More Guns For States

Canada To Get Further Orders, It Is Expected

OTTAWA (CP)—A government source said Thursday that more United States gun orders were in prospect for Canada if the current $10,000,000 order placed at Sorel, Quebec, works out satisfactorily.

The order, announced Wednesday, brings to $14,000,000 the amount of armaments the United States has indicated it will purchase in Canada under the 1950 reciprocal arms deal.

It is expected that, within the next few weeks, American orders for chemicals and other orders will increase the total to about $17,000,000.

Price Of Our Paper Upped

Powell River Company has notified Canadian and United States customers, including the Prince Rupert Daily News, of a $10 a ton increase in the price of newsprint. Higher production costs are given as the reason for the boost.

The increase may be the forerunner of a general increase in the price of newsprint, but so far, no price changes have been announced by eastern mills.

The increase boosts the price from $99 to $109 per ton.

Two Famous Artists—Schapiro and Silva—Coming to Prince Rupert

MAXIM SCHAPIRO

After playing concerts in eight of the leading Alaska cities this month, Maxim Schapiro, pianist, will stop here on his way south for a concert with Luigi Silva, 'cellist, on October 26 sponsored by the Civic Centre Association. The two artists, famous in the concert halls of two continents, will play a program of wide appeal and variety. They have played together many times and are sincerely aware of each other's ability and genuine in their praise of it. Mr. Schapiro first introduced Mr. Silva to audiences in the north last season when they played in Fairbanks, Anchorage and Sitka together.

Mr. Schapiro had continued success in his appearances as soloist with the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra at the famous annual Bach Festival, Carmel, California; and in the National Music Teachers' Convention at San Francisco. He was born near the Volga River in Russia and has been a citizen of the United States since 1939 when he became a permanent resident of California. He was educated at the Moscow Conservatory where he won the highest honors (laureate). After graduation, he studied with the world famous teacher and composer, Nicholas Medtner. Since coming to live in the United States, he has built an enviable reputation for his interest in young people studying music, for his genial personality and his sincere regard for only great music.

Luigi Silva, 'cellist, is an artist with a brilliant background of European successes which have continued since coming to the United States. His career began when a youngster when his love of music found him spending hours at the piano while his playmates read books and he read notes. Later as a 'cellist at 18, he played in the Royal Opera Orchestra in Rome. Born of musical parents, his mother was a Viennese singer and his father, a distinguished vocal teacher, musicologist and conductor. The young Luigi was taught the importance of a musical understanding from childhood. Starting at five years, he studied with his father, then followed lessons in counterpoint, harmony, composition with famous teachers as a foundation for playing his chosen instrument, the 'cello. He often is called the Paganini of the 'cello.

Canadian Destroyers In Huge UN Bombardment

TOKYO (CP)—Destroyers of the Royal Canadian Navy, part of the force of 37 United Nations warships, today hammered at North Korean targets in a seaborne strike against Communist supply lines.

A navy war release issued at Tokyo did not identify the destroyers but it indicated that two of the three Canadian warships in Korean waters took part in the bombardment.

Ships in the bombardment group included the British cruiser Ceylon and British, Australian and Canadian light forces in addition to the United States battleship Missouri and the U.S.S. Worcester.

The Canadian ships in Korean waters are the destroyers Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan.

A release gave bare details of the actual part taken by Canadian ships in the bombardment, but destroyers, because of the comparatively short range of their 4.7-inch guns, often were employed for close-in work, such as hitting enemy short batteries and smaller targets ashore. They are also used for screening bigger ships, such as battleships and aircraft carriers.

Destroyers and cruisers continued the battering of Chongjin and hit Songjin and Sangpo, nearby. Planes aided in the attacks.

Whether this was a prelude to a landing or a diversionary assault, the result was a battering for Red supply lines along the 130-mile sea front. The array of warships operated off the Korean east coast, less than 120 miles from Soviet Vladivostok.

On the 130-mile ground-fighting front, American spearheads, within 65 miles of Pyongyang, the Red capital, met fierce resistance from Communist troops.

Eight miles up the road from Kumshon, another pincer is developing on Hampo. Heavy fighting raged there.

On the eastern end of the front in North Korea, South Korean troops pushed three miles north and captured Wonsan against light resistance.

U.N. forces captured more than 1400 Reds in 24 hours, bringing the total bag for the duration close to 60,000.

LONDON (CP)—A case of a baby born with a tail he can switch like an angry cat was reported today in a British medical journal. The baby's anxious mother took him to a London hospital at the age of 11 months. The tail was then more than three inches long. A surgeon removed the tail, and the baby is now normal.

Ottawa Talks of Alaska Railway

OTTAWA (CP)—Preliminary discussions took place here yesterday between a committee representing United States Congress and the Canadian government on the possibilities of surveying a route for a proposed railway line through British Columbia to connect up the United States and Alaska.

J. C. Lessard, deputy minister of transport, was senior Canadian among the Canadian group.

If built, the railway line would fill in the rail-less gap between Prince George, British Columbia, and eastern Alaska.

The conference decided to recommend to the government methods of surveying the route of the proposed rail line to link the United States proper with Alaska, through British Columbia.

An External Affairs Department spokesman said only that the officials had decided on "certain recommendations" as to how such a location survey might be carried out.

Government sources said they expected a further meeting to be held later.

It is announced that President Truman, following his return to the United States mainland, will make a radio address from San Francisco Tuesday night.

New Markets

AN ENCOURAGING sign in the development of Canadian markets is the agreement signed with Venezuela.

For too long now, Canada has been playing for the big markets in the United States and Britain and giving little thought to smaller markets in smaller countries. But now the idea developed by F. W. Woolworth in the retail market that many small sales are just as good, if not better, than a few large sales seems to be taking hold with the nation's trade experts.

One great advantage with many small customers is that they are not all apt to "go broke" at the same time. We have had good examples of just that in the past few years. Notable are the dire straits reached by the Annapolis and Okanagan Valley apple growers when the market for apples in Britain dwindled to a fraction of what it had been and the lumber producers of the country when the bottom fell out of the United States market for wood products.

With the development of markets in the smaller countries, the fact that one of them becomes temporarily embarrassed for the where-withal to pay would have little effect on Canada's national economy.

The move is one that should be greeted with extreme gratification by Canadians and one that should be encouraged. Another by-product of these multi-lateral trade agreements is that merchant and buyer will get to know each other better, thus lessening the danger of bad feelings and, ultimately, war.

ON CRITICISM

EVERY person, and particularly every business person, should know two things about criticism—how to give it and how to take it, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Neither is an easy art. We are likely to be very pert at criticizing others, and reluctant to accept advice.

There are many kinds and degrees of criticism. The business man out of whose good judgment comes a suggestion for a change in method of production is displaying a constructive kind of criticism. The man in high position who finds relief from his personal worry by making continual complaints, and the executive who constantly finds fault with the office boy, are using a very low form of criticism.

Criticism can be used and met constructively or destructively. It can be the means by which men receiving it climb, or it can be used to bolster the critic's vanity.

Criticism in its highest sense means trying to learn the best that is known and thought in the world, and measuring things by that standard.

Society could not exist without criticism. Discontent is the first step in the progress of a man or a nation. Criticism, of the constructive kind, accompanied by sensible suggestions for improvement, accelerates advancement.

Criticism is the essence of democracy. Rigid social systems like Communism will never tolerate it. As Robert Ayre remarks in an article in Canadian Art: Once criticism gets its foot in the door, the walls of tyranny come tumbling down.

But all critics, whether social, business, art or personal, should look at all sides of a case before judging. They might have inscribed over their desks a few words from Burns' To the Unco Guid: "Ye high, exalted, virtuous dames, Tied up in godly laces,

Before ye gie poor Frailty names, Suppose a change o' cases."

FRIDAY THE THIRTEENTH

TODAY is Friday the thirteenth. To some, the day may seem nothing more than any other date in the calendar. With others, it's full of significance, and a solemn warning to "watch your step" until it's safely past, and Saturday the fourteenth dawns, and one can breathe easy again.

It's just another superstition. This day is just Friday, as a week ago was and as a week from now will be. But nevertheless, thousands, all over Canada, will walk and drive carefully today and be watchful and cautious.

SCRIPTURE PASSAGE FOR TODAY

"If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things that belong unto thy peace."—Luke 19:42.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
OLD DOGS AND NEW TRICKS

IN ANSWER TO my recent query about teaching old dogs new tricks, most readers say, "Yes, you can."

They mean this both ways. They say you can teach old canines and they say you can teach old humans.

HERE IS WHAT a former farmer says:

"My dog used to follow me to town in Alberta behind the wagon and team. I would tie up the team in the feed corral. Instead of learning, right from the start, to lie behind the wagon I let the dog follow me up town. It did this for years. In fact it was around nine years old when I trained it to quit following me, and to stay with the horses.

"The old dog learned the new trick in one lesson. I scolded it for starting to follow me but I did not beat it or abuse it. I also gave it a scrap of feed when I ordered it to stay behind."

A CHEERFUL WRITER at the T.B. hospital at Tranquille writes about animals and humans. A. A. Derrick says that animals act mostly from habit and don't think very much. That is why horse trainers etc. are very careful not to allow young animals to make bad habits. "Dogs are not quite such habit-formers, but many keep on chasing cars until they get killed. Sheep killing dogs have to be destroyed."

"Many humans are habit followers too — they will smoke cigarettes even if it kills them. But the human brain can be made to think and learn as long as the body lives. Most minds can be interested in something that he or she wanted to do, had there been an opportunity. Older people often take their opportunities for doing this while younger ones let the opportunities slip.

"In my own experience I would not exchange the last ten years for any other ten years of my life in actually learning to my own betterment. I did not have as good opportunities as most young people have today. I have made money easier in the past ten years than at any time in my 77 years. People are happier, healthier and more useful citizens by keeping both body and mind active. The nation benefits most of all by not having so much 'deadwood'."

HISTORY RECORDS thousands of cases where old men and women learned new things at an advanced age. But the trouble is that when ordinary folks read about them many say to themselves "oh that does not apply to ME. I am just an ordinary person. I am not a great man or woman like the one in the book."

That idea is the bunk. True there are many things which the ordinary old person cannot learn. There are many things beyond the physical strength of all older folks. But there is just about nobody on earth that does not have SOME possibility to learn something new and useful. There is just about nobody too old to get joy out of some new activity — if only they tried hard enough to connect with it."

YOU SEE THAT if you are forced to spend much time in hospitals (as I was after the first world war). The new patients almost always start out by wishing they were dead when they find out they are going to be bed-bound for long periods. Then (especially if there are good occupational therapists on the job) they begin to find new outlets for their interest. They learn all sorts of arts and crafts. It could be the same with old people. But unfortunately, too many of them just never get in touch with some new activity.

Union steamer Chilcotin, Capt. Harry McLean, is due in port this afternoon at 3:45 from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. for Masset Inlet points.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

President Truman should be somewhere on or near the Pacific today to meet General MacArthur. The conference is to take place this week. Any time is quite OK with yours truly, so long as it is not THIS day.

The home for the aged and infirm near Terrace, now occupied by 140 men, has been fully described. Fortunate indeed are those who will spend their declining years there. Buildings and equipment have been already pictured, so here is the place to touch on environment. Seen from the home in the sunny freshness of a summer day, the verdant miles and tranquility of the Kalum Valley is a place of sheer loveliness.

Premier Stalin has sent a message to the people of Northern Korea, wishing them success in what he terms their struggle for independence. Once long ago the United States also had a struggle for independence. But they were spared the alleged friendship of a powerful dictator with an iron curtain.

If a can of salmon is costing twenty cents more, in Seattle, it is possibly timely to inquire what a pound of codfish is worth in Newfoundland, or how much a mess of stewbeef in Calgary would set you back?

It is expected this year's crop will be large and low grade. Should this turn out to be a fact, there is reason to anticipate the use of the grain elevator at Prince Rupert this winter. Welcome news. But how much more satisfactory would it be if Rupert shared in the annual handling of wheat, with the other elevators. Instead of waiting for exceptional circumstances.

Nothing less than the end of the world seems to be having less difficulty getting into the thoughts of people today. There is a "jittery feeling." In an Ohio town last week, a clergyman in his sermon declared the end would come in an orange glow. Later, smoke from burning forests in Alberta and Mackenzie made it appear, in the States, that mid-day was early evening. Poultry went to rest. There were grave faces, and prayers. Nevertheless, the grand finish is as far off as ever, and life will doubtless be sailing smoothly long after Stalin, bombs, juvenile delinquency and the price of pork are forgotten.

Blind Work His Subject

Rotary Club Hears How Sightless in Canada Are Being Aided

The after luncheon talk at the Rotary Club yesterday was given by Harold Guest, regional supervisor for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Mr. Guest told how the institute was founded by veterans of the first world war returned to Canada after attending St. Dunstan's in England. They found no adequate provision in Canada for adult blind nor for the war-blinded men. They obtained a Canadian government charter and took over the Toronto Braille library and scattered basket and broom factories the blind had been running at a loss, welding them into the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. There are now over 17,000 blind men, women and children registered.

Object of the institute, the speaker said, was to help the blind to help themselves. They work with the institute for their own welfare, not to receive handouts.

First job the newly formed institute undertook was registration of the blind. All people with less than 10 per cent vision are registered. The job was to find who they were, where they were and to help them find once more their place in society.

Once located, home teachers were sent to teach them vocations and to read Braille. In this connection, he said there were now from 20,000 to 30,000 books in the Braille library at Toronto. In addition there are 1500 talking books, read by trained persons and recorded on phonograph records.

EMPLOYMENT

The employment service, Mr. Guest said, had been particularly effective. It had found jobs for the blind where sight was not an essential qualification and persuaded employers that blind persons could fill the jobs. In 1928, he continued, there were 252 blind persons employed. Now there are over 1500. There are 54 blind concessions operating in British Columbia and 350 in the Dominion. But the bulk of work lies in industrial plants and in sheltered workshops.

On the social welfare side, blind persons are trained to deal with the problems of the blind and work in a capacity parallel to other welfare workers.

Mr. Guest placed preventive work high on the list of institute activities. He mentioned two cases in particular where preventive measures had saved the sight of the people concerned.

Turning to recreations and organized activities, he spoke of bars or secret hide-outs. So there has grown up in the Protestant churches a strong tie between the church and the home and divorce is not known. The delegates were surprised to find in Canada that more women than men go to church and that Sunday School is only for children.

NO DIVORCES

Sunday school statistics released during the convention by Lord Mackintosh and Dean L. Weigle were noted because of the statement that annual average rate of increase has been .75 which is an increase of almost 100 percent over 15 years ago. This increase has been maintained in the face of very disturbed world conditions, and in spite of the great losses recorded nearly everywhere in the British Commonwealth, which mark the bowling league, fishing league, men's service club and the women's service club called the "Gadabouts" who lived up to their name.

For this multi-service program, he said, the institute relies on 50 per cent from the campaign and 50 per cent from grants from the provincial governments and community chests. He urged the people of Prince Rupert to get behind the campaign here.

Visiting Rotarian at the meeting was D. Wallace of Kamloops.

BUSINESS

The business part of the meeting was taken up mostly by finalizing details of the auction sale to be held tomorrow.

President Bruce Brown thanked C. A. Berner for finding a guest speaker.

T. Norton Youngs said he had received tickets for a concert to be held for the blind fund campaign and turned them over to Art Nickerson for distribution.

The speaker was introduced by Douglas Stevenson.

DECEASED

part of the price paid for the war.

The missionary enterprise at present is restricted because of very limited entrance permits and the necessity of revising methods to conform to the new ideology.

Concerning the Chinese Church the work has been well done with strong foundations laid. There is great ability and Christian character in the Church. One thing must be remembered that atheistic-materialistic regimes will not be overcome by guns and tanks, planes or ships of war, however necessary these may be to preserve freedom and independence.

The hope of China is in the Christian Gospel. While opportunities for evangelism are curtailed in China the doors are open in Africa, India, Japan and Trinidad and the salvation of our generation depends upon witness for Christ.

Rev. A. J. Lawton, of Port Simpson, chairman of Prince Rupert Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was in charge of the meeting.

Australia Has Rat Invasion

SIDNEY, Australia (P)—Hordes of rats have invaded outlying stations south of Cooper's Creek, near Lake Frome, south Australia. The influx is believed partly due to an exceptionally wet season.

The rats have not invaded homes or caused any noticeable damage as yet. They are spread over an area of hundreds of miles and people from stations around Lyndhurst and Copely report that the rodents can be seen all over their stations.

Ben Burton, Lands Department Fence Inspector, said that at one time the rats could be seen travelling in millions towards Lake Frome.

He said: "The grass is about a foot high in the area, and they couldn't be seen clearly, but their movements gave the grass the appearance that it was continually moving in a southward direction."

Bill Leslie, part owner of the stations at Moolawatana and Mount Fitton, said the rats apparently subsided in recent weeks. But they might be nesting.

"A few weeks ago," he said, "they were to be seen in millions during the day on our properties. However, in the last couple of weeks they have started to nest and can be seen only at night."

"Fortunately, they haven't troubled our homes yet. However this is due to the fact that there is plenty of natural feed about for them."

Pirates On Waterfront

VANCOUVER—There is piracy on the Vancouver waterfront. Two men, using a speedboat, boarded Norman Tyler's fishing boat and robbed him of $8. They also made their getaway after taking a $250 compass from another boat.
