Marshall Silent On Germany

SILENT ON GERMANY — But General Marshall criticizes Russia for policy in regard to Danube.

CRITICAL OF RUSSIA ON ITS POLICY FOR DANUBE

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—Secretary of State George Marshall said today that in negotiation with the Russians, United States must not seek agreement merely for agreement's sake. The comment was made at a news conference to discuss the international meeting at Belgrade on the freedom of navigation of the Danube River.

The conference split between the majority Russian bloc and the minority western bloc. In insisting upon control of the Danube, Russia was doing so at the expense of the prosperity of the nations thereon. United States could not agree to the Russian plan, he declared.

General Marshall would make no comment on the current meetings in Moscow over the German question. Any statement at this time, he said, would be a breach of confidence in view of the undertaking of the parties concerned to preserve secrecy.

Questioned in regard to the Communist spy investigation, Marshall made it plain that the United States government will protect individuals testifying in the investigation if they complied with United States laws.

No Sign of Rail Line Opening

Anti-aircraft Shells Burst Near U.S. Air Freighters In Corridor

BERLIN—Repairs have been completed by the Russians to the railway from western Germany to Berlin but there is no indication that it will be reopened to trains of the western powers at an early date. Reports that it would be have been dubbed as nothing more than rumors.

Meantime, there is no report of the outcome of negotiations between the Kremlin and western envoys at Moscow looking to a settlement of the railway blockade, currency matters and other items in dispute. The Russians, although exercising complete control of Germany, are demanding a four-power conference on the west.

The United States authorities charged today that Russian anti-aircraft shells had burst in the United States air corridor.

The anti-aircraft shells burst yesterday in the corridor between 8,000 and 10,000 feet above the ground, it was disclosed by the pilot of a United States Skymaster flying supplies to Berlin. The pilot said that the shells burst "at a comfortable distance from my plane" but well inside the American corridor in the same vicinity as he saw several Russian planes towing targets.

Chief of the Royal Air Force at Gatow airport in Berlin said a protest would be submitted through the four-power Berlin air safety centre.

Mr. Goodwin said he felt that a royal residence in Ottawa would contribute greatly to the development of the National Capital and its acceptance throughout Canada as a symbol of Canadian and Commonwealth unity.

The Communists are coming later this year."

MARGARINE TURNABOUT

Surprise Recommendation By National Dairy Council

OTTAWA (C)—The dairy industry of Canada, in an unexpected pronouncement, came out yesterday in favor of a "suitable substitute," presumably oleomargarine, as a means of averting a certain butter shortage during the coming winter.

Through its representative organization, the Dairy Council of Canada, the industry met the federal cabinet, pointed to the alarming drop in butter stocks and made recommendations aimed at bolstering the supply. It asked the government to import "sufficient" quantity of butter to meet domestic requirements or reimpose the butter ration which ended a year ago.

If the government could not implement these recommendations the industry suggested that it authorize the sale of "a necessary quantity of a suitable substitute product" until such time as "butter supply is sufficient to meet the demand."

The expedition, composed of between 40 and 50 western officers in vehicles, will leave Edmonton Sunday, travelling in small groups over the Canadian section of the Alaska Highway, then down the Haines Cut-off to the port of Haines.

During that time, reconnaissance exercises will be taken part in to familiarize the officers with the country. The party will arrive back in Edmonton two weeks later.

Value Of Conventions

WHETHER OR NOT one agrees with Dick Bell, national director of the Progressive - Conservative party, when he says that the recent national Liberal convention was "incredibly autocratic and arbitrary," there should be at least agreement with his suggestion that national conventions should be "free and uncontrolled."

These national conventions may have their political window dressing, their hurrahing and their ballyhoo but they also serve a valuable function as being an outlet for the expression of public opinion and can be a mighty potent, seeding ground for what may later become legislative action and government policy. For instance, we could hardly imagine a Liberal government ignoring the demands or suggestions of a Liberal convention. A Conservative or a C.C.F. convention can influence a government even though it may not be of the same political stripe.

So it is a very estimable determination of Mr. Bell's that the Conservative national convention should be "free and uncontrolled." Possibly the Liberal convention was not quite as bad as he suggested. At least there was a lot of plain talking and the convention even differed with the government on some important matters of policy, notably the freight rates question.

In any case, good lively national political conventions can do a great deal in stimulating parties and governments and maybe it would be for the good of both said parties and governments if they were held more often. It would keep the politicians and the legislators more on their toes and would excite a more active interest on the part of the people as a whole in public affairs. These, we think, were distinct effects of the recent Liberal convention and there will be further development along the same lines from the Conservative convention.

NEWSPAPER LIBEL

NEWSPAPER LIBEL SUITS in Prince Rupert have been comparatively few. That is, where full-dress proceedings were called for, and fought through to the finish. Yet, over a period of thirty-five years, numerous disputes have arisen in which it was as much as said that libel suits would be launched. But time and again the situation did not reach that point. There would be compromise, reconsideration, pledge or agreement—some arrangement that soothed or smoothed the aggrieved, or did not require the publisher to retract or recant to a degree no self-respecting journalist could countenance.

The first real libel case to be heard here was during the railway construction days. It had a political flavor and it is only to state facts to say there was no great love lost between plaintiff and defendant. The former objected to an expression in an editorial that was a reflection on him personally. Well, that cost $2,000 cash.

On another occasion, a brawl resulted in one youth entering hospital and another going to jail. A letter was written to a local newspaper in which some comment was made concerning the accused, this when he was in custody, and with his trial still pending. The writer of the letter had signed his name but this did not protect the publisher or paper. A libel action was instituted. The matter was settled out of court, but it needed persuasion and some ingenuity to achieve this.

All of which goes to show that you want to know what you're printing. Words, idle words, vanish and are forgotten. But ink sticks to be read by all this year or next.

ALUMINUM

THE PEACE-TIME DEMANDS for aluminum are making Canada the world centre of production. It was hardly thought during the war that, with the coming of peace, existing plants would have to be expanded and the establishment of new ones contemplated. Yet, such is a fact which makes it easier to understand why the industry is looking to the North Pacific coast as site for vast outlet.

Science has discovered that there are countless uses of the new metal. Today, men make aluminum gleam like chrome, spring like steel and wear like iron. It is far lighter, thereby cutting costs. It reflects radiant heat, as a mirror reflects light. Aluminum freight cars stand up as well as steel and weigh 3,600 pounds less.

The home builder finds in aluminum important assets, such as reduced labor costs, heat reflecting qualities and the advantage of painting being unnecessary.

Legionnaires Peace Meet

Veterans of Canada and U.S. Get Together to Fight Communism

FORT ERIE, Ont., (C)—More than 10,000 Canadian and American Legionnaires will invade this border town tomorrow to commemorate until Sunday 135 years of peace between Canada and the United States.

The Veterans' International Peace Encampment will be the largest gathering of United States and Canadian veterans since before the Second World War.

Some 50,000 persons, besides the Legionnaires, are expected to attend the four-day conclave which is also intended to give a public showing of concern over communistic activities overseas, in Canada and the United States.

"It is high time that we veterans of two great freedom-loving nations removed our blinders and presented to the world our united objections to such high-handed methods of conquest as are being witnessed in various parts of the world today," said Phillip Dyke, chairman of the Canadian committee.

"We intend to pass resolutions which will go to the proper places telling the world just how the men who helped win World Wars One and Two feel about such methods of penetration and conquest," he said. "The Communists believe in mass demonstrations, so we plan to take a leaf from their book in this respect and show them anti-Communists, too, can rally en masse."

Band and drill competitions for $1,000 in prizes, beauty contests, vampire jet aircraft demonstrations, parachute jumping, softball games, a special carnival and midway, horseshoe pitching and many other activities will be on the program. "Miss Tourist of 1948" will be chosen Saturday evening while

"Miss Encampment," now being Fort Erie district girls, will be selected from among Buffalo-photographed and her pictures distributed. She will mingle with the crowds Saturday evening and the person who guesses her identity will receive a major prize.

MANY NOTABLES

Among the notables to speak to the huge gathering will be Admiral H. K. DeWitt, U.S. naval representative on the military staff committee of the United Nations. He will participate in the United Nations Day program.

Other dignitaries to speak will be Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, federal minister of labor, and the Hon. Charles Daley, Ontario minister of labor, Thomas E. Dewey, governor of New York State, and Ontario Premier George Drew, also may be present.

Seipko Lok, young Dutchman, recently immigrated from the Old Country, was among employees of the closing Premier mine who were going south to Vancouver on the Camosun yesterday. He was with the assay office at Premier.

Reminiscences and Reflections

It's pretty tough to have a woman down on you. The will of Mrs. Patterson of Washington provides that her newspaper is bequeathed to seven of the paper's veteran executives—and just when they are getting along in life and needing a little leisure.

You may not credit it but there are naval movements going on down the coast of --- which look suspiciously like war under --- conditions. A house lacks something when there is no verandah, comments F. J. S. in the Kimberley Courier. He says, as a vantage point, it remains unequalled. True indeed, and emphatically so when you can stick your feet on the verandah railing and feel the good of a cushion covering the seat of a comfy old rocker. And what a grand place to enjoy a smoke when chased from "the best room." Oh, give us the verandah, where there's space, and fresh air, shelter and peace.

Matthew Halton, who saw a good deal of the second great war and subsequent developments from the inside, doubts if Russia's attitude will bring on hostilities. He has shown himself to be one of the ablest correspondents in the business, and earned the right to have his judgment regarded with respect. His old home town, by the way, is in Alberta, and just now, he is paying a visit to the coast.

August was the third anniversary of the destruction of Hiroshima by the world's first atomic bomb and no where on earth was there a more consuming interest in peace, on that day, than in what was left of the Japanese city. Small

All But This Number of Original 250 Have Departed

All but 50 of the 250 persons who lived at Premier, where the famous Silbak-Premier mine has been closed down, have now left the camp. Some are remaining at Stewart in the hope of obtaining work at the mines in the Portland Canal district. Quite a few have stopped off at Prince Rupert, feeling that employment prospects are good here. Many, of course, are going through to Vancouver.

By August 15 everybody except the watching staff is to be out of Premier and the steamer Camosun, arriving from Stewart next Tuesday, is expected to have on board a large number of the evacuees.

Douglas Frizzell returned to the city by motor last night from a two weeks' trip to Vancouver.

The vessel is bringing in a capacity list of passengers, including many tourists for the round trip and eastward from here by train this evening.

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. After a young man has taken a girl out for an evening of entertainment, would it be all right for her to ask him to call?

A. Yes. This is her privilege, and probably the best way is to ask him to dinner at her home.

Q. When someone makes some remark that you know is not founded on fact, haven't you a right to contradict him?

A. It is much better to let his remark pass unchallenged than to risk entering into an argument.

Q. When a woman is given a corsage bouquet at a formal dinner, should she pin it on immediately?

A. Yes.

WILL TAKE UP RANCHING IN ALBERTA—A. W. Lever, the former owner of Houghton Park, Bedfordshire, Eng., where John Bunyon wrote "Pilgrim's Progress," and where the "Slough of Despond," "Hill of Difficulty" and the ruins of "House Beautiful" can still be identified, is shown on board the liner Empress of Canada at Quebec with his family. They are enroute to Alberta where they will take up large-scale ranching under the auspices of the C.P.R.'s department of immigration and colonization. Left to right, back row: Mr. Lever, C. K. Crutch, assistant, R. B. Lever; middle row, Mrs. A. W. Lever, Miss E. Pitts, an adopted daughter, and Miss Margaret Lever. In front, little Miss Ann Lever.

COLD MEATS GO WELL IN MEALS ON THESE WARM SUMMERY DAYS

STRETCHING THE GOOSE—There is an ancient saying, sometimes quote "a goose is a foolish bird—too much for one—not enough for two." That might have been considered a couple of centuries ago but today we are more likely to try to serve 20 with one goose. The same stretching applies to all kinds of meat.

Jellied meats and meat loaves are a good means of making a small amount of meat go a long way. At the same time, these meats are welcomed by the family because of their suitability for hot, lazy days and, by the cook because they may be prepared in the cooler part of the day and served when desired.

Home economists suggest several jellied meats that will appeal to everyone.

Meat Aspic
1 tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups meat stock
1 tablespoon vinegar

Says Rhodes Scholar Must Watch His Step

WANGANUI, N.Z., (P)—Rhodes Scholars from the Dominions have a hard road to hoe, according to J. S. Rumbold, who has returned to New Zealand after attending Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar. On completing their term, he says, they can do one of three things. They can stay away from their country, in which case they are written off as a complete loss. They can come home with a decided accent and fancy ideas, in which case people say, "If that's what Oxford does, why did you ever go there? Or they can return home just as they left it, in which case people ask, "What was the use of sending you?"

IS HONORED AT TERRACE SHOWER

Mrs. Bruce Barr and Mrs. George McAdams Hostesses For Miss Freda Hall

TERRACE—A merry time was had by all the guests on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Bruce Barr when, with Mrs. George McAdams as joint hostess, Miss Freda Hall was the guest of honor at a china and glassware shower.

The spacious rooms were gay with mauve, purple and white sweet peas and dahlias. A pink and white basket, decorated with two gleaming silver card-board salmon, held a lovely assortment of gifts. After the presentation and opening of gifts all the guests joined in making a scrap book for the bride-to-be. Pictures representing as closely as possible episodes in the life of Miss Hall were cut out of magazines and pasted into a scrap book which was then presented to the guest of honor. Prizes were given for the best and funniest episodes as represented by the pictures and these were won by Mrs. F. Gavan, Mrs. B. Norberg, Mrs. W. Anderson and Miss Grace Little.

Refreshments were served. Among those present, besides the two hostesses and the honoree, were Mrs. F. Hall, Mrs. J. MacDonald, Mrs. Fred Nash, Mrs. W. Anderson, Mrs. R. Squires, Mrs. I. Frank, Mrs. F. Gavan, Mrs. B. Norberg, Mrs. A. Best, Mrs. E. Head, Mrs. H. Philip, Mrs. F. Bailey, Miss E. Head, Miss M. Head, Miss G. Little, Miss M. Little, Miss M. West, Mrs. F. Frank.

Miss Freda Hall is leaving in the near future for Massett where she will become the bride of Robert Mallory.

MISHAP HALTS JEEP JOURNEY

A holiday motor trip to Calgary came to an abrupt and violent stop for two women from the northern town of Stewart at 9 o'clock this morning when their jeep headed into the ditch near Miller Bay Hospital and overturned. Neither were seriously hurt, but their jeep was damaged considerably.

Mrs. Barbara E. Hutchings and Mrs. Isla Hague of the Portland Canal town arrived here Tuesday morning on the Camosun, planning to drive to Calgary. They set out this morning and made seven miles of the 2,000 mile journey when the light vehicle went into the ditch.

Mrs. Hague received a cut above her left eye and another cut on the left knee. Mrs. Hutchings received bruises.

They and their jeep were brought back to the city for repairs.

"Tourists are Poison" Says Mr. Grady On B.C. Tour

Central British Columbia needs few man-inspired tourist attractions to enhance its unspoiled natural beauty in the opinion of James G. O'Grady, a California tourist camp operator, who motored 3,000 miles to escape from what he considers the over-developed lures of his own state.

On the surface, Mr. O'Grady is the prototype of the gregarious cigar-smoking American business man but in spirit he is a seeker after solitary places. He found them in central B.C. and he loves it.

His revolutionary opinion, the 200-pound former American army intelligence officer feels, is sure to shock regional chambers of commerce, whose aims are to bring in tourists, but he has no apologies to make.

"I should know," he commented a bit sourly. "Tourists are my business. A country has no chance of keeping either its natural charm or the individuality of its inhabitants once it becomes a beachhead for tourists. Look what happened to California. Tourists are poison."

The fact that his own string of tourist "motels" in the northern part of the state are bringing him plenty of money gives no boost to his enthusiasm for the flood of summer wanderers that have made him rich.

"California was a good place to live in a generation ago," he continued. "The towns weren't too big and there were plenty of places in the parks where nature's handiwork was its own. Now, the whole state has become a big displaced persons camp, overrun by escapees from every state in the union. There are plenty from Canada, too."

"I don't see why they want to escape from a country like this," he added.

Once, in his search for the unspoiled, 50-year-old Mr. O'Grady brushed the face of perfection. It was during the war when he was stationed in the South Pacific as an army intelligence officer.

"Two of us were landed on a tiny island in the Marshalls to interview the natives about Jap movements. It was so small an island that it didn't even have a name, only a number on the chart. We lived there for a wonderful week."

The natives who they expected to meet, it turned out, had left the island, whether at Japanese insistence or by their own violation the visitors did not know. They cared less.

"From the appearance of things, though it looked as though they had been seized hastily and carried off for forced labor," he recalled.

Anyway, the two of them, the stout Captain and a string-bean Corporal named James Antelli, lived in an antipodean paradise for a week, away from army life, its regimentation and forced human contacts.

"When that submarine showed up to take us off the island a week later, I felt like hiding in the jungle," O'Grady admitted. "The hot, crowded pig-boat was like a jail after the island."

He somehow has the same sensation in California during the height of the tourist season.

"But up here it's different," he caroled happily. "Why yesterday I drove almost 200 miles and met only six cars. I camped beside the road and there was no one to get in my hair, no cars to bump fenders, no kids to go tearing through the campsite."

Kids? Oh, yes, he had a few himself, six to be exact. Some were grown up and some at school. His wife was back in California, too.

Mr. O'Grady had begun to grow restless. In the back seat of his dust-blanketed Buick were piled boxes of groceries, good substantial, trade-named victuals. Not a sign of beans and bacon, traditional to the gastronomy of men who commune with unspoiled nature.

"Well," he said, "I must be getting back. I spotted a place up the road a bit a couple of hours ago that looked like a good campsite. Must get back to it before it is grabbed by some other . . . er . . . tourist."

RESTAURANT TOO HARD ON NERVES

NEW YORK—Alfred Mercuri, a month ago, bought an all-night restaurant. Since then it has been nothing but complaints and trouble. The last strain arrived Monday when a customer asked if he could please have a little more sugar. Mercuri ripped out two coffee urns, then started hurling plates. He tore away counter seats, smashed china, opened all faucets, hurled pies broadcast, and kicked in glass containers. Police found him pitching sugar containers through plate glass windows. He was led away.

Labrador Comes With Newfoundland

ST. JOHNS—When Newfoundland joins Canada as a province she will retain possession of Labrador, the 110,000 square miles of mineral rich territory. Much of the territory is covered with virgin forests. Population is about 5,500.

PRINCE RUPERT YEARS AGO

Twenty-Five Years

S. Taiyo, of the Japanese consul's office in Vancouver was a visitor in Prince Rupert for the ostensible purpose of gathering information for the development of trade between Prince Rupert and Japan.

The Whalen Pulp and Paper Co. plant at Swanson Bay closed down because of a shortage of water and the mill at Ocean Falls was reported about to close down for the same reason. The summer was one of the driest in years.

George Eastman, millionaire inventor of the kodak, and a party from Chicago passed through the city on the Princess Louise enroute to Atlin for a big game hunt. The party expected to be in the north until October, returning south on the last tourist boat.

Thirty-Five Years

The G. T. P. steamer Prince George went aground off the end of White Cliff Island. The accident occurred during a dense fog. There was no damage done to the vessel which arrived in port on schedule.

Word reached provincial Police Chief Walter Owen of a stabbing affair at Nicholl in which a construction foreman laid two of his men low.

E. M. Sandilands, government agent at Massett, and Rev. J. G. Spencer of Skidegate were witness at the final session of the provincial grain commission hearings here. The commissioners left by train for Hazelton where another session was planned. They expected to go to Aldermere and Telkwa after the Hazelton sitting.
