Jap-Canadians, Indians, Whites Unite

Removing Of Race Border

White, Native and Jap-Canadian Fishermen Get Together

A long step toward eliminating racial boundaries in the fishing industry was taken last night when members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, the Native Brotherhood and the Japanese-Canadian Citizens' Association met together at Port Edward. The meeting decided to form a special committee consisting of six members of each group.

At a meeting Friday night of the Native Brotherhood, Buck Suzuki Chairman of the fisheries committee of the Japanese-Canadian Citizens' Association explained the situation of Japanese-Canadians and that meeting decided to put forward the idea of the joint committee at Sunday's meeting.

There had been reports of unfair treatment of native fishermen on the Skeena and Naas since the return of Japanese-Canadians to the industry.

It was the opinion of both organizations that the committee could serve a useful purpose in helping to bring closer harmony between the different groups and avoid friction within the industry. Suzuki says representation of his group is a temporary matter and he hopes that it will be unnecessary to continue it separately after they become established in the union.

It was reported that all Japanese-Canadians were now members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and that it would, therefore, be possible to have such a committee working within the organization to take up grievances that might arise.

Suzuki, spokesman for the Japanese-Canadians assured both the Brotherhood and Union members present that they had resolved not to accept gear or boats that had been confiscated from native or white fishermen until a full investigation was made for the reasons of the seizure. It was further reported that there were approximately 90 Japanese-Canadians fishing the Skeena this year, all of whom are members of the union.

Following were members elected to the committee:

CALDER CHAIRMAN

A meeting of the special committee of six members elected the following officers.

Chairman—Frank Calder, M.L.A., member of the Native Brotherhood Executive.

Vice-Chairman—Joe Kamada, Japanese-Canadian and member of the U.F. & A.W.U.

Secretary—Tom Parkin, northern representative of the U.F. & A.W.U.

The first meeting of the committee will be held June 17 in Prince Rupert.

VANCOUVER—Labor Minister Cates called a last minute meeting today of I.W.A. coast operators and the Labor Relations Board in an attempt to avert a strike Thursday of 32,000 lumber workers.

BOAT OVER SPILLWAY
PITTSBURGH—The raging waters of the Allegheny river spillway took four lives Sunday but rivermen, who refusing to quit rescue efforts in the face of terrifying odds, pulled four others to safety. One riverman, 50-year-old Hull Wright, died a hero. He tried desperately to save six persons who rode over an 11 foot dam on a 25 foot cabin cruiser 15 miles northeast of here.

Salmon Price Bid Rejected

However, Men Will Operate During Early Season

A meeting of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, Japanese-Canadian fishermen and Native Brotherhood fishermen at Port Edward last night turned down company offers for the season although prices for sockeye were acceptable.

Questions in dispute are fall chum prices in Johnston Strait for which canners offer one cent per pound less than last year; pinks, one half cent less than last year; and the salmon welfare fund.

The fund was set up last year by agreement between fishermen and companies, whereby companies place one cent per case of salmon packed into a welfare fund to be administered jointly by the companies and the union. Over $9,000 was paid out in death benefits and replacement of personal belongings lost by shipwreck or fire. This year, according to a union spokesman, the company wants to deduct the $7,000 balance from payments toward the fund, and the union feels the money should be kept in the fund in case of a major disaster or else to increase benefits.

Fishermen in the early areas will start when the season opens, but will tie up the industry along the coast if no settlement has been reached by July 9, the spokesman said.

Timmins Gold Is Recovered

TIMMINS, Ontario (P) — The $75,000 in gold stolen from the Delinette mine June 2 was recovered several days ago, police revealed Sunday.

A safe, containing three gold bars, $16,000 in stock and $500 in Canada savings bonds, was found in the bush near here.

Police made their second arrest in the robbery Saturday when they charged Morley Latham with breaking and entering.

The police had withheld earlier announcement of the recovery of the safe "for strategic reasons."

HOGAN REGAINS HIS GOLF TITLE

ARDMORE, Pa. (P) — Comeback Ben Hogan, who just 16 months ago appeared to be on his golf deathbed, was "Mr. Golf" today after his play-off victory over George Fazio and Lloyd Mangrum for the U.S. golf open.

Tied Saturday with 287 at the end of 72 holes, the three finished the tough Merion golf course as Hogan had a one under par 69, Mangrum 73 and Fazio 75.

Jap Fishermen Joining Union

Buck Suzuki Looks for Fuller Assimilation

All Japanese-Canadian fishermen will be joining the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, The Daily News was told last night.

Buck Suzuki, chairman of the fisheries committee of the Japanese-Canadian Citizens' Association, explained the citizenship status of people of Japanese origin before the war made it undesirable for both Japanese and the union to be union members. However, the situation had been changed since Orientalals were given the vote by British Columbia April 1, 1949. Since then Japanese have had equal rights with other Canadians.

But, Suzuki said, some of those who had been in displacement camps during the war would be slow to take advantage of the rights allowed under the new status.

Suzuki felt the reason Japanese banded together in ghettos before the war and failed to assimilate into the Canadian way of life was largely due to the fact that they were denied the vote and some other privileges of full citizenship. As an example he mentioned their not being able to express themselves in English.

He said there was a growing tendency toward intermarriage with whites, particularly in the east. The balance of Oriental men marrying white women and the reverse was about the same, he thought.

Suzuki is hopeful that under the new status of citizenship the Japanese will truly become assimilated into the Canadian way of life.

Are Trying To Settle Strike

VANCOUVER — Hon. J. H. Cates, Minister of Labor, has been meeting with the Labor Relations Board in the hope of reaching a last-minute settlement of the dispute which threatens a strike by the International Woodworkers' Union in the coast logging industry. The deadline is this Thursday. He is endeavoring to bring the two sides together to settle the deadlock.

Stewart Aisbury of the I.W.A. says the union will insist on the closed shop but other differences could be ironed out, with a minimum of difficulty.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis
A few thunderstorms boomed in the Kootenays last night to end British Columbia's warmest day so far this year. Today will also be very warm with central interior temperatures reaching the nineties. There will be considerable cloudiness in southern interior regions today and more thunderstorm activity is expected in the Kootenays again this evening.

Extensive fog banks cover the open water on the coast and this is tending to spread to the eastern side of Georgia Strait as morning cloudiness. Increasing cloudiness is forecast for northern B.C. tomorrow but elsewhere there will be little change from today's weather pattern.

Forecast

North Coast Region — Fog banks and low cloudiness over the open water drifting onshore after sunset and clearing from the land in the morning. Increasing high cloudiness overnight. Little change in temperature. Wind occasionally northwesterly (15 mph) otherwise light. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow — At Port Hardy, Sandspit and Prince Rupert 46 and 60.

After the flood waters receded, J. M. Radeliffe, Winnipeg life insurance salesman, waded through to his new home in the residential section of Wildwood. With despairing eyes he examined warped, ruined furniture in the living room where the river came up nearly five feet. It is to replace and repair such furniture and household effects that the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund was established. Contributions may be mailed directly to the Fund in Winnipeg, or to any bank branch in Canada.

Deputy Minister, Education, Here

During a brief visit to the city at the end of the week, Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy minister of education, visited some of the city schools. On Friday evening he had dinner with members of the school board and school principals. Later in the evening he was taken by Dr. R. G. Large, chairman of the board of school trustees, to Dodge Cove to visit the school there. Having been at Terrace to open the new school there, Dr. Fairley arrived here on Thursday night's train and left by air Saturday on his return to Victoria.

Yes, Winnipeg Ship Was Here

Prince Rupert has had a visit from its first Winnipeg-registered vessel. It was no prairie schooner either out an up-to-date and trim 113-foot diesel-engine freighter with an interesting career in spite of the fact that it never visited the hub of Canada's plains.

The ship was the motorship Fort Ross, owned by the Hudson Bay Co. and at present under charter to the British Columbia Steamship Co., Fort Ross was here the latter part of the week discharging cargo. She also called at Port Edward and from here proceeded to the Taku River with cargo for the Polar-Taku mine.

Fort Ross was built in 1938 at Dayspring, Nova Scotia. She is of 28 foot 4 inch beam and 113' beam. Gross tonnage is 272 and registered 153.

During the war years, Fort Ross operated in the Bering Sea and Arctic waters.

Rose, executive secretary of the Vancouver Board of Trade, has sent word that the council of the Vancouver Board of Trade has unanimously agreed with the submission in respect to an airport at Tugwell Island and has sent endorsement of the project to the Minister of Transport, the Minister of National Defence and Vancouver members.

McLean, Smith Island Believed Suicide
James Edward MacLean, 37-year-old machinist, who shot himself in a cabin on Smith Island in the Skeena across from North Pacific, about ten miles east of Prince Rupert, was found on Monday by a neighbor, Peter...

MacLean was shot through the temple with a bullet from a .22-calibre rifle found in the cabin. It was apparently a suicide. Rigor mortis was set in and it is believed death occurred the previous night. A neighbor who found the body happened to call, notified Constable D. R. MacLean of Port Edward who remains in charge and took MacLean into Prince Rupert.

Co-operation--Co-ordination

PERHAPS the two bodies in Prince Rupert that can do most to benefit the city are the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council. But in order to get things done they must work together.

The council transacts civic business. The chamber represents business organizations. Both have the interests of the city at heart. Through various associated boards and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce the chamber of commerce co-ordinates its efforts with other cities. Both, in their own spheres, are acquainted with and act in accordance with the national scheme.

But in the civic scheme sometimes they are inclined to follow their own devices. What is needed is closer co-operation with each other. Both can be of use to the other if they act in a spirit of mutual helpfulness.

This can be brought about by keeping each other posted on activities, one consulting the other on matters of common concern and by a full understanding that one has the interests of the city just as much at heart as the other.

The cartoon of the two mules pulling against each other and accomplishing nothing and of the same two mules pulling in the same direction to move a heavy load is apt.

What is needed in Prince Rupert today is co-operation between the Chamber of Commerce and the city council. Co-ordination of those bodies with provincial and national organizations is an accomplished fact.

OUTDOOR RECREATION

CIVIC CENTRE activities, which do so much towards occupying the leisure time of old and young alike, are now moving to considerable extent outside with the opening for the season of the swimming and wading pools at McClymont Park and supervised playground activities due to commence about the time of closing of school at McClymont Park and Seal Cove playgrounds. It is satisfactory that, now the fine long days are here, the Civic Centre should devote itself to this beneficial and useful work.

Long since has the Civic Centre and its activities been credited with being a large factor in keeping juvenile delinquency at a minimum in the city through providing the young folk with somewhere to go and something to do. The work among the young fry—and we are told no less than six hundred of them turned out at the swimming and wading pool on opening day Thursday—is a worthwhile effort, well justified and worthy of the fullest measure of support.

FREEDOM—OR LICENSE

NORTH AMERICA boasts of a free press, but freedom does not imply license to defame the reputation of a citizen. True there are laws against libel, but experience shows that it takes plenty of money to fight such a case through the courts.

That portion of the press which is known as "yellow" and which thrives on sensations and hysteria, aids and abets countless injustices. Yet in fairness to the press which stoops to such tactics, it must be said that it could not sell its papers if a large segment of the public did not relish such journalistic garbage, but it must also be realized that the "yellow" press stimulates the appetite of this segment of the public to feast on this kind of a journalistic menu. However, were the public to refuse to buy such papers, then those papers would have to change their methods or go out of business.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Believe it or not, Prince Rupert in the early days supported three daily newspapers. One, The Journal, was printed in the morning. The proprietor and editor was O. H. Nelson who, only recently died in Victoria, aged eighty. He established his two floor office and home on Third Avenue a short distance east of McBride Street, facing the ground reserved for the provincial government court house.

UPS AND DOWNS

In the course of general street construction, deep fills and high retaining walls were often required and, as a consequence of this, The Journal stood away below grade. This, while inconvenient, was of comparatively small moment. Dozens of heavy contracts in the way of city building were pending if not already started.

CARS TO COME

Today, cars by the hundreds glide day and night back and forth near the site where Nelson settled. In 1909, McBride Street, from Third to Fifth Avenues, was a flinty slope or hillside, demanding much hard labor and dozens of resounding blasts to dislodge. Third Avenue, between McBride and First Streets was a gulch. Everywhere, nothing but rough edges, rawness and the bleak beginning of things.

NOT MUCH DUST

And also, rain! For clouds hung low. In conversation, in written articles and letters, in homes, aboard ship and wherever human beings foregathered it was declared a town had been found where rain descended every day. Well, the season of 1909 was moist. It was then that thousands of tons of explosives were being fired regularly. And this, in a country like the coast, where reasonable, but not extraordinary rainfall was natural and to be expected. Of course, it became much greater when for years powerful blasts, some enormous, shook the townsite and along the Skeena. Hence an unjust renown as to Prince Rupert's wetness became fixed in the public mind, lasting to this very day.

HOW ABOUT NAME?

Originally what became the Daily News was founded near where the railway station now stands. Its position was in what was known as Jap Alley at the foot of Centre Street, and handy to the informal social centre where Arthur Little sold bananas and tobacco and listened to arguments.

Much pondering followed the query as to what name the paper would bear. Something fresh and challenging appeared to be the objective. George Morrow thought he had it. George had served as Indian Agent at Metlakata before Prince Rupert was ever thought of.

"Call it The Skookum," he suggested.

He was asked to explain. Why Skookum? And what was a skookum, anyway?

"It's an Indian word," said Mr. Morrow, "and means strong." If they proposed to have a newspaper, why not have a skookum one?

THE OPTIMIST!

The idea, however, failed to click. There was a feeling it might take readers too long to understand what it was all about, and perhaps cause some confusion.

The question was finally left to public competition, the winner being J. H. Pillsbury, whose choice was The Optimist, and this received unqualified endorsement. Mr. Pillsbury, civil engineer, had surveyed the townsite, and consequently ranks among the earliest to come here. Years ago he became identified with the Workmen's Compensation Board and moved to Vancouver.

Later The Optimist was renamed Daily News.

V.D. Control Emphasized

All phases of venereal disease work here were thoroughly examined recently when Miss Doris Barish, epidemiologist of the V. D. division of Vancouver, visited the Prince Rupert Public Health Unit. It was announced in the May report of the unit.

New policies were worked out and have been put into effect. The tracing and treatment follow-up of contacts still occupies a great deal of the unit's time and the report recommends that the public assist the unit when necessary and raise the standards of health in this community. Premarital checks will reveal any sign of venereal disease and will prevent much unhappiness in later years, the report states.

Interior School Children Checked

A May report of the Prince Rupert Public Health Unit revealed that 134 school children at Terrace, U.S.; Copper City and Cedarvale were examined by a nurse and a medical health officer. A total of 140 vaccinations were carried out; 38 children were protected against diphtheria, and whooping cough and 47 inoculations against typhoid were performed.

In the Smithers district at Quick, Kispiox, New, South and Old Hazelton and Kitwanga, ten vaccinations were carried out in addition to 31 immunizations. A total of 56 pupils were examined by the nurse.

Prince Rupert Gyro Club will be in regular monthly business session at this week's luncheon. An executive luncheon was held today.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
ALVA MYRDAL'S VISIT

THE CONFERENCE on Social work which takes place in Vancouver during the week ending June 17 is one of the most important ever held in Canada.

For instance—if anybody in all the world has the answers to the question of juvenile delinquency—how to prevent it and curtail it—the Social Workers are the ones.

They are bringing to Vancouver many of Canada's and some of the world's outstanding leaders in such fields. Many of the meetings are not only to the general public but in fact are addressed directly to the general public.

THE SPEECH BY DR. ALVA Myrdal, in the Denman Auditorium, Wednesday night, should be of key importance. This Swedish woman is one of the world's greatest social welfare leaders.

My rule for measuring a real leader, as compared with a mere time server, or cashier-inner, is this:

Is that leader willing to withstand temporary unpopularity for some cause which the leader knows to be right and necessary, even though the majority of colleagues in the leaders' profession do not agree; and even though the majority of the population may be actively opposed to that cause?

Dr. Alva Myrdal is such a leader. She and her famous husband (Professor Gunnar Myrdal) became convinced that Sweden needed more babies. In 1934 they published a book Crisis in the Population Question which ran directly against the world wide tide for ever smaller families.

The Myrdals argued that a further decline in the birthrate would be disastrous to the nation and hence the ground would be cut from under the very feet of those who had been advocating small families in order to raise the standard of living of the individual families.

AS THE MYRDAL THESIS collided head-on with the prevailing opinions in trade unions, liberal and intellectual circles they met a storm of ridicule.

My friend, the American professor, Leonard Silk (who edited the U.S. army newspaper "North Star" at Edmonton during the war) writes thus re the Myrdals: "Large families were called 'Myrdal families' and a new verb 'to Myrdal' was introduced into the language. More serious than this were the attacks from Left and Right politicians."

The Social Democrats feared the larger family plea was militarist propaganda, the Conservatives saw it as a scheme to get in more socialism through the back door.

Nevertheless the logic of the Myrdals case was so overwhelming that it finally became state policy in Sweden. One result was that Sweden got, and still has, about the most enlightened policy of state-encouraged housing in the whole world.

APART FROM WRITING A dozen books of her own, I believe Mrs. Myrdal collaborated with her great husband in the classic work on the U.S. race and color question. An American Dilemma is without doubt one of the greatest books of this century—great as most helpful. So, when Canadians get a free

There is no reason why we in Prince Rupert should not contribute to Vancouver," Charles V. Evitt said in his address at the opening of the Daily News Saturday at the opening of the premises of Philpott, Evitt & Co. Ltd., "when good port facilities and the same terminal rates as they have." Prince Rupert had no expanding as it set up its own machinery independent of Vancouver, he said.

The new building, just west of 8th Street on Second Avenue, will house all goods handled by the firm except coal and lumber shipped in by rail. Lumber brought in by truck will go direct to the new premises. The building at the wharf will be demolished.

Up from Victoria for the opening was Hugh A. Philpott, the other partner in the company. Mr. Philpott was amused that some people had taken it for granted that he was Elmore Philpott and told him they enjoyed his column in the News.

A great many people took advantage of the invitation to inspect the new building and a steady stream of friends dropped in between 4 and 6 o'clock to congratulate the partners on their new venture and wish them and General Manager Pierre LeRoss continued success.

These have been found in satisfactory condition and no obvious health hazards have been encountered. Remainder of the past month was spent by attending to routine plumbing and garbage problems, a report stated.

A report from Terrace stated that a large septic tank, situated near the school, was purchased. The tank will be cleaned and put back in use. It will ensure a more satisfactory sewer system for the community.

Radios Tops In Softball

Rupert Radio scored their second win of the season and moved to the head of the City Softball League by virtue of their 6 to 2 win over North Star on Saturday night. It was a pitcher's duel right from the start with Bill

Sunberg and Dunbar turning in top-notch performances all evening.

Dunbar struck out fifteen Rupert Radio batters and issued only two walks. He gave up 11 hits and lost the game in the first inning when Ford hit a twobagger with bases loaded to bring in three runs that eventually won the ball game.

Sunberg had 16 strikeouts and gave 6 walks but had beautiful control, except for the second inning when he gave 4 free trips to first before settling down.

There are now six teams in this league, and, with the weatherman co-operating, all games are right on schedule.

The increased number of teams brings an increase in the number of weekly games with the schedule calling for Monday, Wednesday and Saturday contests.

Tonight Co-op plays Firemen in their league debut.

A new schedule including the Co-op entry is printed elsewhere in this paper.

Islanders Come Back to Trounce Hotelmen 12-5

It was a different looking Watson Island baseball team from the one that took the 13-1 shellacking from Abel & Odowes last Tuesday that handed out a similar trouncing to Commercial yesterday. They drubbed them 12-5.

The Islanders lost no time in showing who was boss. In the first inning, with two down, Magnus came through with a two-base hit and was followed by Enright, who drove him home. Enright himself scored while the pitcher was in the process of striking out Wardroper. He crossed the plate on an error by catcher.

Commercial were held scoreless in the first and second innings and it was not until after Watson Island had brought another runner across the plate that the hotelmen got their first run in the bottom half of the third when Manor Simundson came home from his two bagger on a hit by Windle.

From there on it was no ball game. Kristmanson, who had started on the mound for Commercials was pulled and Alec Bill replaced him. In his three innings of pitching Bill man-

VALUABLE ASSET— Co-ordinated Community Service Is Seen In Parks

By M. E. ANDERER

An article in one of last week's issues of the "Daily News" told of the opening of the city parks and particularly of the swimming pool at McClymont Park so I spent a part of Saturday afternoon visiting the parks to see just what we had. I wanted to know in what shape the parks were, how they were maintained, what equipment was provided, how they were staffed and, perhaps most of all, what use the citizens were making of them.

There are six parks in the city—McClymont Park, Gyro Ball Park, Roosevelt Park, Seal Cove Park, Alder Park and Westview Park. Gyro Ball Park lives up to its name, it is chiefly planned for softball. McClymont Park, Seal Cove, Alder and Westview are playgrounds mainly and Roosevelt Park is the athletic sports ground.

I visited Gyro Ball Park first and noted several improvements. The surface has been filled in and levelled off. A fence along Sixth Avenue gives needed protection. Stands have been improved and a new backstop erected. This will undoubtedly be a centre of sociable softball this year. There is a senior softball league with six teams and games are played three nights a week. Then there is a junior league in which five teams play, with double-headers twice a week. These games are for the good and "not-so-good" players. They are games in which everybody should have a good time without too much being at stake.

McClymont Park is more of a playground. It is the best equipped park, the most suitably situated and the most picturesque. Its outstanding feature is its fine swimming pool. As I watched I counted twenty-five enjoying these wonderful facilities. At the shallow end were several girls playing games and making themselves thoroughly at home in the water. At times they were swimming and at times diving. At the other end girls, boys and young men were using the springboard to good purpose. Some very good "jack-knife" dives were being executed, some not so good, and occasionally the well-known "belly-flopper" resounded across the park. Some children spent nearly the whole day there, some just a short time, but while I watched there were thirty-five different frequenters and, in the course of a day, there must be a couple of hundred visitors. Then in the wading pool there were about fifty younger children having a wonderful time. Nearby was the sandbox with future architects displaying marvels of construction, and others just as happy if not so ambitious. Large swings and baby swings were in constant use. On the horizontal ladder the more athletic were strengthening their arms while others were enjoying the teeter-totter.

Plans are being carried out for renovation of present accommodation and the adding of new equipment. The dressing rooms are to be painted and lattice-work screens will give added privacy. The sand-box will be moved farther away from the wading pool and a new piece of equipment will be set up. It is a "goal-high." It is like a single basketball hoop set on a pole and players shoot at it from all directions. Balls will be provided by the Civic Centre. It is not a competition so much as a game. Another pleasing aspect was the number of mothers and families there. Of course appetites are insatiable and in some cases the children were ready to eat as soon as they arrived. Picnic tables will be in demand. Then there are shady nooks where one need only to rest and sleep. The creek attracts followers of Isaac Walton and many fish, mostly small, though at times large, have succumbed to the lures of the young fishers.

When the Parks Board turns its attention to Algoma Park, just across the road, there will be a fine centrally-situated ball park available with a soft surface. At McClymont Park is the full-time caretaker, P. W. Petersen. The Board is fortunate in obtaining his services. He is well known and well equipped for the job. He likes children and will not spare himself in (Continued on page 6)

Landsakes... I guess I do use Nickel

"Bacon, meat, canned vegetables and fruits are all processed in plants where gleaming Nickel alloys keep them clean. And salt—you know how it rusts most metals. 'Monel' equipment is used in the salt refinery too because it lasts longer, keeps the salt pure."

"My sheets and pillow cases come back from the laundry white as snow because 'Monel' equipment is used in washing them. 'Monel' does not rust or stain. It wears longer."

"The heating elements of my toaster, range and percolator all last longer because they are made of Nickel alloys. My knives, forks and spoons are made of a silvery metal composed of nickel, copper and zinc, then silver plated."

Forty-three years of research have uncovered hundreds of uses for Nickel in the United States and other countries. Now Nickel exports bring in millions of U.S. dollars yearly. These dollars help pay the wages of the 14,000 Nickel employees and also help pay railwaymen, lumbermen, steel and iron workers and other men and women making supplies for the Nickel mines, smelters and refineries.

Terrace Sees Pretty Rites

TERRACE—A very pretty wedding was solemnized Saturday at the home of the groom's aunt, Mrs. R. Matthews, when Raymond Dye took as his bride Joyce, twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Perry. The large living room was prettily decorated with spring flowers and, standing under a wedding bell suspended from a pink and white arch, the young couple pledged their vows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon frock of figured, pink organdy, white hat and veil and a bouquet of spring flowers. Her twin sister Norma, was bridesmaid and wore yellow figured organdy with small hat and beautiful bouquet. John Mitzenberg was groomsman. Rev. P. M. Mallett officiated. Following the ceremony 40 people sat down to a wedding breakfast at a charmingly appointed banquet table, centerpiece of which was a beautiful wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. Valderhaug.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Geoff Lambly and responded to by the groom. In the evening "Open House" was held to which the many friends of the popular young couple came to wish them well.

The newlyweds later left for the coast where they embarked for a honeymoon trip to Victoria and Vancouver.

Out-of-town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. L. Burton of Prince Rupert and Mr. and Mrs. G. Thain and Frank Mitzenberg also of Prince Rupert.

It pays to advertise.

trying to maintain the equipment in good shape and the grounds tidy.

A visit to Seal Cove showed that no work has been done there yet. This is a small but beautifully situated rustic playground. I assume that, when the schools close for holidays, it will be in big demand by the east-engers.

Alder Park has not been fully equipped yet. Its group of totem poles is a rare attraction for tourists though many of them have difficulty in finding their way there. The fountain should be put in motion and some tidying up done.

Westview Park is rustic with a fine crop of grass. The sole occupant, a small boy, was thoroughly enjoying himself. I wonder how many children there are in the immediate vicinity.

At Roosevelt Park a new netting has been put up with a sixty-foot extension along the first base line. The dugouts have been repaired and enlarged. The supports for the fence have been bedded in cement and should last. It is planned to stain the seats and huts so that the appearance will be improved. New concrete blocks are to be placed for the stanchions for the nets for the footballers. It is hoped that automobile drivers will not ruin the surface by driving over the grounds.

TRIBUTE TO GYRO

So much for the material and physical equipment. But what of the personnel. First of all I must pay tribute to the Gyro Club for their wonderful work of service to the community. Their provision of equipment through many years has made these parks available and attractive. They have spent much thought, time, energy and money in this community venture. They have only to visit the grounds to see how much they are being used and enjoyed by citizens and they will have a rare sense of satisfaction as they see the results of their endeavours.

The personnel staff this year is of the highest calibre and for this the Civic Centre is responsible. In Keith Maltman they have a fully equipped and professionally trained supervisor. Keith is an ex-member of the R.C.A.F. with overseas service. He is a graduate in physical education of the University of British Columbia. His very evident interest in the children and their reciprocal co-operation give assurance of a happy and successful season.

As Mrs. Maltman is also fully qualified and trained there should be no difficulty in "learning all the answers." Mrs. Maltman is also experienced in children's playground and kindergarten activities.

In this coming week another full-time member will take over duties. She is Miss Gloria Sather from Penticton. Formerly with the Pro-Rec. organization at Kamloops Miss Sather comes with high recommendations and will no doubt add materially to the successful operation of the playground activities this summer.

Behind all these progressive movements is the guiding hand of indispensable Don Forward.

To members of the Parks Board must go a share of the credit for the full organization of the parks. Limited as they are by the grant of finances from the citizens through the City Council, they are doing to utmost with the funds available. There is always the question of where the money is to come from. But it is equally true if people want enough to find the money, they can do so. One of the greatest assets in any community is the children. Their development requires large sums of money but these sums are not an expense, they are an investment that pays big dividends.

A visit to the playgrounds is a satisfying and stimulating experience.

German Measles Now Increasing

During May, 24 visits were paid by Prince Rupert Public Health Unit nurses to schools here. A total of 118 children were examined, 24 of these by the Medical Health Officer. This was announced in a May report of the unit recently issued. The report revealed that the immunization and vaccination program has almost been completed and during the month 63 children were immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. Small pox vaccinations totalled 156 and in addition, two tuberculin patch tests were performed.

While mumps, measles and chicken pox still continue to decrease, the number of cases of German measles has risen considerably. The disease, while generally of a mild nature, nevertheless, required strict attention; quarantine and isolation measures as much as any of the other infectious diseases.

'Under Capricorn' Unusual Story

An unusual story with its setting in Australia in 1831 when a growing British colony was being built up mainly by work of convicts who became free citizens after serving their sentences, "Under Capricorn" is the feature tonight and Tuesday at Capitol Theatre here.

Against this colorful background is traced the tense drama of a freed convict, his wife and a wild young Irishman who loses his heart to the latter. Ingrid Bergman plays the part of the weak-willed wife. Joseph Cotten is the husband and Michael Wilding, the second man. Affairs are further complicated by the passionate devotion of
