WINTER OLYMPICS FOR CANADA—Sydney Dawes, chairman of the Canadian Olympic committee, and Councillor J. O. Asselin of Montreal have left for Rome to appear before the executive Olympic committee to make their bid to bring the 1956 winter games to Montreal. The U.S. committee, on behalf of Lake Placid, New York, is also bidding for the games. Should the Canadian bid be successful, the skiing competitions will be held at Mont Tremblant, and the figure skating and racing in Mont-

The ending of the Berlin blockade is counted in Washington as the victorious end of one battle in the cold war and the beginning of a new campaign. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and his advisers are alreany neeply involved in preparations for this new struggle. It is expected to take form at the Paris meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers opening May 23

Basically, as President Truman has emphasized, American authorities regard the lifting of the blockade as restoring conditions which made east and west negotiations over Germany possible.

Parking Meters and Such Like

DITOR BILL BAKER of the Ketchikan Chron-L icle says you'd hardly know his town if you'd been away for long.

"As a matter of fact, some of the halibut fishermen who have been in to pay for their paper the past few days," Baker says, "are a little amazed at us Ketchikan people and the changes that have come over us.

"We have taxes, for instances, and parking meters. Taxes on the country people, the rich farmers at Mountain Point, the wealthy trappers at Clover Pass and the landed gentry in betweendoctors, resort owners, bartenders, school teachers and attorneys at law-for the purpose of operating our independent school district. Some of these good people when approached by the assessor last summer offered to give a donation "if you really, need the money," but resisted stolidly the notion that they had to kick in with some money, each and every year-'why what's Alaska coming to, any-

"We have been a little disappointed that the parking meters disturbed that fine old Alaska tradition of charging as much as the law will allow. We have a page one picture today of one city councilman contributing to his own salary in fine, upstanding fashion—the magnificent sum of one penny. What Jess Ison and his friends should have done was to get away from the dime store motif, instal a one-armed totem pole giving you an entire week of parking in front of your office in return for your dropping in a gold nugget. Then the home folks and the tourists would have loved it. If we must go modern, let's go modern in our own oldfashioned way.

"Our office mathematician, who spends a lot of time figuring out how to live on his salary, advises us that each motorist should contribute about $15 per year in parking meter charges. He says the cost of planking Water Street runs about $50 per car per year, so the city is only subsidizing motorists $35 apiece and he thinks a toll gate in front of the cold storage plant (to offset the $50 per man toll along the waterfront side for incoming boats) would be timely and justified. He adds that the parking meters which are unpopular this spring may be welcomed by fall, for by that time pulp mill construction workers may be feeding them, and we of the First City will be glad there's space for them to use while spending their money amongst us.

"For the sake of future councils—just in case we ever get rid of this one-our office economist remarks that there'll never be any stop and go lights in Ketchikan "because all the red lights have been put out for good hereabouts." That leaves us only the green light, which is a pretty good one for Ketchikan to drive by in its working for the future.

"As a sort of footnote, we are happy to report, also through courtesy of the office philanthropist, that the city councilmen budgeted $3500 for income this year from the parking meters and plan to draw out in their own salaries only $3400. This is probably the first recorded instance in history of where a city council actually paid a $100 dividend and did all that work—so to speak—for free. If things get much tougher, of course, we might have to install a meter on each councilman so the taxpayer would have to insert a penny to get an answer and a nickel to get acivil answer. That way the city fathers could earn their salaries on the basis of work performed instead of hours put in."

B.C. IN THE LEAD

THERE IS ONLY ONE ISSUE at stake in B.C. during this election - whether the Coalition government will remain or whether the present C.C.F. opposition will be called upon to form the government. On its past record the Coalition government can issue its challenge to the C.C.F. With the proposed program calling for large expenditures to create new industries and greater development in the industrial field, advanced social, health and labor legislation, the Coalitionists have placed British Columbia in the lead of all other provinces in Canada and enjoy the respect and confidence not only of the voters, but of capital and labor. -West Coast Advocate, Port Alberni.

Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, late president of China, has sounded a rallying cry. But no one seems to be listening. An eastern marriage counsellor has been sued for divorce. Apparently a case of the doctor who failed to take his own medicine.

P.C. LEADER BACK IN OTTAWA AFTER EASTERN TOUR George Drew, centre, Progressive Conservative leader in the House of Commons, is shown as he pays his respects to Newfoundland's new Lieutenant-Governor Sir Albert Walsh, left, in St. John's capital of Canada's 10th province. Mr. Drew officially opened the Progressive Conservative party's campaign in Newfoundland during his visit there. Harry G. R. Mews, right, leader of the Progressive Conservative party in Newfoundland, accompanied Mr. Drew on his visit to the lieutenant-governor. Mr. Drew paused for brief stops in Sydney, N.S., and Saint John, N.B., before returning to Ottawa.

I have looked over the samples of over fifty five factories and wholsale houses and when the goods arrive in Rupert during the next few weeks I really hope our customers will think I have done a good job. Many of the pieces have never been shown anywhere till this year and most of the items have been from present stock before the new 10 per cent sales tax. They will include china, silver, copper and glass as well as the new jewellery and many interesting new things.

Hope to see you soon,

A letter from city council informed the Association that the lots could be made available only when the sand was cleared, giving no indication of when that would be. It was termed "unsatisfactory" by Association members.

In order that the area may be made available before the present school term ends, City Engineer D. C. Stewart will be written with a suggestion that the small amount of remaining sand be taken out and stockpiled elsewhere.

Because of a small turnout of members, the election of new officers was deferred until the first meeting in the fall.

The meeting was informed that May 20 had been set for a party, of this commodity appears to which would include cards and have gone into a steady decline other entertainment. Proceeds since the beginning of the year | will be used to aid in the pur-
