Revolving Conveyer

Is Feature of New Curing Plant at Co-op Establishment

The recently completed smoke tunnel at the Prince Rupert Fisherman's Co-operative plant at Westview Bay is not only an up-to-date installation embodying the most modern scientific principles in that type of fish preservation but is also the only one of its type in existence.

Other fish plants in fishing centres across Canada make use of the automatic air conditioned type used in Prince Rupert, but the difference lies in that the smokehouse here is installed with a vertically revolving conveyer chain on which fish are suspended, making it possible for the fish to become more evenly smoked and aired, resulting in a more pleasant tasting and cleaner product.

It took the designing genius of A. W. Lantz, young assistant research engineer with the Pacific Fisheries Experimental station at Vancouver, to bring the new tunnel into existence. Mr. Lantz, who has to his credit many inventions that have saved time and money for the fishing industry, completed design of the tunnel in March of this year. Shipped to Prince Rupert in August, it was recently put into operation.

Flexible enough to smoke any type of fish, it will be a great change from the conventional stationary smokehouse. Considerable time in smoking and airing fish is also saved. For example, a black cod will hang in the old type installation for two or three days whereas the new tunnel would have the cod ready for packing and shipment in eight hours.

The air conditioned tunnel is operated on the basic principle of controlled temperature, humidity and air motion and the most practical method of checking drying and smoking schedules involves the use of a recording instrument equipped with two pens. One records dry bulb temperatures and the other wet bulb temperatures. When control features are added to both pens and an external adjusting knob is provided for ease in changing control setting, the operator is provided with equipment needed for meeting a predetermined schedule. In addition, management is provided with proof that drying and smoking is being carried out properly. (Continued Page 6)

SIAMESE TWINS
OTTAWA—The little town of Tofteld, Alberta, may hold the distinction of being the home of Canada's first and only Siamese twins. Statistics Bureau officials, commenting on the birth at Tofteld of Siamese twin girls, said they could not recall any similar case. The babies are joined near the top of the skull but no plans are yet made to separate them by surgery. Doctors say they will wait till later.

DYNAMITE IN CULVERT

NELSON—Police last night reported finding dynamite planted in a wooden culvert under the C.P.R. tracks at Glade, 16 miles west of here. The fuse was described as of a type used in Doukhobor area burnings of the past.

DAILY NEWS GET NEW HEAD FACES

Providing a more modern effect, the Daily News since yesterday has been using a new and up-to-date variety of news section heading type installed on its linotype machines during the week-end by Hugh Hudson of Vancouver who was brought north for the purpose of carrying out this work as well as giving the linotype machines a general overhaul. The type will not only serve to brighten up the news sections of the paper but will also lend versatility to advertising set-ups. The new type installation is the first phase of a number of other like improvements contemplated for the near future.

BREAKING OF GROUND FOR DAILY NEWS BUILDING ON THIRD AVENUE

Work preliminary to breaking of ground for the new Daily News building, adjoining the existing structure on Third Avenue, commenced this afternoon. Tomorrow Allan E. Barr will start his big clam power shovel digging out the overburden as the first phase of the excavation work for the general contractors, Mitchell & Currie, to whom the contract was awarded a few days ago. Contract calls for the completion of the building in five months.

Much Voting Next Month

Elector to Have Busy Day Polls in December

Prince Rupert electors, besides having to vote for mayor at the annual civic election next month, will have to choose six aldermen and will vote on one money bylaw and one referendum.

The mayoralty will be for a two-year term to succeed Mayor Nora Arnold who is retiring. Candidates already in the field are three—Ald. Harold Whalen, Ex-Ald. Robert McKay and Ald. H. M. Daggett.

To the council four aldermen are to be elected for two-year terms in view of the expiry of the terms of Aldermen T. B. Black, Ald. G. B. Casey, Ald. W. F. Stone and Ald. G. W. Rudderham.

Then there are one year terms to fill out the periods of Aldermen Whalen and Ald. Daggett who have resigned to contest the mayoralty.

One aldermanic nomination so far in the field is that of Ald. G. B. Casey for two-year term re-election. Others have signified intention of running for the council including Eric Faure and Donald Fitch.

Two two-year school terms are also to be filled in view of the completion of the terms of W. J. Scott and A. J. Dominato.

The ratepayers will vote on a $190,000 sewer extension bylaw and there referendum will be on the proposal to set up an elected board of park commissioners.

Start of Oil Drilling By First OF December Is Now Contemplated

The search for oil on the Queen Charlotte Islands which may well revolutionize the Pacific Coast's oil situation, was expected to get underway during the first week of next month as the third and final load of Royalite Oil drilling equipment prepared to leave dry dock pier today for Aliford Bay en route to the Graham Island beachhead.

Due to inclement weather, the freighter Northern Express under the command of Capt. O. Sorenson, was late in arriving Sunday from Aliford Bay and departure time therefore was extended.

Rough seas had prevented the freighter from sailing as scheduled. On Wednesday the boat was held up for two hours at Aliford Bay arriving late, loading was finally completed for the second trip Thursday evening but due to another storm was again held up until Friday morning.

More time was lost as the freighter arrived at the Queen Charlotte Islands. Part of the load was left at Skidegate and the remainder including the derrick, draw works and pump.

Transferring operations of the Northern Pulpwood's 80 by 80 foot long raft, however, is progressing smoothly and rapidly. Previous two loads are now on the drill site one mile north of Skidegate Indian village.

Transportation vehicles from heavy duty trucks down to the panel truck and station wagon, to be used in transporting men to work, were included in the first trip and the third load smallest of the three, consist of smaller equipment such as drill piping, mud tank, shale shaker, cement unit, water tank and two shacks.

Transferring of drilling equipment from Hobbema, Alberta, it took 12 carloads to Prince Rupert and then across to Aliford Bay was little problem to company officials. The main difficulty did lay, however, in the job of unloading near the drill site as there are no docks or unloading facilities north of Skidegate.

Five Million Dollars Gold

This yield Is Expected By New Owners from Spruce Creek at Atlin

Transcontinental Resources Limited, which is instituting placer gold operations at depth on Spruce Creek which will give a new lease of life to Atlin mining camp, anticipates, on the basis of past yield from the area, that it has a production potential of some $4,725,000. There is no way to determine this by testing without excessive cost for closely spaced churn drilling which would indicate presence of the tertiary gravel bed but would not give a reliable indication of values. In view of the values found in the old Noland workings and every indication that they will be found to persist, development drives will be advanced and the upstream channel explored with gold recovery expected to more than cover the costs.

The record shows that Columbia Development Co. Ltd., from 25 per cent of gross production, paid John W. Noland an agreed price of $125,000 within three years of taking a six-year lease on a 2,000 foot length of the channel in 1940. However, due to wartime manpower scarcity this company was able to mine only 1600 feet of the channel, and their lease terminated. From a total of 68,054 cubic yards of gravel mined, this company recovered 37,791 ounces, worth $1,163,428, an average of $17.09 per cubic yard. Average value per ounce was $30.78.

This recovery equalled $725 per lineal foot of channel mined.

Under the methods then followed, operating cost was between $8 and $9 per cubic yard. It is estimated that by mechanizing and expanding the operation, cost could be cut to $6.50 per cubic yard.

Nub of Radio Question

THE GENERAL MANAGER of Canadian National Telegraphs has again put the finger on where the obstacle lies as far as the bringing of Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network programs into Prince Rupert is concerned. It is between the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and the Department of Transport under which comes the Government Telegraphs which took over the Pacific Communications System after the war. Those are the two parties which must come to terms.

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce has contended, and we agree with complete justification, that this is not a question which should alone be settled on the lines of dollars and cents. The lines are already here but on them there is the factor of public service to a large and sparsely populated area which could not be expected to pay on the same basis for transmission mileage as can the more thickly populated areas with their shorter distances and their station revenues. There is no good reason why we should not be getting the service at once. Only aggravating red tape and technicality stand in the way.

WHAT IS A CUSTOMER?

A CUSTOMER is the most important person ever to enter our place of business either by person or mail.

A customer is not dependent on us. We are dependent on him.

A customer is not an interruption of our work; he is the purpose of it.

We are not doing him a favor by serving him; he is doing us a favor by giving us the opportunity to do so.

A customer is not an outsider to our business; he is part of it.

A customer is a flesh-and-blood human being, with biases, prejudices, feelings and emotions like our own.

A customer is not some to argue with. Nobody ever won an argument with a customer.

A customer is a person who brings us his wants. It's our job to fill them profitably—to him and to ourselves.

Ray Reflects . . . . . . and Reminisces

Saturday was British Columbia's birthday anniversary. We are told that on a grey, unpleasant day, 91 years ago British Columbia was officially born. There was very little doing on this part of the coast in the days of '58. There certainly was no Vancouver, Victoria or (Camosun) was little better than a name. So B.C. came into being at a place called Fort Langley over on the mainland.

A scrutiny of western newspapers for the last six months would be certain to show an unusually large number of crime cases, some unsolved, and all serious. A proportion record of murders and assaults, with the victims along in years, or youthful, and of both sexes. Something else might be noted, as well. Has anyone sensed what might seem to be a growing tendency to apply the so called scientific or psychological studies to killers and degenerates? Any drift toward getting away from swift and certain punishment where guilt is established is a peril to society.

As history goes, Alaska is a new country. But her story to date, brims with interest, and her accomplishments loom large. Seward, Secretary of State in the cabinet of Abraham Lincoln, shouldered whatever criticism there was for buying Alaska in the first place—and there was plenty. He paid about seven million dollars. Most of the American public reckoned it a criminal waste, instead of the greatest bargain in United States history. Seward, at a late hour, was playing cards in Washington. A message from the Russian ambassador, said the Czar had authorized him to sell the territory. Seward dropped everything and before daybreak the deal was closed. He was able to read the future if his fellow countrymen could not.

Sitka, on Baranof Island, the scenic cradle for all that was to come later! Sitka, where the hand of Russia was first felt, and where the United States took over. Juneau, where the raw rough camp named after Joe the venturesome prospector, grew into the capital city of a vast land. Skagway, serene and peaceful now, but once the place where high adventure reigned. Ketchikan—Alaska's First City, packed with enterprise and vim from the drop of the hat. Ketchikan was the first Alaskan centre to ever welcome a United States President—Warren Harding.

The fact of tourists returning north, summer after summer is easily understood, but not so simply explained. Visitors ramble on about everything being "so different" but that truth fails to cover everything. Offering a contrast never wearisome or stale, Alaska has beauty and a freshness—a dignity and a spaciousness unsurpassed.

START OF OIL DRILLING

two tugs along the bare stretch of the Queen Charlotte Coast and beached at high tide. Then arose the job of pulling the equipment onto higher ground. This was accomplished by the use of a method dubbed "snaking".

This type of unloading employed two caterpillars and a heavy duty Mack truck, which with winches, dragged the equipment within safe distance of high tide and loaded it on awaiting trucks which, in turn, drove to the drilling site.

Leveling Ground

Upon the crew's first arrival at the drilling area an unanticipated problem arose. To all expectations, the site was to have been cleared and leveled. But it lay before them indented with depressions and the job of leveling had to begin. A derrick must have an absolute level base. A slope of one or two inches may mean more than ten at the peak.

At present, the crew, who are lodged at Queen Charlotte City, number 24, but will be enlarged to a full drilling gang of 26 when operations commence. Four shifts will be employed and consist of driller and his four helpers—or as in the oil language, re—"roughnecks". A diesel mechanic, a truck driver, who will haul fuel and two geologists, Robert E. Stanhope, "chief tool push" and E. J. Kadlec, assistant "tool push" complete the crew.

At present Mr. Stanhope is at the drill site directing erection of the rig while Mr. Kadlec is in Prince Rupert in charge of loading.

George Fyfe, superintendent of Northern Pulpwood Co. is directing hauling operations on the raft.

Flown from Calgary to Vancouver, thence to the Queen Charlottes, the crew came from two drilling rigs, one at Consort in the Turner Valley field, the other from Hobbema in the Redwater field.

Drilling, Mr. Kadlec stated, will be in operation for at least one year. He added that an additional rig is expected to rise at some time in the future.

In The Matter of the Estate of Matt Alfred Anderson, Otherwise Known as Alfred Anderson, Deceased, Intestate.

TAKE NOTICE that by Order of His Honour Judge W. O. Fulton, Local Judge of the Supreme Court of British Columbia, I was on the 8th day of November, A.D. 1949, appointed Administrator of the Estate of Matt Alfred Anderson, otherwise known as Alfred Anderson, deceased, late of Bella Bella, British Columbia, who died on or about the 6th day of August, 1949, at Bella Bella, British Columbia. ## Decision In Ward Case

WASHINGTON (C)—The United States received an indirect report today that the Chinese Communist People's Court expects to reach a final decision "in a matter of days" on the case of Consul General Angus Ward. The report came from a Chinese newspaper. It was picked up from a Mukden radio broadcast yesterday, the Department of State said.

There has been no direct word from Ward himself since he and four members of his consulate staff at Mukden were jailed October 24, ostensibly for beating up a Chinese Communist.

W. C. Osborne of Terrace arrived in the city this morning by car and sailed on the Coquitlam on a business trip to Vancouver.

Thief Enters Downtown Store

A sneak thief, who smashed a window at the rear of McRae Bros. store on Third Avenue during the night, got $30 for his efforts in the second petty downtown robbery in little more than a week.

Circumstances surrounding last night's and at the Daily News ten days ago when a rear window also was smashed to obtain entry. A negligible amount of silver was taken in that one.

Last night's theft was discovered about 9:45 when McRae's bookkeeping office on the mezzanine floor was opened for business.

J. D. McRae reported to police that about $15 in pennies and an equal amount in silver was missing.

Corporal A. H. Taylor and Constables Jack White immediately began an investigation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bunting, who were recently married in the south, are at present visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bunting at Terrace.

Long Time Between Major Blazes, But Not Long Enough, Firemen Feel

"It's been a Lo-ong, Lo-ong Time" is the theme song at the city fire hall these days and the dozen firemen hope it will continue much longer—absence of a major fire, they mean.

They're not boasting about it, even though they have no reason to be particularly over-modest. They have had plenty of little ones which, if they hadn't been handled in timely fashion, easily have become major conflagrations.

Nevertheless, the record shows that there has not been a really "big" fire since February, 1948, and only one "moderate" one so far this year, for $10,000 in damage and the "moderate" one for $2,000 before it was put out.

And when they refer to city fires, they mean those involving or endangering city property directly, not boat fires. Boat fires, the boys feel, should be classified differently.

What has been going on, however, is a continuous series of chimney and small house fires which resulted in "no damage" or "very little damage" being written into the record. The speed and skill which kept property damage to a minimum are sources of pride to the men, for they constitute the record of service.

Results of Skill
However, the results of this skill are written in a different record too. It is the record of the board of Fire Insurance Underwriters who set insurance rates on the basis of past fire losses.

The fact that the Board saw fit to reduce premium charges on Prince Rupert dwellings by 13 per cent in September speaks well for the vigilance of Prince Rupert firemen, both in their inspections and their handling of incipient fires.

Failure of downtown business places to receive similar reductions is caused by the fact that so many of them are of frame construction and of great age, the firemen feel.

A well-advanced fire is many Third Avenue business places would be a difficult thing to confine.

"We feel pretty lucky and we think that the property owners are lucky too," said one fireman. "Take the time when we were without water pressure in October. If a fire had broken out then, it would have been just too bad."

Fire chief Earl Becker, who also is assistant Fire Marshal, recommends common sense in dealing with stoves especially oil stoves which have explosive potentialities. But most of the fire calls come from faulty or dirty chimneys. So, the theme song continues to be "It's Been Lo-ong, Lo-ong Time" but what they are actually thinking is "We Hope It will Be a Lo-ong Lo-ong Time."

Reaction To Sex Films

An uncomplicated understanding by high school students of the processes of human reproduction and growth is the aim of two films shown by Prince Rupert Parent-Teacher Council at the Civic Centre last night as a sounding board for public reaction to their possible introduction into provincial schools.

Opinions of more than three score adults were recorded on questionnaires for the guidance of the Department of Education as to their suitability as a means of enlightenment for adolescents on sex matters.

The two films, "Human Growth" and "Human Reproduction" were witnessed by 100 parents, teachers and representatives of interested organizations in a one-hour showing preceded by introductory talk by Inspector of Schools Joseph Chell.

Reading from an explanatory script prepared by the Department of Education, Mr. Chell told the meeting that "no decision has yet been reached by the Department as to the introduction into the curriculum of anything on human reproduction or sex education."

The department, Mr. Chell said, has decided on a sampling of parent-teacher and other opinion before making any decision as to the desirability of introducing material on human reproduction.

Prior to the showings, questionnaires, carefully calculated to cover as many adult reactions as possible were distributed. These were filled out and returned after the showings.

"Human Growth", prepared by the University of Oregon is designed to be suitable for the understanding of Grade Seven pupils and its locale is a mixed classroom where the film is being shown by a teacher. Its depictions are mainly animated drawings indicating the process.

"Human Reproduction" is a more advanced approach to the same topic and, is designed for display to Grade Eleven students. It bases its depictions on questions which a young boy would ask his parents and indicates a need for parents to acquire a reasonable knowledge in order to answer them successfully.

Questionnaires were filled out

15 CENTS FOR HUNGER—That's the amount Canada gave per capita last year to help feed 6,000,000 hungry children in Europe, according to A. B. MacDonald (above) Canadian Chairman of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. Finland gave $4 per capita.
