AMERICAN PARATROOPS DROP; TRAP CLOSED ON COMMUNISTS

Time For Canada To Max In Its Defences

Union Playing Its Part in Support of United Nations, Federal Member Tells Men's Club

Although Canada has no thought of aggression, Applewhite, M.P. for Skeena, told a United Men's Club audience after dinner last night, spending one quarter of our budget on defence in general and the Korean situation in particular.

March Horrible

troops by North Against United Nations

Korea is the centre of attention now, the speaker said, because there the struggle against Communism has been brought into the open. "It has rung an alarm all over the world." It has accelerated military preparedness and co-operation among the allies.

Mr. Applewhite impressed on his audience the need to keep the Soviet objectives and designs in mind. Soviet imperialism is world-wide, he said. They think their slave system is in opposition to the whole world. They will make their attacks where and when the politburo thinks circumstances are favorable to them. While Korea has shown they will act with military might, he said, in other places they are operating with conspiracy and mass agitation. Those tactics are insidious and can not be overcome by military action alone. It must be supported by economic and social processes. Free society must also rid itself of the objectionable elements Soviet Communism uses for its own ends, he continued. Oppressed people are easily taken in by Soviet claims to provide satisfaction to them in their distress or privation and fail to notice the political and moral slavery they are entering into. It appeals to misguided idealism and undermines and perverts man's best aspirations.

"We must provide bread, security and freedom to win from the Communist pretenders," he said. "Otherwise we will not gain their confidence."

Mr. Applewhite said Russian propaganda and espionage were weapons of Russia as well as the 170 military divisions. "We must be resourceful to win the world." He said that, although events were moving fast in Korea, the free world still faced an unmistakable military challenge and must be prepared to meet it. The problem was to know where the military angle took precedence and where it slackened off. While the fighting was still going on was the time to make plans for the peace.

MISREPRESENTATION

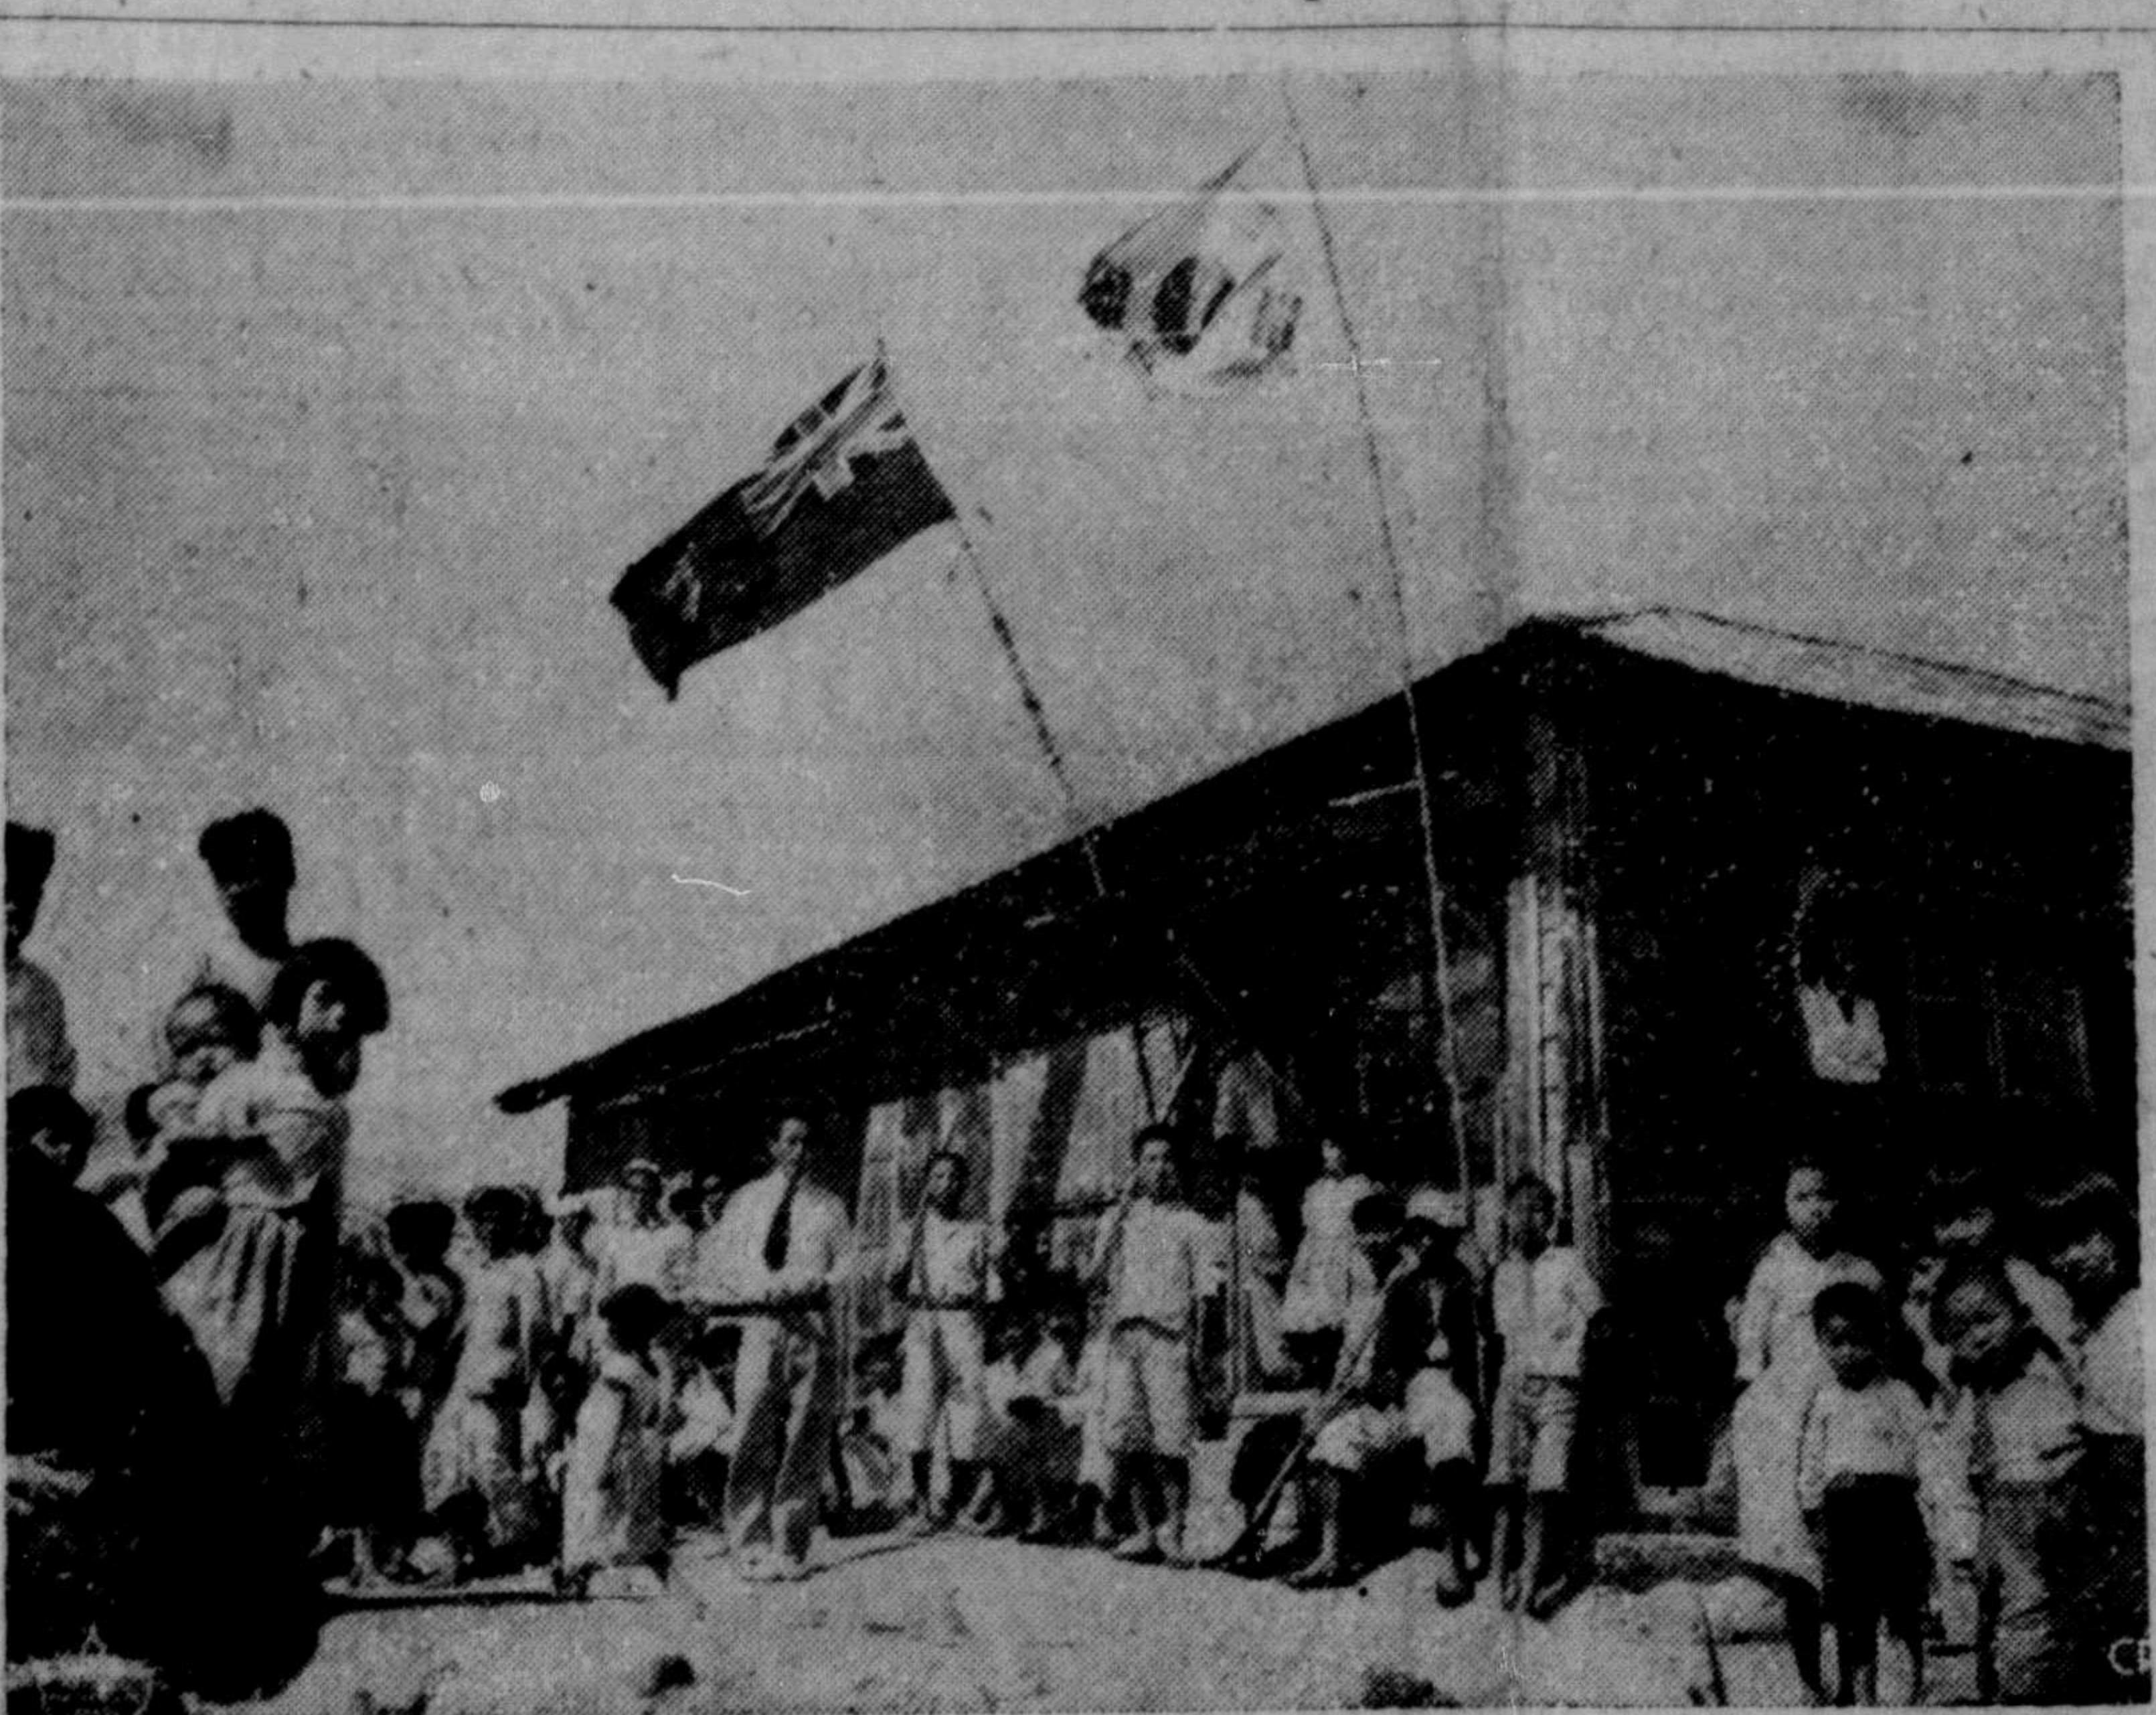

It was possible, he thought, that Russia thought Asia was the best place to attack and that war could be left to satellites. The war had been ridiculously misrepresented when Russia (Continued on Page 3)

U.S. Ready For 5-Power Talks

LAKE SUCCESS — The United States announced today that it was prepared to take part in a five-power meeting on problems threatening world peace.

This announcement was made in the United Nations political committee by John Foster Dulles, policy advisor to the Department of State. He warned, however, against the United States underestimating the complexities of the problems involved and said the United States should insist on agreements based on justice.

Miss Grace MacKay, regional secretary of Women's Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, arrived in the city today on the Princess Louise. She will spend a week or two here working in the district.

GUARD OF HONOR—Two Korean boys with wooden guns formed a "guard of honor" when Cmdr. Robert P. Welland of McCreary, Man., and Victoria, B.C., commanding officer of the destroyer Athabaskan, landed on a South Korean island to talk with village officials. This Royal Canadian photo shows a Canadian ensign raised alongside the Republic of Korea flag outside a hut where the meeting took place. (CP PHOTO)

Minister Checks On Force A.W.L.

OTTAWA — Defence Minister Claxton today started a quick check on camps where Canada's special service force is training to get the latest figures on reports of absenteeism.

This action followed a conference between the minister and his chief advisers when they considered reports that 703 special force men were absent without leave, including at least 100 classed as deserters, absent more than 21 days.

A spokesman said the minister would try to issue a statement later today giving accurate figures on absenteeism and some comment as to the seriousness of the figures compared to the number of men involved.

French Premier Wins Confidence

PARIS — After a stormy session which extended into the early morning hours after no less than three fist fights had thrown the chamber into disorder, the French Chamber of Deputies voted confidence in the government of Premier Rene Pleven on its Indo-China policy.

Ratepayers' Association Favor City Manager

EFFICIENCY SOUGHT— "Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of trouble" might have been saved ratepayers last year if Prince Rupert had had a city manager, Robert McKay said at a general meeting of the Community Ratepayers' Association held in the Civic Centre last night.

The high salary of a capable city manager would

German Army Out—Russia

LONDON — In notes to United States, Great Britain and France, the Moscow radio said Thursday, Russia has warned that it will not under any circumstances tolerate formation of a German Army in Western Germany.

The Soviet rejected a claim that the People's Army in East Germany was not in compliance with United Nations terms.

Husband Dies, Widow Stranded

Tragedy struck deeply into the life of Mrs. Mine Gidlund yesterday when the death of her husband, Gustav Adolf Gidlund, 49, left her stranded in a hotel room in a strange city. Mrs. Gidlund had brought her ailing husband to Prince Rupert General Hospital from Stewart October 10. In poor health herself, she was not able to visit her husband every day, but relied on a friend, William Logan, to see him when she could not get out.

Born in Sweden, Mr. Gidlund came to Canada in 1923 and settled in Alberta. Two years later he came to Prince Rupert and on to Stewart. He followed mining and worked at Anyox in 1931 and 1932. He spent some time in Prince Rupert in 1934. On his return to Stewart he went to work as a slope cleaner in Premier mine, where he has been ever since. Latterly he has been shift boss.

In 1940 he was married at Hyder, Alaska. His widow described him as a perfect "Viking" type of man. He had a host of friends in the northern community.

Surviving besides his sorrowing widow are five brothers and four sisters in Sweden. Funeral service will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Red Party Is Outlawed

CANBERRA — Australia became the twenty-seventh country to outlaw the Communist party as a bill ordering dissolution of the party, seizing of assets and expelling of declared members from government posts passed quickly through the Labor-controlled Senate yesterday and was given Royal Assent today by the Governor-General, thereby becoming law. It is certain that the bill's legality will be challenged.

Names of known communists will be published in the Gazette.

U.S. Lumber Mart Breaks

VANCOUVER — The British Columbia lumber industry has no record of drastic price breaks or order cancellations, exporters said in commenting on reports from the United States that the Pacific Northwest American market has gone bad.

The sharp drop in American prices was reflected in Greater Vancouver and New Westminster shingle mills where 2000 workers will soon be idle as thirty mills close. The operators have called a two weeks' halt pending a more normal United States market.

Sen. Ballantyne, Montreal, Dies

MONTREAL — Senator Charles C. Ballantyne, aged 83, one-time Conservative cabinet minister in the Borden and Meighen regimes and former leader of the party in the Upper Chamber, died last night. Economics - Old and New

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to know when our ancient forefathers stopped bartering on an individual basis and set up trade relations on a grand scale. Babylon, Egypt, Greece, Rome, Spain, France, ment in the annals of history, earned its reputation in the annals of history, earned its reputation as often through its trade commerce and industrial development as it did through wars of conquest. All too often wars were the tools of commerce, opening up new supply lines with the sword where diplomacy and bargaining had failed, says a University of British Columbia circular.

Trade and commerce are a necessary part of the social set-up. Our security and livelihood depend almost entirely on smoothly functioning systems that combine our skills and energies with raw materials to produce finished products for markets within the nation and beyond. The result that interests us primarily is the pay check we receive for our efforts. Money puts us on the receiving end. With our crisp dollars we buy what we need and someone else works to supply us. We are an essential part of the process of trade and commerce.

It is a far cry from the old days of simple barter when the requisites for successful enterprise were an ability to haggle and a flair for intrigue. Now the process is vastly more complicated. World boundaries have been extended. Machines have taken the place of manual labor. Exchange standards call for intricate knowledge, cartels, monopolies, political systems. Accelerating scientific discoveries make training in commerce more essential than ever before if the economic balance of the nation is to be maintained.

SUCCESS IN SPORTS

CANADIANS needn't take a back seat to any nation in sports, Frank Clair, U.S.-born-and-trained coach of the Toronto Argonaut Football Club, said in a series of talks recently.

Summing up fundamentals of the game for the benefit of young players and their coaches, Clair stressed "condition" and "desire" as the two most important factors in football. "I'm impressed with the Canadian boys I've seen," he added. "I like their attitude, competitive spirit and their ability to absorb rugged contact, such as you get in hockey."

"Adapt your system to the player, not the player to the system," Clair says.

"I can always tell when a player on my team has been well coached in high school because of his attitude and the habits he has brought with him."

Clair, now considered one of Canada's top coaches, said the real secrets of coaching success are a sound knowledge of a game's fundamentals, plus proper presentation and organization of practices.

BEAR LICKS BOB

EVERY TIME I write about Bob Edwards of the Calgary Eye Opener I get letters from old timers who add to the great fund of facts and legends about the famous character.

One from Bert Huffman tells of an editorial exchange between Nellie McClung and Bob. It was on the subject of the evils of strong drink. Mrs. McClung had written that it was a shame that Bob was ruining himself with liquor. But Bob's retort was a bit too ribald for me to reprint in this column.

IN THE SAME mail I got a letter from a former resident of Wetaskiwin. Apparently Bob Edwards paused there awhile between the time when he was chased out of High River and when he began to publish his Eye Opener in Calgary.

"Bob liked his liquor pretty well, and one Saturday night he passed out in the barroom of the Alberta Hotel. His companions carried him up to his room. It was a sultry hot night in July. To make him comfortable they took all his clothes off."

"Next day some of the boys were still whooping it up. Somebody remembered Bob and they wondered how he was getting on. They staggered up to the second-storey room. Bob was still snoring peacefully."

"Some of the pranksters thought it would be a good chance to pay back Bob for all the tricks he had played on them. They swiped a can of syrup from the hotel kitchen and poured this over Bob's skin. Then they got the tame bear which was kept chained in the backyard of the hotel. They put the bear in Bob's room and shut the door."

"Bob woke up when the bear began to lick his face, etc., to get the syrup. He jumped out of the window on to the big balcony that ran all around the hotel, at the second storey. He was shouting to the top of his lungs, 'Jesus Christ, save me! Jesus Christ, save me!' This happened just as the congregation was coming out of church. There are some of those old pranksters who set the bear to a-licking Bob still living in Wetaskiwin."

THE CRISIS in the government of Israel has somewhat the same background as the shake-up in the Congress party in India. In both cases a liberal prime minister is in office. But in both cases that leader is partly dependent for support on reactionary religious elements.

Israel's basic difficulties are economic. The Jewish population of the country has been increased by no less than 70 per cent since the inauguration of the new state in May 1948.

It will take a desperate effort to make Israel a self-sufficient country. At present almost all the industrial raw materials and two thirds of the livestock feed must be imported. The whole country is severely rationed as follows:

Milk—½ glass per day.
Meat—1 lb. per month.
Eggs—8 per month.
Sugar—2 lbs. per month.
Soap—½ cake per month.
Suits—1 per year.
Shoes—1 pair per year.

The furious arguments in Israel are the natural result of this economic crisis. The government has increased agricultural production by 65 per cent and industrial output by 35 per cent in two years. But nobody pretends that Israel can be made self-supporting for many years to come.

Fire Might Have Been Much Worse

J. Shubert had a near miss from a serious fire Tuesday morning when the house of Bernard Fortune next door suffered $2300 damage. His house actually caught fire and sustained damages amounting to about $50 or $60. Some of the sliding was charred and six lights of glass in a window were broken.

Firemen today said that if the fire had occurred in winter during some of the periods when a truck cannot navigate the hill leading up to Herman Place, it would have been likely that Mr. Fortune would have lost his entire house and that Mr. Shubert would likely have lost his before hose could have been got to the scene of the fire by hand. They felt that by improving the grade on the existing road it could be made passable at all times.

Premier Carries On From Hospital Bed—
Depending on Liquor Profits—Why
No Labor Chairman

VICTORIA—Premier Byron Johnson is carrying on what government business he can from his hospital bed in Royal Jubilee Hospital. He's in a plaster cast up to his waist and he's not very comfortable but he's the first to admit he's lucky to be alive following a bad motor crash near Quebec City.

His executive assistant, Percy Richards, visits him each day with his most important mail. Cabinet ministers go to see him on important matters. There have been such floods of callers that his doctors finally ordered "Positively No Visitors" sign on the door.

Mrs. Johnson recovered rapidly. She's carrying on in their Uplands home and twice a day she goes to see her husband. The premier will be in hospital another month.

Finance Minister Anscomb, deputy premier, is in the east on government business and so Attorney General Wismer or Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith preside at cabinet meetings.

However, the government appears to be in a period of doldrums and cabinet meetings have reached a new low as far as important matters are concerned.

Health and Welfare Minister Douglas Turnbull took to the air the other night to tell British Columbians what a fine job the government is now doing with health insurance.

He talked as if the government was giving away something for free—when it pays the hospital bills of all patients. He seemed to forget that the public is paying its own premiums.

The minister gave no hint that hospital insurance premiums may be increased next year.

Recent increase in the price of liquor is bound to cut the government's liquor profits. In recent months liquor sales have been dropping—not seriously, but enough to cause the Finance Department some worry for a great deal of political economy is based on sale of firewater. It's not good, this method of financing, but the government is now so used to big fat profits from liquor that it doesn't know how to change or what to do.

The sales tax, however, is keeping up well, and it seems now the government will get more than the $24,000,000 it budgeted on this year.

When the sales tax was first brought in during 1948 the government said it would bring in $12,000,000 a year.

Nobody can understand why the Labor Relations Board hasn't got a new chairman, J.

P. Hogg, the chairman since its inception, died in July and so far no new appointment has been made. The minister of labor, Hon. John Cates, remains silent on the matter.

It's no secret that many Liberal and Conservative party workers are after the job—it pays $7500 a year, and the duties aren't heavy.

Organized labor, though, is getting a bit annoyed. Organized labor says that if the board can get along without a chairman all the time—that one of the four members of the board can act as chairman when the board meets.

Organized labor would seem to have something here—and the taxpayers would be saved $7500 a year.

BUD SCHUMAN (Old Post Office Bldg.)

claimed South Korea had been the aggressor. Russia had fully armed and instructed North Korea before she withdrew her own troops, whereas the United States had in good faith withdrawn her occupying troops. During World War II, he said, the United Kingdom, United States and China had agreed Korea should be restored as an independent state, but that at the end of the war Russia had made all attempts of the United States to agree with her on a united Korea fruitless. The way had been barred for the U.N. temporary commission on Korea to visit North Korea and had rendered impossible the task of forming a government for Korea. The government had been set up under those circumstances—not perfect, but the choice of the vast majority of people.

The speaker said Canada had sent three destroyers to Korean waters for use where and when needed just three days after the U.N. declared North Koreans were aggressors. She had sent transport planes because that was what had been asked for. The decision of the Canadian government August 7 to raise a brigade for service with the U.N. in Korea created the first body of troops in the world raised specifically to serve the U.N. The speaker hoped it would set a precedent.

The reason the Security Council of the U.N. had been able to vote to aid South Korea was because Russia was not there to block the move by veto.

The United States carried the bulk of the load because she had active forces in the theatre. Also, she was responsible as the occupying power, Mr. Applewhite said. It was only in large countries who had large active forces that men could be spared to be sent to other places, he continued. It was only the Russian boycott of the Security Council that had made it possible to set up a military force in the U.N. Their veto had hitherto blocked it, he said.

Housing, Traffic Weighty Problems of 1951 Festival

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The problem of how to cope with the influx of visitors to the Festival of Britain next year has provoked a major headache for those responsible for accommodation and traffic control.

Officials of the British Travel and Holiday Association estimate at least 700,000 overseas visitors will come to London in the festival year. Several times that number is expected from other parts of the United Kingdom and Eire.

Based on this rough estimate, accommodation officials say that transient lodgings will have to be found every night for about 100,000 people. To meet this need London hotels can take care of only about 33,000.

To bridge the gap, Londoners with any space to spare are being asked to open their homes to visitors unable to obtain accommodation in hotels or rooming houses. Many prospective tourists have already written in commending the idea.

Several other schemes have been suggested. One being seriously considered calls for the mooring of ocean liners in some convenient reach of the Thames River, to be used as floating hotels. A similar plan was operated successfully for visitors attending the Olympic Games in 1948.

Lodgings in houseboats, barges and caravans have been offered and organizers are also studying the possibilities of setting up dormitory facilities under canvas on a 40-acre scenic spot in the outskirts of London.

B.G. TRAFFIC PROBLEMS
But accommodation difficulties, says Sir Harold Scott, commissioner of Metropolitan Police, are nothing compared with the traffic problems that will arise. Even with all the improvements planned, including construction of a temporary bridge across the Thames, widening of some streets and diversion of traffic from normally-congested areas, traffic regulation, he believes, will prove an enormous task.

"It is a problem which is altogether unlike anything that has hitherto fallen to the police in the field of traffic or crowd control," he said.

What is mainly worrying the authorities is the acute day-to-day parking congestion in almost every area of central London. A ban on parking in the busier districts has eliminated certain serious obstructions. But this has been achieved only at the cost of choking useful secondary roads with the displaced traffic.

His solution, Sir Harold has urged reconsideration of plans prepared in 1933 for construction of huge underground parking centres at strategic points throughout the city. Such a scheme, however, would entail an outlay running into millions of dollars. And even if approved, planning authorities doubt if work on so vast a project could be completed in time to ease the expected festival traffic crush.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

"Join the Navy and See the World." The boys aboard the Cayuga, Athabaskan and Sioux cannot say they have not had a memorable summer. They crossed the Pacific, clear to the China coast. That, alone, is a fair sized part of the globe. They have witnessed heavy fighting, taken part in bombardments and had their share of risks and dangers from mines and bombings. They are seeing a troubled world under changing and dramatic circumstances. And they are not through yet.

Having searched the world for suitable and sufficient water power, the Aluminum Company of Canada, it is now believed, regard this coast as the best bet. It is here they are finding what they want. Numerous folks, seeking a place to live and enjoy good health, have already said the same, so far as they are concerned personally.

American military mess halls seating ten men at long tables are said to be "out." Instead, cozy little eating places accommodating four will be provided. The new plan is believed to be popular. It makes for politeness, restraint and culture. In future, no doubt, officers will inquire, in a low voice, if there are "any complaints."

"The Maple Leaf Forever" but not every where or among the Cree Indians of the spacious province of Saskatchewan. What they saw for the first time was a spray, radiant in the rich hues of late autumn that was helping decorate the dining room of an American sportsman. Their praise was lavish and sonorous. Fancy! I've half a lifetime in N.Y. and Canada and never see a maple in the fall.

That pumpkin in a Third Avenue store window weighs forty five pounds, and Joe Kilby's farm at Remo, just this side of Toronto, as well as Joe himself should be glowing with pride. There was a time when a pumpkin like that would have been shipped at Hollywood when they were making pies to hurl in each other's surprised faces.

Way from across the continent. No rifle was used in this killing. At a range of forty feet, in Michigan woods, a bow-and-arrow settled the hash of a roamer of the wilderness, 650 pounds in weight, and seven feet high.

When a storm strikes Florida, as it did Tuesday, nothing is neglected in the way of violence. Hurricanes appear to have a sameness. The Everglade States has one advantage. It always seems to know in advance one is on the way and it's blowing from somewhere away out in the West Indies. But take it all in all, there must be something to Florida. Millions go there to live. Yes, more than oranges and alligators are found there.

CAPETOWN.—A memorandum drawn up by the National Council for child welfare calls attention to increased smoking among South African children during the last 10 years. The council urges legislation to prohibit the sale of cigarettes and tobacco to children.

Louis To Try Long Way Up

CHICAGO (P)—Argentine Cesar Brion is the first road block sprawled before former heavyweight champion Joe Louis in his projected shuffle up the long trail back to the top in Pistiana. Ironically, the foe Joe will oppose at Chicago Stadium November 29 has one asset—youth—which apparently weighed so heavily against Louis when he was pummeled by Champion Ezzard Charles at New York September 27.

Louis, however, is confident he can brush by 26-year-old Brion, the winner of 31 bouts against three defeats. Then he hopes to whip, probably, Lee Oma and Rocky Marciano and then square things with Charles next June.

city manager be? What if we have a poor one, like we say some of our city engineers have been?" asked August Wallin.

In such a plan the city council would elect the manager, which according to Mr. McKay would have to be hired from outside. Mr. McKay warned that it would be a great responsibility of the city council to elect the city manager.

"GHOST" MANAGER

"It seems we already have a ghost manager," quipped Mr. McKay, saying that the city council accepted the new cemetery location but "didn't know anything about it."

"How many men could qualify to handle a million dollars a year?" he asked indicating the ability needed by a city manager.

"For city manager you would need an engineer with administrative ability," said Mr. Griffiths.

"Now there is no co-ordination between departments. The engineer should have command of them all—the foreman should have no say. Today they buck each other," said Mr. McKay.

It was suggested by Robert Ferguson, chairman of the meeting, that to bring in a city manager would "make us lose confidence in the city council." Mr. Ferguson mentioned the cost of the Bonnycastles water investigation—"thirty-five dollars a hired for five years should be day and expenses"—for Prince Rupert's domestic water survey which he believes is still in progress.

Responsibility of good aldermen rested on the ratepayers, according to Mr. Griffiths. He said that Cardiff, Wales, has its own city-run transportation and electricity, managed through a voluntary city council much like Prince Rupert's council.

LACK OF INTEREST

Lack of interest shown by citizens between elections in city government was mentioned by John Elyfson as a reason for poor management.

"There were four spectators in the gallery at the last meeting of the city council," said Chairman Ferguson.

"Then it is up to us to make ratepayers understand what their duties are," affirmed Mr. Griffiths. "There is no use having a ratepayers' association without a good council. We must elect the right aldermen."

"The city council would elect the city manager. All the departments would come under him. The city manager takes directions from the council, co-ordinating departments under council direction, but is head executive. There wouldn't be someone else's oar in the way," declared Mr. McKay.

"Should the council find an applicant for city manager who would stand on his own feet, he would perhaps agree to one probationary year, providing he was prove successful," said Mr. McKay.

Chairman Ferguson asked that the secretary write to the City Managers' Association so information of the plan may be on a plebiscite for the next city election.

The meeting opened with reports read by James Presky, treasurer, and John Elyfson. Harry Quick was acting secretary.

Wedding at Kitsegukla

KITSEGUKLA—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church last Friday when Miss Lyla J. Milton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Milton of Skeena Crossing, was united in marriage to David Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Good of Kitwanga. Rev. J. Hayhurst of Kitwanga officiated. Organist was Walter Wesley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful white satin gown with floor-length veil and a corsage of pink and white roses and sweetpeas. Her matron of honor was Miss Aggie Good who wore a white taffeta gown. There were four bridesmaids, the Misses Matilda Wright, Rena Good, Vera Derick and Merla Margon, who wore ice blue taffeta gowns.

Solomon Good was groomsmen. Usher was Albert Douse.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the community hall. The Kitsegukla Brass Band led the wedding party to the hall under the leadership of Walter Wesley. Mrs. Fred Good and Mrs. Milton welcomed the bride guests. A three-tier wedding

Cold Water Cause Of Salmon Failure

VANCOUVER—Water temperature variation five degrees too low pilfered an estimated $13,000,000 from the British Columbia fishing industry, scientists said here.

Biologists, following a conference at Kamloops, said that failure of the Adams River salmon run was due to cold water at spawning four years ago in a cycle year.

cake was cut by the bride and groom. Out-of-village guests came from Kitwanga, Kitwanga and Hazelton.

During the evening a wedding dance was held in the Community Hall which was decorated with pink and white. Music was by Douglas Wesley and his string band.

Delicious refreshments, prepared by the bride's mother, were served by Misses Aggie Good and Vera Derick. Mrs. Geoffrey Johnson of Skeena Crossing, Mrs. Fred Johnson of Kitwanga and Mrs. Marion Williams, Skeena Crossing, sang as did Harold Sinclair. The dance lasted until daybreak, ending with three cheers for the bride and groom.

Social Credit Forms Platform

REGINA (C)—The National Social Credit party decided at its national convention, which closed yesterday, to divide national leadership responsibilities between the leadership and the president. Approval for such a move was asked of delegates by Solon Low, national leader. Mr. Low also said the time appeared ripe in British Columbia and Saskatchewan for Social Credit. The convention, in formulating the platform, favored the payment of national dividends. The fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man was recognized.

News of Francois Lake

Sheriff M. M. Stephens of Prince Rupert came through on Monday morning on his way south across the lake on business.

At a school meeting on Friday evening at the school, Hugh Neave was elected representative for Francois Lake school.

Albert Jeffrey returned on Saturday after being away in the States for four years. He was in Glendive, Montana, part of the time, and also in Puyallup, Washington.

The church was gay with flowers and offerings of vegetables and fruits on Sunday morning for the Thanksgiving service. Rev. A. Atkinson of Burns Lake preached an appropriate and thought provoking sermon.

Although the nights are frosty and cold the days are sunny and warm. The countryside is very lively now that the leaves have changed color and the sky is generally deeply blue which accentuates the brilliant tree colorings.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neave returned on Friday from Prince Rupert where Mrs. Neave was called for jury duty. S. B. Calder followed on the Saturday. Charles Nourse was also called, also Sivert Anderson.

Yes, courtesy at the bridge table pays off on the score sheet. In today's hand Mr. Abel, who can play better than most people think, had for his partner Mr. Dale, the wise old fellow who knows how to get the most out of his partners.

In the deal before this one, Mr. Abel had played a four heart contract which could have been made by a rather difficult play, but was not. Mr. Dale offered no recriminations, but merely remarked, "Bad luck, partner, I expect I bid too strongly."

Then came today's hand, with Mr. Abel the declarer at six spades. Mrs. Keen led the jack of hearts and Mr. Abel won with the king.

At this point he went into one of the longest huddles I have ever seen. Kibitzers and opponents showed signs of irritation, but Mr. Dale remained serene. He carefully avoided squirming in his chair, gritting his teeth, or making clucking noises with his tongue.

Finally Mr. Abel made his decision. He saw that his only problem was to avoid the loss of more than one trump trick. So he led the three of spades. Mrs. Keen played the four, Mr.

Abel played the five from dummy—and it held the trick. The hand was now spread with the concession of one spade trick to Mrs. Keen.

This safety play was made to guard against a holding of all four outstanding spades in either opponents' hand. If Mr. Champion had won that first spade trick everything would still have been all right. That would have meant that the spades had split favorably (not worse than 3-1) and that the ace and king could pick up the balance.

If Mrs. Keen had shown out on the first lead of trumps, Mr. Abel would have played dummy's king and led back through Mr. Champion's Q J 4.

True, Mr. Abel could have made seven by laying down the ace and king of trumps, if the outstanding spades had been divided 2-2. But who cares about an extra 30 points with about 50 times that much at stake?

Not Mr. Dale, the old master. "Magnificent, partner, magnificent," he said, as if he meant it.

Funny thing, Mr. Dale isn't the best player in the world, but I notice he wins most of the time.
