RUSSIANS DOUBLE CROSS ALLIES IN BERLIN

Kidnap Western Police After Having Promised To Afford Safe Passage

BERLIN (CP)—Russian tommy-gunners and Soviet sector police today kidnaped nineteen west sector police after the Soviet commandant had guaranteed them safe passage from Berlin's besieged City Hall. The incident further complicates the tense Berlin crisis toward the settlement of which conferences of the four powers have been in progress for several days with no sign of conclusive result as yet.

Russian soldiers and controlled police had thrown a cordon around the City Hall yesterday in an effort to starve out the west sector police who had been attempting to protect the anti-communist assembly against communist-led demonstrators.

Safe passage had later been negotiated by the French commandant, Brigadier General Jean Geneval. One Frenchman said it was a plain double-cross.

REDS STORM BERLIN CITY HALL—Here are scenes of mass movement as 10,000 Red members of the S.E.D. party, singing the Internationale and waving Red banners, broke down the doors and stormed into Berlin's city hall. There, shouting defiance of the western occupation powers, they seized control of all administrative power. One flying squad entered the office of Acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedenburg and demanded that he relinquish police powers to the newly formed "Action Committee." The slogan says in effect: "We demand a peace treaty for all Germany."

BRACKEN WOULD KEEP OLEO BAN

Sees Its Removal As Working Hardship On Dairy Industry

TORONTO (CP)—John Bracken, national leader of the Progressive-Conservative party, said today that the dairy industry was bound to be hurt if the oleomargarine ban was removed. He anticipated that the government intended to permit the manufacture or importation of oleomargarine or both.

"Whatever the merits or demerits of ban or removal," he said at the Canadian National Exhibition, "the latter, if it comes, will inflict further handicap on the dairy industry."

Speaking on the removal of the beef export ban to the United States, Mr. Bracken said the Canadian people cannot continue to buy from the United States if they are denied the right to sell in the United States.

Living Cost Levels Off

This Suggested in View of Narrow Increase in Index For Month of July

OTTAWA (CP)—The official cost of living index advance of only six-tenths of a cent reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics for the month of July from 156.9 to 157.5 was the narrowest change since January 1947.

Although the jump in meat prices in August has yet to be accounted for, a slackening is indicated in the rise which has carried the index up more than 20 points over the last year.

The index is calculated on the basis of 100 points for the 1935-39 period.

Yesterday's report reflected the lifting of the special 25 per cent excise taxes on a broad list of durable household goods in July.

CANTERBURY, Eng., (CP)—The freedom of Canterbury was conferred on the Buffs, the Royal East Kent Regiment, which has been associated with the city since 1782.

THE WEATHER

An area of high pressures is causing clear weather over southern and central sections of the province. A series of storms moving eastward over northern British Columbia is causing rain in that area. No change from these conditions is expected for today and Thursday.

Queen Charlottes and North Coast—Variable cloudiness today, becoming overcast this evening. Intermittent rain tonight and Thursday. Light winds, increasing to southeast (30 m.p.h.) by late afternoon. Little change in temperature. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow—Port Hardy 50 and 62, Masset 50 and 62, Prince Rupert 50 and 62.

Bulletins

BRITAIN ACCEPTS BID

LONDON—Britain notified Russia today that she is ready to open four power talks on the future of Italy's pre-war colonies before September 15, the Foreign Office announced today. France and United States, the other two powers involved, have given no reply to the Russian request as yet.

SOCIALIST INVITED

PARIS—Henri Coue, Radical Socialist, was invited by the President to form a new French government today after Robert Schuman had again resigned following a 295 to 289 reverse in the Chamber of Deputies.

MRS. ARNOLD FAVORS CLEAN-UP

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS—Mayor Nora Arnold of Prince Rupert, at the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention here yesterday, supported a Saanich resolution suggesting to the Minister of Justice that the possibility be considered of a system of censorship of salacious literature and crime comic magazines. Mayor Arnold said "it is certainly something we should take up. Saanich deserves a lot of credit for bringing it up."

School Days Here Again

More Than 1000 Pupils Resume Studies—Teachers, New and Old

All through the city there were extra hustle and bustle in homes of parents with school-age children as the annual return to the routine of school days was made yesterday.

Well over 1000 pupils entered the doors of the city's public and high schools on this first day of the new term. Some of them were experiencing their first meeting with teachers while to the majority it was a matter of a new class and perhaps a different teacher.

Yesterday's session in the classrooms was for the most part a brief one, just long enough to permit registration and to allow the students to obtain a list of text books required for their studies. By the middle of the morning Third Avenue was crowded with boys and girls attempting to purchase their requirements and in some supply centres, many had to wait their turn to get inside the store.

Booth Memorial High School has one more teacher on its staff this year bringing the total to 22. Out of this number eight members of the staff are new to Prince Rupert. At King Edward there are two changes in the staff. At Borden Street School there is only one new teacher and at Conrad Street School the staff is the same as last year except in one class room.

Following the the teachers and their appointments in the schools of the city:

Booth Memorial High School—A. H. Hurst, principal; R. D. Cleland, vice-principal, mathematics; John Henry, social studies; A. M. Grasdal, science; Peter Schrochi, language; Miss Eva Cavalier, commerce; J. B. Densmore, industrial art; Jack

VANCOUVER LOSE BUT STILL LEADS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Calgary Alexandra's upset the dopsters by edging Vancouver Pacifics 3 to 2 in a tight ten-inning Western Canada Women's Senior A softball contest last night. The Pacifics, however, still lead the best out of five series two games to one.

ALASKA FEELS SHIP TIE-UP

Anchorage's Main Worry Over Power Supply—Nome Is Already Feeling Pinch

SEATTLE (CP)—Threat of a prolonged tie-up of shipping lanes because of the maritime strike hit Alaska with varying impact today.

Anchorage grocers hung out signs of "no danger of shortages" and wholesalers said current supplies will last at least two months. Most merchants have stuffed their shelves in anticipation of a tie-up. One merchant reported he had made arrangements for a 55-truck Montana freight firm to haul food over the Alaska Highway in the event of a strike.

Anchorage may suffer, however, since it is counting on the arrival of a generator from the United States to install in a new electric plant. The city has been pressing hard to complete the plant to meet a threatened power shortage.

Longshoremen at Seward are working all vessels in port and will continue to unload all ships docking there.

Nome feels the noose tightly. Merchants there are out of potatoes, short of eggs, butter and dairy products, and a variety of groceries.

BARREL TRIP IS FINANCIAL FLOP

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—William (Red Hill), who thrilled thousands with another voyage through the Niagara River Rapids in a steel barrel Sunday, decided it was all a financial flop. He estimated he will net $500 for the 4½-hour battering in a five-mile trip. The barrel alone cost him $1100.

IS COMMITTED FOR MURDER

Young Dayton Man to Stand Trial for Killing of Townsman on Alaska Highway

POUCE COUPE, (CP)—Gustav Wiegner of Dayton, Ohio, left for Vancouver under guard today to await trial on a charge of murdering John C. McComas, his 52-year old townsman, whose body was left in a lonely spot on the Alaska Highway two weeks ago.

The 24-year old salesman was committed for trial yesterday by Magistrate Martin S. Morrell after he had conducted his own defence at a one-day preliminary hearing. He pleaded not guilty, claiming that the shooting had been accidental while the two men were hunting squirrels.

Louise McComas, 13-year old daughter of the slain man, told her story of the shooting and said that Wiegner had not behaved improperly toward her after her father's death. Wiegner had left her father's money—$1300—in her charge.

Accused will be held at Okalla Prison Farm, near Vancouver, pending trial in higher court.

NORTH ATLANTIC SECURITY URGED

TORONTO (CP)—Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, minister of external affairs, said yesterday that the Canadian government has "been urging at home and abroad" the "immediate establishment of a North Atlantic security system."

DROWNINGS IN SKEENA

Official reports have been received at district headquarters of the provincial police here of two recent drowning fatalities in the Skeena River.

Gordon Russell Kelly fell from the Inverness Cannery wharf and disappeared. Dragging operations and a search conducted under the direction of the provincial police has failed to find any trace of the missing man. Kelly arrived in Prince Rupert in 1941 and was employed at the Prince Rupert dry dock for about four years. For some time after leaving the dry dock he drove truck in the city and for the past two seasons he has been gillnet fishing. He is survived by six children. Herman who is an employee of one of the local taxi firms and five younger children who are residing with relatives in Edmonton.

The waters of the Skeena Slough claimed the life of another victim when 29 year old Stanley Henry fell overboard, from the deck of an Inverness gillnet boat while it was travelling between the cannery and Port Edward. Henry, who came here from Taku, fell from the boat as it was opposite the Port Edward radio towers. His body has not been recovered.

Alaska and Prince Rupert

THE ADVANTAGEOUS USE to which the port of Prince Rupert could be put as the nearest transcontinental railhead to Alaska was again referred to yesterday when we published an interview with George Sundborg who plays an important part in Alaskan affairs as consultant of the Alaska Development Board. He is also executive assistant to Governor Ernest Gruening whose desire to free Alaska from the shackles of Seattle and its transportation monopoly has long since been well known.

Water, of course, will eventually flow downhill and business between Alaska and the United States despite all artificial barriers, must gradually develop. We saw what occurred in this way during the emergency of war. With shipping along the coasts of the United States now tied up by labor troubles, another emergency is arising in which Prince Rupert will, no doubt, be once again used. Meantime, we can keep closely in touch with the Alaskan situation and do what we can to give friendly assistance to the territory in her fight for a better deal which she has been so long denied.

FEW COME HERE

WE NOTICE that Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, has been in Prince George and addressed a public meeting there last night. We are sorry that Mr. Gardiner, long a top figure in federal government affairs and the principal contender against Mr. St. Laurent for the Liberal leadership at the recent national convention, could not have seen his way fit to come along to Prince Rupert when he was so close. We would have liked to have received him and shown him what we have here including the shipping facilities, never forgetting our elevator, in which he, doubtless, should be interested.

It is noticeable that federal cabinet ministers have been few and far between in their visits to Prince Rupert in spite of the important position we think this place holds in the national picture.

HUDSON BAY

THIS IS NOT the first time naval vessels have been seen in Hudson Bay, although never before have Canadian ships entered there, on naval duties. The last time a warship was seen was H.M.S. Scarborough. The cruiser was on a hydrographic survey and the year was 1937.

Although remote, and comparatively little known, this inland sea of the north can be rightly called historic waters. Not only fighting craft have been seen there long ago. The sound of hostile guns has disturbed the stillness. A century and a half ago British and French sloops fought an action, in the rivalry that existed for control of the valuable fur trade. So Hudson Bay, named after the explorer and navigator, has not been entirely out of the picture.

The presence of Canadian ships, and expansion and activity at Port Churehill is a clear indication that the day of isolation is becoming a thing of the past. International relationship, new ways and means of defence on land, sea and in the air, Canadian responsibility for guarding her own coasts are but some of the reasons why Hudson Bay, slowly but steadily, is emerging to form an active part of the life of the Dominion.

THE EDITOR'S POLICY

THE CANADIAN Weekly Editor observes that some of the old timers are complaining that newspapering isn't what it used to be. "Gone are the days when the local editor really speaks his mind. Gone are the caustic pens, the stinging editorials, the big scale exposes."

Few will deny that the colorful, rip-snorting newspaper days of yesteryear have indeed disappeared but some of the changes have been for the better. Nevertheless, it may well be that the trend among many editors to lose their old fighting spirit in their search for a happy medium between the idealistic and the practical is developing into an unhealthy trend.

However, as Canadian Weekly Editor concludes, "it's impossible to remain in everybody's good books. And small town newspaper readers are all too quick to heap abuse on their editor for his sins of commission and omission."

"On the long haul, however, it is perhaps the better part of business wisdom to make decisions on the good old-fashioned premise that truth and fairness pay off."

It's sometimes difficult, however, when the editor's friends seek favors forgetting or perhaps not caring that the granting of a favor to one is as much a disfavor to someone else, especially those who are considerate enough not to ask special favors. The one who asks the favor would probably be the one to protest most loudly if a similar favor were granted to someone else.

SALVATIONISTS ARE WELCOMED

Senior Major and Mrs. C. W. Warrender, Received Monday

A good-sized congregation gathered in the Salvation Army Citadel Monday evening, the occasion being a public welcome to the new Salvation Army Divisional Commanders, Senior Major and Mrs. C. Warrender. A series of meetings, in connection with the annual Congress, had been in progress since late last week, being conducted by Commissioner Charles Baugh and Col. G. Best, Field Secretary. Delegates came here from different outlying points.

Commissioner Baugh presided during the first part of last night's meeting. His duties involve considerable travel for he is territorial commander for Canada, Newfoundland and Bermuda. He spoke of the power of Salvation, the profound change it can and does make in one's life and of the great things achieved through the love of God and true fellowship.

Mrs. Warrender expressed appreciation felt by Major Warrender and herself and for the warmth of the greeting accorded them in Prince Rupert. Their services in the future, they felt, could not but be abundantly successful when such friendliness and goodwill was so much in evidence.

Major Warrender spoke along similar lines. He paid a tribute to Brigadier Gillingham who, after performing long and devoted work in the north, was now taking well earned retirement. He recalled early associations with Brigadier Gillingham in other parts of the country. In a review of the general work of the Salvation Army he mentioned how this can best be done through the blending of the human and the divine.

The concluding speaker was Colonel G. Best, field secretary, who emphasized how one, although apparently weak and impotent and without faith or confidence, can nevertheless rise in his strength, once he realizes the power that comes to him, through Almighty God.

The proceedings throughout, were interspersed with devotional exercises including a solo by John Linney.

Among the delegates in town were Envoy and Mrs. Walker from Canyon City.

FIT FOR A KING—Just a bit informal for a member of "royalty," is Queen Irene Gerwatoska, 5, as she publicly kisses King Raymond Stednick, 2. The youngsters were crowned in a New York playground contest for the most handsome boy and the prettiest girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Watson, moving from Premier following the closing down of the Subar-Premier mine, arrived in the city on the Camosun yesterday from the north and will spend a week here before proceeding to Vancouver. Mr. Watson has been with the mechanical department at Premier.

LOOKS FOR BOOM IN BUILDING HERE

In anticipation of an early boom of building activity in Prince Rupert, Northwest Construction Co. Ltd., through its managing director, Neil G. Kingston, announces the addition to the staff of Jack Martin, formerly of Vancouver, who will assume the position of general superintendent for the company. Mr. Martin is well known in Vancouver as an expert on apartment and store design and has been identified with major projects in that area. A man of Mr. Martin's calibre is particularly welcome in the city since it is certain that Prince Rupert will in the near future see several major construction projects. Mr. Martin will shortly be joined by his family and will take up residence in the city.

SALVATIONISTS WELCOMED

Annual Congress of Salvation Army—Address by Commissioner

Field officers, envoys and delegates from the villages of the Skeena River and the Naas River, from Metlakatla, Port Simpson and Prince Rupert gathered Saturday night in the Salvation Army Citadel to welcome Commissioner Charles Baugh and Colonel G. Best and to take part in Northern British Columbia's native congress.

Representatives of every branch of the Salvation Army in this district addressed greetings to Commissioner Baugh and Colonel Best and not least of these were three little vocalists from the primary Sunday School department who sweetly sang their song of greeting.

Commissioner Baugh, introduced by Brigadier J. T. Gillingham, took the text "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life," as the main theme of his address. The speaker recounted how this message had been given to one, Nicodemus and from Him God's promise of salvation has been spread to millions of people throughout the world in the centuries since the crucifixion of Christ.

"Belief," said the speaker, "is our bridge to God's side, a bridge always open to those who will make use of it." He pointed out that many people in the world live near bridges and never cross them. They feel no need to pass to the other side of the river but bridge to God must be crossed if we are to have true spiritual happiness.

"The condition of the world and the human heart today is as it is because we refuse to accept the way the Lord has offered," declared Commissioner Baugh. "But," he continued, "You can be saved, it is up to you, the way is open." In closing the speaker asked those present to make this Congress meeting an occasion for inspiration and rebuilding of faith.

Colonel Best, field secretary to the Salvation Army in Canada, is visiting Prince Rupert for the first time. For many years he was stationed in Vancouver and through correspondence with the north coast divisional headquarters, he became familiar with the names of many of the native villages. He said he was very happy to have had the opportunity to make the coast trip and declared he envied Mr. Anfield his quarter century of living among the natural beauties of the British Columbia coast.

In his address to the Congress, Colonel Best pointed out to his listeners that development of the spiritual side of life was essential for happy living. "Joy of the Lord is my strength," he said "and when you have that joy you don't have to depend on outside things for happiness.

Others contributing to the main part of the program were F. E. Anfield, who in behalf of the department of Indian Affairs, welcomed Commissioner Baugh and Colonel Best and stressed the importance of religious leadership among the native people; Captain F. Watson, who brought greetings from Prince George, Field Captain Joseph J. Offutt who gave a short address of welcome on behalf of the Port Simpson natives; Field Captain William Moore, who offered prayer for the gathering in his native language; Senior Captain Mrs. J. Chambers read the Scripture and Brigadier Gillingham was chairman of the meeting.

During the meeting a significant honor was paid to Sergeant Major and Mrs. John Smith of Hazelton when Commissioner Baugh decorated each of them with a medal in recognition to their 35 years of faithful service.

At the Congress Rally over the week-end there were many delegates from outside points—Canyon City, Glen Vowell, Hazelton, Skeena Crossing, Port Simpson, Metlakatla, Port Essington, Kitselas, Cedarvale, Kitwanga and Prince George. The following officers and local officers were among the delegates: Captain and Mrs. F. Watson, Prince George; Senior Captain and Mrs. C. Rendell; Envoy and Mrs. J. Walker, Canyon City; Field Captain and Mrs. Moore, Canyon City; Field Cap-

Rain won the baseball series at Prince Rupert scheduled for Labor Day week-end, completely washing out the hopes of the Smithers huskies under manager Herb Leach and those of the local all-stars. Thus came the end of the season here.

Both teams were all set to slug it out on the local diamond Sunday and Monday but their damp opponent didn't give them a chance. The teams were actually on the grounds Sunday afternoon but a battery of rain-clouds drove them to the showers with showers. The Smithers team arrived in Prince Rupert Sunday morning by car and left again for their homes on Monday.

This season was a tough one on the local Baseball Association as far as exhibition games were concerned. Poor weather prevented fans giving them full support at the home games and funds had to be stretched to make them cover guarantees to visiting clubs and to meet travelling expenses when the local team went out of town. As far as is known now Prince Rupert will have to wait for next season to see the local stars of the diamond in action again.

Reminiscences and Reflections

By W.J.

Anyone who remains in the business area of Prince Rupert long enough without going very far east of McBride Street is due for a few surprises once he ventures along Sixth, Seventh and Eighth Avenues. It is easy enough to remember most of the territory between McBride Street and Seal Cove when it was largely unoccupied. From Hays Creek east buildings were scattered and comparatively few. The area known as Rush Brook Heights was mainly cleared land. But today anyone who says Prince Rupert is not growing is talking through his fingers. Hundreds and hundreds of dwellings—some fine looking residences—and numerous trim little homes with lawns and flower gardens, extend for miles. A lot are being paid for, and that's the beauty of it.

The day will come when where to park, in Prince Rupert, will be a real, and not a prospective, problem. It's been on the border line for quite a while. But when cars are commencing to take up curb space on each side of a street from end to end of a block the question of where to go next looms larger.

The next stop will be Thanksgiving, and after that, Halloween. Observance of the latter a few seasons ago was the perfect example of how not to celebrate. It raised strong resentment, inflicted serious damage and took liberties that could not be excused. But it was not wholly the fault of over-exuberant youngsters. The whole affair was engineered by older heads who made a venerable and quaint festival an excuse for pulling off something raw. And it was all of that.

The letter "E" comments the Typographical Journal, is an unfortunate letter, since it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time. But those who traduce the letter "E" should not forget it is never in harm, always in peace, is the beginning of existence and the end of trouble. Without it, there would be no meat, no life, no heaven, no wine or women, both so necessary to make song enjoyable. It is the centre of honesty, makes love perfect, is the beginning of eternity, the end of time and space, the beginning of every end, and the end of every place.

Suggestions have been heard that banks in Britain be nationalized. Presumably some folks have heard of how a woman in Australia, who had managed to save a few dollars, lost her nest egg. It seems hardly believable. She had a thousand and pounds in the bank and had neglected to make an income tax return. There was no proof she owed anything but the Socialist government reached over and took it all except sixteen shillings. It is said she was "flabbergasted." That's putting it mildly.

At noon, Labor Day, the bus that went over the embankment within sight of Seal Cove almost a week previous was still lying where it hit. Some estimate the drop at 75 feet. The distance—the steep, rugged, rock hillside—looks more like a hundred. The guard, placed along the edge of the hilly highway, has long outlived usefulness. In fact, it deceives. The wood is decayed. One can pick pieces out of what was once sound timber. The course of the heavy wheels as they tore through, the ragged marks in the soil of the overturned bus, dropping and bumping repeatedly until it finally brought up in the grassy watercourse, and the cluster of bent, torn brush where the car crashed through, give eloquent signs of how the man on board must have felt, as he awaited the grand finish.

REMEMBERING CANADIANS WHO DIED AT DIEPPE—There are only two kinds of soldiers... live ones and dead ones... and sometimes those who live pay a price too... all of which refers to the above, where a one-armed Canadian war veteran of World War I stands in silent contemplation at the graves of Canadian Commandos who did not come back from the Dieppe raid of August 19, 1942. This mourner was one of a delegation which attended exercises commemorating the ill-fated raid.

SHIPS and WATERFRONT

Weather, in the form of wind and rain storms, allied with the pink salmon to foil the seiners in their attempt to fish Massett Inlet during the later part of last week but the fishermen managed to get over 600,000 fish this season which is about five times the number taken in 1946, the last year the waters of Massett Inlet and Naden Harbor were open for pink fishing. However, the storms coming when they did permitted a good escapement of fish to spawning streams. By the end of the week the run was practically over and the big boats were leaving for better fishing grounds. In the south Queen Charlotte area the expected chums have not shown up in any quantity, according to reports. In the Butedale and Bella Bella areas chums are not very numerous either. Last week storms also drove the tuna boats to shelter but there are still hopes that the run is continuing and that the north coast fishermen will get another chance at the fish before they leave the waters off the Queen Charlotte coast.
