Winch, the Politician

JAROLD WINCH has changed a lot. Prince Rupert had remembered him as a fiery, harshvoiced and vitriolic hot-head. Speaking here Thursday night, however, his audience found him considerably mellowed, smoother-toned and almost diplomatic.

It was interesting to notice how Mr. Winch got around two questions—that of socialization of industry and the Atlantic Pact. He said that the C.C.F. would adopt a "socialistic approach" to provincial questions, admitting that socialization within a province was not practcable and suggesting that his party, if elected, would not try it. We wonder if that is how all C.C.F.'ers feel about the mat-

As for the Atlantic Pact, Mr. Winch said that the official policy of the C.C.F., despite the amost half-in-half cleavage of the party in British Columbia, is pro-Atlantic pact. He emphasized how British Columbia Members of Parliament, in spite of reports about an earlier caucus, had voted in the most substantial proportion of any party, to approve the pact. At the same time, Mr. Winch went to some pains to justify the attitude of the members of the party who opposed the pact.

Everybody may not agree with Mr. Winch but it must be admitted that he is becoming a diplomatic politician. He has changed a lot.

CLEAN-UP!

THIS IS Clean-up, Paint-up season. There is much to be done in Prince Rupert with the city itself taking the lead.

A community's well being, to a large extent, is in the hands of all its people.

Most progressive communities realize the need for a practical public educational program for healthier, safer and more attractive living.

Noted educators, and other authorities on youth training and development, are in accord in their opinion about the influence of home environment upon the minds and morals of our youth. Facts show us clearly that children who live in disorderly, unsanitary home and environments make up the *greatest percentage of our juvenile delinquents. They agree that a child reared in a clean, orderly home has a better chance of being an upright citi-

The medical profession as a whole believes that, if cleanliness is practiced more generally, our disease rate will be less. Since most of our population that is disabled by illness is ill-housed and ill-fed, decent living conditions are obviously powerful weapons against disease.

Safety engineers and fire prevention experts point to the many accident and fire hazards that are created by untidy conditions in homes. Of all the lives taken by fire every year, three-fifths of the deaths from fire occur in homes.

Education goes hand in hand with civic progress. It cannot be over-emphasized that a truly progressive community should work toward a common goal and a healthier, safer and more attractive place in which to live. Certainly here is a goal worthy of our greatest efforts.

DEAR CUSTOMERS:-

HIGH SCHOOL-

HOTSHOTS-

Well here I am a long way from home trying to find new and beautiful things for your 1949 gift occasions.

Peince Rupert Daily Mews

Monday, May 9, 1949

I have looked over the samples of over fifty five factories and wholsale houses and when the goods arrive in Rupert during the next few weeks I really hope our customers will think I have done a good job. Many of the pieces have never been shown anywhere till this year and most of the items have been from present stock before the new 10 per cent sales tax. They will include china, silver, copper and glass as well as the new jewellery and many interesting new things.

> Hope to see you soon. JOHN BULGER
