Defending These Parts

DUBLISHER WILLIAM L. BAKER of Ketchikan, in a letter to Senator Warren G. Magnuson at Washington, appropriately urges that defence projects are needed along the vulnerable and strategic British Columbia and Alaska coasts for their security in any next war in which this part of the country would be almost inevitably involved. Mr. Baker has long stressed the importance of Prince Rupert in the commercial and defence picture as far as Alaska is concerned. In his latest representations to Washington, he does so again.

Paralleling the representations of Mr. Baker shade of the Old Apple Tree" pected it before, that what they and his newspaper in Washington as to the development of transportation and defence facilities with which Alaska and Prince Rupert are so closely interdependent, the Daily News has been consistently advocating similar things on the Canadian authorities at Ottawa. We hope we may have done so with some measure of impressiveness although mighty little has ever been conceded in regard to our campaign for development of local defences, the organization of coastguard service, the location of naval units hereabouts, the improvement of railway There was more than one Uand highway, the building up and organization of terminal facilities and, of vital importance as well, mer in Prince Rupert as all who Skinny men, Women the establishment without further delay of the air strip at Prince Rupert—the most important place in the whole country which still lacks such a key utility.

Mr. Baker's case at Washington strengthens the representations upon Ottawa which the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and Daily News have been pressing for a long time along similar lines at Ottawa.

SIGNIFICANT INCIDENT

It was an interesting and significant incident at the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night when | your office through the proper the principal speaker was one of the leading elder police channels, much unpleasmen of the neighboring native village of Metlakatla. That makes it all the more fitting and the local police when I wrote it, timely that the Junior Chamber of Commerce should rather of the complaints of be taking this lead in cementing friendliness and other people who did nothing co-operation between this city and our budding new municipal neighbor. No doubt, much valuable mutual race at least one other case of helpfulness may ensue. As a first move, the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber may be able to assist same) could have been menin the organizing of the young men of Metlakatla.

In the meantime, this gesture of mutual acceptance is an indication of a healthy spirit which can well be emulated in other quarters.

TIME TO CLEAN UP

Not only should attention be given, as suggested by the Chamber of Commerce to the corner of First Avenue and Seventh Street, site of the Hotel Central, destroyed by fire a few years ago. The accumulation of debris demands an early and thorough removal. But this is only one of scores of places suffering from lack of care, many of which would not require serious effort or time and for some of which the government or city may be directly responsible.

Prince Rupert will be full of visitors this summer. Naturally they will observe—and observation is followed with comment. Now-not months away -is the time to begin making the best of what is here. Freshly painted homes, a tidying up of premises, and this certainly goes for the back yard, front lawn and garden, can have an astonishing effect on the impressions of travellers here for the first time.

When you buy Carnation evaporated milk, you know, before ever you open the can, that you are getting good milk - smooth, uniform, rich, creamy flavored. That is true today as it was 50 years ago — true in British Columbia as it is all over the world.

Good Milk Improved

Carnation starts with good milk from strictly supervised farms. Only top quality milk is accepted by Carnation plants. And processing is strictly controlled, exact to a degree of temperature, to a second of time. All the knowledge of 50 years of producing the world's largest-selling brand goes into every can of Carnation.
