmill At Metlakatla

Alaska Village Also Getting New Hydro Plant

JUNEAU.—Metlakatla's new mill will be ready to start sawing lumber in about a month's time, according to George Sundborg, Alaska Development Board consultant, who has just returned to Juneau from a trip to the Annette Island community.

The mill, built by the Metlakatla community, will be able to produce 100 thousand feet of lumber per day, making it one of the most productive mills in the territory.

Progress is also being made, Sundborg said, toward obtaining a new hydro-electric power plant on the island with R.E.A. assistance.

Sundborg accompanied a party of Corps of Engineers officials to Metlakatla to discuss with Mayor John Smith and others preliminary plans for a break-water which would permit residents to keep their boats at Metlakatla instead of mooring them at Ketchikan as is now the practice.

IT'S A RECORD—Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones, so nicknamed for his ability to plunge while playing with the Cleveland Browns, has set an all-time individual record for the Big Four by scoring 102 points to date this season with Hamilton Tiger-Cats. Jones, who tips the scales at 210 pounds and is 30 years old, is a triple threat back. (CP PHOTO)

The fish packer W. R. Lord of Prince Rupert ran ground in the north arm of the Fraser River last week, as a result of fog. The vessel, which had eighty tons of herring aboard, was soon refloated, with no damage of consequence.

campaign received a boost from Vice-President Alben Barkley on his recent political visit to California. Her opponent, Richard M. Nixon, well-known Republican, was an active member of the House un-American Activities committee. His supporters claim that he is a "sure" victor.

The only other woman running for the senate is Lillian R. Narins, Progressive party standard bearer in Pennsylvania. Observers give her little chance of election.

ONE WOMAN IN SENATE
The only woman senator at present is Republican Margaret Chase Smith, a white-haired business executive from Maine. She was a member of the house before she was elected to the senate in 1948. She does not come up for re-election until 1954.

Seven of the nine women now in the house seek re-election. They are: Mrs. Chase Goings Woodhouse (Dem. Conn.); Mrs. Cecil M. Harden (Rep. Ind.); Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (Rep. Mass.); Mrs. Edna P. Kelly (Dem. N.Y.); Mrs. Katharine St. George (Rep. N.Y.); Mrs. Frances P. Bolton (Rep. O.); and Mrs. Reva Beck Bosome (Dem. Utah).

Mrs. Mary T. Norton, New Jersey Democrat and veteran of 22 years in the house, is not seeking re-election because of ill health. Of the 16 candidates for the house put up by the major parties this year, eight are Republican and eight are Democrat. In the 1948 election there were 10 Democrats (one less than in 1946) and five Republicans (one more than in 1946).

The first woman was elected to the house in 1916—Miss Jennette Rankin, a Republican from Montana. Since then 47 women have been appointed or elected to Congress—seven to the senate and 40 to the house. Nineteen were Republicans, 28 Democrats.

Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Democrat, was the first woman governor. She was elected Governor of Wyoming—the first state to give the vote to women—in 1925. The only other feminine governor was Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson who finished a two-year term in Texas 15 years ago.

Victoria Report

Sniping Between Coalitionists — Johnson Worried About Conference

VICTORIA—The Coalition boat continues to pitch and roll in an ugly sea and one wonders how much longer it can remain afloat.

Finance Minister Anscomb and Attorney General Wismer are at it once more—this time about the single transferable vote. Mr. Wismer said at the recent Harrison convention of Young Liberals that the government would bring in the single transferable vote. A few nights later Mr. Anscomb got up at an Oak Bay Conservative meeting and said Mr. Wismer had no business making announcements like that for the government.

Mr. Wismer didn't say anything about Herb Anscomb holding directorships in wine and brewing companies but there was a sideswipe about it when he said: "I'm in the government today because I desire to serve my country. And I quit my law business to give my full attention to the job of attorney general and also because it would place me in an embarrassing position to continue my business while in this public office."

The Victoria Colonist, long a supporter of Coalition, is fed up with the whole business. Editorially it said: "Perhaps nothing makes it more clear that the Coalition government has outlived its day than the public pot-shots being taken at one another by Finance Minister Anscomb and Attorney General Wismer. When cabinet ministers fall out it is time to take stock. Quite obviously the Coalition administration has become an uneasy partnership, with neither side trusting the other. Scoring off each other in public addresses may be amusing to those concerned but it reflects an unedifying state of affairs. When the day dawns that all three major groups (Liberal, Conservative and CCF) bid again separately for victory at the polls the political air will be refreshing clear again. At present it is too full of cabinet discord to be comforting."

Premier Johnson, too, is unhappy because the Dominion-Provincial conference on taxation matters in the east in early December may have to be held without him. He's still in a plaster cast in hospital and it will be some weeks yet before he's released.

If he can't attend, B.C.'s chief delegate will be Finance Minister Anscomb. Now, it's well known Mr. Anscomb isn't too well pleased with the deal given to B.C. by the Liberal government in Ottawa.

Liberals in the Coalition cabinet fear that if Anscomb is left on his own in Ottawa he may buck the federal representatives for purely political reasons—though this observer thinks that hardly likely.

So, all in all, it's easy to see that the Coalition boat has few placid seas any more and that shoals and rocky headlands are always just around the bend, and the least political puff could well blow the boat ashore.

It's an unhealthy state of affairs and with suspicion between two wings of one government there cannot be good government.

view both the public works department and the contractors and bring in a report at next meeting.

The question of city management for Prince Rupert came in for considerable discussion and met with a mixed reception. J. T. Harvey, for a special committee, which had been considering the matter for some time, presented a report and moved that the Chamber go on record as favoring the city manager form of government and co-operate with the city council in bringing it about. After Dr. L. M. Greene, Harold Whalen, G. R. S. Blackaby and G. P. Lyons had questioned the desirability of a city manager scheme as being undemocratic and possibly something that could not be afforded here, it was decided to have the matter gone into further by committee and bring the whole matter up to date with a report to be prepared and submitted to all members.

WATERFRONT ROAD

Among other matters to receive the attention of the board was the road between Cow Bay and dry dock which Joe Scott described as "the worst road in British Columbia" with the possible exception of the highway between city limits and Gallopway Rapids. It was reported that the Canadian National Railways had made funds available for this work to be carried out.

The Chamber, at the suggestion of Dr. L. M. Greene, asked the provincial government to live up to its undertaking in regard to arterial highway construction and maintenance in Prince Rupert.

Joe Scott had some criticism of the policy of the provincial government in asking the city to use up its materials and equipment in doing hard surfacing and such work. The city, he felt, has plenty of its own work to do without having more put on it by the government.

G. R. S. Blackaby complained at the Post Office lobbies being closed on holidays, particularly the box section at 6 p.m., thus preventing 2000 people from getting access to their boxes. The Chamber decided to look into the matter with a view to having changes made in this regard. It was also suggested that something might be done about improving the general appearance of the exterior and grounds at the Post Office.

Princess Anxious To Visit Canada

OXFORD, England, (P)—Princess Margaret wants to go to Canada and feels sure she will be able to do so in the next few years, says a Canadian who talked to her.

Dr. John Lowe, Calgary-born vice-chancellor of Oxford University, did a fox-trot with Princess Margaret at an Oxford dance. Afterwards, he told reporters the Princess had expressed a great interest in Canada. "She was confident she would be able to visit the Dominion in the next few years," Dr. Lowe said.

The Canadian educationist was at one time on the staff of Trinity College, Toronto.

The Festival of Britain, 1951 marks the centenary of the great Crystal Palace Exhibition.

IN 50 YEARS ALUMINUM HAS GROWN TO BE A LARGE PART OF CANADIAN LIVING

Toronto—First Aluminum-ware factory in Canada

Building the home for Wear-Ever

1950 is the fiftieth anniversary of the Wear-Ever line in Canada. These aluminum cooking utensils were introduced here at the beginning of the century. Their popularity grew so rapidly that, by 1912, a new factory was needed to supply the demand. This was built in Toronto. It was the first plant in Canada to make aluminum articles—and this was only a dozen years after the first Canadian smelter had started making aluminum ingots at Shawinigan Falls.

Today Alcan has twelve plants, all of them engaged in the aluminum industry, while more than 1000 independent companies across Canada shape the metal into all sorts of useful forms—from kettles to freight cars.
