Merchandise Taxes are Being Removed

Are Softened On Range Of Articles

Of Bread to Be Held But On Fats and Oils Removed

(CP)—Canada's program of economic softening today beneath government taxes which abolished excise taxes on a number of goods. Whether the reductions will immediately to consumers depends on what the retailers decide, perhaps through force of competition, to absorb the taxes on goods now in stores. Two large Toronto mail-order houses already have announced that they will absorb the tax. The broad list of items on which the 25 percent tax is removed includes electric refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, electric grills, other electrical appliances, firearms, outboard motors, etc., while the tax on motor cars, phonographs, radios, cameras, etc., is cut back from 25 to 10 percent.

The government's action, announced by Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, came with three other surprises Saturday night—the placing of a subsidy on bread flour and the wiping out of the $2,000,000 a month subsidy on oils and fats and the lifting of export controls on sheep and lambs. There is to be no refund on taxes already paid.

Removal of the control on fats and oils will, it is expected, result in advance of prices of soaps and such articles.

BONES FOUND ON SKEENA ISLAND

Provincial Police Constables Edward Anderson of Prince Rupert and H. E. J. Medley of Port Edward this morning began investigation into the discovery Saturday of human bones on the beach at Genn Island, off the mouth of the Skeena. The bones were discovered by Norman Brown, native fisherman of Kitkatla, when he put his boat ashore. He immediately reported the find to the authorities.

The bones are believed to be those of some victim of the Skeena River although they so far have not been identified. There have been several cases in the last year or two where men were lost in the Skeena and adjoining waters and their bodies not recovered.

LOCAL MAN DROPS DEAD AT TERRACE

John Harris, 29-year old maintenance engineer for Canadian Pacific Air Lines at Prince Rupert, collapsed and died at Terrace at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon while playing on the baseball field during a picnic at the interior town.

His collapse was witnessed by scores of people at the picnic ground and efforts were made to revive him. These were unsuccessful, however, and, on the arrival of Dr. S. G. Mills a short time later, he was pronounced dead. He had been under medical treatment for the last several days for an infected condition of his neck. An inquest has been called by Coroner Will Robinson of Terrace.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Harris of Penticon, deceased had lived in Prince Rupert for the last year, coming here when Canadian Pacific Air Lines opened their service to Sandspit and Vancouver. He was in charge of maintenance of aircraft at the Seal Cove base. He was unmarried and, in addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother, Robert, of Penticon, and a sister, Dorothy, a student at the University of British Columbia.

Palestine Matters Up

United Nations Security Council Is In Session Today

LAKE SUCCESS — The United Nations security council is taking up the urgent Arab-Jewish refugee program today. It is concerned about 300,000 Arab refugees who fled their homes in Palestine before the Israeli forces and with the problem of Jewish refugees in Europe.

Dispatches from Amman, TransJordan, reported that Mediator Count Folke Bernadotte said that he recommended Arab refugees be allowed to go home during the United Nations truce, regardless of Jewish objections. Israeli authorities announced they would protest against termed detention by Britain of 10,000 refugees on Cyprus. A British spokesman said that the only Jews detained are of military age and this is required under truce terms.

AUSTRALIA TO HELP MALAYA

CANBERRA — The Australian cabinet today decided to send arms and equipment to Malaya to help halt the wave of guerrilla warfare there. The decision, announced by Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley, ended the long-standing embargo on export of arms.

The Australian government will also offer ten Dakota aircraft to Great Britain to assist in the air lift which is now supplying blockaded western Borneo. There may be difficulty in making the shipments of arms and ammunition to Malaya since seamen have said they will have nothing to do with moving such cargo.

"Inlander" Back From 100 Mile River Trip To Terrace

NAMESAKE OF EARLY RIVER STEAMER TAKES TRIP TO UPPER SKEENA WATERS

The namesake of one of the early flat-bottomed Skeena River steamers returned here Saturday after making what is believed to be the first trip to Terrace by a sizeable boat since the river boats went out of service.

She was the converted landing barge Inlander, and she was skippered on her tortuous course by Geoffrey Lambly, of Terrace, who took T. A. V. Tremblay and Robert Pethick, Columbia Cellulose Co. forestry officials, on a timber survey of the river. "We didn't have very much trouble but it certainly wasn't an easy trip," Mr. Lambly said. "The water level was low and dropping fast. We touched quite a number of sand bars but did not get stuck." The Inlander, named after one of the famous Skeena River steamers whose bones now lie rotting at Port Essington, draws four feet of water, has a 10-foot beam and a length of 43 feet. Trips above the recognized navigable area of the Skeena are rare and Mr. Lambly believes that this may be the first that has been made as far inland as Terrace by a vessel of any size since steamer traffic on the river was stopped by the advent of the railway. The trip to Terrace, approximately 100 miles, was made in 17½ hours running time. The down-river voyage was made more slowly because the crew was engaged in a survey of timber along the river banks.

GERM WAR OVERRATED

OTTAWA, — Canada's leading military scientist said at the week-end that "most of current pictures of results of bacteriological warfare were greatly overrated." Dr. O. M. Solandt admitted it would be possible to destroy entire cities if people would line up quietly and be inoculated but present circumstances hold huge stumbling blocks to the use of bacteriological warfare. One problem was that of distribution.

BILL LITTLE, EXUBERANT PIONEER RANCHER, SPEAKS FOR WOODCOCK

Central British Columbia's Tropical Valley may be closer to Prince Rupert than a lot of folk thought. That might have been gathered from exuberant W. C. (Bill) Little, the pioneer farmer of Woodcock, who is in town and was encountered this morning by a Daily News reporter.

"The trouble with you reporters," the "smartest" farmer in Central British Columbia said "is you're not observant enough. You only listen to the farmers and print what they tell you. Did you ever look at Woodcock?" At Woodcock the warm weather comes six weeks earlier said Mr. Little, continuing an interview which may put the rest of the country on the defensive. The hay is in already there. Elsewhere they are still thinking about haying. Tomatoes are almost ripe at Woodcock. The apple trees are so heavy with fruit that the have to be propped and potatoes are keeping pace with the rest of the crops.

Mr. and Mrs. Little arrived in the city by car last night for a three day visit. They brought in with them Mr. and Mrs. John Davey who had been spending the week-end at Terrace.

TO MEET WESTERN ENVOYS — International situation eases as momentous session impends tonight.

Seeing Ourselves

THERE IS NO DEARTH of visitors in Prince Rupert. An effective job has been done in the way of attracting tourists here. In fact, we do not need to encourage them any more. There is a well beaten track this way. Their quantity is only limited by the facilities available to bring them.

The tourists themselves have become an important publicity medium and we sometimes wonder, as we have often wondered before, just what kind of a story they have to tell about Prince Rupert when they go home. Some tourists spend only a few hours here. But some stay much longer. One tourist ship spends two days here every ten days.

It might be well for us to think just what we are offering the tourists here. If we were the tourists, would we think Prince Rupert was attractive and interesting? Or would we be completely bored after putting in a day or so here.

It seems to us that the big public relations job in Prince Rupert has yet to be done—the job of making this place interesting and attractive to tourists so that they will speak highly of us and give us good publicity when they get back among their folks and recall their experiences. If they have a story of happy and pleasant recollections to tell after their stay among us, it can be the best of publicity. Otherwise, it could be the very worst.

Frankly, we think that mighty little has been done along these lines in Prince Rupert. We have succeeded in getting the people to come this way. The next thing is to take care of them when they get here. This may require imagination, ingenuity, time and effort. But it must be tackled unless the investments we have already made in public relations are to bring fullest returns.

POLICY AND PEACE

IT IS ABUNDANTLY apparent that caution is the watchword of western policy toward the Soviet Union in the Berlin crisis.

The members of "Western Union"—Britain, France, Belgium, Netherlands, and Luxemburg—are opposing a show of force against Russia at Berlin. Meanwhile, efforts to deal with the Russian blockade of the German capital are canvassing the possibilities of peaceful adjustment of the disputes underlying the impasse, but necessarily include the possibility of forceful testing of the blockade if all other means fail.

It is well that calm counsel is prevailing both in the European and American approaches to the Berlin impasse. For, even so, it is recognized that any plans which might attempt to evade the inherent risk of war in the situation at Berlin could prove inadequate to preserve peace.

The lesson of Munich is pertinent here. Avoidance of war was the main objective of the Chamberlain policy in dealing with Hitler. It did not succeed.

But wisdom is as important as courage in tests of international strength. The formulas the Western Powers seek are not further challenges but self-respecting invitations to the Russians to meet the rest of us half way.

Meantime there is an important distinction between seeking peace, which they do seek eagerly, and mere avoidance of war, which is a weak reed for policy or peace.

WELCOME, NEWFOUNDLAND

FINANCIALLY and economically, Canada may not stand to gain a great deal through the acquisition of Newfoundland as the tenth province of the Dominion but there are other less tangible but possibly more important considerations whereby Canada stands to gain greatly. In the first place, Canada gains a fine new group of citizens in the Newfoundlanders who will now be Canucks. There is also the strategic advantage through the acquisition of the Island colony which, as Radio Commentator Ross Munro, speaking from St. John's yesterday, said, rounds out Canada "from Cape Race to Rupert," as the Fathers of Confederation had envisaged.

It was interesting to hear Munro confirm reports that those who had been anti-Confederatists before the plebiscite had now assumed a stand of moderation, good sense and restraint and were working to overcome antagonisms and obtain unity in Newfoundland which now becomes unity with Canada.

SIGHT SYMPTOMS

THE SYMPTOMS of eyestrain are varied. The eyes may feel hot and tired, the eyelids may become irritated or feel gritty, the eyes may become watery or slightly inflamed. There may be temporary blurring of vision and, when reading, the letters may run together or appear confused. The eyes may develop a dull ache and headache may result. If such symptoms are present expert advice should be sought, for, if eyestrain is long continued, the general health may be undermined.

COLORFUL SHORE DWELLER DIGBY ISLAND HAPPY IN GARDEN PATCH

Bright-eyed and active despite the fact that he passed his eightieth birthday last March, Oscar Anderson, is still busy and happy at his modest bachelor home on Digby Island on the beach just below the old marine station at the entrance of Prince Rupert Harbor. With the removal of the marine station from Digby Island to Seal Cove, Oscar has lost most of his neighbors and he is now wondering if it would not be a wise thing to move out for the winter at least. However, that is something to be decided upon a little later after he has completed the harvesting of a substantial potato crop which, as has been his custom for many years, he markets in Prince Rupert, hauling the crop over on his rowboat in which he makes regular weekly visits to town.

SHIPS AND WATERFRONT

Tuna fishing has been showing a profit lately. In Vancouver, record prices have been paid, some up to $600 a ton. When single catches running to nearly 7,000 pounds, boats have been cleaning up as much as $2,300 for a couple of weeks fishing. The trawler Cluny, Skipper D. Rogers, and the Gustav, Ranalph Mestad, brought in 6,721 and 6,621 pounds respectively.

With a good-sized list of passengers including some sound trip tourists as well as local and district people, Union steamer Camosun, Capt. John Borden, arrived in port at 7:30 last evening from Vancouver and way-points, sailing at 11 p.m. for Alice Arm, Gwawa and other northern points whence she will return here tomorrow morning to sail south at 1:30 p.m.

"I am doing all right," contemplated Oscar in conversation with visitors Sunday. "It has been a happy life. It is not quite so easy to do some of the things I used to but I am carrying on. There is still plenty of driftwood, the garden grows and you can see my pretty little creek." (His source of fresh water, a few feet from the cabin).

Independent and industrious, it was only recently that Oscar was induced to accept his social right—the old age pension—something which he never sought, but was advised he should accept.

Early Entertainer Here Passes Away

Those who were theatre-goers in Prince Rupert during the early days and that means everyone, will remember P. R. Allen, showman, in Hollywood who died recently. When he lived in Vancouver he was head of Allen Players. His daughter, Verma, often appeared at Prince Rupert. Mr. Allen some time ago suffered a severe fall when he broke his hip.

Mrs. J. E. Boddie returned to the city on the Camosun last evening from a trip to Vancouver.

Flowers and Large Veils

New Paris Cover the Hair Head and Part of Neck By BARBARA STEVENSON

PARIS (Reuters)—The Paris hat, autumn 1948, covers the hair, the head and often part of the neck.

Unabashedly romantic, more than 90 per cent of the models shown in the new collections of veiling, and every hat is the complement of the silhouette it tops.

Although no capricious mood is neglected, the hats seem to blend with the ensemble to create a composite picture which is utterly feminine.

The chin is the focal point for attention, with veils and ribbons tied below it, with flowers or feathers tucked into the knot in the Victorian manner.

Most foreheads are bare, the majority of shapes tending to give height rather than width. Berets in fabrics to match the costume are popular. They are a trifle larger than spring versions, but still pushed forward to form brims or tilted upward to give a halo effect. One exception, however, is fashioned like a padre's beret, worn back and to the side in the Dior manner but with the hair tucked inside except for a saucy fringe in the middle of the forehead.

Maud Roser swoops her brims down over the ears almost to the neck, and then back and up over the brow. For cocktails, she tucks a sleek coiffure into a pointed halo of pearls, soft tulle.

Huge Pom-poms on Brim As usual, Roser shows several models which recognize no season. One, fashioned of tulle, has two huge pom-poms on the Watteau brim and tiny paillettes fleck a veil which cover the crown and the brim, falls over the face and under the chin, and swoops up again to meet itself in soft curls below the back of the crown.

Jane Blanchot is also partial to soft tulle for evening wear and shows a crown of flowers, topped with a mist of tulle, framing the face and caught just over the bust with a cluster of the same flowers. Mme. Le Monnier fan-pleats a brim up and over the brow and down the right side to cover one ear completely. A swirl of black veiling appears from under the brim, covers the face from nose to chin and ties high over the left ear. The ends are held firmly in place by carved, jade hat-plins.

Mother Nature would have difficulty deciding the source of the feathers on this season's hats. They are spotted and dotted, stiffened and dyed, then perched under and over, up and down brims, behind, atop and behind high and low crowns. They curl and swing from veils and are tucked in bows under the chin.

But the essential accompaniment to all Paris hats this autumn is a fringe of hair. It can be just a curl peeping from under the rim, right in the centre or it can touch the eyebrows, cover the forehead or merely form a soft wave to the right or left.

For a special occasion, it can even be dyed in the nef, temporary manner to match a costume or suit your mood. As for the very, very young and dashing, they may even sport a kiss curl. The youngest and newest hat in the fashion picture is worn over such a hair-do.

LIVE MEAT IN SHOPPING BAG, RODENT CAUSES PANIC IN SHOP

There is a line in a soldier's song that goes "Rats, rats, as big as alley cats." Well the one in this story wasn't that big but it was a nice-sized rat as rats go.

A lady who operates a machine for a living, laid aside her work when the 5 o'clock whistle blew, put on her coat and picked up her shopping bag. At the first shop she entered she set her bag down while she made her purchase and, when she went to put her package in the shopping bag, she was surprised to hear a squeak coming from among the folds. She was somewhat more than surprised to discover that the squeaks were being made by a full-grown rat. She appealed to the girl clerk who replied they didn't want any rats in their shop, please take it outside. But the customer didn't have any intention of touching the bag while the rat was a ten-

Modern Etiquette By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When a hostess gives a dinner party in a restaurant, is it all right for her guests to add to her tip upon leaving the table?

A. This would be extremely belittling to the hostess and would give the impression that her guests considered her tip as insufficient.

Q. Is it all right for a business man to use his business letterheads when he writes his social letters at his office?

A. No; He should keep a box of correspondence stationary in his desk for this purpose.

MANY ENJOY MOOSE PICNIC

Five Hundred People Enjoy Train Excursion

Five hundred Prince Rupert people journeyed to Terrace by train Sunday for the Moose Lodge picnic—which was held at the Civic Centre grounds at the interior town in the afternoon. The heavily laden nine-car excursion train left Prince Rupert at 8:30 Sunday morning, arriving back with its load of picnickers at midnight.

The weather was anything but promising on departure. It had, in fact, been raining. However, no one was worrying over that, the feeling being that the sun would appear up river and that it would be fine in Terrace. And so it was.

A good many were travelling by train out of Prince Rupert for the first time.

"I've never been on a train before," said one youth, who grew up here "let alone see Terrace."

Facilities of the Terrace Civic Centre were thrown open to the visiting throng, and many enjoyed their lunches in the building. Many spent the day visiting friends while others visited points of interest including ever-popular Lakelse Lake.

Sports events included fast-ball, in which a ladies team defeated a male aggregation by a substantial score.

Results of the children's races were as follows:

Two years and under, Sharon Wilson.

Five and under, Judy McLeod, Robert Armstrong.

Five to Seven, Allan Major, Valerie King.

Seven to Ten, Ronnie Iveson, Allan Mulder.

Three-Legged Race, Sharon Williams and Maureen O'Leary; Garfield Levitt and Robert Armstrong.

Committee in charge was headed by Charles Collins, Moose governor. Committee members were Herbert Whiffin, Leslie Hilton, Malcolm Blair, Jean Holliston, Billy Terry, Sam Haudenschild, Benny Windle, Howard Walker, Joseph Long, A. B. Taft, Harold Muncey, Carl Brechin. They were assisted by the following women of the Moose: Mrs. Harold Muncy, Mrs. T. Glenn, Mrs. L. Hilton, Mrs. A. Welch, Mrs. A. Ritchie, Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. B. J. Bacon and Mrs. W. Luntun.

Deplores Condition Of Canadian Roads

Ross Mansell returned to the city by motor Friday night after a trip through the northern United States. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Sharon Mansell of Detroit, who will visit here for the coming week. Mr. Mansell was struck with the inferiority of the Canadian roads compared with those in the United States. Canada, he believes, is losing millions of dollars in tourist money because of the bad roads in this country. He found, however, that the road between Terrace and Prince Rupert compared favorably with those in other parts of this province.

GIRLS VISIT LONELY BOYS

BARTER ISLAND, Alaska—A handful of soldiers, who call themselves "the loneliest guys in the world," were given a delightful surprise recently. Barter Island is a speck of land—chiefly rock, sand and snow—off the rim of the continent, 250 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The soldiers man communications and navigation aid stations. They were surprised when eighteen girls, all Civil Service employees in Fairbanks, stepped from a plane to visit for a few hours.

M. Perry, at a ceremony solemnized by Rev. Basil S. Prockter at St. Andrew's Cathedral here.

Wearing a dress of turquoise blue crepe with matching accessories, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her only ornament was a necklace of gold and seed pearls belonging to her grandmother.

The bride's attendant was Miss Kathleen Willisroft of Terrace who wore a dress of rose crepe with matching accessories and corsage of pink gladiolus.

Groomsman was Fletcher Hemmons.

Following the ceremony, the wedding party gathered for a wedding dinner at the Broadway Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry are leaving on tonight's train for a honeymoon trip to Edmonton, after which they will return to Terrace where Mr. Perry is employed at Sande's sawmill.

IS FINED AT KETCHIKAN

KETCHIKAN—John S. Morrison, 59, of Port Simpson, B.C., was fined $100 in U.S. commissioner's court here after pleading guilty to a charge of fishing in American waters and not being an American citizen. He was apprehended at Garnet Point, on the Alaskan side of the boundary, by John Wendler, deputy wildlife agent, who was on fisheries patrol.

Morrison testified he had been searching for a missing fisherman whose name sounded like Andrew Cecil, reported missing for four days at Zayas Island. He said he was fishing while in his man's boat and saw what he thought was an abandoned scow.

He went toward it, neglecting to pull in his lines, but it turned out to be the Garnet Point floating trap of the Nakat Packing Company. He said he had never seen a floating trap before and went close to it to inspect it when he was apprehended by Wendler.

He had 11 fish—all cohoes—aboard his boat, Wendler said.

Manv Salads In Terrace Lettuce

For sheer weight in lettuce, Mrs. Frank Pongracz of Terrace is probably establishing records, for these parts at least. Mrs. George Thain called at the Daily News office today with a six-pound monster which any one would mistake at first glance for a husky cabbage. It is of the Toronto Gem variety and of fine solid quality.

There are a lot of salads in Mrs. Pongracz lettuces and Mrs. Thain told the Daily News that there are plenty more where that one came from.

News of SMITHERS

Smithers fire department, by prompt action, averted what might have been a serious fire in the railway yards here. Stored hay in a shed of Watson's store near the station caught fire. The blaze was soon put out.

Pipe and other materials for the drainage and water systems here are expected to arrive in the near future. Actual work will then get immediately under way.

Reminiscences By W.J. and Reflections

Construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway is to be shown on the screen. Wait a while, and perhaps you will enjoy seeing how Hollywood built the Grand Trunk Pacific. What a novel touch to watch ourselves swapping real estate away out in Prince Rupert, back in 1911-12.

With Newfoundland the tenth province, Canada will be larger than the whole of Europe. And with no armed borders, few frontiers of any description, one language and an unbroken century of peace and good will with her nearest neighbor.

A creature described as a sixty-foot serpent, with huge horned head, and a scaly green-and-purple skin is reported to have been seen in Georgian Bay. Passengers on a steamer yelled.

A woman fainted. It is just as well to remember there is a great re-union taking place in Ontario just now, mainly in Bruce County. A fisherman living at Tobemore, says he never saw or heard of the monster, but it nevertheless, could have been bottled in the United States.

To make the statement that there are out and out Communists on the staff of the University of British Columbia is putting it a bit baldly. Perhaps they are not a bright, rich Red. Maybe they are parlor pink, or only flush a little now and then. Lots of us are like that, anyway. To hold to fixed views and ideas from the cradle to grave only shows that one is not using his head. It's no crime to think, and talk out loud, even if you are mistaken.

CANADA WINNER AGAIN IN HOOP PLAY AT LONDON

HARRINGAY ARENA, London — Canada defeated Britain 44 to 34 Saturday for the Dominion's second straight Olympic basketball victory. The Canadians led 22 to 15 at half time. On Friday they had defeated Italy 55 to 37.

The Canadian team, a combination of the University of British Columbia and the Montreal Young Men's Hebrew Association, did not look too impressive. The Canadians were weakened when Harry Kermod of Vancouver was not dressed because of cold. Coach Bob Osbourne of Vancouver also kept Vancouver's Pat Greer and Ole Baaken out of the line-up, figuring the game a breeze.

Neve Munro, 6-foot four-inch Thunderbird, led the Canadians with seven points. Bill Bell of the University of British Columbia and Doodle Bloomfield of the Y.M.H.A. had six each.
