MAN OF PEACE RETURNS TO FAMILY-Dr. Ralph Bunche, United Nations' mediator in Palestine, gets a warm welcome from his wife and son, Ralph Jr., five, as he disembarks from the Queen Mary, which docked at New York. His mission in the Near East completed with the armistice between Israel and the Arab nations, Dr. Bunche is retiring as mediator and will seek an extended leave of absence before resuming his regular position in the U.N. secretariat.

With political interest on the make in view of two impending general elections, Rev. Canon W. F. Rushbrook, pioneer Anglican Church missionary, adds a truly reminiscent note.

The first provincial election voting to occur in Skeena district, Caron Rushbrook recalls, was on October 3, 1903, some years before Prince Rupert was even on the map. At that time old Port Essington was the centre of activities on this part of the coast. Some may now claim that the old idea that Skeena is traditionally Liberal is exploded since it was the Conservative candidate who obtained the majority. The vote, according to the ecclesiastical authority, was: Peter Herman, Conservative, 72.

C. W. D. Clifford, Liberal, 51. The returning officer was A. C. Cunningham and the polling place, Port Essington.

VICTORIA, B.C. (P) - Parentteacher groups in British Columbia are overwhelmingly in favor of showing films on human reproduction to school children, it was announced by Education Minister W. T. Straith.

He said a questionnaire sent out by the education department indicates more than 90 percent approve the special "sex films" demonstrated to parentteacher audiences during the last few months.

It is proposed to begin the new film courses in the 1949-50 school term. The films deal with human reproduction from a matter of fact standpoint, he said.

Is Soviet Sincere?

JOPE SPRINGS ETERNAL—and the latest developments in the situation of Germany whereby the blockades are being lifted and the Big Four have agreed upon a resumption, after the lapse of a year and a half, of the foreign ministers' council on the settlement of the whole problem could be the basis of great hope.

After such a season of obstructive tactics as have been indulged in by the Soviet and which have brought about the cold war, it is hard to believe that Moscow, may not hatch up some new embarrassments to bring about further difficult situations.

It is difficult to believe that Russia is at last willing to be reasonable, although there shall never be a settlement of grave world problems until Russia does choose to be sincerely co-operative in settling differences.

No matter what complex factors and attitudes may bring about a change of Russian heart and conduct, the thing is that there must sooner or later be such a change. Possibly this is the time.

Of course, Germany is not the only phase in the world where Russia has, directly or indirectly, been taking the aggressive and provocative lead in the cold war.

We would like to believe that Russia is not just fooling again. We will know when we see what pose she strikes in the negotiations which follows the lifting of the blockade.

SMASHING THEIR WAY

SHORT WHILE back the head of the Soviet / Cominform addressed the party members on a question of loyalty. It was a strange sort of loyalty that vowed allegiance not to one's own land or one's own people but to a creed pledging to dominate a world. Yet, strange as it was, it met with a ready response. The part of communism abroad was to work and fight for Mother Russia and to be ready when the time arrived to give all assistance to Soviet troops that might come to liberate their land.

Who were the men who pledged their party to such treachery? Their voices were heard, Thorez of France and Togliatti of Italy and lesser known, but not to be outdone, Pollitt of Great Britain, Sharkey of Australia, Larsen of Denmark and Pessi of Finland. They were not offering the support of Russians to Russia. They were saying that Frenchmen and Britishers and Italians and Australians and Danes and Finns, when the moment arrived, would sell their own people to the invader.

Everyone knows what Lenin's teachings were violent revolution with control of the state seized by party members. Our own Tim Buck has said: "The time is soon coming when communists will smash their way to victory."

And what does victory mean? It means the absolute and complete domination of a world by men who hate God, who hate all forms of religion, who deny all rights of property, all rights of freedom, who hate success that is not their own; who love only ruthless power and who seek to impose it on a world. That is what the "comrades," whether Russian or British or American or French or Canadian, intend for us.

GET DOWN TO ISSUES

THE COUNTRY is to be spared a long election campaign. For that there will be general satisfaction.

There will be less time for making reckless and extravagant campaign promises. There will be less time for mud slinging. Of still more importance, there will be less disturbance to our nation generally. With a general election over quickly, it is to be hoped that Parliament will settle down and tackle the big, vital jobs on which work has been delayed because an election was in the wind.

An unfortunate feature of our political system is the habit of all political parties playing up local and domestic issues at election time. Equally unfortunate is the tendency to thresh over old straw. Voters hear far too much of how some politician or party voted on some measure years ago; not enough upon what stand will actually be taken on important matters pending. -Financial Post.

Prince Rupert Institution

Nancy Hodges Intrigued by Prince Rupert Hotel's Sing

(By Nancy Hodges in "One Woman's Day," Victoria Times)

Like any other community, Prince Rupert is not without its quaint characters. But the only one I met during my day-anda-half stay there was Sing.

Sing happens to be the general factotum-he thinks!-and elevator boy, porter ,etc., of the Prince Rupert Hotel. But he is also an institution, a guide, a philosopher and friend to all who live there and to all transients who pass through the hotel por-

He has been in that post for more than 30 years and his age, like so many of his compatriots of his generations, might be anything from 50 to 70.

When I entered the elevator to go up to my room on my arrival, he eyed me critically: "You om holiday?" was his first question. Having explained that it wasn't exactly a holiday and that I was filling a series of speaking engagements, he eyed me again.

Then laughed, and added the somewhat terse comment: "You talkee-talkee up lot, lie all ladies," whereupon I subsided for the time being.

Next he wanted to know how long since I had been in Prince Rupert. When I confessed it was 27 years ago, he assured me solemnly that he remembered me. But as I was not at the hotel on that occasion, I doubt my name and always greeted me Use Entertainment

By the second day, Sing had learned that my advent had something to do with the forthcoming election. And after satisfying himself that my "talkeetalkee" was for that purpose he reminded me that he, too, had a

"Me got vote, all same oller Chinese," he exclaimed. And, to prove it, pointed to the framed license hung upon the elevator wall, setting forth that he, Sing, was duly authorized to control the ups and downs of guests, and said: "Him tellum me got vote. Me vote bime-by!"

Needless to say, I didn't dishad to set him right-and felt illusion him or try to explain that I had fallen in his estimathe difference between an ele- tion, by not possessing any of vator operator's license and the that precious commodity. right to vote. > The roll brim beanie can be worn undecorated, sporting curling feather mount or a tall waving pheasant quill; or it can be transformed into a bonnet by two side choux of flowers, minished by eye or face veil.

The beanie bonnet in pastel straw sits well back on the head with shallow forward brim and side chou of tall black feathers. A petal-edged, to-the-head version in felt has a waving spray of osprey mounting from a side

A tiny cloche style in pale flannel grey has grey and pink satin ribbon choux at either side. A watered silk cap in three sections, cut back to a point in front, is trimmed with a large pompom of marabou and ostrich feathers.

The "shell" beanie is in six sections, with open back and scalloped edges, while the beanie bowler of straw or felt sits well back on the head with shallow bowler-shaped crown, minute roll brim and can be either feathered or flowered with full face veil.

Then there's the tartan tafteta beanie with fold brim and huge matching side bow which is a popular teen-ager. The taffeta hats, in tartan, check or candy stripe, are attracting an increasing following in the younger generation -- be they beanie, cloche or bonnet.

Young and chic is the shirred cloche check taffeta simple and practical with its lack of trimming. A coarse straw cloche with tartan crown has matching scarf and gloves.

The taffeta hats are often matched to the lining and blouse of a suit, the bow of a beau brummel collar or, repeated in gloves, bag and shoes.

PITY THE POOR TROUT ON A DAY LIKE THIS! - Though the trout season in Eastern Canada was not yet open, many enthusiasts got in some early fishing by crossing the border, where the season opened earlier in some localities. The opening of the trout season at Hackettstown, N.J., brought out more anglers than fish. The Izaak Waltons here are trying their luck in the Musconetcong river.

REPORTS ON CONVENTION

Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E. Hears of Victoria Gathering

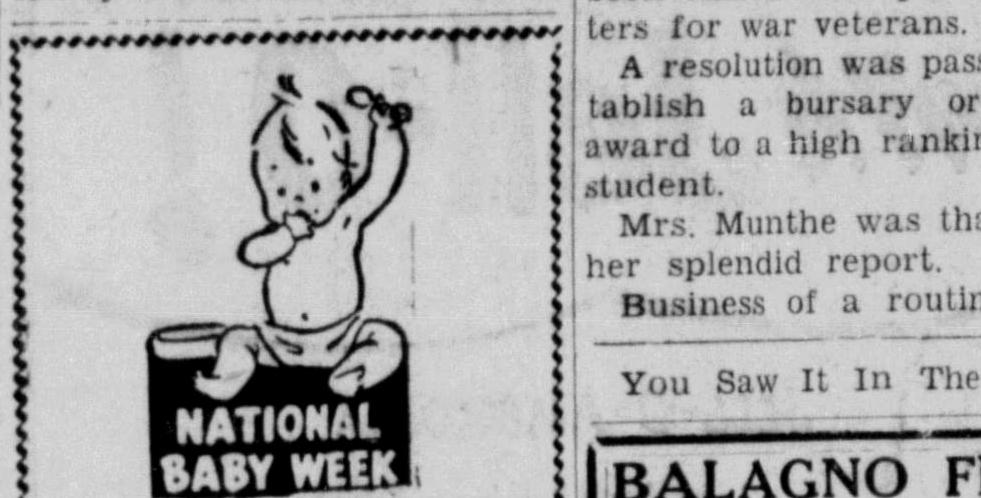

When Municipal Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, held its regular monthly meeting in the ladies' lounge of the Civic Centre with 16 members present, Mrs. Jens Munthe, the regent, presented an interesting report of the annual provincial I.O.D.E. convention she attended in Vancouver last month.

Premier Byron Johnson, in ! officially opening the convention, had paid tribute to the work of the Order and said that never was there a time in history when they should be more conscious of their motto "God and My Country." Speaking of the fear he had seen in some of the European countries, he suggested that an organization! 3.00 such as the I.O.D.E. could do 5.00 more than governments or armies, to preserve this country from that sort of thing.

In her opening presidential 200 address, Mrs. W. N. Martin an-200 nounced that British Columbia 5.00 I.O.D.E. has the second largest membership in Canada and is near the top in all projects of the Order. She also emphasized the urgent necessity for combatting communism by teaching young people they have a 10.00 country to be proud of, worth 5.00 protecting, and a way of life 5.00 that has more to offer than one of bondage and serfdom. She urged every member to vote 377.15 and elect men and women who will uphold British ideals and traditions.

> Greetings were dispatched to the people of Newfoundland and a gift of rose trees sent as an expression of friendship from the British Columbia I.O. D.E. These trees are to be planted in the gardens of the Parliament Buildings.

In these days of high building costs, the simple, compact, regular house design—the most economical of all is always worthy of consideration. Here is a cornerentrance plan which provides a living room, dining room and kitchen on the first floor and three bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor. Twenty-three feet square, the house has an area of 1,058 square feet. There is a full The simplicity of the plan layout ensures straightforward construction and because of the low ratio of outside wall area to floor area, produces the greatest amount of house per dollar. Minimum areas have been given over to hall space throughout. A vestibule and coat closet are provided at the front entrance while the trades entrance at the side of the house is conveniently located off the kitchen. The window over the kitchen sink permits the busy housewife to keep an eye on young children during play periods. The fireplace features the living-dining room layout which has been planned to provide generous space for entertaining. Working drawings for this design show brick veneer construction only but the house illustrated, bines brick veneer for the first floor and horizontal wood siding for the second floor, a variation which tends to lower the apparent height of the building. In addition, the Ottawa owner introduced a canopy over the entrance, a desirable feature where the weather is variable and vigorous. Shutters were also added to the front windows.

MIDDLE AGERS IN SPOTLIGHT

Wool Ideal Fabrie for Mature Figure, and Show Preves It

LONDON (P)-The neglected Cinderella of the fashion parades-the middle-aged housewife-was the centre of interest at a fashion show held here recently.

It proved that however matronly she may be, the 55-yearold woman can look as smart and well-dressed as her 18 and 25-year-old daughters.

Clothes for these ages were the only ones modelled in the show at the International Wool Secretariat. From a point of elegance, the three types were much the same, but in self-possession, the younger ones lagged iar behind.

Wool fabrics, say designers whose clothes were shown are ideal for outsize and older women. Careful co-ordination of CANADIAN CLUB with present-day figure trends turned the trick

Wool has draping qualities which soften harsh lines and blot out "unwanted curves," designers maintain. Discreet use of vertical rather than horizontal lines both in cut and design disguised the less lovely lines the heavier figure.

In consequence designers felt free to use pastel shades, waist- ing year were elected when the coat styles, dolman sleeves and full skirts in five out of 10 club was held in the Common dresses. Fuiness was employed chiefly as back interest.

Although the C.P.R. has had authority of Parliament since 1930 to increase its ordinary stock from $335,000.000 to $500,-000,000 "it has not been possible to offer any additional stock to the public because of the discount at which the stock is bought and sold in the open market. It is highly important that this situation be corrected athout delay to enable your company to obtain a proper proportion of its capital requirements by the sale of equity securities and to obtain its debt capital on reasonable terms."

Three features of the recent federal budget were of interestthe revision of income tax regulations regarding amortization allowances for depreciable properties, an increase in income tax rate from 30 to 33 percent which 'will mean that future substantial amount will have to be paid in taxes before provision for dividends" and removal of the 15 percent tax on passenger

YUKON NIGHT

Gyros, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the club yesterday, confined themselves to consideration of final arrangements for the big Klondyke Night dance to be held at the Civic Centre tomorrow night.

Committee Chairman A. M. Hurst outlined completed plans and finally detailed the members for their various duties. Tonight they will swing into action to get the hall in readiness.

The carnival features in Klondyke atmosphere will be augmented by such features as vaudeville stage program in- NO N.Z. TRADE cluding acrobatics, can - can INCREASE SEEN tette. There will be judging of the beard contest for various awards from the $50 grand prize down. Costumes will also be adjudicated for the award of prizes for the best men and women characters.
