Chiang In Chungking

Would Foil Secret Agreements Between War Lords and Communists

CANTON @—Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek flew yesterday to Chungking in an apparent attempt to foil any secret agreements that might be made between the war lords of Szechwan and the Communists.
The flight was apparently one of great urgency as the generalissimo postponed a meeting of the Kuomintang party's emergency council in order to make it.

Rumors here are that Chiang Kai Shek wishes to resign.

General Pai Chung-Hsi, central China commander, announced that his counter-offensive had rolled to two new victories over the Communists on both the eastern and western flanks of Henyang.

This is the Human defence bastion 265 miles north of Canton on the Canton-Hankow railway.

FIGHT TO FINISH

Chiang appealed today to Nationalist China for a finish fight against the "aggression of the Communist International."
The Reds answered with a new push on uneasy Canton.
The Chinese Reds have unmasked themselves as international agents, said Chiang. He saw their power waning as a "strong arrow reaching the end of its flight." But he also seemed to see the end of Canton as his government's refugee capital. For he said: "Today Chungking will again become the centre of a fight against aggression."
The new Communist drive was unleashed by the famed one-eyed general, Liu Po-Cheng, in the southwest corner of Kiangsi Province. It threatened three towns near Kwangtung Province border, all within a 140-mile arc of northeast Canton.

Labor Government To Call Snap Election?

LONDON (CP)—A reliable informant said yesterday that Britain's Labor government may have to consider doing away with free medical services if next month's dollar sterling talks in Washington fail. The informant, close to the government, said that Labor leaders were awaiting the outcome of the talks before deciding whether to call a quick election this year or carry on until the end of the five-year term next July.

ADMIRATION FOR BRITAIN

R. C. Vaughan Stresses
Importance of Solving
British Problems

MONTREAL—“The railroad world will admire the remarkable way in which the British railways have restored normal operations after the tremendous damage and dislocation of ser-said R. C. Vaughan, C.M.G., chairman and president of Canadian National Railways on his return here yesterday from a visit overseas.

The transportation problems over there are not dissimilar to those in Canada, according to Mr. Vaughan, the British railways are experiencing difficulty in obtaining new equipment and they have not been able to do as much as they want in the way of modernizing passenger equipment.

“Conditions in Europe,” said Mr. Vaughan, “are, of course, dependent upon the relationship between the currencies of the various nations, especially to the dollar, and if the extremely difficult problem of monetary stabilization could be solved most of the difficulties facing not only Europe but other countries as well would also be solved. The remarkable way in which Britishers and Europeans alike are rehabilitating their countries from the devastation of war proves their willingness and ability to work and the high plane to which individual and national effort has returned Europeans are not the perpetrators but the helpless victims of economic influences that, even though they be historical or inevitable, must be removed before full recovery can be achieved. Postponement of that recovery inevitably means postponement of world prosperity and security.”

“Wherever the Canadian National Railways has offices I found them to be active and efficient in serving the interests of the company and of Canada,” he said.

Mr. Vaughan was accompanied by Mrs. Vaughan and, while in London, they attended Their Majesties' garden party at Buckingham Palace. On their tour overseas they visited Southampton, Antwerp, Brussels, Rotterdam, Paris, Liverpool, Edinburgh and Glasgow.

British Gov't Cutting Down

LONDON @—The British government has ordered an overall cut in government spending by at least $600,000,000 a year, it was disclosed today.
This order by the treasury, described as “heavy pressure to make all possible economies,” came on the eve of dollar crisis talks in Washington.
It is understood that a five percent reduction in estimates for next April's budget is the target set but it is hoped that some departments can do even better.
Some civil servants, it is stated, will lose their jobs.

Might Use Warehouse

Suggested That Alaska
Steamship Co. Might
Store Pulp Here

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce is working on another angle in the hope that the great warehouse on the local waterfront, which was erected by the United States Army during the war, may be saved from demolition.

Alaska Steamship Co. is reported to have signified its interest in using the port of Prince Rupert in connection with the shipment of pulp from mills which are being projected for such points as Ketchikan. Substantial storage facilities would be required.

The Chamber is now in touch with Alaska Steamship officials and, if their interest is confirmed, the Chamber would seek to have War Assets Corporation further defer disposal of the building by demolition.

Recently, the Chamber received an ultimatum from the federal government that, unless some use could be found for the building, there would be no alternative but to demolish it. The same edict was made in connection with the administration building but, since then, there has been a revival of interest in its purchase for useful purposes.

C.N.R. Gets Ocean Dock

Also Cold Storage Plant
Which Was Installed By U.S. During War

Official notification has been received at Canadian National Railways offices here of the transfer by War Assets Corporation to the railway company of the western section of the ocean dock here which was built during the war by the United States Army.

Also transferred to the railway company is the cold storage plant adjoining the west end of the ocean dock which was another United States war installation. It is believed that this cold storage plant may be utilized by the railway in connection with transshipping of perishable products through here to and from Alaska.

The extension of the ocean dock thus acquired by the railway company is 400 feet, the total length being 1240 feet. The cold storage plant has capacity of 83,716 cubic feet.

More Traffic Here

MODIFICATION until June 30 of restrictions under the Jones Act, as approved by President Truman, will make it possible for Canadian vessels to participate more freely in the Alaska trade. They will be permitted now to handle traffic between ports in Alaska. Canadian vessels will also be allowed to pick up American business in Alaska and deliver it either part of the way or all the way to United States and will be able to participate in business moving in the reverse direction.

The applicability to Prince Rupert is, of course, obvious and the opportunity to increase business for Canadian bottoms will, doubtless, be taken advantage of by enterprising shipping concerns. If American shipping services for any reason are unable to give service, it will be easy for Alaskans, as they have done before, to turn to Canada and Canadian shipping and it could, conceivably, even further increase the substantial volume of traffic already being developed through this port to and from Southeastern Alaska.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

COMMUNISTS, Socialists and other misinformed citizens who complain that the press is manacled by monopolies should study the report recently handed down by Britain's Royal Commission on the Press. The 250,000-word report on the two-year study contained these two important paragraphs.

"It is undoubtedly a great merit of the British press that it is completely independent of outside financial interests and that its policy is the policy of those who own and conduct it.

"The public can dismiss from its mind any misgivings that the press of this country is mysteriously financed by hidden influences and that it is open to the exercise of corrupt pressure from self-seeking outside sources."

The report dealt with the press of Great Britain, but anyone connected with the publishing industry in Canada knows that the same observations could be made of the press of the Dominion.

SATAN VS. GYROS—

McClymont Park, Investment in Citizenship - New Pool Popular

(By JAY ESS)

Satan and the Gyros! The Gyros and Satan! Yet there was a connection—or rather a contest—between these two powerful agencies. That thought persisted for a time as I watched scores of children at McClymont Park and dozens of them in the splendid new swimming pool there. What might have been a prejudice at first in my mind became a gratifying logical certainty as the minutes passed by.

Satan was licked, and badly beaten. There is the old and true saying that "Satan still some evil finds for idle hands to do." Well the chief of the devils is out of luck where the Gyros operate. That is where the connection between Satan and the Gyros comes in. At the Gyro Park were scores of children and quite a few grown-ups. None were idle and so none were finding evil things to do.

What a satisfaction such a sight must be to any citizen but particularly to any Gyro! There was the new swimming pool! There was the sandpile! There was the creek! And in every place there was activity, happiness and a healthful development of the body with its concurrent mental health development. Mothers busy too, dividing their interests between their small children and knitting. Over all a warm sun shining, the sounds of merriment in their ears and the fragrant satisfying odor of the evergreens. Surely, "God's in His heaven. All's right with the world!"

However, my primary interest was in the new swimming pool. Was it a good investment? The answer is a very definite yes. There were always at least thirty children, girls and boys, of all ages enjoying one of the best forms of athletic activity. There was diving. Some was by experts. Neil Forman and Ronnie Berg caught my eye as they slid into the water noiselessly and without any commotion in straight standing, running or jackknife dives. Shirley and Joan

Pearson and Joyce Pottle were impressive too. Perhaps more fun was being had by the non-expert. There were various sounds as different parts of various anatomies struck the water at various angles. As legs slapped the surface or some did "Belly floppers" there was much merriment. Some went like frogs but unlike the frogs their legs were at divergent angles as they struck the water and there were splashes, many and large.

Others, mostly at the shallower end were swimming. They were practising, and practising seriously, different strokes—the breast stroke, the crawl, the back stroke. And some were very proficient. A couple were practising somersaults in the water and mutually criticising each other's achievement. Two lads were diving to pick up small articles at the bottom of the pool. Some went in feet first—holding noses or not. But everyone was busy and happy. And I was much impressed by the habits of them all. As each came in he or she used the footbath. And Joyce Pottle, who was keeping a watchful eye on all, saw that the water in the footbaths was changed frequently. Altogether it was a most delightful experience.

PADDLING POOL

Then to the paddling pool! There were children of all ages happily sporting themselves in it. Here there was a happy confidence and the absence of any feeling that the water was too deep. Just beside it was the sandpile and there were budding architects planning and carrying out marvels of original construction. Here there are undoubtedly some future town-planners—and I hope when they grow up that they will not allow lots to be limited to twenty-five feet in width.

Scores of children were very active with all the equipment items. One young girl was doing marvels on the horizontal ladder. Some lads were doing practical problems in physics on the seesaws proving that the product of the weight and the distance from the fulcrum would provide a balance. Lack of equality in the products provided unequal equilibrium!

There was every sign that our youth will grow up willing and able to carry on the traditions of the sea. There were many youngsters with boats of all sizes and shapes experimenting with their problems of navigation, propulsion and steering in the "dangerous hazards of Hays Creek" As I left, three youngsters were making their way quickly and with an air of determination to the creek. They had pieces of wood varying in size from a large sliver to a piece of "two-by-four." At least that's what they looked like to me, but I am sure that with their lively imagination these pieces of wood would represent everything from Dad's rowboat, halibut boat or sailboat to the Queen Mary.

In the creek too were young disciples of Izaak Walton. They were catching fish. At least they assured me they were and who ever heard any fisherman stretching the truth? In other separated and sequestered nooks there were family groups with the never all-sufficient supply of eatales. Mothers were relaxing—at times—and some were knitting as they gossiped. But in such surroundings I am sure there was nothing of scandal of a hurtful nature.

In the naturally beautiful McClymont Park with the varied equipment so generously supplied by the Gyro Club there is a haven of rest for the grown-ups, and unlimited source of pleasure-satisfying activities for the youth of our city.

The Gyros are building a good citizenry as they provide the youth of the city with such physical and moral development agencies. The Gyros are licking Satan!

Here's Why
Paying for a house is tough enough, without fixing it as you go along. Our roof is DUROID—and it hasn't cost a cent for painting or repair.

In the beginning—we had a 66 foot lot, a little money and a big desire. Knowing that long years of payments lay ahead, we wanted our home to be worth owning by the time we'd paid in full.

Our contractor said, "DUROID will last."
Our friends said, "DUROID is bright and colorful."
And our uncle who loaned us some money said, "DUROID is a good buy."
They were all right! We've made the last payment and our roof is as good as new.

PIONEER SCHOOL GIRL REVISITS

Mrs. Paul Delaney, who started school in Prince Rupert during the very early days and attended King Edward School when it was first built, revisited Prince Rupert on Tuesday after nearly forty years. The former Marguerite Camozzi, Mrs. Delaney was here with her husband, a Seattle architect, making the round trip aboard the steamer Chilcotin which was in port on an Alaskan cruise. She was the daughter of the late Sam Camozzi who came here in 1909, invested heavily in real estate at that time and built the old Grandview Hotel on First Avenue. The family left here in 1913 to reside in Seattle and it was there that Sam Camozzi died years ago. Mrs. Delaney teaches languages in a Seattle high school.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

To make more dents in the Jones Bill takes lots of effort but, praise be, progress is reported. President Truman's signature, announced Tuesday, means there will be a further modification of laws governing transportation between British Columbia and Alaska. Carry on!

Use of a scythe has lately been necessary in Prince Rupert as lush grass grew higher. To be able to swing this blade is neither so simple or easy. It's deuced hard work when the sun has power and there are acres of future hay to cut. On many a Canadian farm when the Dominion was younger, sharpening the scythe on the good old grindstone was a customary prelude to the day's program. There would be no blood or tears but verily there would be sweat before it ended. And it was a day where eight hours had no meaning.

A Prince Rupert audience, comments an observant sports writer, will often cheer the losing team but will not acclaim the winners, no matter how well the latter play the game from all points of view. There seems no explanation, unless it is that even the modest success risks unpopularity. And that's been known to happen—which brings us back to the old axiom that "misery likes company."

When earthquake and fire wrecked San Francisco a few years after the turn of the century, a journalist born and brought up in that city held a job in New York. He was four thousand miles away but any time he wished to behold his home town, all he needed to do was seek a quiet spot and close his eyes. Earthquake news was sketchy. All anyone knew was that power and water pipes had broken, great buildings, if not razed, were unsafe, and fires were spreading. The clamor for news in detail had become insistent. The fellow from the west coast had the picture and in a few hours he drew it—to the extent of about eight columns. Knowing the city so well no part of it was neglected by the San Franciscan with the typewriter. And, later on, when the opportunity to check, arrived, it was pleasant to realize the story was substantially correct in all essentials.

It used to be "don't you know there's a war on?" when some patient customer suggested a more prompt and satisfactory service. Later on, it changed to "I'll bet that fellow is a communist" when some mysterious, possibly unjustified suspicion, appearing stranger aroused your For the next week or so it will be "Say, did you feel that? Surely it can't be more tremors, yet it could be" as a heavy truck rumbles past the house.

Fred J. Smythe, the man who turned out the only history ever written of southeastern British Columbia, "Tales of the Kootenays" is dead at his home in Cranbrook. He was a veteran of nearly sixty years in the newspaper business and was one of the last of the handset printers. An old friend, Fred Kemp-ton, until recently a member of the local city telephone staff, and now located in the south, remembers him well. Well equipped as Mr. Smythe undoubtedly was to write his "Tales of the Kootenays," he performed, at the same time, a valuable public service.

There are still no catches of tuna being landed here. The fish are off Marble Island west coast of Queen Charlottes, and a few have been caught by boats belonging to the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative Association but in no quantity and, certainly not enough to warrant any boat to come into port with a catch.

Baseball Upheaval

Crisis Follows Resignation of Merchants' Mentor

The earthquake that shook the city was not the only upheaval experienced in Prince Rupert since the first of the week. An eruption in the ranks of the Merchants' entry in the City Baseball League has shaken the organization to the foundation. It all started with the resignation of Johnny Odowes as manager of the team.

Odowes was appointed manager of the All Star team for the Smithers series when Alex Bill was absent from the city. Johnny states that he had the lineup for the games arranged apparently as recommended by Alex Bill but player interference before the game caused changes in the line-up. That, with another incident that followed, was the basis for his decision to quit the Merchant team rather than cause further friction. Odowes states that he had no disagreement or controversy with the league sponsored Merchant team.

Odowes took the easiest but, possibly, not the best way out of the situation. He might have disciplined the player or players involved in the All Star incident.

Following the manager's decision to quit, two players resolved to follow suit. They are John Rosedale and Dave Abel. When questioned on his reason for leaving the team, Rosedale would not commit himself to a definite answer but stated that it was something that had been brewing for some time. On the same question, Abel said he would rather not give his reason.

All three have stated their intention of joining other clubs in the league. However, the league constitution states in one clause that no team may sign a player after mid-season without the sanction of the league executive. It is unlikely that the league will allow the players to join another team unless they can supply a good reason for refusing to play with the Merchants. This is especially true in the light of the fact that a cash prize has been offered by the league for the team winning the pennant. Thus something material is at stake. The Merchants had a chance to take the prize as they stood, but can be written off as a contender in their present state.

Before Odowes made his resignation known he authorized the release of the two players. It is not certain whether a clause

SMITHERS—New Hazelton Citizens' Association will have to change its name to "Board of Trade" or "Chamber of Commerce" and become enrolled under the Boards of Trade Act of Canada before it can be admitted to membership in the Associated Boards of Trade of Central British Columbia. It was ruled at the annual convention of the Associated Boards here last week. However, the New Hazelton delegates, C. H. Sawie and Carl Christianson, were allowed to take their seats as delegates at the convention. The Smithers Junior Chamber of Commerce and Fort Fraser Board of Trade, being duly constituted, were admitted to membership.

The Toronto No. 1 team won the match with a score of 1473. While scoring 1403 points, the Prince Rupert team found satisfaction in the fact that the Toronto club had been shooting for some considerable time whereas the local team only organized to take part in this first match.

LEAVING CITY

Prince Rupert is losing one of its pioneer families in the impending departure of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Allen. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be leaving shortly to visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser in Vancouver, and son, Peter Allen in Victoria. During their visits they will be looking for a place to settle, and hope to locate on Vancouver Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be very greatly missed in the activities of their church, St. Andrew's Cathedral, where both have taken a consistently useful part throughout the years.

Mr. Allen is one of the very earliest residents of Prince Rupert, having been in the stationery and photography business before serving in World War I. For many years he was identified with the dry dock staff.

They have sold their house on Eighth Avenue East to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eastwood.

Mr. Kaffel expressed amazed pleasure at the scenery here and all the way up the coast. It was the first trip he had made here. "Why this country should be swarming with tourists!" he enthused. "It is a great opportunity. The country should be much more greatly and effectively publicized. Take myself, for instance! All I knew about Prince Rupert was that it was 'some town away up north.' I had no idea of the beauty and attractiveness." He emphasized the necessity of providing something to hold tourists. A good hotel would be one of those things. The railway company and local interests could develop attractions.

Mr. Kaffel had a session with the city council late yesterday afternoon.

He also visited the former United States Army administration building now held by War Assets Corporation. After seeing the administration building he intimated his interest in purchasing it for conversion into an apartment house.

Today Mr. Kaffel left for a visit to Terrace and the Lakelse Hot Springs in which, however, he would make no admission of direct interest.

Accompanying Mr. Kaffel here is Oiler Besner, through whom he became interested in hotel possibilities here, and Ed Kellner, a prominent Vancouver mining man. The party will return south Friday night on the Prince George.
