Liberals Withdraw Bones Of Contention

Retires; In Spite Of Lack, Held Votes

William Lyon Mackenzie King, who makes his last appearance at Ottawa tomorrow afternoon hands over the leadership of the National Liberal Party to a younger man at the National Liberal convention this week. It will be exactly 29 years on Saturday that he himself was elected as head of the party.

It was on August 7, 1919, that Mr. King, then 44 and comparatively dark horse, won election over older and more seasoned party veterans.

He has, though he would be the first to deny it, a penchant for anniversaries. That might well have influenced officials of the National Liberal Federation in their selection of August 7 as the date for the convention.

Now 73, Mr. King first indicated he planned to retire from the leadership in the 1945 general election when he announced that it was the last such campaign in which he would lead his party. This January he asked the party to call a national convention to choose a new leader and allow him to retire.

While there had been suggestions, even within his own party that he did not intend to retire and would stand for re-nomination, he told the Commons recently that he wanted to say "without any reservation" that he would be out of the party leadership and before the next session of Parliament.

He did make one reservation. He conceded that he would not make a reservation, he presumably the remote possibility of war to remain in office.

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent as his belief is believed to lean towards the French-Quebec will influence the convention dele-

87 PERCENT OF TAXES IN

Percentage of Collections Lower But Amount Higher

Prince Rupert collected 87.3 per cent of its 1948 property taxes prior to August 1, figures compiled Wednesday at the city treasurer's office revealed. July 31 was the deadline for tax payments after which they are considered delinquent and a five per cent penalty added.

The percentage was the lowest of any year since 1945. However, volume of tax money was the highest.

Taxes collected up to August 1 amounted to $253,417 out of a total property taxation of $290,046, including local improvement assessments.

The 1947 percentage was 89, with $224,673 collected out of a total taxation of $249,995. Thus, although the percentage was lower this year, the actual collections exceeded the total taxation in 1947.

In 1946, collections to August 1 were 91 per cent of the total taxation of $250,115 and in 1945 the percentage was 88 out of a collectable total of $237,351.

Increase in the amount of money collectable this year is partly due to the boost in the mill rate of 55 mills this year as against 50 last year, and partly to property added to the tax rolls by new construction.

ANTHONY EDEN IN BERLIN—Anthony Eden, deputy leader of the Opposition, has been on a tour of Berlin where he inspected the "air lift" taking food to the Berliners. He made a speech to 2,000 Germans in the British Ministry of Centre in the British sector of Berlin. Above he is seen at Gatow airport upon his arrival with General Robertson, commander-in-chief of the British zone in Germany. Russian fighters have swept across the British airfield at Gatow, breaking all air safety rules which the Soviet military administration has been citing so sanctimoniously in its protest against the Anglo-American air supply of Berlin.

TOUGH DAY FOR BOSTON

Both of City's Major League Baseball Clubs Are Beaten

BOSTON (CP)—Boston Braves had their National League margin of leadership cut to three games yesterday as they lost a 4 to 2 decision to the Cincinnati Reds while the St. Louis Cardinals were winning a double-header from the New York Giants to move into second place. The Giants dropped into fourth place below the Brooklyn Dodgers who won a close decision over Chicago Cubs.

Only one game was played in the American League, Boston Red Sox dropping out of the four-way tie for first place by losing a close heavy hitting game to St. Louis Browns.

Yesterday's Big League scores:

National
Cincinnati 4, Boston 2.
Chicago 4, Brooklyn 5.
St. Louis 7-3, New York 2-0.
Pittsburg and Philadelphia, wet grounds.

Organization and Platform On Program For Tomorrow With Balloting Saturday

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects of strife over contentious issues on the Liberal convention floor dimmed somewhat today when it was learned that the British Columbia caucus had vetoed three controversial resolutions. These resolutions would have proposed:

1. Lifting of the ban on margarine, a question which the government has already decided to refer to the Supreme Court.
2. Government action on freight rates.
3. Wartime conscription.

The convention swung open today in Lansdowne Park Coliseum with Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who was given a thunderous applause as he entered, welcoming more than four thousand voting delegates and other party supporters. Throngs filled the low-ceilinged building as Mr. King delivered his formal opening address, a brief speech in which he expressed hope that the Canadian family would be made more secure and that young people would be able to establish homes without fear for the future.

After hearing the Prime Minister, the delegates moved promptly into preliminary steps of electing convention officers and appointing various convention committees.

These were the first overtures to three days of brisk discussion and debate during which the delegates will iron out kinks in party organization, adopt a new party platform and select a leader of the party in succession to Mr. King.

Organization and platform will be discussed tomorrow and leadership balloting will take place Saturday afternoon.

"MET" IS CANCELLED

NEW YORK — The internationally famous Metropolitan Opera has cancelled plans for the 1948-49 season after failing to reach an agreement with unions representing the employees. Officials of the "Met," one of North America's most distinguished musical organizations, said that the union demands could not be met, particularly in view of a large deficit last year. Not in 50 years has the Metropolitan missed presenting a season of opera.

Ocean Falls Boy Winner Of Kelowna Regatta Aggregate

While his fellow poolman, Alan Gilchrist was not having such good luck at the Olympics in London, Jim Portelance of Ocean Falls, Prince Rupert district pulp and paper community, took the men's junior aggregate honors at the Kelowna regatta in the Okanagan yesterday.

Pat Whiteside of Vancouver took the women's junior aggregate. The Weather Man broke a 32-year record, delivering more rain in three days than the amount which fell in any month of August since 1916.

Competition was keener at Kelowna this year as many Pacific Northwest athletes are now attending the Olympics.

MERCY FLIGHT BRINGS BURNED FISHERMAN HERE

A mercy flight made by Pilot Bill Cooper of Skeena Air Transport Wednesday afternoon brought Lloyd Vaughan, 23-year-old salmon fisherman, to hospital here from Renniston Island, near Surf Inlet, suffering burns caused by a boat explosion.

Vaughan, whose home is at Harriet Bay, near Powell River, received burns to his face and hands when his gillnet boat exploded while taking on fuel at a fishing camp. His condition was said this morning to be not serious.

The red-haired Skeena Air Transport pilot received the emergency call while at Terrace and immediately headed down Kitimaat Arm to Renniston Island, about five miles from Surf Inlet. There he found Vaughan with painful burns and the charred mast of his boat sticking out of the water at the wharfside.

He bundled Vaughan and a First Aid attendant into the plane and headed for Prince Rupert.

In an effort to prevent the spread of the flames other fishermen chopped a hole in the hull of Vaughan's boat. It sank but not before considerable fire damage had been done.

The boat was owned by Vaughan who was fishing for the Canadian Fishing Company.

DIGBY WOMAN FOUND DEAD

The body of Mrs. Anna Hansen of Dodge Cove, Digby Island, was found today in the home of Hans Melby, for whom she was housekeeper. She is believed to have died while resting. Neighbors who entered the house found her lying on a couch. Provincial police are attempting to get in touch with Mr. Melby who is believed to be fishing off Banks Island.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis
Considerable rain fell throughout the province in the past 24 hours. Both Kamloops and Prince George report amounts in excess of one inch. These amounts are usually heavy for this time of year. The weather system causing these conditions is moving slowly eastward. However, the air over the province continues cool and moist so that only a slow gradual improvement is expected in conditions through tomorrow.

Forecast
Queen Charlottes and North Coast—Cloudy today and Friday. Wind light. Little change in temperature. Lows tonight and highs Friday—Port Hardy 50 and 62, Massett and Prince Rupert 50 and 63.

BONES FOUND ARE THOSE OF WOMAN

Human bones found earlier this week by a native fisherman on the beach of Genn Island at the mouth of the Skeena River are those of a woman, Dr. R. E. Colman, provincial pathologist at the Prince Rupert General Hospital has determined. Provincial police are still trying to identify the person.

Two native women lost their lives in February, 1947, when a small boat in which seven people were travelling from Prince Rupert to Port Essington capsized in the Skeena River ice. As far as is known, no other women have been reported missing in this area.

HER BIRTHDAY — Queen Elizabeth, who was 48 years old yesterday. There was a quiet family dinner.

Celanese Engineers Here To Visit Pulp Mill Site

DELIVERY OF LARGE AMOUNTS OF STRUCTURAL STEEL AT PORT EDWARD TO START NEXT MONTH

Two of Celanese Corporation of America's top engineers arrived in the city Wednesday for the purpose of viewing first hand progress on the cellulose acetate mill site at Watson Island and other construction work comprising the foundation for what will be this area's largest single industrial project.

They are S. B. Roberts, chief engineer for Celanese Corporation, and C. H. Klotz, engineer of New York, who arrived here on the steamer Prince Rupert. Both are accompanied by their wives. Mr. Klotz will be in charge of the plant.

"This is more or less a routine trip," Mr. Roberts said. "We are here to co-relate our engineering activities in Montreal with field activities here. Things are progressing according to plan."

Mr. Klotz will be the first of the company's New York engineering staff to take up residence in Prince Rupert. With his wife and two young sons, Richard and Stephen, he will come here very shortly to remain and will be engaged in supervisory engineering work. Other technical men will come here as the project advances.

This morning, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Klotz and George Martin, local superintendent, took off in a

KETCHIKAN'S BIG NEWS

KETCHIKAN is to have a new industrial era and for the same reason that Prince Rupert is to have one. At long last the establishment of a 500-ton pulp plant which will give employment to about 1200 men has become assured with the signing of final contracts by the new Ketchikan Pulp & Paper Co. with the United States Forest Service. Actual construction at Ward's Cove is to be under way within a year and the project will represent an investment of $30,000,000. We in Prince Rupert can understand the thrill which Ketchikan is having this week over the great news. We had it over a year ago. We are interested to note the suggestion that the Ketchikan mill may ship pulp by barge to Prince Rupert. That could be big business and, no doubt, the local railway company will foster it.

The Ketchikan Chronicle editorializes as follows over Ketchikan's "biggest news story in decades":

"The coming of a pulp mill to Ketchikan is probably the most important single news event in the history of this community. It means that we can alter our thinking from that of a seasonal fishing town to that of a year-round industrial community. More important, instead of looking to absentee interests for a big voice in public policies, Ketchikan will have a local, year-round operation whose entrepreneurs and employees will want good schools and roads and health services. To build that bigger, better community now becomes the major task of civic leaders on all sides.

"The company that is coming to Ketchikan is highly successful and its personnel are among the best in the business. Their connections with companies like Hammermill Paper Company assure the new mill here of stable markets. The mill is adequately financed to prove out the problem of developing a new industry in Alaska.

"The employee organizations, too, are of a high type, the sulphite and paper workers union having an excellent record of no strikes in many years and continued high production. The men who pack a dinner pail to the Ward Cove plant will be family men who want good homes and a good community in which to live.

"To operate a pulp mill takes co-operation of dozens of allied enterprises. The company hopes to quarry limestone on Revilla Island, perhaps to mine its own sulphur if any can be found. It must build a large hydro-electric plant of its own and eventually, if all goes well, add to its output and the output of its mill. Producing several thousand tons of unbleached pulp a week, it will make a sizeable backhaul for steamship lines or barge operators into Prince Rupert.

"The investment in plant for pulp mills is the second highest of any industry and the wages and costs are high, so money will be poured into Ketchikan and vicinity in an unprecedented volume. It is certain that townspeople will welcome the newcomers and that business people will co-operate with the management in the many problems bound to arise.

"A new era is beginning in Alaska."

ANOTHER ROBERTS ANTHOLOGY

ALL NATURE LOVERS as well as devotees of the writings of Sir Charles G. D. Roberts will be pleased to learn of the publication of another anthology by this noted Canadian writer.

Wisdom of the Wilderness (Ryerson) is the fourth collection of Roberts' animal stories to be published in Canada. Originally brought out in the United States between 1896 and 1922, the stories were reprinted several times but have for many years been out of print.

These tales illustrate the author's facility for presenting the struggles of the wilderness in terms which give them an almost human quality. The efforts of the small creatures to protect themselves against their larger antagonists and the elements are described with a poignancy of feeling which should appeal to readers of all ages.

The rhythmic, almost poetic, quality of the writing blends exquisitely with the natural setting of the tales. The black-and-white illustrations are by John A. Hall.

This book gives Roberts fans a chance to renew acquaintance with the great naturalist and writer who died in 1943, and offers others a representative sampling of his animal stories.

FREER LIQUOR FOR NATIVES

Conditions Could Not be Worse Than Those Under Abuse of Present Restrictions

Conditions brought about by the evasion and abuse of present liquor restrictions as far as the natives are concerned are so bad that anything resulting from their relaxation could not be any worse, declared Indian Superintendent F. E. Anfield who was the speaker at yesterday's weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club.

Mr. Anfield said he favored permitting Indians to legally frequent beer parlors although he would approach the making of hard liquor available to them more cautiously.

The very fact that they were denied liquor made the natives keener to get it and they were ready victims for bootleggers and exploiters.

There might be difficulty for some time after natives were allowed the same privileges with respect to liquor as the white men enjoyed but within six months the novelty would have worn off, Mr. Anfield believed, and conditions would right themselves along more desirable lines than existed today.

Rather than making an address, Mr. Anfield invited questions and this developed into an interesting discussion in which enfranchisement of the natives, the implications thereof and other topics came up. The Indian Superintendent held that the natives were capable of maintaining a creditable citizenship if entrusted with the privileges and responsibilities thereof.

Mr. Anfield was thanked on behalf of the club by C. A. Kellett.

President O. G. Stuart was in the chair and luncheon guests were Stanley Wilson of Oakville, Ontario, and Walter Nelly of Vancouver.

SALES TAX MAN HERE

District Inspector in City to Help Local Business People in Getting Geared

To assist local business people in getting the new Social Security and Municipal Aid Tax geared to their particular cases, Stanley L. Wilkins, who recently arrived at Prince George from Victoria to set up headquarters for the district from the Cariboo to the Alaska border, arrived in the city on Tuesday night's train. He has opened up his office at the Government Agent's office in the Court House here for the coming month.

He has already been booked for speaking engagements to the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce, Prince Rupert Retail Merchants' Association, Rotary and Gyro Clubs. The Act will be discussed in general terms before these organizations with discussion periods following. However, Mr. Wilkins' particular function will be in direct contact with the business people who have to collect the new sales tax.

Eighty per cent of the problem in connection with the setting up of the tax machinery is in getting down to the proper basis of recording and remitting the collections, said Mr. Wilkins to the Daily News. The detailed recording is the responsibility of the vendor. Each month there is to be returned to the government a form listing total sales, taxable sales, non-taxable sales and the amount of tax collected. From this amount of tax collected is to be deducted the three per cent allowed for collection, the balance being remitted to Victoria by check.

In a brief statement, Mr. Martin said that he had been urged publicly and privately "by many individuals throughout the country" to enter the contest for the leadership. "Although I have already stated my position, it now seems necessary that it should be clarified," he said, then expressing "deep conviction that, with his Liberal ideals as I know them, Mr. St. Laurent will, at this time and in the present circumstances, bring to the leadership of the Liberal party and the office of Prime Minister, qualities of statesmanship which will service Canada best in these difficult days."

Meantime a determined group of Western Ontario Liberals said today that their "Draft Martin" campaign will continue despite Mr. Martin's pledge of support to Mr. St. Laurent.

Other candidates for the leadership are Hon. J. G. Gardiner and Hon. C. G. Power.

Three Canadian girl entrants in the women's 200-metre Olympic sprint were eliminated today in the preliminary heats. Three Vancouver girls failed to place among the first two finishers. Diane Foster and Millie Cheater made third place and Donna Gilmour, fifth.

One of the heat winners was amazing Fanny Blankers-Koen of Holland—mother of two children—who already has an Olympic double—the 100-metre sprint and the 80-metre hurdles—and who will be the favorite for the 200-metre dash.

In swimming at the Empire Pool Alan Gilchrist of Ocean Falls and Doug Gibson of Toronto, Canada's two entrants in the 1500-metre swim, were eliminated in preliminary heats today.

Sport Shots

Even in sweaters and slacks, the lady wrestlers will no longer clash for cash in Montreal's suburb of Verdun—city council says "no." There wasn't a sports writer around Montreal who shed a tear over this set-back to the female grapplers. The consensus was that grunts and groans are simply not ladylike. If the girls still insist on being pugnacious, Baz O'Meara suggests that they might try bull-fighting. He once saw a movie of a gal named Conchita, and very pretty she was too, even while running away from the bull.

Some 18,000 Montreal fans emitted a loud razzberry when Jackie Robinson, the man they came to see, was pulled without warning from an exhibition game between Brooklyn Dodgers and their Montreal Royals Farm Club. The football Dodgers aren't going to make the same mistake. Yes, it's true they've signed all-American backfielder Bob Chappuis, who's worth anybody's price of admission to see. But, reports Elmer Ferguson (Montreal Herald), when Dodgers and Montreal Alouettes tangle in an exhibition tilt in Montreal, Choppuis will not be on the field. The former Michigan star is a valuable piece of property, and far be it from any football club, least of all one owned by Branch Rickey, to let him risk life and limb before the onslaught of Lew Hayman's Huskies.

C.N.R.A. ROLLS INTO FASTBALL LEAGUE PINNACLE

C.N.R.A. 11, General Motors 1
The C.N.R.A. fastball juggernaut rolled ahead to the point of solitary league leadership, crushing its erstwhile bedfellow General Motors in proper locomotive fashion in the first of three postponed games at Gyro Park last night. The railroaders dominated by a score of 11-4.
With two straight victories behind them, the C.N.R.A. brethren are a lead-pipe cinch for first position at the end of the league schedule. Chances also are that they will hold the position alone but a major upset could cause them to share it with either General Motors or 99 Taxi.
That upset would be a C.N.R.A. defeat at the hands of Gordon and Anderson Friday night. If such a scandalous thing were to happen, the winner of the General Motors—99 Taxi game the following evening would then be in a tie position with the railroaders.
But considering the record of Gordon and Anderson, observers consider it highly unlikely that they stand much of a chance of putting a boulder under C.N.R.A.'s driving wheels.
Certainly, C.N.R.A. have little to fear if they repeat the performance they put on last night. Piloted by Ian Dunbar, the pitching former bank clerk whom they snaffled immediately on his arrival here a couple of days ago, they held the motor-men down to four runs, widely distributed through the nine innings.

General Motors took a one-run lead in the first inning, but were smothered in the third by a series of their own errors which were responsible for six C.N.R.A. runs, all off two hits.
The railroaders increased their lead by another run in the fourth and again in the sixth, while General Motors succeeded in scoring one run in each of the sixth, seventh and ninth innings.
General Motors fielding crumbled again in the ninth and C.N.R.A. scored three runs for a final seven-run margin.
Dunbar, who has lately been at Port Alberni, showed that his last summer's technique has not grown rusty. Facing 41 batters, he struck out eight, and allowed 11 hits. Bruce Simundson, who faced 43 C.N.R.A. batters struck out three and allowed 12 hits.

Naas River gillnet fishermen, who have so far had a poor season, are beginning to head south to join their fellow fishermen on the Skeena River who have been enjoying one of the best seasons in years.
And at the same time, despite excellent catches, a few southern gillnetters who have been enjoying good catches on the Skeena, are planning to migrate back to the Fraser where sockeye fishing at present is permitted only three days a week.
The 120 vessels which have been gillnetting on the Naas have begun to trickle south after a month in which their catches averaged about half of

"MOTHER" STANFORD, COLORFUL PIONEER, IS HEADING FOR REUNION

"I'll be coming north with the wild geese in the spring," declared Mrs. William Stanford, an Alaskan pioneer, as she said goodbye to her Prince Rupert friends and prepared to sail on the Prince Rupert for Vancouver where she will take part in the Alaska and Yukon Sourdoughs Convention, August 12 to 15.

Mrs. William Stanford, who is better known to her legion of friends in the Northwest as "Mother Stanford," has fully qualified for a place among the Sourdoughs of the two countries. She and her husband left Chilliwack in 1902 to seek their fortune in Alaska. Nome was their first step but they soon moved to Council which is about 80 miles overland but much farther by gasboat and horse-drawn scow along the coast and up the Neuklik River, as the Stanfords travelled.

After 2 or 3 years in Council Mr. and Mrs. Stanford returned to Nome. Whenever their mining luck ran out the couple turned to the restaurant business. There was always a demand for wholesome home-cooked meals and, when the stake was made, the Stanfords hit the adventure trail again. March of 1909 found them on their way to Ophir, a 540-mile trip with a team of nine dogs. Describing the trip in her forthright speech that still holds the burr of her native Scotland, "Mother Stanford" declared: "I enjoyed the trip fine. There were roadhouses practically all the way and we only slept out 2 or 3 nights."

It was gold that took them to Ophir and it was gold that took them down the Yukon again as far as Ruby. They were there a year when word went around that a strike had been made at Tolstoy, 40 miles from Ophir so back they went. They built a roadhouse at Tolstoy but Mrs. Stanford doubts if there is a building left standing to mark the spot today.

Mrs. Stanford and her husband had a part in the history of the Alaska Railway too. When Tolstoy began to peter out the couple pulled up stakes and moved to Nenana, some 50 miles west of Fairbanks. Construction gangs were working out of Nenana and Anchorage and as the two steel spearheads reached out to meet each other Mr. Stanford operated a dog sled passenger service between the ends of steel. Shortly after the railway was completed Mr. Stanford's health failed and the couple were forced to leave the interior and take up residence in Anchorage and it was there that Mr. Stanford died a number of years ago.

HAD VARIOUS JOBS

After the death of her partner, Mrs. Stanford spent some time beyond the Arctic Circle working in the Anglican Church hospital at Fort Yukon. In 1935 she accepted the position of commissioner and recorder. She didn't particularly want the job but she took it in order to let the regular commissioner have a year's holiday. Mrs. Stanford worked in the hospital during the day and did the recording in the evenings but an epidemic of measles swept into the little settlement and the extra burden proved too much for her and the doctor ordered her to leave the interior.

Port Yukon was originally created as a Hudson's Bay Company fur post and Mrs. Stanford said there are still natives living in the community whose parents came from the MacKenzie River basin.

Forced to take a rest Mrs. Stanford spent the winter of 1935-36 in California and Texas but spring called her north again. She visited Juneau, Wrangell and Ketchikan but somehow

What most people don't know is that there is also a Mrs. Kinsey report. In capsule form it boils down to the fact that men are pretty much all right, she thinks, if they'd only learn to be tolerant of each other. Though her husband's work has taken the U.S. and Canada by storm, it seems that Mrs. Kinsey is the least surprised persons in the country. She's always thought he was wonderful.

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. Is one permitted to shout, "Down in front," when someone is standing and obscuring the view at some outdoor sporting event?

A. It may not be necessary to shout, or to appear angry, but one is certainly justified in asking a person to please sit down. Then, if the other person persists in standing, or becomes abusive at the request, call an usher immediately.

Q. When one is the recipient of a gift from a group of persons, is it necessary to write a note of thanks to each one?

A. No; only one note of thanks to the group is necessary.

Q. What should a man do when he is late in claiming a promised dance?

A. He must make a sincere apology, which of course the girl should accept.

Reminiscences and Reflections

By W.J.

That observant lass, Dorothy Dix, says she once heard a man say the ungratified desire of his life was to have a comb and brush that belonged exclusively to him and that didn't have women's hair in it. But he never got around to it, poor soul. Still, hair on a hairbrush is not shocking. Suppose he had noticed it in the soup.

"Soaking the rich" has such a pleasant sound to the multitude of poor. The process of taxation can be most cleverly concealed. For, verily, verily, all of us are taxpayers, and inflation follows government spending. Soaking somebody else is not going to help make your lot any easier.

One can be reasonably sure of this. The new Leader of the Liberal Party of Canada to be chosen this week, will not be Charles M. Hays used to say much Alaska produce would find the eastern United States market over the new Grand Trunk Pacific. He was right, to a certain extent, but never thought it would take about forty years to see Alaska mills billing their output by way of Prince Rupert.

And if higher outlays in the price of certain forms of food were not enough, we are now face to face with the grisly likelihood of an increase in the cost of beer. Well, a patient people can stand so much—but it's best to avoid driving them too far.

The gentle art of extracting stumps continues to engage earnest, if somewhat strenuous effort. One is entitled to encouragement. It need not be applause, but something that will stiffen the will to win. An axe, a crow-bar, a stump-puller, main strength and awkwardness, sweat and tears, a touch of dynamite—you may have to use some or all before that stubborn old muskeg stronghold yields.

IS RELATED TO WINSTON

The name Churchill certainly gets you a long way in Canada, particularly if you happen to be a forty-second cousin of Winston," smilingly commented Miss Flora Churchill, striking middle-aged school teacher of Chicago and such a relative of Britain's wartime Prime Minister and still fiery leader of the Opposition, who was in the city yesterday afternoon. Miss Churchill, who might be said to have a facial resemblance to "Winnie," was being photographed by fellow passengers from the steamer Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon as she was spied by a Daily News reporter as being somebody out of the ordinary. "But," she said "I am just an ordinary school teacher. I have never seen Winston myself and really don't know a great deal about the relatives over there." She herself is an American of long descent.

Miss Churchill arrived on the Prince Rupert from Vancouver and proceeded by the evening train to Jasper Park.

Report had it that a more direct relative of a former famous British family was in the city this week in the person of Mrs. M. Asquith of Pontefract, England, and two children who spent a few days at the Prince Rupert Hotel. However, Mrs. Asquith was entirely uncommunicative as to her relationship with former Premier H. H. Asquith when sought for an interview.

ASK SIDEWALK ON SEVENTH

Construction of a sidewalk along Seventh Avenue East between McBride Street and Hays Cove Circle will be requested of city council by the School Board as a safety measure for King Edward School children before the school term opens in September.

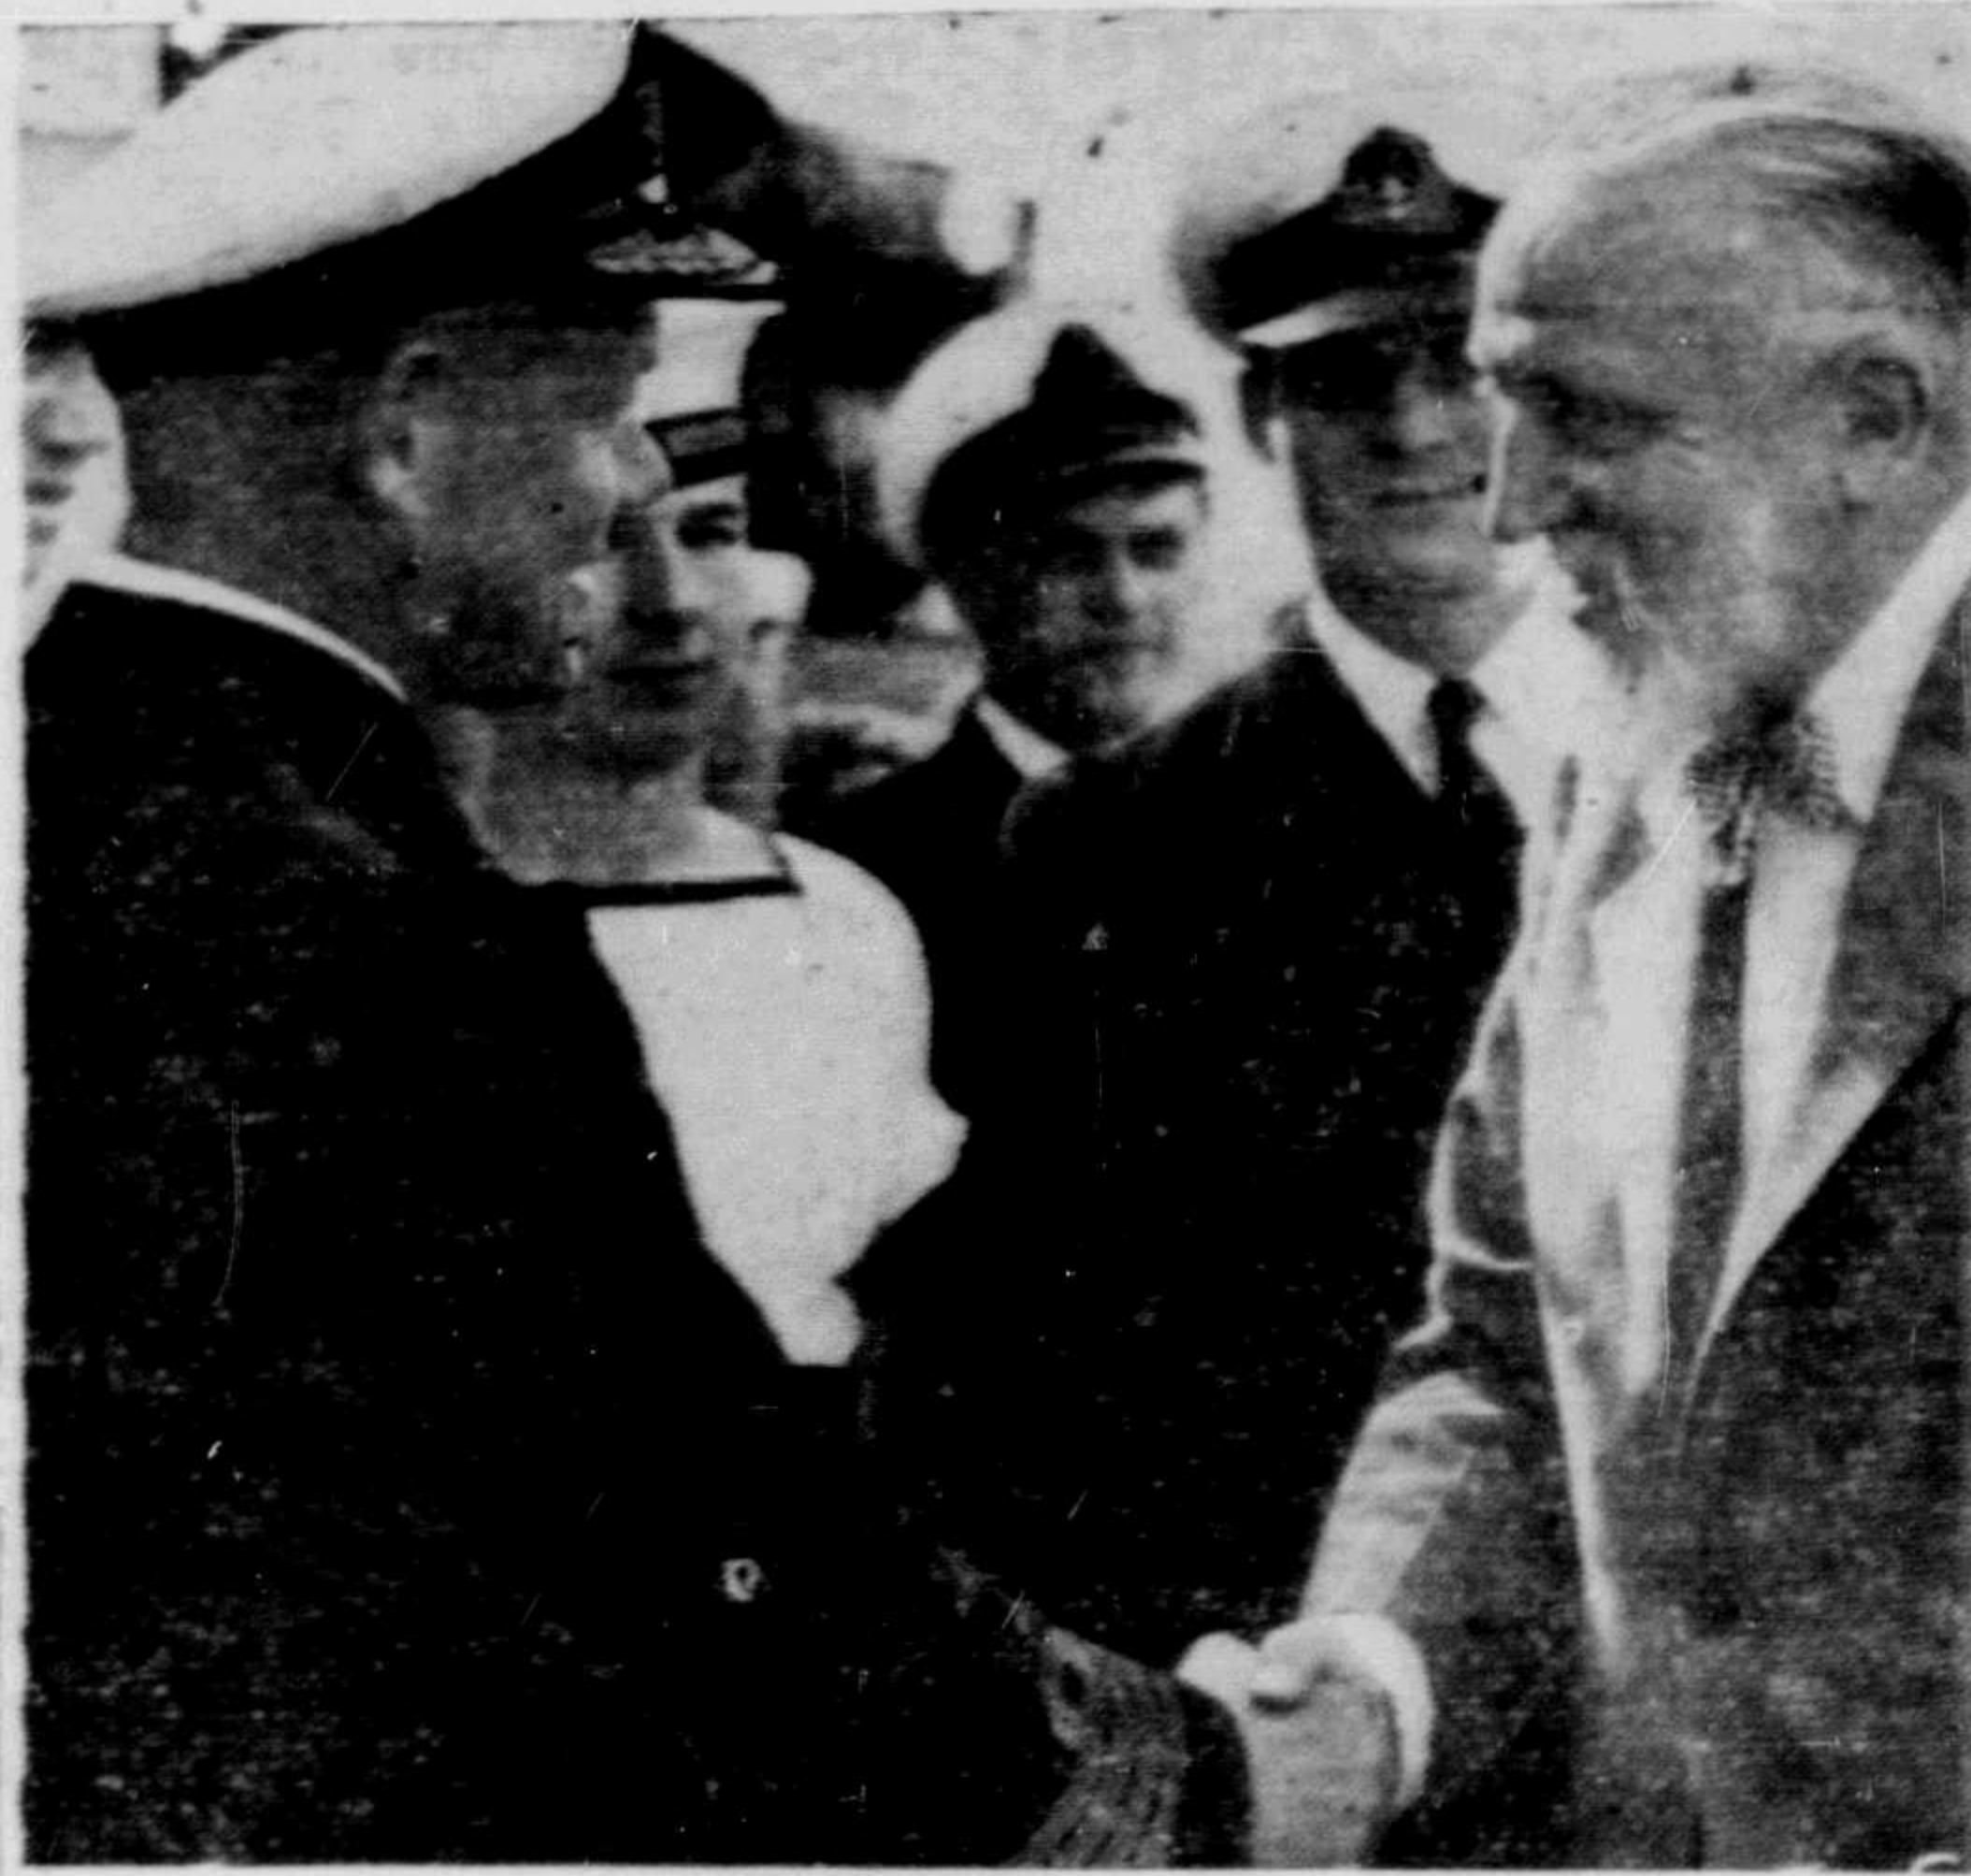

Because of the city's road rebuilding program, the sidewalk which formerly paralleled the south side of the street was included in the widened roadway, leaving no present sidewalk service.

The Board will ask that the road be built on the north side of the avenue and that a crossing zone be installed opposite King Edward School. Members originally felt that the sidewalk should remain on the south side, but later were of the opinion that there would be greater safety if it were placed on the opposite side of the street and that a safety zone should be provided.

Board Farewells School Inspector

Prince Rupert School Board last night said an official farewell to Inspector of Schools E. E. Hyndman, who has been transferred to the Nelson district after two years in Prince Rupert.

"May I say that we regret your departure and that we have appreciated your advice and assistance in the past couple of years," School Board Chairman Dr. R. G. Large told the retiring inspector.

"MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER" VISITS "NOOTKA"—When the Tribal Class destroyer H.M.C.S. Nootka held "open ship" during a recent visit to Tadoussac, Quebec, summer resort at the mouth of the Saguenay river, one of the visitors who came on board was "The Man Who Came to Dinner"—Monty Wooley, bearded star of stage and screen. Here Mr. Wooley is shown being greeted by Captain Hugh F. Pullen, O.B.E., R.C.N., of Oakville, Ont., commanding officer of Nootka and Captain (D) of the Canadian destroy flotilla. Interested witnesses are (left to right): Able Seaman George Boardman, Toronto; Ordinary Seaman Donald Jamieson, Kingston, Ont.; Sub-Lieut. J. T. J. Sweeney, R.C.N. (R), Charlottetown, P.E.I.; Lieut. G. J. Brookhurst, R.C.N., Vancouver and Halifax. The destroyer called at Tadoussac during a reserve training cruise.

'MOTHER' STANFORD—

they didn't appeal to her as places to retire and, when someone mentioned Hyder as being the only place in Alaska she hadn't seen, she decided to go there. It has been home to her for the past 11 years.

It is ironic that Mrs. Stanford should now be living in Hyder. For a long time many of her Alaskan friends thought she had died and was buried in that Portland Canal village. The mistake came about when the death of another Mrs. Stanford occurred about 1931 and was reported in the papers. A former friend and newspaperman, George Kilroy, helped put things right when he met her at the home of the late Bishop Rowe in Seattle where she was visiting following a trip to Scotland in 1931. Mr. Kilroy was working for the Alaska Weekly at the time and he did a front page story about her which resulted in a grand reunion with many old friends who had shared trials and trails with the lady sourdough in former years.

Mrs. Stanford will celebrate her eightieth birthday next November but she isn't old. It has always been her policy to advance, never to retire. She likes Hyder and is keenly interested in its affairs and that of Stewart just across the boundary line. In speaking about the friendship and co-operation that exists between Canada and United States Mrs. Stanford pointed out that Canadian miners travelling from Stewart to the Canadian mine at Premier, when it is operating, used 13 miles of well-kept Alaskan road. When fire destroyed her home in Hyder last April, Mrs. Stanford had a personal experience with the friendliness and good-neighbor policy of the two communities.

Mrs. Stanford said the closing of the Premier Mine affecting Hyder as well as Stewart but the Riverside mine on the Alaskan side is still operating and is starting to work on a 3-shift basis.

After she pays a brief visit to Chilliwack and takes in the Sourdough convention, where Robert Service will be the guest of honor, Mrs. Stanford will travel to California where she will remain for the winter.

While in Prince Rupert she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott.

SCHOOL BOARD BUYING LOTS NEAR BOOTH

Prince Rupert and District School Board has authorized a bid of $2,000 for 15 city lots owned by War Assets Corporation for which the government paid $15 and which the Board plans to use for the projected enlargement of Booth Memorial High School grounds.

The lots were formerly occupied by seven Wartime Housing staff houses and were taken over by the Crown corporation from the city for $1 a lot early in the war. At the end of the war they were turned over to War Assets for disposal.

The original agreement stipulated that lots taken over from the city by Wartime Housing for $1 would be returned to the city for that figure if they had not been used. Since the 15 lots adjoining the High School were used, they were turned over to War Assets for disposal along with the staff house which occupied them.

The $2,000 bid made by the School Board was accepted by War Assets. The Board's monthly meeting approved the action of the committee.
