Shore Strike On Coast Settled

AGREEMENT REACHED ON BASIS OF SEVEN-CENT INCREASE — MUST APPROVED BY UNION VOTE

NEW YORK (CP)—The longshoremen's strike ended shipping in United States east coast as a diversion boom in Halifax and a strike aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth on the Atlantic, was, apparently, settled by Cyrus Shing, Canadian-born head of the United States mediation and conciliation service, announced an agreement which came on the sixteenth day of the strike. As a result officials of the Cunard-White Star Line in Southampton immediately announced that the Queen Elizabeth will sail on Saturday.

The agreement gives 65,000 strikers a thirteen-cent increase, retroactive to August 21. However, this is subject to Union approval. The vote will take place on Saturday. Previously a 10 percent hoist had been rejected. The original demand was for 25c hourly.

Word of the apparent settlement of the United States longshoremen's strike came today just after Halifax stevedores left to a conciliation board responsibility of determining whether they could legally refuse to work ships diverted from struck United States ports.

If United States dockers accept the settlement, the Halifax men will breathe easier. They had been on the spot since the strike began. If they worked diverted ships, they were dubbed "scabs." If they refused to work, they were open to heavy fines.

It had been decided last night to continue working pending decision by the federal Labor Department on the status of the unions here.

At Southampton passengers, already on board the Queen Elizabeth, refused to leave the ship although the company had asked that they go home in view of the tie-up.

SEASON'S FIRST SNOW BLANKETS PRINCE RUPERT

Winter made a sudden and reasonably earnest descent on Prince Rupert overnight, laying down the first snow blanket of the season, a soggy and intermittent fall which registered an official half-inch but which built up to more than two inches on streets and rooftops.

The snowfall was accompanied by a light, southeast wind which sent temperatures down to a minimum of 29 degrees, the lowest recorded since last spring. It was a "half-and-half" affair, part snow and part hail.

The night's fall was mostly hail but turned to snow in the early morning and as its depth increased motorists made a concerted rush to install traction chains on their vehicles.

Pedestrians began to slither on the sidewalks and some merchants brought out brooms and snow shovels.

No motor accidents were recorded nor were any pedestrian mishaps attributed to the slippery conditions caused by the wet snow.

Squalls fell intermittently during the day.

The snow condition appeared to be general along the coast. Vancouver reported a near blizzard last night and snow was still falling this morning.

Official recording at the Digby Island weather station for the 24 hours up to 10 o'clock this morning was a half-inch of snow and 42 inches of rain.

McCULLAGH BUYS TELEGRAM
 TORONTO—The Toronto Evening Telegram has been sold to George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, trustees of the Telegram announced today. The price is reported to be $3,610,000. The trustees, under the terms of the will of the late founder, John Ross Robertson, were to sell the paper after the death of his (Robertson's) heirs. The offer accepted is said to have been well over a secret reserve price. The Telegram will continue as a separate entity and will be independent in politics, said McCullagh who will take over next Wednesday.

FIRE AT U.B.C.
 VANCOUVER—Fanned by a strong wind, fire today destroyed one building and damaged four others on the University of British Columbia campus. Damage is estimated at $20,000. The fire started in a storeroom and raced through a building housing the psychology laboratory and the pharmacy lecture room. It spread to two H-huts containing valuable library books. A building used by the B.C. Research Council and equipment valued at $100,000 was saved. Cause of the fire was not determined.

West Coast Negotiations

Peace in Maritime Strike on This Side Now Seems Nearer

SAN FRANCISCO — Removal of two barriers in negotiations brought peace a little closer today as the West Coast maritime strike entered its thirteenth week.

The Pacific American Ship-owners' Association reversed its previous stand and announced it would bargain with striking CIO marine cooks and stewards on ships in the Atlantic trade. Heretofore, jurisdictional restrictions had been given in refusal to bargain.

The National Labor Relations Board announced it would not hold elections to determine the bargaining agent for radio operators. The announcement opens the way for negotiations between employers and striking CIO radio men.

NEW SERVICE IS WELCOMED

T.C.A. to Get Warm Reception in West Indies

MONTREAL—According to messages received in Montreal from the West Indies following announcement of Trans-Canada Air Lines' new service to the Bahamas, Jamaica and Trinidad beginning December 2, T.C.A. will receive a royal welcome in the Caribbean.

Chairmen of the tourist boards of the islands hail the service as a fresh proof of Canadian enterprise and a means of greatly facilitating business. "A common allegiance, a close association in mutually beneficial trade and a modern and efficient steamship service have long linked these islands with the great Dominion of the North," said E. Vernon Whar-ton, C.B.E., chairman of the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board. "The inauguration of Trans-Canada Air Lines' service to the West Indies now provides the means for many people from this colony to visit the great and rapidly developing Dominion which is now more than ever our good friend and neighbor."

Kennedy Not Satisfied With Condition of Highway, Must Not Become Impassable, Says

"An investment of $12,000,000 in a highway which is so useful as the Skeena Highway should not and cannot be permitted to relapse into a state of impassability," declares Hon. E. T. Kennedy, minister of lands and member of the Legislature for Skeena, in a forthright statement on the highway situation which has just been received by the British Columbia Automobile Association.

"I was very much surprised and annoyed myself in going over the highway last August at the condition it was in between Terrace and Prince Rupert. I invariably pass on to the public works department not only my own observations but any recommendations which I might receive from your Association.

"In the present instance I am forwarding the file which I have on the highway from you on to the Premier for his consideration and sincerely hope that remedial measures may be taken so this road may be kept in at least reasonable state of repair."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis
 A small but active storm which crossed the southern coast last night was causing snow and rain over the southern interior this morning. Cold air moving down the coast is bringing snow flurries from the Queen Charlottes to northern Vancouver Island. The weather will remain unsettled during the daylight hours today and Friday but will turn clear and cold at night.

Forecast
 Queen Charlottes and North Coast—Cloudy and cold with snow flurries today and Friday. Westerly winds (15 mph) except northwest (30 mph) over Queen Charlotte Sound. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow—at Port Hardy 30 and 40, Massett 28 and 28, Prince Rupert 28 and 40.

STORM VICTIM—This photo shows all that remains of the 80-foot Vancouver tug St. Clair, blown onto the rocks near Port Renfrew on Vancouver Island's west coast during last week's violent storm. Three men perished aboard the tug in the 80-mile-an-hour gale. The man in the photo is standing on the battered hull planking amidships while part of the keel and shattered stem can be seen on the right. (C.P. Photo)

ALASKA GETS ITS FACE MAPPED—Three of the six Lockheed P2V planes from the U.S. Navy's photographic squadron one, which photographed 30,000 square miles of rugged Alaskan terrain recently, are shown flying over some of that terrain. The photos are for mapping purposes. It is the first time in 20 years that any extensive photo-mapping has been done here.

Resident Fishery Engineer And Biologist Be Stationed Here

Prince Rupert may be the permanent operating base for a fisheries engineer and possibly a fish biologist, to develop the salmon and other branches of the industry, Inspector of Fisheries G. S. Reade said in an address to the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night.

Speaking on the work of the Department of Fisheries, Mr. Reade said that, despite the vast development of fishing techniques in the last 30 years, conservation measures in practically all major types of fishery, had played an important part in maintaining production at fairly constant levels.

Mr. Reade listed annual salmon catches over the last 15 years which showed no downward trend from its early level of approximately 70,000,000 pounds.

"With all our shortcomings, we seem to be holding our own," he said.

"The story of the halibut fishery is well known. From depletion, it has been brought back to a condition where an annual catch of 54,000,000 pounds is taken in a few months.

"The greatest catch of herring ever made in this province was made last season—171,000 tons.

"But holding the line is not enough. One must go forward. There are many spawning areas cut off by nature with falls and cataracts. We must not let these fields remain unseeded. We are laying plans for a great expansion of fishery engineering work and we hope to have a resident engineer and staff right here in Prince Rupert. We need a resident biologist to advise us, and arrangements are being made along that line."

According to latest available figures, Mr. Reade said, Canadian fishermen took about $56,000,000 worth of fish from the sea and another $10,000,000 from lakes. British Columbia took about $22,000,000 from the sea, and fishermen in the Prince Rupert district caught about $10,000,000 worth.

"This district produces in most years about as much fish as all the rest of the province in landed value, and B.C. is not far short of producing about half the fish of Canada."

To conserve the fishery in this district, the government spends about $250,000 a year and this amount like the $1,500,000 which is spent in the whole of B.C. is dedicated solely to conservation and development.

"We are not a revenue-producing department. For the whole of Canada, we had last year a revenue of $76,000 with an expenditure of $5,250,000. We did, however, make a net profit of $544,000 on our share of fur seal skins handed over to us by the United States government."

Mr. Reade was thanked warmly for his address by Stuart Furk, Junior Chamber president.

REPEAT NEED FOR NORTHERN ROAD SYSTEM

A resolution urging the inclusion of the northern trans-provincial highway into the projected transCanada Highway system will be sent by the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber of Commerce to the Federal government and the provincial Department of Public Works.

The resolution was approved at last night's meeting of the Junior Chamber after reading a letter from Duncan K. Kerr, of Terrace, secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia, urging all member bodies to make such a move.

A similar resolution was framed by the annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade at its 1947 convention and distributed to government departments.

However, current attitude of the federal government regarding completion of a transCanada highway system makes it advisable that the northern claim for inclusion in the system be repeated, Mr. Kerr suggested.

Copies of the resolution also will be sent by the Junior Chamber to B.C. members of parliament.

TRY TO SOLVE MONEY PROBLEM

Neutrals Would Get at Bottom of Berlin Trouble

PARIS — Because currency is one of the chief causes of friction between the western powers and Russia in Berlin, Juan Bramulgia, Argentinean president of the Security Council of the United Nations, is seeking to get at the root of discord by solving the money problem.

Despite the vigorous new approach of the neutral nations to the dispute, western sources gloomily predict that this latest effort would collapse.

DISCIPLINE, MINOR HURTS SEEM TO DISCOURAGE AMATEUR BOXERS

While boxing has always had a notable attraction for Prince Rupert's sport-loving public, the gloves themselves seem to have little drawing power for the city's youth-and-muscle who in recent years have either shunned them altogether or hung them back on the wall after a few practice turns in the ring.

The city contains a considerable amount of prospective talent and some of it has shown up briefly at the armory but most of what has shown up has abided there only briefly then disappeared.

The answer seems to be that they can't stand the discipline necessary to training or they can't stand the minor hurts that are part of the sport.

This situation has rounded in recent weeks to the puzzle and disgruntlement of Joe Ward, who has been giving of his time and experience to train local fighters for a card some time this winter.

Despite these setbacks, Joe has hopes of providing some local boys to take part in preliminaries to Jack (The Cat) McLaughlin's wrestling spectacle which is scheduled at the Civic Centre next month.

It is not that there is a complete lack of amateur fighter trainees. There are some, even though their numbers are small. But there are not enough to promote a card, or even a portion of a card employing city talent.

There is still time, he says, for anyone seriously interested in training to get into form and try out for one of the preliminary bouts.

Joe holds forth in the armory, where he has been leading training sessions for boxers since late summer, but the response, he admits frankly, has been discouraging and leads him to doubt if the squared circle has much of a future in this settlement.

Also dependent on the response of trainees is the fate of a mooted boxing card which the Canadian Legion Athletic Club hopes to sponsor later in the winter.

"I can't get it," he says. "Boys show up, bursting with eagerness to get the gloves on. They are in such a hurry to become fighters that they can't even wait to get some preliminary instruction. They want to go at it."

"Ottawa and the River" was the subject of a colorful and interesting moving picture which was featured yesterday at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club, the program being arranged by Grant Stewart. President Orme Stuart was in the chair and there was a good attendance of members with guests in the persons of H. W. Birch and Walter Drew. Rupert Fulton was welcomed as the latest new member. It was reported that the recent stag party had netted $130 for club funds.

"Then what happens? You finally put them in the gym ring with somebody of matching weight and equal lack of experience and hope that one or the other will learn something. Then somebody gets tapped in the breadbasket or the face and he is through with boxing."

Mr. Ward's bitterness is not quite as deep-seated as it may sound. An old boxer himself (Old Country style), he has a genuine love of the sport and is the only one in the city who is taking action to promote it.

A few of his trainees are coming along nicely and he has hopes that their training will bear fruit in a card. The big lack, however, is to match them fittingly. Obvious difficulties in obtaining outside fighters to match the local boys makes it desirable to groom city fighters at least for the preliminaries.

SUSPICION—Six-year old Bernhard Pfister had never seen white bread in his short life. He was born during the war when black bread was the only bread. He was reared on it and believed it was the only kind that existed. So you can't blame him for being a little suspicious when he gets the first white bread made from flour sent from the U.S.

LEGION PLANS CHRISTMAS TREE

At a joint meeting of committees of the Canadian Legion and their Women's Auxiliary last night, arrangements were made for their annual Christmas Tree, which through heavy bookings for similar events during the Christmas week, has had to be arranged for Sunday afternoon December 19.

Gifts are being provided for children of members of the Legion, 12 years of age and under, as well as for the children of deceased veterans who are living in Prince Rupert. As in recent years it has been found that the Legion Hall is too small to accommodate all recipients, and the parents that accompany them, the Navy Drill Hall has been placed at the disposal of the Legion by the Commanding Officer of H. M. C. S. Chatham for this annual event.

Names, ages and addresses of children eligible for presents are now being sought.

WIVES TAKE OVER MESS HALLS FOR TOMMIES—Several London women are now spending week-ends in camp with their husbands, father, or sons as the case may be, of the 599 Heavy Anti-Aircraft Regiment near Epping Forest, Eng. The idea was that of Capt. A. Williams who couldn't find enough cooks to prepare meals at the camps (counterparts of our reserve army camps) and so he asked the men to invite their wives, mothers or sisters. The women take over the cookhouse and do the cooking. They must supply their own rations, which may or may not match the free rations of their kin. It is a great recruiting idea, too, because many wives of ex-army men were loath to permit any more long separations over week-ends. Here is a seldom sight. A sergeant is "spud-bashing" with the aid of two ladies of the cookhouse.

SECOND BILLIARD TOURNAMENT OPENS

Entries for the second handicap English billiards tournament at the Canadian Legion are coming in fast and it is expected that the drawing will be made before the end of this week and that the tournament will be under way by Sunday. Several new names appear on the entry list and with additional handicaps being awarded to previous winners competition in the new series is expected to be keen.

EDMONTON, Middlesex, Eng. —Robert Bonjour, a French soldier serving in Indo-China, wrote to the Mayor of Edmonton asking if he could find a "godmother." The mayor is doing his best.

COLORFUL, TUNESOME

"Fiesta," With Esther Williams, at Capitol Theatre This Week-End

Beautiful Esther Williams turns from swimming to bull-fighting in a spectacular new technicolor musical "Fiesta" at the Capitol Theatre here this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. She plays a feminine matador who saves the honor of her family when a family quarrel causes her twin brother, played by Ricardo Montalban, to be termed a coward.

Ricardo's first love is music and he wants to become a concert pianist and composer under a great Mexican symphony conductor. When, just as he is about to face a charging bull, he learns that his father has treacherously sent the conductor away, killing his hopes of a musical career, he leaps from the ring, branded a coward. Esther then fights her own tactics using one of Ricardo's compositions. Ricardo is engaged in another When she is in danger, he jumps in and saves her life. The father to take and Ricardo to low his musical career. Woven into the "Fiesta" musical sequences are authentic Mexican grounds.

Other members include Akim Tam Carroll and Mary

The Chimes of Westminster

Here are the words of the tune played each quarter hour on our Westminster chime clock.

"All through this hour
Lord be my guide
And through thy power
No foot shall slide."

Part of the tune is played each quarter hour and the whole tune at the end of the hour when the clock strikes the hour.

The clocks are beautifully cased in real nut and run about fourteen days with one winding.

The price is $55.00 plus tax and it is the same price as the clock is sold at in the east and we ship the freight all the way to B.C.
