Canada's Scout Chief Support of Work Citizenship, Peace

Trust Enterprise but Endeavor Towards Meeting Canadian, Democratic Way of Life

Some young Major General Dan Spry, who some ago was Canada's No. 2 ranking soldier chief of staff of the Canadian Army general in the uniform of a Boy Scout last night capacity as chief executive commissioner of the Scout Association of Canada and told a Prince Rupert after-dinner audience that support of the Scout movement was not an altruistic matter but something in selfish interest which would definitely pay off in the future through helping to maintain and improve the benefits of the Canadian way of living. It offered an opportunity for every citizen to do something in actively helping to sustain the democratic process against influences which were working hard these days to pull down.

"Scouting is trying to produce the kind of citizens you want for the future," General Spry declared, "the kind of neighbors you would like to have, the sort of young men you would like."

Increased Costs Menace Papers

NEW YORK—Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, protested at the $10 a ton increase in price of paper which has been announced by two Canadian pulp and paper companies and said there was a limit to the increased costs if papers were to stay in business.

The increase in the newsprint price was denounced by Williams as "precipitate, excessive, unwarranted and ill-timed."

He said the increase was not justified by any factors.

French Coalition Comes Under Fire

PARIS—Premier Rene Pleven's government came under heavy political fire today because of French military defeats in Indo-China.

Communist Deputy Pierre Juge opened the debate in the National Assembly by demanding an immediate end to the war.

Edmond Michelet, right wing follower of Gen. Charles DeGaulle, called for a more energetic fight against the Communist-led forces of Ho Chin Minh.

Michelet branded the evacuation of Caobang the "greatest disaster in our colonial history."

He attacked Pleven's middle-of-the-road coalition as a regime of "sepulchres."

Bulletins

HUGE STORM TOLL

MIAMI—Greatly tamed but still sharp-toothed, the hurricane blustered into Florida's rich citrus belt today after killing two persons and injuring many, causing widespread damage 200 miles to the south. Red Cross reports 128 homes destroyed and 13,464 damaged by winds reaching 128 miles per hour. Damage is estimated at $20,000,000.

SHIPYARD STRIKE

VANCOUVER—The Labor Relations Board was to meet shipyard managements and workers today after construction on two destroyers and a gate vessel for the Navy had been halted when more than 400 shipyard workers walked out in British Columbia's two major yards. Represented by nine unions, the men seek a wage increase. Victoria yards may be made idle by the same action.

NO TRACE OF PLANE

EDMONTON—No trace was found up to noon today by searchers for the plane missing since the week-end on a flight from Grande Prairie to Edmonton. Ground searchers are moving in an area fifty miles north of Edmonton where a plane was reported Saturday night. Air search concentrated on the Lac la Biche area where an unidentified plane had also been reported at the same time.

WEATHER

Synopsis
Rain was general over southern British Columbia this morning with the approach of a minor weather disturbance which developed off the Washington coast. Rain will end along the coast about this afternoon and in the interior later in the day. However, cloudiness will persist in the wake of the system.

Skies are still clear over the north coast today. However, there will be a general increase in cloudiness over this region tomorrow with the approach of another storm centre from the Gulf of Alaska.

Forecast

North coast region...Clear today except cloudy in vicinity of Northern Vancouver Island. Clear tomorrow, becoming cloudy over the Queen Charlottes by afternoon. Little change in temperature. Light winds. Lows tonight and highs tomorrow — at Port Hardy 35 and 48; Sandspit 40 and 48; Prince Rupert 38 and 52.

MADAME FOCH DIES

PARIS—Madame Foch, widow of Marshal Foch, Allied commander-in-chief in World War I, died today at the age of ninety.

SECOND BRIGADE

OTTAWA—There is no official talk here of a second brigade being formed for service in Europe if the first goes to the Far East. Advance units of the first brigade have reached Okinawa and the rest may leave Fort Lewis in December.

ATTACKS ADMITTED

LAKE SUCCESS—Warren Austin, United States delegate, told the United Nations today that American planes had attacked a Russian air field by mistake October 8. The attack was due to navigational error and poor judgment. Definite instructions had been given against any such recurrence and indemnity would be paid.

CIRCUMVENT VETO

LAKE SUCCESS—A far-reaching veto-proof plan to stop aggression anywhere in the world—by force if necessary—was given overwhelming approval in the United Nations political committee yesterday with only the Soviet block opposed. The plan gives the General Assembly military power to combat aggression whenever the Security Council is held up by Russian veto.

Bear Downtown—

Bruin Near Fire Hall

It seems one can't turn around these days without hearing about wild animals seen in strange places.

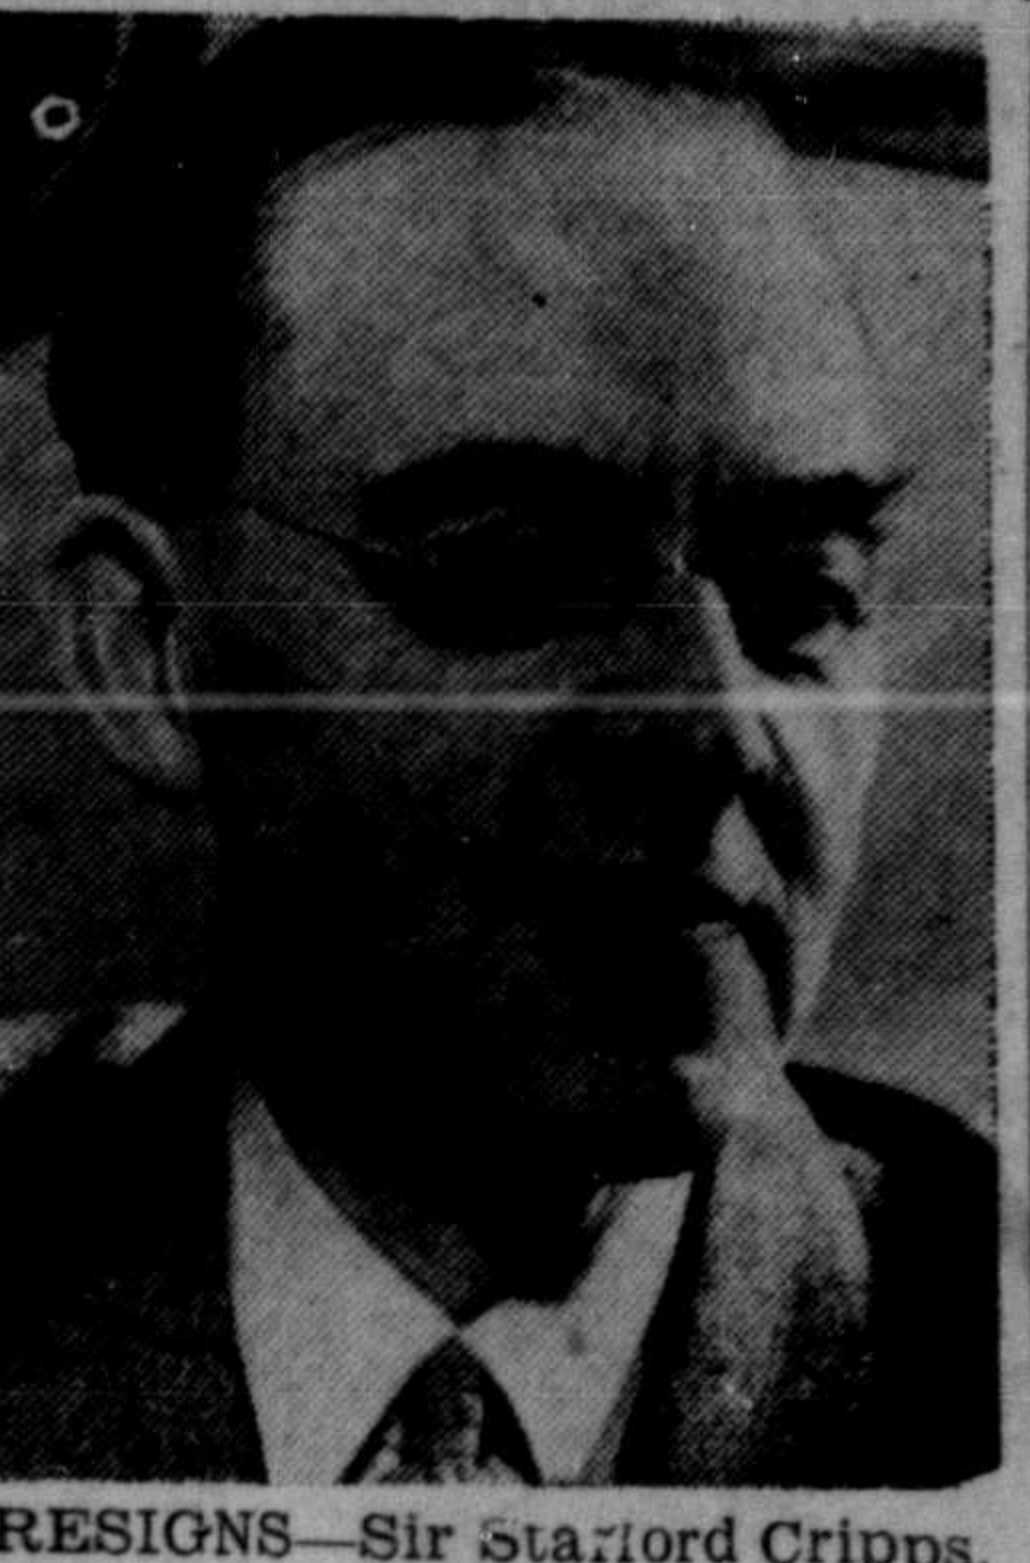

Last night a bear was reported seen on the cinder path between Fraser and Fulton Streets behind the Fire Hall. When spotted, it was too dark to shoot it. It was about 9:30 p.m. when the animal was seen.

Seven Men Die In Foaming Torrent

SYDNEY Australia—Seven men drowned today when a torrent of foaming flood water swept them over a 400-foot sheer face at Burrinjuck Dam in southern New South Wales. They were employees of the water conservation commission working on the dam's superstructure.

AIR PASSENGERS

To Vancouver (today)—W. Rogers, H. L. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. B. Kelly and Alice, J. L. Ryan, W. Choate, F. J. Orr, G. M. K. Davis.

RESIGNS—Sir Stafford Cripps, British Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Rebirth Of Ideologies

Shows Where Scouting Can Help in Bringing About Better Nation and World

Today's war in the world is principally a conflict of ideas and that it why there is a tremendous need for a rebirth of spiritual and moral forces so that democracy and an orderly and free way of living may survive in the face of confusion and fear, Major General D. C. Spry, executive commissioner of Boy Scouts in Canada, told nearly 100 business and professional men of Prince Rupert at a joint luncheon yesterday of Gyro and Rotary Clubs. There must be strength to face fear—confidence born from experience of the democratic process. Otherwise it would be too easy to swallow the communist line leading to aggression and chaos.

"If you agree that the Canadian way of life should be maintained and improved, let us all do something now to see that others think and vote in the right direction," exhorted the speaker. "There are those who are working twice as hard as we are for another way of life. There are 23,000 known communists in Canada and what they are doing to promote communism makes us look like rank amateurs."

Gen. Spry went on to suggest that a useful work might be done by participating and assisting in the work of Scouting wherein boys were trained to the idea of the democratic approach and, through knowledge and practice of it, developed confidence and naturally fell into its processes. The importance of getting lads in their formative years was emphasized by the speaker who declared that the service clubs and their memberships could make their contribution to thus developing citizenship by actively supporting and assisting in the work of the Scout movement.

Scouting was one of the most active agencies in the country today, asserted the speaker, in helping young boys and combating juvenile delinquency in cities. In Canada, Scouting was also making its contribution toward the integration of new Canadians and along inter-racial and interdenominational lines. Turning abroad, the speaker referred to Israel, India, Japan and Germany as examples of where boys were brought happily together to work, play and co-operate despite the widest of political, religious and ideological differences.

"A good proportion of the leading men in all walks of life in Canada today have been Scouts or have been connected with the Scout movement," he sneaker said. "This all means that the Scout program helps develop a sense of leadership and responsibility. So we know we are getting results."

In its program of keeping pace with the times and its endeavour to provide planned opportunity for every boy, the principal difficulty was not in getting the boys, but in getting the leaders and the workers.

Hugh Gaitskill New Exchequer Chancellor

LONDON (CP)—Britain's economic czar, Sir Stafford Cripps, quit his senior cabinet post today. Aged 61, Sir Stafford has long been known as "Mr. Austerity" to millions of Britons. He resigned the Chancellorship of the Exchequer which he took over in November 1947.

Economics Minister Hugh Gaitskill was tonight named to succeed Sir Stafford as Chancellor of the Exchequer.

In his position as Chancellor Cripps held wide powers over the economy of Britain. He spearheaded the drive, recently successful, of building up Britain's dollar and gold reserves after the postwar slump which threatened Britain's life as a going concern.

The Chancellor resigned because of ill-health that has plagued him for several years. He suffers from stomach trouble.

Recently Sir Stafford returned from a rest cure in Switzerland and a vacation in Italy.

He also gives up his seat as Member of Parliament for South Bristol.

Train Derails; Two Are Dead

ONEIDA, New York—The New York Central's North Star Express, streaking westward in the darkness, was violently derailed early today at the cost of two lives and fifteen injured.

A steel freight car door that had fallen in the path of the Limited was blamed for the wreck.

Engineer and firemen were killed.

Bond Issue Over Subscribed Early

OTTAWA—The $700,000,000 Canadian government bond issue was heavily over-subscribed immediately after the books opened this morning, the Bank of Canada announced. The refinancing issue consists of two maturities—two-year 1 1/2 per cent bonds and 2 1/4 per cent bonds maturing in five years and eight months.

The Bank of Canada said both issues were over-subscribed 15 minutes after the books opened at 10 a.m. end military force could not be the only answer which must come in a rebirth of spiritual and moral forces.

General Spry was introduced by F. E. Anfield, district commissioner of Boy Scouts here, and was thanked by A. B. Brown, president of the Rotary Club, Gyro President A. J. Dominato was in the chair.

AIR FORCE SPEAKER

Flying Officer Bowman, RCAF, leading an Air Force recruiting team which was in the city, spoke briefly, stressing the travel angle in RCAF service, giving young men the opportunity to better themselves by improving their knowledge and at the same time helping to make Canada a better and more secure country in which to live.

General Spry subscribed to Flying Officer Bowman's appeal. Don Forward spoke briefly on behalf of the annual Civic Centre membership appeal.

Luncheon guests included Quintine Brown of London, England; Thomas Turner and John Sheriff of Vancouver; Sgt. Jones, RCAF, and Elmer Clausen.

Interested In Joining RCAF

Three applicants for the Royal Canadian Air Force were interviewed by Flying Officer H. E. Bowman during his visit here, he reported to The Daily News yesterday. In addition there were about 20 who made enquiries. Of the 20, F/O Bowman is confident some will enlist after they have had time to consider the information he was able to give them.

F/O Bowman and Sgt. L. O. Jones, RCAF, have been in the city this week on public relations work regarding the service. They showed films Monday and Tuesday nights depicting Army-RCAF co-operation on Exercise Muskox, aerial mapping of the barren country of the Northwest Territories and one on jet propelled aircraft, comparing them to the propeller-driven type.

The team is satisfied with the response they received in Prince Rupert, although they don't consider it outstanding. They left on their return to Edmonton last night.

Four Children Burn To Death

COLVILLE, Wash.—Four small children were burned to death in a flaming log house near here last night. Two others scrambled to safety by themselves.

A 14-year-old baby sitter saved two other children.

The dead are: David Burns, aged 5; Martha Burns, 3 1/2; Robert Burns, 2; Elizabeth White, 14 months.

Scouting--A Good Work

IT MIGHT be a good time today to acknowledge a very valuable community work which has been going on in Prince Rupert for the past few years and which has now reached a high point in the city. We refer to the Boy Scout and Wolf Cub movement which received a due modicum of attention as a result of the visit yesterday of the distinguished executive commissioner for Canada, Major General D. C. Spry, who, in addition to inspecting the Scouts at a fine rally, had occasion to meet and address citizens at a luncheon and a dinner and tell the Scout story.

Many of us may not need to be told what the Boy Scout movement does in keeping boys of a community on the right track through healthful and useful activities, thus developing them into the channels of good citizenship, training them in cooperation and leadership and inculcating in them through indoctrination the principles and practices of true democratic processes. In other words, Scouting may be acknowledged as a fundamental approach to good and useful living with inherent understanding and practice. Scouting is an education.

No comment on the matter would be complete without acknowledgment also of the public spiritedness and inspired service of District Commissioner F. E. Anfield and his executive and practical workers. Theirs is a work the value of which we might commend to the appreciation not only of the parents concerned but to the citizens as a whole. And with the appreciation we might also draw attention to the need of further leaders for practical assistance in carrying on the Scout and Cub work—the main recompense of which, any leader will tell, is the satisfaction of the work and its results. If anybody is looking for an opportunity to assist in a real community benefaction he could well consult with the Boy Scout organization to see if they could not give him a job to do.

THE PRICE OF MILK

THE GOVERNMENT of British Columbia is hesitating about permitting a boost in the price of milk sold in Vancouver. For opposition to the proposed price boost comes not only from consumers who simply cannot afford to pay more than the present 17 cents per quart. The Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association has also cried STOP! LOOK! LISTEN!

Its general manager, A. H. Mercer, points out that an increase in the price of milk sold to the homes may well mean heavy financial loss to the farmers.

Most of the dairy farmers sell their milk in two ways:

1. A fraction of the total milk produced is sold on the so-called fluid market—that is in bottles to the home of actual consumers.

2. The larger part is sold AT A MUCH LOWER PRICE to plants which make butter, cheese, milk powder, etc.

o o o

NOW LISTEN to what Mr. Mercer warns against in the July 1950 issue of "Butterfat," the Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association magazine:

"If the price of fresh milk is more than the consumer is able or willing to pay then he simply refuses to buy. When this happens the independent distributors buy less. . . . We ourselves sell less and the total thus made surplus must be manufactured into butter and powder.

"Certainly if folk in the city would continue to buy as much milk per capita at the higher price as they do now, a higher price would be an advantage to the F.V.M.P.A. But past experience shows they won't. If they don't and sales in the area go down as much as five per cent everything gained by the association from the higher price will be lost. If per capita sales decline as much as 12 per cent (remember in three years they went down 19.49 per cent) the net loss to the association would be three hundred thousand dollars."

o o o
THE PRODUCERS and consumers of milk in British Columbia are caught in the same vicious circle that now bedevils the whole economy of North America. We now live in a bastard system, part capitalism, part socialism, that has all the worst features of both and the benefits of neither.

Absolutely free enterprise would work far better in fixing the price of milk in Vancouver than the hodge-podge fascism that we now have. Sooner or later the government will have to do either one of two things:

Either restore free enterprise and let the price of milk be governed by the law of supply and demand or

Take over the whole machinery for processing and selling milk in all forms.

o o o

AS THINGS NOW stand both in Canada and the U.S., our governments are subsidizing scarcity. Our government owns 23 1/2 million pounds of butter. The U.S. government owns 192 million pounds, and a vast stock of meat, cotton, eggs and fruits. All this is kept off the regular market. Yet I was astonished to read in the New York Times

IT CAN AND IT DOES HAPPEN HERE

The free enterprise way is not just a theory, or something to be observed from afar.

The best place to observe how it works out is in one's own community. Size up the successful men of the community, and you will find that in virtually all cases they are successful because they worked hard toward the goal of their own choice.

Successful in this respect does not mean only those who have made a million dollars or achieved wide fame or power. A successful man is one who has gained the place in life to which his ambition directed him, whether that be running a grocery store or practicing a profession or creating a new industry.

The point is that the free enterprise system, which is our Canadian way of life, gives every man the opportunity to become successful according to his ambition and ability. And it works. Look around you for the proof.

It is a way of life worth guarding and preserving.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Considering the quantity of liquor consumed in Prince Rupert it would be astonishing if everyone remained cold sober all the time. The first store here was a small building in the old Court House square near where the post office is located. Then it was moved to Fraser Street. The premises became too small. The next was built at Third Avenue and Second Street, with extra space in a vacant store opposite. The fourth, now under construction, will be on Second Avenue near Seventh Street; and with its 100 feet frontage, should be sufficiently spacious to serve satisfactorily until Prince Rupert is twice its present population.

It is all very well to compare the number of visible drunks in Prince Rupert, and in great cities such as London or New York. Conditions are totally different. In a metropolis, a wide variety of liquor is taken, of course—but not exclusively in beer parlors and in the beer parlor way or in the privacy of a bedroom. One can eat and drink in London, out to do so in other communities that might be mentioned could mean prosecution.

Prince Rupert's population is around ten or twelve thousand. What's that, to seven or eight million. This city has many men who have no home life. Perhaps many are transients. Here are not the thousands of opportunities for free and good entertainment of a man in far larger centres. What's one going to do? Sit in a lonely lodging house and twiddle his thumbs?

Beef steak is ten cents cheaper today. And it's just as well to cut it thicker, too!

For general purposes, the R.C. M.P. wear the dark brown tunic and peaked cap. The red coat uniform is worn only on special occasions. This is the explanation given the Vancouver Tourist Association's request that the "scarlet and gold" officers be posted at border crossings into the province as a tourist attraction. It should always be remembered that the mounties were not originally organized as an attraction. That can be found at Hollywood.

Garibaldi Park, in the moun-ains around Vancouver, is taking a long time being discovered despite the fact of most of British Columbia's people live conveniently to it. The press play it up and urge visits. The situation is somewhat the same elsewhere. In London, thousands have never seen the inside of St. Paul's or Westminster.

Handsome cars are multiplying in Prince Rupert. Some seem almost too dainty to use. One hates to think of any part of such spotless creations discoloured, or stained or marred in any way. Just where all the automobiles will be parked five years hence is a puzzling enough speculation.

Today is somewhat reminiscent of life in Prince Rupert during the second great war. If not a city of strangers, there has already been a time when more residents were following the process of gradually becoming acquainted. Once, we knew everybody. But not now. For one thing, the change indicates that Prince Rupert is busy and growing. And isn't that what we all came to see originally?

A partly grown bear, evidently trying to trace rich whiffs of bacon and eggs, found himself near the kitchen door of a First Avenue home, Sunday morning. While he had no intention of causing anyone to feel alarmed in the slightest degree, his presence, nevertheless, did have that effect. After all, like everyone else at that hour, he was only rustling his breakfast.

That part of the British House of Commons bombed by the Germans has been replaced and is about to be formally opened. While long needed changes have been made, dimensions remain the same. Heating, lighting and acoustics are improved. It has been the architect's aim to "keep heads cool and feet warm in conditions conducive to alertness." A pretty good idea for any Parliament.

General MacArthur, in every day campaign dress with tunic open at the throat, had a two hour wait for President Truman at Wake Island and when the plane finally did come zooming down, his first act was to walk over and shake hands. Then they lost no time in driving off. Wake Island's well worn looking car—to disappear in a plain little house for a straight-forward talk. And after this, it was just a prompt return to the United States and Japan. It was as simple as that. No side ceremony, and next to no dignity.

Better Homes And Parents

In keeping with the province-wide "Better Parent" week, Ed Coughlin of the Welfare Department addressed the meeting of King Edward Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday night. It was with great appreciation, he said, that he accepted the invitation. It was an opportunity to put before an interested body the problems which confront the welfare authorities. To have a sense of security and belonging, children need their parents to show a specific interest in their home and school life.

SPEAKS HERE—Women's angle of a south Pacific holiday was the main theme of an imaginary tour of the Hawaiian Islands when Mrs. Phyllis McDonald, women's representative of Canadian Pacific Air Lines, spoke to a joint meeting of the I.O.D.E., the Canadian Legion Women's Auxiliary, the Women's Canadian Club, the Soroptomist Club, the Canadian Professional and Business Women's Club, at the Civic Centre on Monday evening. Mrs. McDonald, recently returned from a visit to Hawaii, showed a colored film depicting the beauty of that famed island resort in the South Pacific. Included in the discussions were pointers on the best places to stay, what to wear and what to see when visiting Honolulu. Mrs. McDonald arrived from Vancouver Monday afternoon and returned there Tuesday.

Mr. Coughlin chose as his particular topic "The Foster Home and Parents." In the past the orphanage had played a large but somewhat inadequate part in the rearing of homeless children. Much closer to the ideal of replacement was to have good foster homes and parents. It was preferable to have homes of the same standard of living as that to which the homeless child was accustomed and foster parents who will not discriminate between their own children and those loaned to them.

Indifferent parents, broken homes and those parents who for one reason or another had little or no time for their children were often the basic cause of social workers having to step in. Children who show homosexual tendencies most often came from homes where life was unsure and insecure. Where the Welfare is called in, the social workers exerted every means to patch up differences between parents. In many instances they succeeded, thus saving much misery for the chief sufferer—the child. When Welfare assumed the full responsibility, the children were removed from the home by a court order. It was then that the good foster home was needed. To people who take these stranded youngsters, the Department pays an adequate food allowance, while clothing and health services are provided by other means.

Situations such as this are found everywhere in the province, even in Prince Rupert. Mr. Coughlin asked that the home be considered as a potential foster home. A short reel on "The Health of the Country School Child" by courtesy of the Health Unit was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. B. Roald and her helpers.

SAFETY COMMITTEE—The meeting heard that central council for the P.T.A. has appointed R. G. Moore, principal

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

in future years if necessary. Expectancy showed, he said from one in six per cent to one in 4.2 per cent of the population. Provision has been made to take care of future requirements as well as present needs and long range planning looks as far ahead as 1971, anticipating these requirements. If a community finds itself short of hospital facilities, he said, it could apply for a permit to increase the number of beds. Expenses would be shared equally between the municipality, province and Dominion. He said the cost of building and equipping new hospitals today was estimated at $1,000,000 for 100 beds and the cost to maintain each bed was $10 a day. In the past, hospitals had lagged behind needs, more space was needed and the insurance plan was designed to provide that additional space.

Mr. Burgess said James Hamilton and Associates had been called in to collaborate on the plan. Since its inception an additional 545 beds had been provided for acute cases and 98 for chronic cases. There would be another 492 beds for acute cases within the near future. "It is necessary to provide the space to sell the insurance," he said. Speaking of administration costs, Mr. Burgess said they ran to 6.9 per cent here compared with 7.9 per cent in Saskatchewan. It was hoped that by the move to centralize administration at Victoria savings would be effected. A system of cyclic billing that would make premiums due at half monthly intervals would distribute clerical work over the year to avoid bottlenecks that made hiring extra help necessary and also would eliminate much of the trouble in providing receipts in time. Employers who were now deducting premium payments for some of the employees are now required to deduct from all employees and the payroll deduction plan would be in effect for all firms as soon as they can be absorbed.

Mr. Burgess said the benefits of King Edward School, convener of a proposed city-wide "Safety Committee," the aim being to make all—children and adults alike—safety conscious. Mr. Moore plans to ask the co-operation of all clubs and organizations. Vice-Principal Freeman was selected as member of this committee to represent King Edward. A proposal was put forth to ask the city to place safety lines across Seventh Avenue at Cotton and Green Streets to ensure the safe conduct of pupils.

under the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service were the most comprehensive on the continent. They include anaesthetist, therapeutic, diagnostic and x-ray facilities of hospitals. Amendments made to the act last April provided fines of from $5 to $25 for non-payment of premiums; from $100 down for failure to register, plus repayment of premiums from the time the person would have been eligible for insurance; and a 30-day waiting period for benefits if the insurance had lapsed. Here he pointed out that the policy was not considered to have lapsed until the insured person had let the premium payment go beyond the period for which he was insured.

In conclusion, Mr. Burgess said that hospital insurance was here to stay.

SCOUT PATROL

Cub Circle

BIG DAY—Due no doubt to holding the dress rehearsal for the rally on Friday past, very little news has reached this column this past week. However it was gratifying to see a large turnout from the Scout and Guide organizations at the rehearsal. There were at least 100 Cubs present and their opening hoal really shook the building. Observed at the rehearsal—a great shortage of leaders and assistants. Anyone interested in Scouts or Cubs could get in touch with F. E. Anfield.

CUB CIRCLE—Well spent, was a half hour evening visit to the Fifth (Annunciation Church) Pack. Like elsewhere, re-organization is underway for the winter months, but visitors will be impressed by the manner in which the Two-Sixers handle their Sixes when the Leaders are engaged with other affairs. Three recruits are well on the way to becoming full members of the Cub Circle and their investiture is scheduled for an early date.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 10:15, is reported to be on time.

Blackwood On Bridge

By Easley Blackwood

Yesterday's hand and today's are from a rubber I watched when Mr. Dale, the expert on how to get the most out of his partner, was playing with Mr. Abel.

Mr. Abel is the type of player who can play better than most people think he can. However, when subjected to severe and prolonged criticism from his partner he becomes resentful, confused and careless. Surely there is a little of Mr. Abel in all of us.

On yesterday's hand he made a rather nice play and was roundly complimented by Mr. Dale. Appreciating these kind words, he seemed to have his mind made up to earn some more of them. Today's hand offered him that opportunity. South dealer.

Mr. Champion opened the King of hearts and followed with the ace of that suit. A third heart lead was ruffed by Mr. Masters with the eight of trumps. The four of clubs was returned and Mr. Abel won with the ace.

Three rounds of trumps were now taken and the success of the hand obviously depends on the diamond finesse, which can be taken either way. In a care-less mood induced by a brow-beating partner, Mr. Abel might have taken the diamond finesse at this point—and taken it wrong.

But he didn't. Instead he next led a club to the king in dummy and a club back, which he ruffed. Now he has a full count. East had shown a singleton spade and a singleton heart, which meant that West had started with six hearts and three spades. And West had followed to three club leads.

That's 12 cards, so it is clear that Mr. Champion has not more than one diamond. Mr. Abel therefore led a low diamond to the king, then led the nine of diamonds back and let it ride with the successful finesse an

AMMONIATED LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

...designed to help prevent decay 3 ways!

1. Chemical action reduces mouth acidity. Mouth acidity encourages decay.
2. Mechanical action cleans surfaces as teeth are brushed—helps break up and remove decay-breeding deposits.
3. Chemical action checks acid-forming bacteria—a major cause of decay.

...formulation, developed by the University of Illinois Foundation, caused enormous interest in dental because of its promising method of attacking decay. In preliminary tests conducted at the University, after case of reduction in the incidence of decay was reported.

The manufacturers of Listerine Antiseptic make this formula readily available to you and to family. Use Listerine Ammoniated Tooth Paste daily, as directed, morning and night and right after meals.

CANADA'S SCOUT CHIEF

your sons to become, the kind of men you would like to have your daughters marry—normal and decent Canadian citizens, experienced from boyhood in the practice of the democratic process."

General Spry's address to the dinner of the Prince Rupert Boy Scout Association, presided over by Neville Gerrard, president of the local association, and attended by upwards of one hundred representative citizens, leaders in the Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement and parents and friends, was his principal speaking engagement during a day's visit to the city. At luncheon he had addressed a joint luncheon of Gyro and Rotary Clubs, delivering a similar message. Between the two engagements he had reviewed local Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs at a great rally in the drill hall of H.M.C.S. Chatham.

After four years now as chief executive commissioner for Canada, General Spry could say his was no armchair-polished desk job. He had already travelled 300,000 miles as the Scout movement, since the war, had tried to reorganize so that the benefits of Scouting might be brought to every boy who desired to join. Practically every community of 10,000 or more in Canada had their Scouts and Cubs and special efforts were now being made to develop the movement in smaller and isolated communities. "There is today a membership of 115,000 in Canada and there could be 250,000 if we had more men and women to act as leaders and assistants." At that there were 10,000 uniformed leaders and 25,000 participating in council and committee work. Two million man hours a year were being expended in a great effort which would amply pay off through developing of boys of today into good citizens of tomorrow.

EVEN IN EUROPE

"I have just returned from a trip to Europe," General Spry said. "People of Western Europe, faced with occupation on the one hand or overrunning by the Russian aggressors on the other, have so little to hope for that they seem filled with despair. Nevertheless, Scouting is making tremendous headway among the lads of those countries and they are gaining something which all other agencies are failing to provide. They are learning, first, the need of physical skill, fitness and self-reliance, but, what is more important, they are learning the worth of moral and spiritual values in the face of fear, confusion and misery." Scouting was playing its part in the rehabilitation of German, French and Italian youth.

Exemplary of the brotherhood of man aspect of Scouting was a conference of many nationalities in Portugal when delegates of nations, whose ideologies would appear to have nothing in common, were able to agree with complete unanimity on all problems of Scouting. "The Scout law, spirit and training make soil in which international understandings can grow and flourish," the General declared.

Only in the maintenance and development of democratic principles and practice lay the chance of averting another world war, General Spry was convinced, and it is "not likely that such a war would ignore any of us—even you here in Prince Rupert. I would say, therefore, that encouragement and assistance in the Boy Scout movement, is a practical way in which you as citizens could work towards the maintenance of democracy and the Canadian way of living and the promotion of world peace and security."

In thanking the speaker, F.

E. Anfield, district commissioner, expressed admiration of the manner in which General Spry had pictured the broad view of what the Scout movement was trying to do for boys and future citizens of the world. He wondered if even the parents of the Scouts were fully appreciative of the work that was being done by this movement in the developing of Canadian and world citizenship. If so, the best way of showing that appreciation, he suggested, would be to come along and lend a hand in carrying on the work which was so badly in need of leaders. Mr. Anfield paid tribute to General Spry's life of service and acknowledged the honor and inspiration of his visit.

Among the guests of honor of the evening were Mayor and Mrs. G. W. Rudderham. His Worship extended a welcome to General Spry.

Father P. M. Rayner, O.M.I., asked the blessing.

Chief Pays Visit—
Scouts, Guides
In Mass Rally

Congratulations to the Girl Guides as being the only group present to use "sir" when addressing him were the first words uttered by Maj. Gen. D. C. Spry, chief executive commissioner of Boy Scouts for Canada, in addressing a great rally of Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies after inspection in naval drill hall yesterday afternoon. Field Commissioner of Boy Scouts in Canada, Maj. Gen. Spry said it was not that he wanted to be called "sir" but that using the term was taught as a matter of politeness.
Before beginning his address, the commissioner taught the assembly a yell different to the customary ones used. It was the South African yell. It consisted of two "a-zees" followed by thumping the chest and a terrific shout.

Speaking to the cubs particularly, he stressed the meaning of the "Cub's honor," and emphasized what it meant. He hoped the Brownies were having a lot of fun and that they would go on to become Girl Guides when they were old enough.
To the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides he gave the advice that they would only get out of their work what they put into it. "Knowledge and skills come with effort," he said. "You will not get anything handed to you on a platter." He told the patrol leaders it was up to them to become first class Scouts so they could help others and set an example. He expressed his disappointment there were no more first class Scouts than there were. He said he counted on receiving a letter from the local commissioner within a year stating the number of first class Scouts there were compared with this time and that it would be substantially higher.
He thanked the group for their turn-out and told them he was glad to see them. He congratulated them on the work they had done and asked them to enter their future scouting and guide activities with more effort than ever.

The occasion started with singing "O Canada" when the commissioner arrived, followed by inspection of those on parade. First the Cubs were inspected, then the Brownies, Scouts and Girl Guides. After the inspection each group performed one of their games and exercises. The Cubs had a snake dance, the Brownies an animal game, the Scouts a ball passing contest. But topping them all was the Girl Guides' rendition of an Indian song in which they started with a loud voice and gradually reduced the volume until the song was hardly audible. The effect was extremely dramatic.
Cubmasters and assistants present were Leonard Sykes, Fourth Pack; Bob Morris, Second Pack; W. St. Clair, Third Pack; James Gorman, Fifth Pack. For the Scouts were Rev. Basil Procter, First Troop; Harry Quick, Second Troop; D. Garon, Third Troop, with Paul Doumont and M. Kaardal assisting.
Commissioner Honora Silver-sides of the Girl Guides had Capt. Mrs. Elizabeth Holmes and Lieut. Miss Maureen Keyes assisting her. Brown Owl Mrs. S. E. Williams had Tawny Owl Mrs. Tommy Dahl and Mrs. J. P. Kurdziel assisting. Miss Gerry Procter, former Brownie leader, also assisted.

Industrial Welding has received an order for three more bumper boats of the design produced last spring from Columbia Cellulose Company. The boat was designed by a local boat designer, Harvey Ward.

Does Your Roof Look Like This?
Or is it WEATHERTIGHT like this?

If you want a roof that's weathertight and long-lasting—then get Barrett Storm King* Roll Roofing. The 19" overlay provides double coverage over the entire roof. It conceals nailheads, locks them inside, prevents them from drawing with frost or rusting away. The individual rolls lie flat and firm. They're actually fused together when you use Barrett S.I.S.* Roofing Cement. Ask your Barrett Dealer for "Storm King" Roll Roofing—three attractive colours to choose from.

Your Barrett dealer sells Protection Plus
He stocks a complete line of roofing, insulation and weatherproofing materials. He's got what it takes to stop almost any weather. Whether your problem is leakage, seepage, rust or rot—see your Barrett dealer first!
