Alaska Not Secure From Russia luge Snowslide Buries Man, Bulldozer, Halts Rail Traffic

Lower Skeena River snowslides claimed their first casualty this morning when one of the biggest of the winter roared down a mountainside near Kwinitsa, burying a workman and a bulldozer and covering 700 feet of track with a burden of snow that may hold up rail traffic for many hours if not days.

C.C.F. Keeps Sales Tax

A T THIS particular writing we are neither crit-\ icizing or defending British Columbia three percent retail sales tax but we are noting that Provincial Treasurer Fines of C.C.F. Saskatchewan told his Legislature yesterday that there could be no changes of any of the taxes in that province unless there was a curtailment of social services. The C. C.F., when it went into power in Saskatchewan, found this sales tax on its hands and, after five years, still retains it. The tax in Saskatchewan, in principal aspects, very much resembles that in British Columbia including the tax on restaurant meals which Opposition Leader Harold Winch decries.

The retail sales tax may not be very popular with any of us, nor the manner in which it was brought about, but it is to be doubted if the C.C.F. in power would do much about it. Of course, it would immediately become more popular with a lot of our friends if the C.C.F. should get in there and decide it was impossible to abolish it.

THE RED CROSS

THE ANNUAL national campaign for the Red Cross is now on and will be intensified in Prince Rupert as from March 15. Unanimous and generous support may be, as usual, anticipated for it from the people of Prince Rupert as in Canada generally.

The Canadian Red Cross is one of those great humanitarian agencies which provides assistance and care on a basis of actual need. Those who have the courage to serve the people of Canada in this way deserve the backing of us all and particularly those with a deep feeling for the welfare of their fellow man.

The magnificent work of the Red Cross is known to every Canadian. No veteran of either world war needs to be reminded of the broad, humanitarian basis underlying all of the many activities of the Society. Nor does a cessation of hostilities mean the end of demands and appeals of the needy and distressed for aid from the Red Cross. On the contrary, the demands in many important fields of Red Cross work are greater than ever. One has but to think of the outpost hospital service, as near to Prince Rupert'as Terrace, the continuing aid to veterans and dependents, the free national blood transfusion service and the Junior Red Cross work for crippled children.

Yes, this is our work and we should give.

LOSSES FROM GAINS

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE not to feel a sense of regret that the only daily labor paper in Canada—the Glace Bay Gazette—has had to give up the struggle to maintain itself as a daily and will hereafter appear as a weekly. While we believe that labor's views have had a generally sympathetic presentation in the press of Canada, the Glace Bay Gazette was the only daily official voice dedicated to labor's cause. We don't think that it can be denied that the best interests of the whole people are served when every legitimate group in the community is free to present its case, and to meet the corrective of aroused public opinion. It is particularly important in the case of organized labor. Only through the free opportunity to present its case fully can it avoid a sense of group injustice. Only by the free interchange of ideas can any group adjust itself to the thinking of the whole people.

The fact that mounting costs have compelled a Date change in publishing policy should not fail of notice. Here is a warning, not for labor alone but for all citizens. Steadily mounting wages, which represent a major part of all costs, are not, as some believe, an unmixed blessing. The average citizen finds that his gains are a chimera. The homeless find homes too costly for securing, and labor loses an important voice. In the light of such indications we might reassess our demands and find what benefits we are demanding that are to our own hurt.

MAKES APPEAL FOR MISSIONS

Miss H. R. Hurd Principal Speaker at Meeting of United Church W. M. S. Presbyterial

An urgent appeal for support of church mission work was made by Miss Helen R. Hurd, local deaconess of the United Church of Canada, who was the principal speaker last night before a meeting which opened sessions of the Prince Rupert Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society in First United Church. Miss Hurd opened her talk with the reading of a letter from a Japanese-Canadian who had returned to Hiroshima and who had revealed his own deepening Christian experience and emphasized the need for Christian workers. The speaker ably developed her appeal by showing how a treasure had been received from the past when "God sent His son that we might have His Sonship." The Christian who was conscious of his oneness with Christ must. of necessity, share his faith with
