OTTAWA (C)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today in the House of Commons that measures to fight inflation in Canada would be announced during the current special session. Helicopter Takes Tests

Carl C. Agar, president of Okanagan Air Service, owner of the helicopter that was flying over the city this morning, arrived in the city by plane from Vancouver yesterday. He was conducting test flights over the city this morning following an overhaul which the machine has been undergoing during the past ten days at Seal Cove. The helicopter has been in service in Northern British Columbia during the past summer carrying out topographical and photographic survey work for the provincial government.

Tuna School Off Charlottes Lost

The school of tuna, which has yielded over a half million pounds to Prince Rupert fishermen has been lost. Last reports were that it was from ten to 20 miles south and west of Tasu. Storms Thursday forced fishermen to keep to shelter, and the school has not been located since then.

The helicopter left this afternoon for the interior to continue its work north of Terrace and Smithers.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis
Another day of fine warm weather is in store for most of British Columbia and indications are that over the southern interior this fine weather will last through Sunday.

SEES DANGER

General Pearkes cites Prince Rupert as being wide open to Russian landing.

Ralph Campney, Liberal, Vancouver - Centre, did not think the situation was as serious as pictured by General Pearkes.

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and northern and central British Columbia...

Help the Army

In the columns of the Daily News today there appears the simple announcement by the local Chairman of the Salvation Army Red Shield Appeal...

The amount asked for is modest in proportion to the amount of work done. The Salvation Army workers are not highly paid and they practise great economies in every field of activity...

We are prone to forget at times that the dollars which go to Church and to such organizations as the Red Cross and The Salvation Army are as much shrunken in value in the market as are the ones we spend ourselves.

The Daily News heartily commends The Red Shield Appeal. Let us make sure that The Salvation Army can work for us another year and pay the bills it incurs in doing that work.

Incidentally, contributions may be left at the Daily News Office if it is more convenient.

LET'S SETTLE IT

Now that the other strikes are over, Prince Rupert can get along without straight freighter transportation to and from Vancouver for a time without too much hardship and inconvenience.

This complaint of the longshoremen against the Frank Waterhouse line is nothing new. It is well known they have been restless about it for a long time.

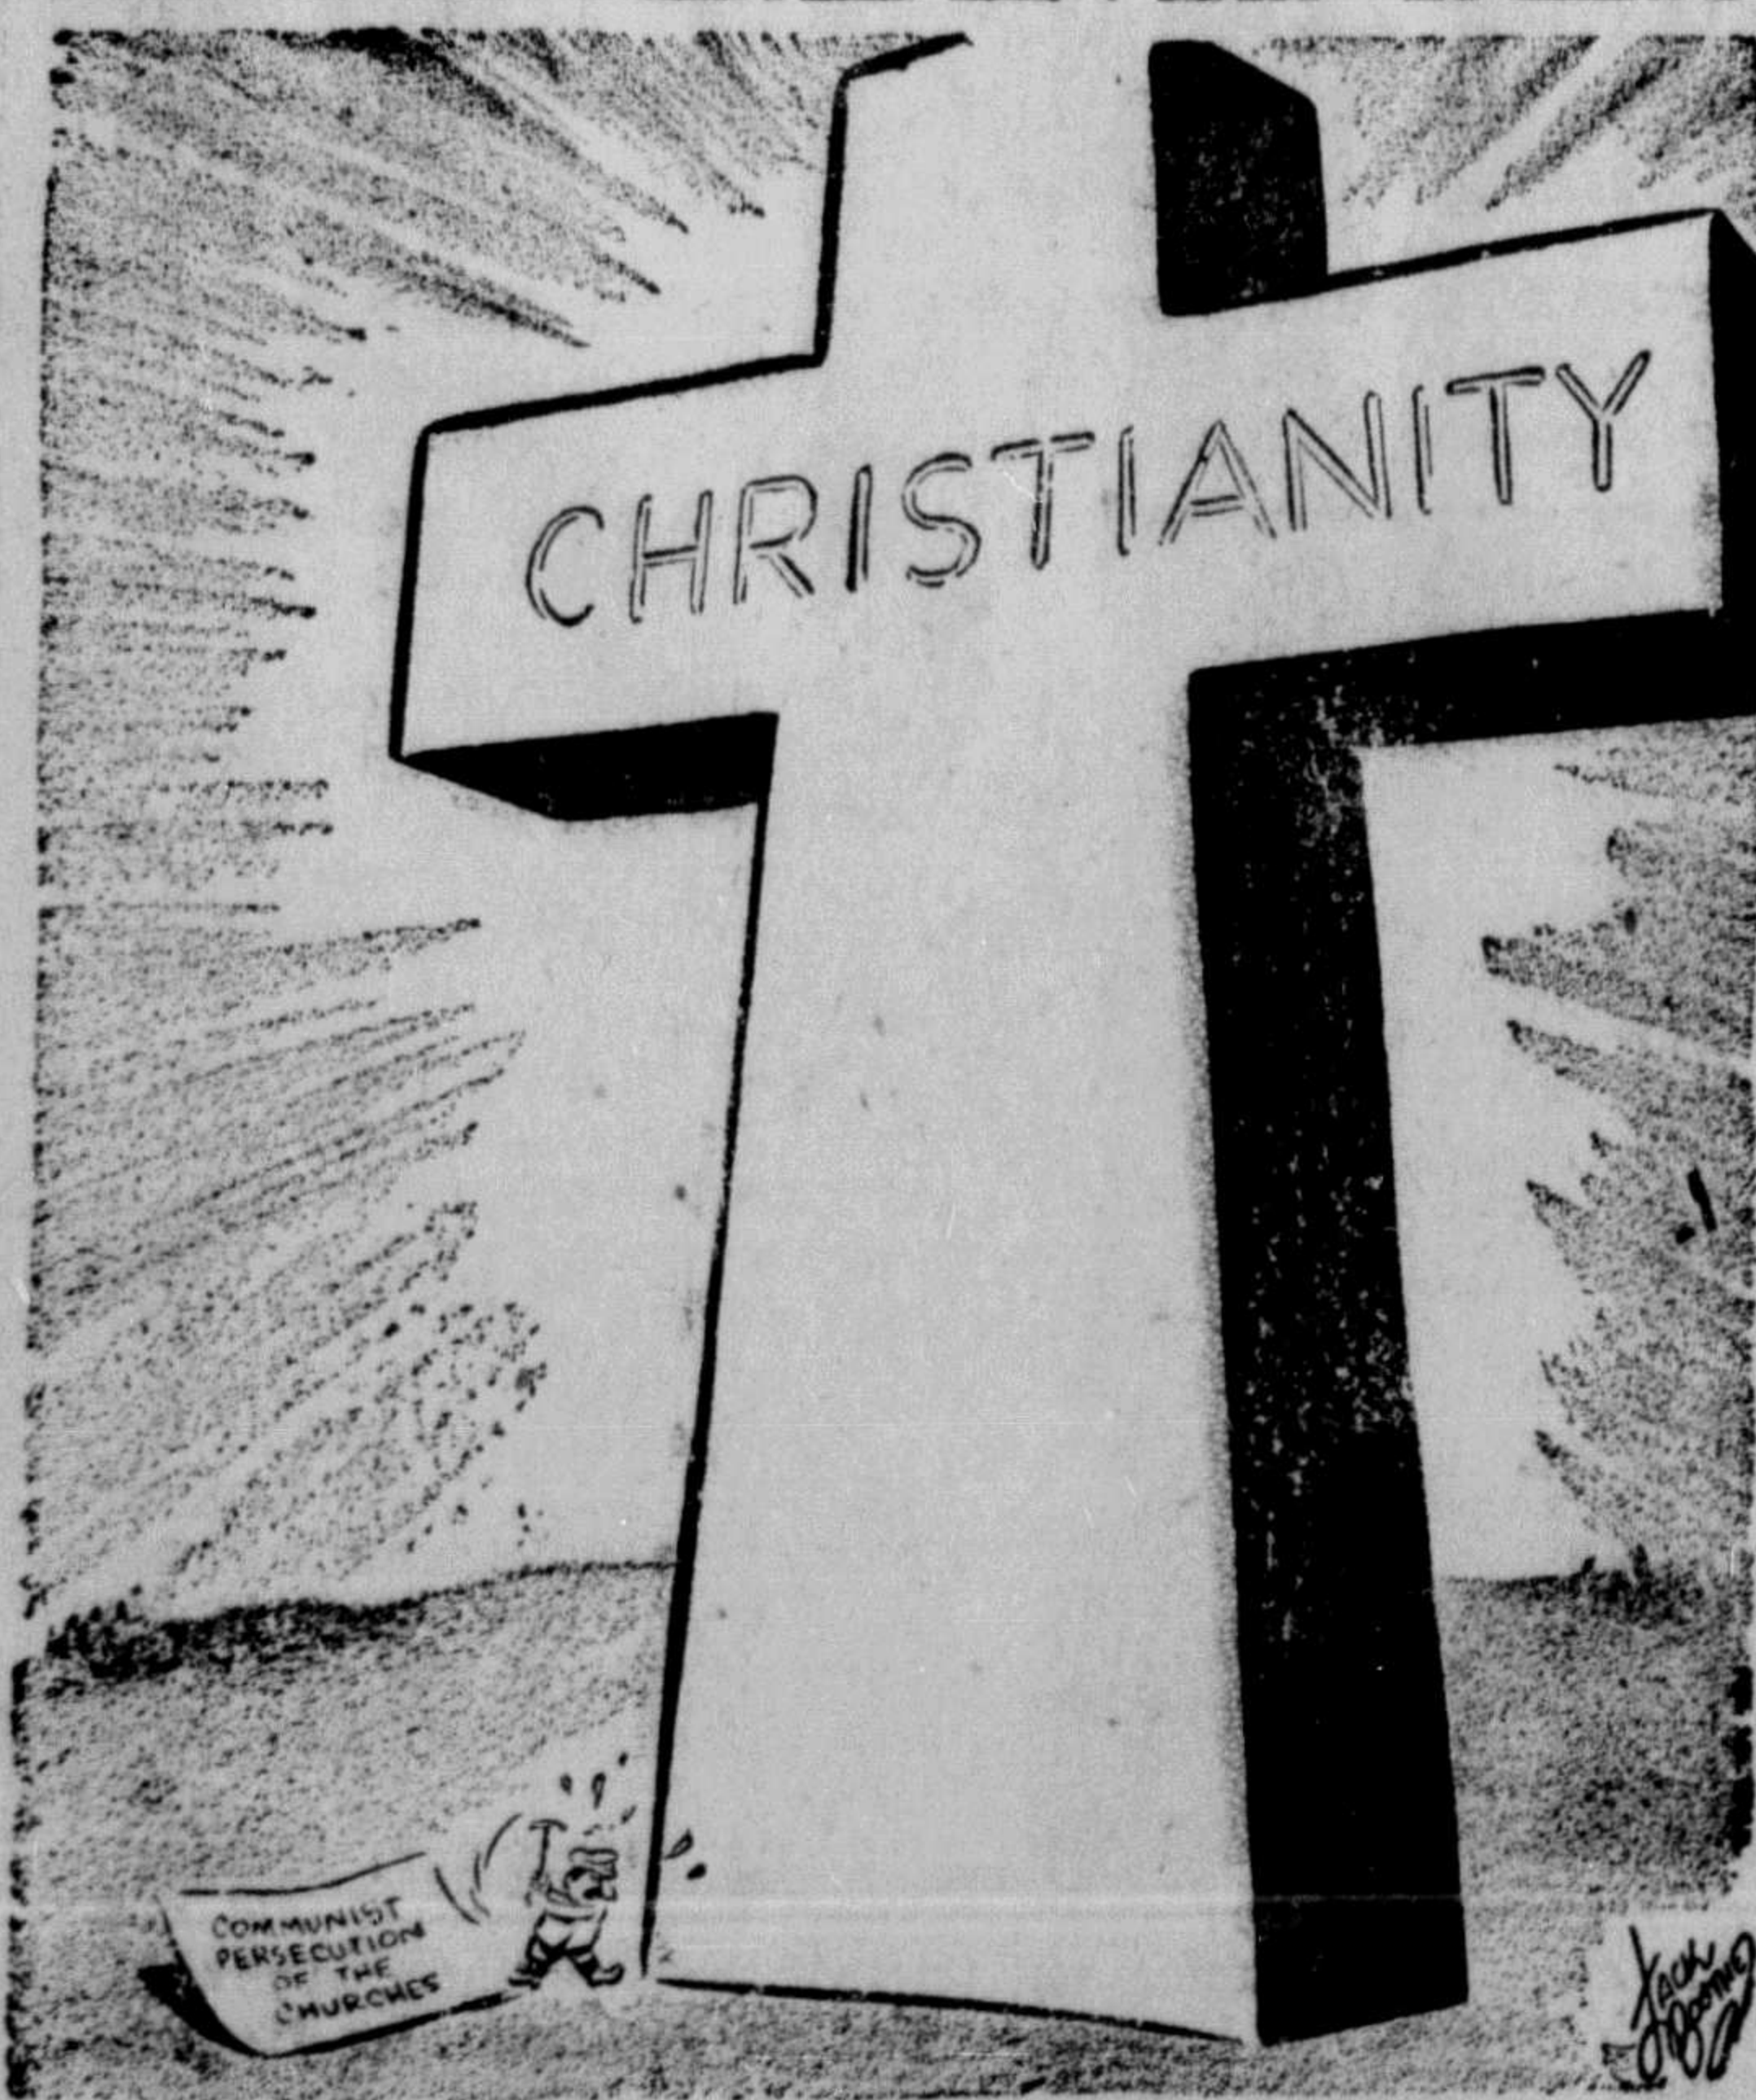

We hope that the action of the longshoremen will not recoil against their own best interests and that some sort of a settlement will soon be reached between the company and the stevedores.

As I See It

NATIONALISM PASSING

HERE AT CAMP Elphinstone, in the 1950 session of the Public Affairs Institute, my own job has been easy. I am supposed to be the co-ordinator of the various talks and discussions.

But so good are the imported speakers, and so lively are the group discussions, that I can more or less coast along.

My particular aim, this year, is to help clarify the difference between what is called patriotism and what is called nationalism.

By and large, I think patriotism is a natural inevitable and, therefore, good thing.

It is natural for a person to love his own country just as it is natural for a person to be affectionate to his own kith and kin. It is also true, I think, that "that man's the best cosmopolite who loves his native country best."

NATIONALISM, as we have come to know it, seems to me a very different thing. It is a sort of perverted patriotism. It is a system which tries to exalt one's own country at the expense of one or more other countries.

THE ESSENTIAL difference that I see between patriotism and nationalism is that we must always have patriotism if we are to have a healthy, vitally alive world.

THE GREAT WORLD struggle that has gone on ever since 1914, in one form or another, seems to me one which will decide which power, or group of powers, is going to write the fundamental laws of the coming age of supra-nationalism—that is, law ABOVE the level of the local law of the nations.

I DO NOT BELIEVE we shall get a true basis for harmonious world law until all the great sections of the human family are ready, willing, able to sit down together and write the first Charter for what Tennyson called "the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

Here at this year's camp we have not argued about red-hot current issues. One would never know, from the peaceful atmosphere here, that Canada's first general railway strike was on; nor that there is war in Korea.

There is a marked difference between the SPIRIT here now in 1950 from what there was in 1942, or even in 1945. There was more contention, more argument in the air then, I felt—or rather feel now.

Not that we minimize the gravity of the world situation. We are learning the difference between argument and discussion.

BOX-CAR PRISONER—Jack MacDonald, 19, of Toronto, recovers in hospital after being locked in a strike-bound refrigerator car on a freight siding in Calgary. He was without food or water for more than 100 hours. MacDonald said he was travelling from British Columbia to the prairies to get a job and was sleeping in the box car when it was locked and shunted into the siding. Children playing nearby heard his cries and brought aid.

Bowlers Are Organizing

Well attended by the representatives of the major bowling leagues, a general meeting of Prince Rupert bowlers last night selected bowling nights for the season. Already alleys for 125 teams have been reserved, according to Art Taylor, chairman for the evening, but there was still a limited number of nights open for other interested groups. Other league meetings will be held next week, the mixed league on Tuesday, the ladies' league on Wednesday and the Men's Five Pin League on Thursday. Officers will be elected and other plans made.

Boat Loss Only Bad August Fire

Of the six fire calls during August two were false alarms and one a smoke scare. Most serious fire of the month was that of the fishing vessel Gikumi II, which burned and sank in the harbor August 3. A chimney fire at 1256 Park Avenue August 10 caused no damage, while an oil burner fire at 1014 Alfred Street August 18 caused smoke and oil damage to furniture.

Food Prices At New High

OTTAWA—A new record high in the food index helped to bring Canada's general cost-of-living index up to its new record of 168.5 in July. The food index was 218.7. Most notable increases were in meat, sugar, eggs, and coffee. Clothing, principally footwear and piece goods, were also up as were light, food and home furnishing. Rent was unchanged.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Far more British Columbians are holidaying in British Columbia and it's about time. This is one of the world's choicest vacation lands, and those who belong here are commencing to discover it. Yet, up to the present, the indifference shown has been a cause of wonder. Perhaps, in time, there will be as much praise as apology and a little less of California.

Dollar hair cuts, effective in New Westminster a week ago, are now the charge in Williams Lake. Watch out for dollar clips in Prince Rupert. All this should be real news for Brother Moody, the city's first barber and former owner of the Empress Block at Second and Sixth. The local population is changing all the time, and most folks wouldn't remember Moody. Someone should send him a Daily News. He's always been on Rupert, even though near ninety and living in Minneapolis. He'd devour it.

The theatre to stand at Third Avenue and First Street will have more convenience to all parts of what is a widely scattered townsite. Advantage, in any one direction cannot be said to amount to much, where there is more length than breadth, yet it may be noticed on a gusty night.

Canadian National Railway employees resumed work with alacrity Thursday morning. It's only too true to say that those accustomed to regular duties, year after year, find stoppage of the job, sudden or gradual, something of a jolt. Out of it can come all sorts of real or fancied troubles and not the least of these illness. And this applies to more than railroaders.

Lack of Italian food in Scotland will prevent La Scala Opera Company from appearing at the Edinburgh Festival unless it is provided forthwith, and that seems unlikely. No one can be found in the highlands who can cook spaghetti and other delectable dishes. Well, it's just too bad! But if so congealed to the company there would at least be one performer who'd be heard from, so long as he could find scones, haggis and oatmeal, with judicious quaffs of Haig. There would be neither hunger or thirst.

Two British battalions, fresh from Hong Kong, looked and sounded cheery as they stepped ashore in a South Korean port, to be on the way to the front within two hours. "Any gum chum" was one of the first questions fired at a Yank. Another laughing Tommy said "I'm just an immigrant". They are like that. They have been everywhere and seen everything. They have a little patience with sadness and gloom.

WASHINGTON

The switchmen's dispute, which led President Truman to have the United States Army take over the railroads, was settled yesterday. They receive pay increase of 23c per hour.

Employment Still Good

The employment picture at the end of August still looks bright, according to the local employment service office. Although the rail and steamship strikes held up certain lines to a certain extent, their effect on the overall picture was negligible. Construction and mining are going ahead steadily, while other lines are holding their own. Employment in the fishing industry is keeping up well. In the district logging presents a good source of employment with the Queen Charlottes, in particular, asking for trained loggers. On the mainland Columbia Cellulose are employing quite a number of men at Knutzeymateen Inlet and in the interior. In all the picture is bright, according to A. V. Whiting, manager of the local N.E.S. office.

Fort Worth Woman Tells Home Town Paper of Search for Flier Husband Near Here— Tuna Still Running

The Fort Worth Star-Telegram says that Mrs. Neal A. Straley is "uncertain but feeling better" following a recent search out of Prince Rupert of the area on the west coast of Princess Royal Island where her husband is believed to have been lost last February in the crash of a United States Army B-36 while on its way from Alaska to Fort Worth. Mrs. Straley made a 24-day search with Capt. George Fritz on his fishing vessel Laura Lil. She refused to say whether she was convinced now that her husband was dead, as reported by the Air Force, or whether she intends to continue the search.

Says the Fort Worth paper interview with Mrs. Straley: "People have the idea that I was searching for 'something', she said upon arrival at Meacham Field from the West Coast.

"What I was searching for was peace and contentment in my own mind. I feel better now."

Mrs. Straley made the search with Mack F. Phillips of Garber, Okla., whose son, Capt. William M. Phillips, also was reported dead after the crash. Staff Sergeant Straley and Captain Phillips were among five crewmen lost in the crash. Twelve were rescued in the Queen Charlotte Island group off the coast of British Columbia.

Mrs. Straley hugged two women friends who met her at the plane. "It's sure good to be back," she said happily.

The search was made in a 40-foot trawler skippered by Capt. George Fritz of Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

"And I'd like to get this straight," Mrs. Straley said. "The trip was made only by Captain Fritz, Mr. Phillips and myself. There were no Indians. The only Indian I saw was a half-mile away."

Mrs. Straley said she returned to Prince Rupert Aug. 1 and stopped in San Francisco and Long Beach before returning to Fort Worth. In Long Beach she visited Sergeant Straley's family.

"They were happy that I had made the trip."

She is not certain whether she

Boats were in shelter yesterday because of heavy gales but Wednesday the fish were spotted ten to 20 miles south and west of Tasu. Among boats unloading here this week were: Fredella 20,100 to Co-op; Tramp 10,000 to Co-op; Devina 4,000 to Storage.

MacKENZIE BACK

Dominion lighthouse tender Alexander MacKenzie, Capt. Norman McKay, returned to port Wednesday night after a ten day trip that took her as far south as Egg Island. Capt. McKay is well pleased with his new boat but has not yet had a chance to test her out in really heavy weather. The MacKenzie's territory covers from Egg Island to Stewart and the Queen Charlotte Islands. In all there are about 115 lights in the area. Some are not watched and require servicing only once a year. Watched lights are serviced every one or two months, those south of Lawyer Island receiving attention every two months.

Dominion lighthouse tender Alberni, Capt. A. F. Davidson, returned yesterday from a buoy inspection trip.

Waterhouse freighter Island Prince was in port yesterday with a cargo from the south. She was unloaded by the ship's crew in view of the stoppage of work by local longshoremen.

Although several boats have been caught in the gales raging for the past nine days, there has been little damage reported. No major damage caused by storms was known yesterday.

After a twelve-day trip during which she got only about five days' fishing owing to rough weather which kept her running to shelter most of the time, the local vessel Miss Jean, Capt. Paul Johansen, was in port yesterday with 35,000 pounds of black cod and incidental halibut. Not satisfied with prices here, Capt. Johansen was figuring on continuing to Vancouver with his catch. The Miss Jean could have taken more fish but persistent stormy weather finally forced her to head to port with what she had. The catch was taken off Cape Omaney, Alaska, where the crew reported an unusual abundance of cod. Other local vessels which have been fishing in that area include the Kalen, Capt. Ole Stegavig, and Gony, Capt. A. Andreasson.

Canada's Force Is 6,775 Men

OTTAWA — Defence Minister Claxton said Thursday Canada's special force will go into the field 6,775 strong. It will have 3,000 reinforcements and in its ranks there will be 1,000 regulars.

It would be ready to undertake unit and other formation training within ten weeks from now after completing basic and advanced individual training. It could go anywhere—to Korea, to Atlantic Alliance zones or remain home.

In an area of 6,000 square miles southeast of Lake Winnipeg there are 3,000 lakes.

Impressive Ceremonies

Statue from Famous Quebec Shrine, Cap de la Madeleine, Occasions Inspiring Rites

Some two hundred people attended the evening and midnight devotions in honor of Our Lady of the Cape, at Annunciation Church here this week.

The statue of "Our Lady of the Cape," with which Rev. Father Charbonneau O.M.I. and Rev. Father Plaisance O.M.I. have been touring Canada over the past year, arrived in the city on Saturday.

The statue is titled "Miraculous" since during the tour many miracles were said to have taken place, mostly in the form of cures of bodily ailments. These favors were believed obtained through prayer to "Our Lady of the Cape." During the tour the foot of the statue has been practically worn away through the veneration of so many thousands of worshippers.

Each evening, while the statue was here, special devotions were held. The final services were the most beautiful, leaving a deep impression on the large congregation. They were in a sense novel, most of those attending never before having witnessed ceremonies of such a kind.

"The Blessing of the Sick" followed the recitation of the Rosary by the congregation. Those who sought favors of cures from sickness for themselves or for others or who had intentions of any other kind knelt in the centre aisle and proceeded on their knees to the altar, there receiving the blessing of the Blessed Sacrament.

During the solemn midnight Mass, the ceremony of "Blessing of Bread" took place. The father or head of each family, each having a portion of bread, proceeded to the sanctuary, encircling the altar, and in union with the priest celebrating mass, offered the bread. This bread received special blessings and towards the end of the mass the offerers returned to their places retaining the blessed bread. This blessed bread may be used when a member of the family is ill or at any other time.

The entire ceremonies were closed with the imparting of the Apostolic Benediction on those who were present.

The priests express hope that the visit of the statue of "Our Lady of the Cape" has endeared a deeper spirit of prayer in the people. They feel certain that prayer and devotion of this kind can bring peace to all nations. It can save the city, the country and the entire world.

Thrilling Black Market Picture

Against the sinister black market of modern Vienna is laid the plot of an exciting mystery story, "The Third Man," featuring Joseph Cotten, Orson Welles and Valli, which comes as the feature offering to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here next Monday and Tuesday.

In the picture of post-war life in the Austrian capital under four-power rule are to be seen some famous landmarks.

The melodramatic story is replete with character studies and the denouement is completely unpredictable although logical.

Welles plays the part of a man who has been willing to sacrifice love and friends for the exploitation of a new kind of racket ranging from the common exchange of necessities and small luxuries from the materials of life and death—drugs and medical supplies—with the result that the consequences are murderous and appalling.

A Vienna of intrigue and crime where whole families live in the one remaining room of a bombed building and a man hardly dares trust his best friend, a place where human values have been knocked aside by economic chaos are depicted as the soul of a hard-pressed city and its people is laid bare.

For many years machinery, not including farm machinery, has been the leading or among the first three principal commodities imported into Canada.
