

Atlantic Alliance Hailed And Condemned

Means Peace, Says West; Mean War, Says Soviet

CANADA'S VIEW EXPRESSED BY MINISTER OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS PEARSON

LONDON, (CP)—Countries of the west read the North Atlantic pact today as an outline for world peace but Moscow condemned it as a design for war. In blunt language, Britain's foreign secretary, Ernest Bevin, called it the hope of persons with peaceful intent and an instrument to block Kremlin efforts to rule Europe by war.

The Moscow radio, in an English language broadcast, charged that "this pact means war on the Soviet Union." The voice was identified as that of Dr. I. Lemin, Soviet historian.

These statements are typical of the reaction of statesmen and the press in the two "cold war" camps.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson last night frankly told a radio audience that fear of Russian-aided Communist forces destroying common restoration had prompted Canada to join the proposed North Atlantic pact. He said that Western European countries with Canada and the United States—negotiators of the security pact—working together, could restore the western world. "Together they can frustrate the Soviet veto for peace."

AIRCRAFT MEET AT ANNETTE BASE

Canadian Pacific Air Lines flights from Vancouver and Prince Rupert made their connection Friday at Annette Island, Alaska, instead of Sandspit after fog had closed in the Queen Charlotte Islands air strip, making it impossible for either plane to land.

The two aircraft arrived at Sandspit simultaneously on scheduled time, but, finding the field fogged in, their pilots decided to head 100 miles north to Annette air base, rather than forfeit the connection.

As a result, Sandspit-bound passengers were brought to Prince Rupert late yesterday afternoon and proceeded to their destination on this afternoon's flight.

Vancouver passengers from Prince Rupert and Prince Rupert-bound passengers from Vancouver were exchanged at Annette. The episode was the first in which Canadian Pacific Air Lines has had occasion to use Annette Island in connection with flights between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

The plane brought in two passengers from Vancouver and 11 destined for Sandspit.

NINE DOCTORS, FIVE NURSES

King's Operation Took Less Than Half an Hour

LONDON—Nine physicians and five nurses were present at the recent operation on King George to restore blood circulation in the right leg. Professor James R. Learmouth, American trained surgeon of Edinburgh, and Professor J. P. Ross performed the operation.

The treatment required a two-inch incision and took less than a half hour. The object was to cut a small nerve centre near the spine to allow freer circulation of blood to the foot. This was performed lest gangrene develop and make amputation necessary.

MEN ARE FINED FOR JOYRIDING

Two men received heavy fines in city police court Friday afternoon when they pleaded guilty to taking a car without the owner's consent. The vehicle was badly damaged in a joy-ride that had its ending in a ditch on Park Avenue.

Stanley Dixon was fined $150 or three months and Calvin Nott was fined $100 or two months. They were charged jointly.

The car, a sedan owned by Syd Hamblin, received damage estimated at $350 when it went off the road on Park Avenue after a high-speed drive.

A full report will be presented to a general meeting of the local branch to be held at a later date.

Yesterday's executive meeting decided to postpone the canvassing in the local campaign for funds until the early part of May.

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Rothwell, president; Mrs. J. C. Gilker, secretary; Mrs. W. Murdoch, Mrs. G. V. Hanley, Mrs. J. D. Fraser, Mrs. D. R. Barclay, Mrs. G. A. Hunter and Rev. Fred Antrobus.

MILLION DOLLAR LOSS—Only twisted girders remain of the Quebec Coliseum, civic sports centre and home of the Quebec Aces and Citadels, senior and junior hockey league teams of the Quebec capital. Fire destroyed the three-storey red brick building early Tuesday at an estimated loss of $1,000,000. Top photo shows the blaze roaring through the structure. All Quebec's fire-fighting equipment and 250 firemen were powerless to save the building. Bottom photo shows the remains. Plans are now being made to erect a larger arena before next hockey season.

NO CONTROL OVER TRADE

Canada's Commerce Problems Discussed in Parliament

OTTAWA.—A free swinging debate on Canada's trade problems developed in the House of Commons yesterday as Finance Minister James Gardiner answered Opposition questions as to the reasons for loss of some of the overseas markets.

Abbott said that the government, as realists, realized that markets in the United Kingdom were being restricted because those countries cannot produce enough goods and services to pay for the purchase of Canadian goods.

Canada was vitally concerned in holding the market in the United Kingdom, Mr. Gardiner said. "But we don't control the trade policies of Britain or any other country." If Britain wants to buy bacon from Denmark, wheat from Russia, poultry from Hungary, "we may not like it but we can't say 'you must not do that sort of thing!'"

Alex Slater returned to the city Friday afternoon from a trip to Vancouver.

C.N.R. Finances

WITH gross operating revenues of the Canadian National Railways at an all time high during the year 1948, it is an ironical situation that the government lines should have recorded during the year the largest deficit since pre-war days. We can sympathize with the C.N.R. in the situation for their financial story for the year just ended has been paralleled by many a lesser business in the country due to overhead having increased more than revenue. But, added to this situation, the government railway is saddled with its crippling burden of bonded indebtedness.

While we have at times railed and protested at the railway over its seeming lack of the old spirit of broad development and the loss of the great vision on which our line into the port of Prince Rupert was conceived, annual financial report time, with its realistic picture, has the tendency to bring one down to earth and to elicit the admission that, in many ways, C.N.R. is not doing such a bad job after all. We will, of course, continue to protest for fair and indiscriminatory treatment at all times.

THE BETTER WAY

WHILE a few may have been there, the majority of those in Canada who praise Soviet Russia and her way of life have never been in that country. Any number of Canadians whose affection for Moscow seems so steadfast have little notion of the Russian language and not much knowledge of the real history of Russia, past and present. Perhaps some have never been away from Canada.

It is a curious circumstance to find people who are so certain of what they say, so firmly wedded to what they want to believe, so prone to idealize.

Yet, there is nothing actually new in any of it. Communism, or the same under another name, is an old, old story. The broad, general principles and theories have been spread over the earth before and it cannot be denied that the sophistry, so widely preached, has its followers.

Vast wars cannot follow one another, without more human misery and destitution as the world struggles back toward something approaching security, a normal state and the freedom always accepted as a matter of course.

This is the soil in which the seeds of socialism flourish, for the aftermath of conflict provides unrivalled opportunity that is taken fullest advantage of.

Through sane industrial progress, fair play to all, equality, there is a sure way to a life which the Kremlin only vaguely promises.

MIGHTY SMALLNESS

THE HUMAN MIND has been baffled by the infinitude of the universe. Theologians have depicted man as a "worm," and God as enthroned in a region.

Infinite lengths beyond the bounds
 Where stars revolve in their little rounds.

That appealed to our imagination, but God is not a deity who looks down upon and rules this world from some remote Olympus. When the Psalmist surveyed the starry heavens he was overawed and humiliated by the vastness of it all, and he asked: "What is man that Thou art mindful of him?" Science is beginning to answer that question, or at least to turn our vision in the opposite direction and confirm the mystical doctrines of Christianity.

We need no longer be obsessed and humiliated by bigness, for the little things of life are confounding the mighty. The explosion of the atom has shattered our conception of a giant God and of our own insignificance. We are turning from the futile exploration of space to the contemplation of the wonder and mystery of the world within and around us. It was in this direction that Jesus turned our attention when He said: "The very hairs of your head are all numbered." It has taken science two thousand years to discover that biological fact. We are only just beginning to understand what Jesus meant when He said: "Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow: they toil not, neither do they spin, and yet I say unto you that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these." Tennyson came close to the mystery when he wrote

Flower in the crannied wall,
 I pluck you out of the crannies;
 I hold you here in my hand,
 Little flower—if I could understand
 What you are, root and all, and all in all,
 I should know what God and man is.

TWO FINED, ONE SUSPENDED IN LIQUOR CASES

Two taxi drivers were fined and a third was given a year's suspended sentence by Magistrate W. D. Vance in city court this morning following their conviction Friday on charges of keeping liquor for sale. Appeals against the convictions may be lodged by their counsel, Angelo E. Branca of Vancouver.

A $500 fine was levied against Patrick Mazzei, while Sam Julian was fined $300, the minimum under the Liquor Act. In view of extenuating circumstances, Dominic Montesano received a year's suspended sentence from the magistrate.

In all three cases, a $500 security bond was set by Magistrate Vance pending an appeal. The amount was fixed after Mr. Branca had asked that an appeal security be set by the court.

Julian was given the minimum fine at the request of Mr. Branca who told the court that no previous Liquor Act convictions had been registered. Crown Counsel Brown raised no objection to the minimum fine.

However, in the case of Mazzei, Mr. Brown objected to the minimum sentence on grounds that he had previously been convicted of Liquor Act offences. Magistrate Vance set the fine at $500.

Turning to third defendant the magistrate said: "I am here to put young fellows right. I wouldn't mind giving you a break if you give me your promise to behave."

CONVICTED YESTERDAY

A crowded police court Friday afternoon heard Magistrate Vance convict Mazzei and Montesano on charges of keeping liquor for sale after police constables had testified that they had lured the men into making early-morning liquor deliveries to the waterfront by using disguised voices on the telephone. Like Sam Julian, who was found guilty earlier in the day, Mazzei and Montesano had employed Angelo Branca, Vancouver lawyer, for their defence. All were remanded for sentence until this morning.

Prosecution evidence in all three cases was similar to the extent that the police constables had disguised their voices to imitate Indians when they telephoned for liquor from the waterfront. Police testified that the events which led to the Mazzei and Montesano prosecutions occurred on the early morning of Sunday, March 6.

An objection against the admissibility of the alleged telephone conversations as evidence entered by Mr. Branca during the hearing of the Julian case Friday morning, was reiterated in both the following cases. The court ruled, however, that a precedent quoted by Crown

SATURDAY SERMON

NORTHERN NEIGHBORLINESS

Rev. R. A. Wilson, M.A., First United Church

Luke 10:33 "A certain Samaritan came where he was."

When Christ was asked to answer the question, "Who is my neighbor?" he took as his example of a neighbor a man who was a Samaritan. No doubt, his answer was offensive to His fellow Jews who thoroughly despised the Samaritans. Our own twentieth century racial problems are different in many ways to the hatred that existed between Jews and Samaritans in Jesus' day. However, all hatred belongs to the same family of relationships. Even if Jesus had never mentioned Samaritans we would know that he stood for inter-racial neighborliness.

On the basis of our Christian ideal of neighborliness I would like to set forth a few reflections regarding our community's relationships with the native people of the district.

1. We do not have a "racial problem" of the same sort as exists in South Africa or United States and thinking of this question as a problem could aggravate what problem there is. However, the time to stop the development of a problem is right now while the community is still young. The community is about to undergo considerable change. The customs which are established in the near future will tend to be permanent and difficult to change.

2. Our native people are a proud people and the rest of the community is proud of them. If you doubt this, go to the prairies and listen to someone, from Prince Rupert speaking about the way "our natives" do things. There are two things I would like to point out in regard to the justifiable pride of our native people. First, a proud man will ask for equality but he will not ask for privileges which others cannot share. Secondly, a proud man will refuse to excuse himself by saying "People are picking on me." Most of us feel like making excuses for ourselves at some time or other. One of the ways we pity ourselves is by grumbling that people are not paying enough attention to us. Such self-pity, however, is never admired even when it is justified.

3. The community cannot afford to allow segregation. Segregation of any part of the population is an "insult not only to those who are segregated but to the rest of the community as well. A point in the book "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas illustrates this. One of the characters points out that the effect of slavery is to degrade the life, not only of those who are slaves, but also of those who are free. By thinking of human life in the form of slavery as a cheap thing, men are forced to conclude that human life in any form is a cheap thing.

The same result follows from any custom which segregates part of the community. When you see your neighbor shut out of a theatre seat or hotel room you are being injured yourself. Everyone has a right to be treated as an individual. It is unfair to anyone to treat him as if he existed merely as a member of a group no matter what the group may be. Most of the world's troubles seem a long way off and far out of our reach. Here is a problem that is close at hand. It can be solved by that northern neighborliness of which we are proud. Practical men who are unconcerned by ideals need to realize that unfairness at this strategic time will multiply trouble in the future. Practical Christians know what their duty is. Let them do it!

Q. If a girl does not know a man very well, would it be all right for her to congratulate him on his marriage?
 A. Yes, if she is a friend of the bride. It seems somewhat out of place if she does not know the bride. Then it would be better merely to extend good wishes.

How to tune a piano!

The piano's out of tune. So we'll chop it up. Then we'll get a tin horn instead.

Sure, these men are crazy.

But they're using the same kind of thinking a lot of people have been using on the Canadian economic system lately.

Our Canadian way isn't perfect. We still have our ups and downs of prices and jobs. We'll have to change that. But even so, our system works a lot better than the second-rate substitutes being peddled by some countries we could mention.

It works better because of a few simple things. We are inventive, and we know how to use machine power to produce more goods at lower cost. We have skilled workers. We believe in collective bargaining and enjoy its benefits. And we Canadians save ... and our savings go into new tools, new plants, new and better machines.

Because of this, we produce more every working hour ... and can buy more goods with an hour's work.

We can make the system work even better, too: by all of us working together to turn out more for every hour we work ... through better machines and methods, more power, greater skills, and by sharing the benefits through high wages, low prices, short hours.

It's a good system. It can be made better. And even now it beats anything that any other country in the world under any other form of government has to offer.

So—let's tune it up, not chop it down.

JAPANESE-CANADIAN PUCK CHASERS—These Japanese-Canadian youngsters, well-clad and healthy, play skateless hockey on a Green wood street. They learned this and other winter games since being evacuated from the coastal defence zone with their parents during the war. Greenwood, former ghost mining town 39.5 miles east of Vancouver, has become a bustling community of 1,000 largely due to the evacuated Japanese. All restrictions against Japanese living in coastal areas of B.C. are due to be revoked March 31 and representations are being made to Premier Johnson to remove discriminations against Japanese in B.C. laws.

MAPLE SYRUP
Spring is here and maple syrup already is making its appearance in the market stalls. If the housewife wants to try a new "syrup" dish on her family, here is a recipe:

Maple Rice Pudding—Ingredients: one-quarter cup rice; two cups milk; 2½ tablespoons cornstarch; one-half cup maple syrup; two egg yolks; two egg whites; one-quarter cup maple syrup.

Boil rice in salted water until tender. Drain. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Blend cornstarch to a smooth paste with the one-half cup maple syrup. Add gradually to the hot milk. Stir until mixture thickens and cook 15 minutes. Add rice and well-beaten egg yolks. Place in greased baking-dish. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually add the one-quarter cup maple syrup, beating until stiff. Spread over the pudding. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until delicately browned, about 15 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Maple Syrup Cream—Ingredients: one-half cup flour; one-half teaspoon salt; one cup maple syrup; 1½ cups hot milk; two egg yolks; three tablespoons butter; two egg whites; one-quarter cup maple syrup. Mix flour, salt and maple syrup. Bread and Honey— There's nothing like a slice of bread and honey to satisfy young appetites during after-school hours.

Home economists remind homemakers that most of Canada's honey, either for inter-provincial trade or export from Canada, is graded according to government regulations.

Cleanliness and moisture content are the two factors stressed in the regulations. Since moisture affects the keeping quality of honey it is wise to keep it in a cool, dry place.

Fire in DeLuxe Spokane Doghouse

SPOKANE — When the Kari Moore family heard Boots, the retriever, barking furiously after midnight, they discovered it came from his deluxe dog house, which was on fire. Boots was inside. The blaze had started from a short circuit in the dog's electric heating pad. He barked his own fire alarm.

as special as Apple Ice Cream: Ingredients: two cups grated apples (four medium apples); one half cup fruit or fine granulated sugar; one-half pint whipping cream.

Reminiscences
By W. J. — and REFLECTIONS

Winnipeg's bakers have gone on strike and thousands of families are limited to a loaf a day while those who come late get none. It's all very inconvenient. To be able to bake an ovenful of good, substantial bread may not be thought a social accomplishment, but it's worth knowing. And bread so handy to have around the house.

A program item, enjoyed here recently, was called "Little Toots." In earlier life, we experienced this, but only now and then. Yet there were occasions when some were quite big.

HOW CAN I ? ? ?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I remove scratches from furniture?
A. Use equal quantities of best salad oil and vinegar; mix and bottle, and shake well before using. Dip a soft rag into the mixture and rub well into the wood. Equal parts of linseed oil and turpentine are also good. Beeswax can be used to fill cracks in furniture.

Q. Is it injurious to moisten the hair with water too frequently?
A. Yes; if this is done too often it causes the hair to become harsh and dry, making it break easily.

Q. What can I use as a substitute for egg in puddings?
A. One teaspoon of gelatin dissolved in hot milk is a good substitute for two eggs when making puddings of cake.

THE WORK OF MERCY NEVER ENDS

"Operations Peacetime" is still being fought by thousands of our veterans. We must help them win! With your contributions, the Red Cross brightens the dull days of our war-wounded... visiting them regularly... providing them with candy and comforts, tobacco, entertainment and books.

Canadian Red Cross Lodges, affiliated with Veterans Affairs Hospitals, are in operation across Canada. Here, patients relax, enjoy music and games, visit with families and friends. Those who are able, learn profitable and entertaining handicrafts. Red Cross Lodges, too, provide overnight accommodations for visiting out-of-town parents and next-of-kin. Often, this alone makes visits possible.

Show our war-wounded you have not forgotten. Help them in their battle for recovery. Remember, they gave much for you. Now, it's your turn! Give generously to your Red Cross.

Cancer World's Second Killer

SMITH'S FALLS, Ont.—Cancer is the world's second killer, said Dr. J. A. McCue, addressing the Rotary Club here. It was not any more prevalent today than in former years and could occur at any time of life.

Cancer could be cured if found on the surface and, if early enough, internal surgery could accomplish the desired result. Some causes were chronic irritation, hereditary tendency or working with certain chemicals or substances such as tar.

HERRING SPAWNING NOW—TROLLING STILL QUIET—U.S. CADET SHIP COMING

Herring on the north coast began spawning this week on the west side of the Tsimpsean peninsula, but it is too early yet to determine whether the year will see a large spawn or not. The spawning began Thursday in the area from Ryan Point to Big Bay in Port Simpson harbor.

Earlier in the week, spawning began in the Bella Bella area. In both districts, it is earlier than last year.

The hordes of silver fish, which migrate inshore early every year, spawn on the rocky foreshore, much to the delight of the gulls and other wild life which fatten on the billions of eggs. At times, the shore line is whitened by the spawn which has a high mortality rate due to weather and predators.

The eggs are laid, generally at half tide on kelp, rockweed and even the bare rock itself. Its glutinous outer surface causes it to adhere to anything it touches. Occasionally, the urge to spawn is so immediate among the herring that they will lay their eggs at full tide. These eggs generally perish because they become exposed for long periods of low water and are vulnerable to the ravages of predators.

Among some natives the herring spawn is used as food, pressed into cakes or preserved in barrels. One method of obtaining the spawn is to put evergreen branches in the water and withdraw them after they become loaded with eggs.

So far, there has been no sign of a herring run at Hunt's Inlet, Porcher Island, where Martin Johnson maintains a herring pound. The herring are kept in wire mesh cages in the pound until the halibut season opens. Halibut men prize the live herring highly for bait.

The Naas River oolichan run which is still in progress is reported to be a good one and scores of native boats are netting them. A few small boats are bringing the small, oil-laden fish to Prince Rupert where restaurant patrons and other fish lovers are enjoying their annual feasts of the delicacy.

The Ketchikan packer Fairbanks was in port this week to lead a carload of American beer, shipped in bond from the U.S. to Ketchikan. The packer Robert Eugene is expected here this week-end with a cargo of frozen fish for shipment to the eastern United States.

There is still no trolling activity in nearby waters, nor is there expected to be any before April 15. The spring salmon are said to have not begun to run yet, although an occasional one is being caught by hand trollers.

Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. All Aspinall, arrived in port at noon Friday from Vancouver and sailed at 10 p.m. for Massett and Port Clements on her bi-weekly sailing to the north Queen Charlottes. The vessel is due back here tomorrow morning to sail at 10 p.m. for Butehead, Namu, Westview and Vancouver.

Union steamships office on Third Avenue is being modernized with the acquisition of a new and modern fitted counter. The counter, finished in birch plywood is of attractive modern design and was built by a local firm. The office is to be made increasingly attractive by further renovation work.

The 185-foot FS-210, due here next Saturday with a party of forty American cadets south-bound after an Alaskan cruise, is an Army vessel assigned to the Seattle Port for the purpose of providing training facilities for Reserve personnel, and is manned by a Regular Army crew under the command of Captain Lawrence Oxx. SALVAGE ON OLD PRINCE GEORGE instructional staff of the Army unit stationed at the University of Washington provide for class sessions aboard ship enroute, giving the students more concentrated practical information during their ten days' cruise than they could get in a whole quarter at school. Major James D. Donlon, Jr., is the Transportation Corps officer in charge. This is the third such training cruise to be authorized by the Department of the Army, and though representative of the new sort of instruction methods to be employed by civilian and Reserve components of the Army, the University of Washington ROTC unit is the first to carry it out in this way. Students from the University of Oregon's unit are also in the party and five were especially selected. Close cooperation with the Navy at Seattle enabled some of their students to also make the trip. The 185-foot FS-210 is equipped with radar and gyrocompass. Philip Falconer is the civilian Alaska pilot aboard.

KETCHIKAN—There is activity aboard the broken hulk of the old Canadian National Steamships steamer Prince George, which burned at her dock here in September 1945 and has since lain on nearby Gravina Island where she was towed and beached while still aflame. With a salvage scow alongside, the vessel is being stripped and is being prepared for refloating. She will be broken up for scrap, it is understood. The Prince George was long since abandoned to the underwriters.

Once upon a time there was a boy penguin and a girl penguin who met at the Equator. After a brief but charming in-latitude, the boy penguin went north to the North Pole; the girl penguin went south to the South Pole.

Later on, a telegram arrived at the North Pole, stating simply: "Come quick—I am with Byrd."
