Their Need Is Great

DAPIDLY deteriorating economic conditions in I many parts of Europe are adding thousands of children to the ranks of those whose need is so desperate that their very survival is in jeopardy. That is the reason of the Canadian appeal for children campaign which is being launched to support the United Nations' Children's Emergency

Highlights of official reports on five countries amply illustrate the need of Canadians contributing to the most generaus extent possible.

CzechoSlovakia-Because this country had no rain from May to November, there is a great grain shortage. Farmers are slaughtering their farm animals because they have nothing with which to feed them. Consequently, there will be even less milk. The fields are picked clean of every stock and the food situation is critical in almost all as-

France—The drought prevented a normal harvest and animals are being slaughtered on a large scale because they cannot be fed. There is already a shortage of milk and it will get steadily worse. In December, only one month's supply of powdered milk was left to infants. The shortage of grain is cutting into bread rations. Bread is scarce and already severely rationed.

Greece—As a result of the political conflict, confusion is terrible everywhere, causing great difficulties in supply. Fear and hunger have hold. Among the refugee groups are 175,000 children who need to be fed. Malnutrition is severe. Many of the children have rickets or tuberculosis, and most of them show the effects of long privation in their stunted growth.

Italy-Great poverty is to be seen everywhere, and it will grow worse in this winter of crisis. The children are shabby and inadequately clothed. In the north, where it is cold, many of the children are still without shoes. In southern Italy, some of the children have been without milk for a year. Elsewhere the last stocks are being used up for the feeding of the orphan children, of which Italy has some 200,000 under care.

Poland—The country still shows the terrible destruction of the war. Despite all the rebuilding, streets are still piled high with fragments of homes. Many cities will have to be rebuilt. In the country the devastation is likewise great. Many of the farm animals were killed during the war, and the country has only half of its pre-war stock. Although the drought was not so bad as elsewhere nor the harvest conditions, still food supplies are very inadequate. Tuberculosis is a serious threat to the chil-

Up to now almost all relief money has come from governments. It was because governmental contributions have fallen so far short of the need that U.N.C.E.F. was created, going direct to the people on behalf of the children. Unless replenishment of funds comes quickly through the Appeal's campaigns throughout the world, there will be only enough money to carry on a limited supplementary feeding program for 3,500,000 European children—only a fraction of those dangerously low on calories. Funds will be exhausted after six months.

WE MAKE THE 'POST'

TICK NEUBERGER may have drawn some long bows and pigmented some of his references with unexpected color rather than hairline accuracy but his article in the Saturday Evening Post makes a good story and the important thing is the publicity that Prince Rupert gets.

The picture of the Indians in the lower Third Avenue street scene, the reference to the rain may clash a little with the sensibilities of some local folk but there is plenty of good reading and the exposition of this city's advantages as a potential world port—the menace to Seattle's long stranglehold on Alaska's $150,000,000 trade-makes great publicity.

The article, of course, arouses keen interest here and it will be particularly appreciated by all those who know or have known Prince Rupert. More important, however, is the fact that millions of Saturday Evening Post readers will learn something by reading the article on and looking at the pictures of a place which some of them may never have heard of before and the large majority of whom know little or nothing about.

A good job of press-agenting has been done for Prince Rupert and, since the publicity is free, we may well be appreciative and give Dick Neuberger and the Saturday Evening Post a vote of thanks.

> Another difficult thing to do these days is to forget the high prices of food long enough to enjoy a square meal.

"The Russians are people, just like you and me," asserts a columnist. Well, that's good-but none too good.

AMENDMENT TO JONES ACT DUE

So Predicts Ketchikan Newspaperman Visiting Here

Amendment of "discriminatory" section 27 of the Jones Act to permit Canadian ships to serve Alaska appears certain at this session of congress, Ralph Browne, associate editor of the Ketchikan Chronicle, said here

"For the first time in history Seattle is really worried, and the Washington state delegation is making every attempt to block the legislation," he said "Representatives of Seattle shipping companies are touring the territory urging Alaskans to protest passage of the bill, declaring it would deal a crippling blow to the United States mer. chant marine, thus weakening Alaska defensively."

Main argument of the shipping companies, Browne pointed out, is that amendment of the act would place "Alaska at the mercy of Canadian operators who would have no interest in the general welfare of Alaskans

"However," he said, "Congress is Alaska conscious and its members are determined to see the territory gets a fair break in Terming the act as the "Maginot" line between U.S.-Canadian relations, Browne said it cost Alaska $20,000,000 in lost business during the past two years due to recurrent shipping tieups.

"It's worse than a tariff wall, a toll gate or a bandit's nest because they at least collect something for someone," he said. aware of this, he said, and bills to amend the act have been introduced by Senator Butler, Senator Capehart, Representative Wolverton and Delegate Bartlett.

Conditions Told to Rotary

An appeal for the "nobody's children" of Europe, the under fed, underclothed and homeless products of the war and Nazi occupation, was made to the Prince Rupert Rotary Club on Thursday by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova of Ottawa, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada.

The Unitarian Service Committee has launched a plan under which Canadians can become foster parents for these children. Cost of caring for one for three months, she said, is $45. So that the foster parents may know something of the child, its photograph and case history is sent to them.

Misunderstanding Regarding Salaries

Figures used in a story regard-WISBECH, Cambridge, Eng. (9) ing teachers' salaries Thursday -Mrs. Polly Addison, 80, was quoted the salary schedules now found "sleeping peacefully" af received by the elementary $1.800 to $3,000 and those of school teachers as from $2,100 to $3,600. Actually, the VEXT TUESDAY'S current salary schedules range from $1,600 to $2,800 for elementary teachers and from $1, 900 to $3,400 for high school.

PANCAKE The higher figures were given because of a misunderstanding regarding last year's basic salaries which a $200 annual increase was approved by the School Board Wednesday night.

The reporter who questioned he School Board secretary took pasic", while actually they luded the $200 increase.

TENNESSEE BEAUTY FIRMLY DECLINES HOLLYWOOD OFFERS

"Love Is More Important" Says Barbara Jo Walker. Miss America of 1947

By BOB DUNNE MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)-Holly wood is still hounding Miss Am erica of 1947 but the tall Tennessee beauty persistently declines all offers, because "lov is more important."

"I only want to be a successful doctor's wife," says the nation's beauty queen, Barbara Jo Walker. This continues to amaze movieland and thousands screen hopefuls.

Barbara's latest rejection slip went to David O. Selznick who asked her to discuss a contract with him in New York, all ex penses paid, of course.

The producer received a coun teous reply of refusal to thi effect: "I'm simply not inter- here.

Her attitude is simple and, helps and she explains, "I got the way Barbara tells it, quite ahead (through summe convincing:

RADIO'S "BEST-DRESSED" STRESSES SIMPLICITY-Writer and commentator Claire Wallace of Toronto was recently selected as the best-dressed woman in radio, a poll conducted to pick the country's 10 top clothes stylists. She stresses practicality and simplicity. Two outfits favored by Miss Wallace are shown. At left a leopard-skin bow gives new zest to a black Persian lamb coat, illustrates her point that well-chosen trimmings can do wonders for any garment. At right is the tailored casual dress for day wear, inexpensive yet smart, practical and suitable for many different occasions.

Mr. Chapin, who arrived from Vancouver by air Thursday afternoon, returned south today after spending the afternoon and evening as guest of the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber. Following his arrival Thursday afternoon, he led a discussion at an executive meeting held at the home of . J Dominato and in the evening was guest of honor at the dinner meeting. The Junior Chamber, he told the gathering, can be most effective when its members join it in their early twenties, absorbing the experience which community projects and committee work can offer.

"We must get them when they are 20, not 35," he said. "During those early years they can make the training part of their actual business experience. If we in the J.C.C. can give them that experience, then the J.C.C. has done a good job."

At the opening of his address, Mr Chapin presented Prince Rupert Junior Chamber President A. P. Crawley with a gavel on behalf of the membership. The gavel, embossed with an engraved silver plate, was made by Carlo Hansen.

A brief business meeting followed, after which Sgt. L. A. N. Potterton entertained the members with showings of color films of Prince Rupert and other parts of British Columbia.
