Secretary-General Of United Nations Appeals For End Of Quarreling

Conferences Are Proceeding May Be Rough If Russians Force Down Supply Planes

CONFERENCE (CP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations Secretary-General, appealed to the big powers to end their quarrel over Germany. He also urged action to stop what he called a race to develop stocks of lethal and chemical weapons. In the third conferences are proceeding now—may be rough if Russians force down supply planes. The general secretary of the German People's National Front, who was in the city during the war, said that the Russian government was not going to let the German people have the goods they need.

FOUND DEAD ON VERANDAH

John Wilkie Was Veteran of Two World Wars

John Wilkie, a retired miner and a veteran of both the First and Second World Wars, was found dead on the verandah of his cabin at 160 Wantage Road last night. He had apparently collapsed there when overcome by a sudden seizure.

He was discovered by a neighbor, a Mr. Hemness, who visited the nearby Wilkie cabin after returning from a trip down town. Mr. Hemness informed Department of Transport repeater station attendant G. W. Dikendorf who telephoned the city police.

Born at Alyth, Perthshire, Scotland 65 years ago, Mr. Wilkie was a miner by occupation. He came to Canada prior to the First World War in which he enlisted, serving overseas. He served for a short period at the beginning of the Second World War in the Veterans' Guard of Canada. He had lived on Wantage Road for the last two years. He was believed to have been unmarried. A niece lives on Long Island, New York.

TALKS "REALISTICALLY"—Matthew Halton, C.B.C. European correspondent, Friday discounted "optimism" as a realistic approach to the present world crisis between east and west. Halton, aged 44, opened a Trans-Canada speaking tour before the Canadian Club in Vancouver. He said he did not believe the Berlin crisis would touch off war. "If the Russians wanted war they could have overrun Europe in a week," he said. (The picture shows Halton in the uniform of a war correspondent.)

Danube Is Hamstrung

Belgrade Conference Bases Its Deliberations on Soviet Plan

BELGRADE, @—The United States warned bluntly today that the Danube River will remain cut in two for traffic if Eastern Europe's communist states deny Austria a seat on the Danube Control Board.

This position was laid down by United States Ambassador Cavendish Cannon shortly before the conference voted 7 to 1 to make the proposed Soviet plan for a new Danube pact the basis for its discussion.

The Russian plan vests control of the Danube exclusively with seven communist-dominated states.

Adoption of today's motion means that Great Britain, United States and France could offer their terms for a pact only in the form of amendments to the Soviet demand.

Expanded Immigration, Greater Social Security, Enlarged International Status Are Included In Liberal Platform

OTTAWA (2:55 Pacific Daylight Time)—Within seconds of the exact moment that the present Prime Minister became leader 30 years ago, Hon. Louis St. Laurent, minister of external affairs, was elected leader of the Liberal party of Canada at the national convention here this afternoon. He will soon be called upon to assume the Prime Ministership of Canada in succession to Mr. King.

The first and only ballot vote was:

St. Laurent	848
Hon. J. G. Gardiner	323
Hon. C. G. Power	56

The choice was made unanimous on motion of Mr. Gardiner who said he was "still willing to spark plug the Liberal party of Canada."

Mr. Power seconded.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. St. Laurent admitted his consciousness of the responsibility and honor which had been imposed upon him. He expressed appreciation of the magnanimity of Mr. Gardiner and Mr. Power in making his nomination unanimous.

He exhorted those who had chosen him to make sure that a strong and united Liberal party should carry on its policies to fruition for the good of the country.

He pledged himself to do his utmost to meet the responsibilities which accompanied his choice.

Mrs. St. Laurent, called to the platform, said simply both in English and French:

"I am very proud of the honor and trust you have placed in my husband."

She wore a broad brimmed black hat with cape over her shoulder.

Prime Minister King then spoke. Mr. King acknowledged Mr. St. Laurent as having been his "right arm and support" in succession to Mrs. Ernest Lapointe. He had been suggested by Mr. Gardiner.

OTTAWA (CP)—Coveted leadership stakes, building up through two days of rumor and speculation, have come to culmination as the dominant theme of the national Liberal convention today as the 1,299 delegates from across Canada are electing a successor to the retiring Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King. The final candidates are Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, minister of external affairs; Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, and Hon. C. G. Power, former minister of national defence for air.

The 66-year-old Mr. St. Laurent has the edge in the betting with Mr. Gardiner, 65, crowding the favorite. Mr. Power, 60, is conceded little chance.

The three candidates addressed the convention this afternoon and the voting is now proceeding.

Hon. Angus Macdonald, 57, Premier of Nova Scotia, whose supporters hoped to nominate him despite earlier announcements that he would not be a candidate, and Hon. Paul Martin, 45, whose nomination was entered on Friday by delegates in the hope that they would line up 500 votes, both finally withdrew.

Transport Minister Chevrier, Defence Minister Claxton, Finance Minister Abbott and Trade Minister Howe also withdrew.

Hon. Frank Putnam, minister of agriculture in British Columbia, nominated Mr. Gardiner for the party leadership.

STILL DRAWING PLATFORM
A Liberal platform with something for every one was still being fashioned today. The platform was still less than half complete as the convention entered its final day but already had stored up plenty of ammunition.

First complete overhaul of Liberal policy in twenty-nine years, planks adopted Friday proposed policies which would advance Canada's economy, enlarge her stature as a nation, provide social security for her people and help guard her from aggression.

For Liberals alone was the further enticement that the rank and file of the party will have a voice in national affairs every four years through conventions.

Departure from the official federal line was in an immigration plank which laid down a program of expanded but selective immigration based on a national survey of population and requirements of each province.

Past and Future

W. L. MACKENZIE KING can be excused if he seemed to shed some of his customary modesty and even appeared, what has been most unusual in him, to be a little boastful yesterday as he compared the state of the Liberal party as it is today with what it was when he took over its leadership just twenty-nine years ago to this day.

As Mr. King now retires and his mantle goes to other shoulders today, there can be none to question that Canada has progressed greatly since the Liberal party emerged from its wilderness soon after his accession to its leadership.

But boasting about the past and approbation of the man who has been to large extent responsible is, after all, not the important business of the Liberal convention. Fortunately there have been signs that self-satisfaction, always a deterrent of progress, does not entirely permeate the Liberal convention.

The Liberal party and Mr. King have been great for Canada. The danger is that the party's greatness may be accepted as perpetual without effort to preserve it. That would be bad for Canada.

CHURCH

SATURDAY SERMON

WHAT DO YOU EXPECT?

(REV. A. J. LAWTON, Grace United Church, Port Simpson)
St. John records these words for us: "From that time many of His disciples went back and walked no more with Him. Then said Jesus unto the twelve: 'Will ye also go away?'"
The crowd was disappointed and left. They did not get what they wanted. Do we get what we want? What is it that we expect from our faith and are we disappointed?

Some people look for future security. After this life, with its troubles and heart-aches, its sickness and bereavements there will be the joys of heaven. Because of their faith they will escape the punishment of sin. Hope for the future is a proper Christian one. Jesus promised that where He was, there would His followers be. The mistake that some have made is in thinking of their religion predominantly in future terms. Religion is for both here and hereafter.

Some have looked to their religion to bring escape from the troubles of this life. A Christian mother who lost a son in the First World War said: "Why did God do this to me, to me?" She overlooked the thousands of other bereaved mothers, some more Christian than herself, who had also suffered.

Still others think of their religion as a guarantee of prosperity. An old London "cabby" once told his rector: "I finds that if I puts a penny on the plate on Sunday, the Lord gives me back a shillinn' on Monday." A Manitoba farmer once declared: "Tithing is the best form of hail insurance. You will not get hailed out if you tithe."

All of these attitudes have something in common, namely, "What do I get out of it?" Self is predominant. Now the Christian faith does promise a more abundant life, here and hereafter. The Christian tastes the fruits of that promise here. But to think of the Christian life in selfish terms of "What do I get out of it?" is surely an un-Christian attitude. It was not the attitude of our Lord. "I came not to be ministered unto but to minister." "He that is greatest among you, let him be the servant of all." "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" It is said of Him: "He was rich and for our sakes became poor." "He was despised and rejected of men."

Our Lord's greatest disciple, the Apostle Paul, gave up the security and popularity of being a rabbi to become a despised and persecuted preacher of the Way. He was stoned, shipwrecked, beaten, and at last martyred, but who would deny the power of his life? He did not think in terms of comfort, popularity or pleasure. Despite his intense longing to be with his Lord, he once wrote: "For I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh." Paul was willing to be damned if only they might be saved.

No, the Christian faith is not to be thought of in terms of: "What do I get out of it?" He who saves his life loses it, but he who loses himself for Christ's sake finds both himself and life in a richer and more abundant way. Only those who forget self enter into the richest and most satisfying life. It is a strange paradox of the Gospel, but it is true.
Let us try it and prove it for ourselves!

LIFE on the North Coast by BIDDEE JINKS

We are living on Skikine Avenue these days. It came as a surprise, for although I had seen various names tacked up, such as Church Street, and Cow Avenue, just off manifest, I thought this one had been passed up. And then I discovered it did have a statute.

It is an appropriate one for Skikine, the Pacific lags up against it during mild weather. Then studies at it in fury when it is angry, the waters of the Skikine are plainly visible at all times, making a distinct, muddy stream into the clear blue of the Pacific. And should you happen to be rowing, your boat is smoothly under you until you strike the current of the Skikine. The salt and mud run through the water as it bumps at the bottom of the light craft. Straining, you make a little headway, without rowing you immediately move backward, heading directly out into Skikine Strait.

The Hazel E. Al Rindler's river boat, goes past the door if you know any persons aboard, you wave, and they wave, and you both stand watching until they go from sight behind the remaining timbers of the old cannery that burned last year. The boat takes four days to reach Telegraph Creek fighting current every inch and but 22 hours to come down when it is travelling with the current.

The Hazel E. makes one stop. That is at the Diamond E. where guests are met by George Ball, owner of the famous, most northerly dude ranch, and taken to the lodge. (His daughter Barbara was Prince Rupert's charming little May Queen this year).

Strange things have happened up the Skikine. For instance, there was the time the last son of Chief Snakes disappeared. The first son had been shot, and killed, while walking down Wrangell's main street. The second, remaining son went on a hunting trip up the river with two companions. The companions returned to the bereaved father reporting they found only a bloody smear where the head of the lad had been lying. (No further trace of him was ever found).

Waterfront Whiffs

Will Higher Rail Rates Hamper Shipping From Alaska? Salmon Fishing Is Going Along Well.

Speculation is going on along the waterfront as to extent the recent increase in Canadian railway freight rates will affect the shipment of Alaskan salmon through the port of Prince Rupert this summer. Shipments ordinarily are due to begin after the start of the Alaska salmon season next week.

Last year, heavy shipments of salmon, both canned and frozen, poured through this port, shipped in bond to Eastern American markets. Bulk of it came on the large Alaska boats of the Northland Transportation Co. and Alaska Steamships, which on at least two occasions, unloaded a whole trainload at a time.

Advantages of shipping through Prince Rupert were twofold. Canadian rail shipment from here saved both time and money. Increase in the Canadian rail rate certainly has not affected the time element but the cost has definitely gone up. However, it still enjoys a margin below the cost of shipping by boat to Seattle and over American rail lines to Chicago and New York.

Nevertheless, many feel that given a mere slightly-better-than-even break over Seattle in the matter of shipping advantages, Prince Rupert will come out more than slightly second best. Because of Seattle's hold over the Alaskan territory, Prince Rupert must be in a position to present a clear-cut advantage to shippers before they will use this port. The freight rate increase, they argue, helps to obscure this advantage.

You saw it in the Daily News.

on the Queen Charlottes but there are said to be no boats in that area at present.

British Columbia's tuna industry is at present centred off Capes Scott and Cook at the north end of Vancouver Island, according to reports received from the fisheries protection vessel Laurier which is making a continuing survey to keep in touch with the tuna.

A week ago the tuna had moved north to an area west of the Queen Charlotte Islands but, apparently, headed south again. Action of the Department of Fisheries in placing the Laurier in service for the tuna fishermen this year is a commendable one. It takes a good deal of the guess-work out of the very uncertain life of the fisherman in that the Laurier scouts the coast and, when it finds tuna, it immediately informs all vessels by radiophone. There is an immediate rush to the spot. The Laurier is commanded by Capt. Llewellyn Sheppard, who brought her around from the east coast a couple of years ago.

Vessels arriving here Friday afternoon reported seeing what they believed to be an American naval or coastguard vessel on the beach at Stewart Anchorage, Pitt Island. Another boat was standing by.

Highest prices paid, at least in recent years, for black cod on the local exchange went to Capt. Fred Kohbe of the B.C. Producer on Friday. For 30,000 pounds of black cod, sold to to make 1948 the most profitable season that the larger salmon trollers operating in Hecate Straits have ever enjoyed. The clean-up has come during the past few weeks of coho fishing which have produced spectacularly successful results, offsetting the earlier part of the season which was marked by one of the poorest spring runs. While the larger boats further out have been having such success, the same cannot be said, however, for the smaller boats operating close in which seem to have missed the bulk of the run which seemed to be heading straight southward through the Straits.

Sockeye fishing, which opened brilliantly this week, fell off somewhat as the week progressed, but, nevertheless, the 750 boats fishing the river and off the river mouth have had a good week. Best fishing during the week was off Tugwell Island, where, on Wednesday, the boats averaged 100 sockeye. On the boundary, off Lambert Point, the boats averaged 35 fish each on Friday, the poorest fishing of the week.

Seiners in Whale Channel did well during their short week. At the conclusion of the week's fishing Thursday night, they had averaged between 1,600 and 1,700 fish daily per boat. Seventy-five percent of the fish were pinks, with chums dominating the balance. There were some sockeye.

In the Naas seining area, 20 seiners started off fairly well, getting about 500 fish a day, but this soon dwindled down. The same condition prevailed in Ogden Channel.

There have been good showings of pink reported off Massett.

The Vancouver Sun prints a cut of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Service and daughter, Iris, being escorted over the ss. Prince George at Vancouver. The distinguished poet of the Yukon and his family had just gone aboard to have a look over the handsome new coastal liner and they were obviously finding it an occasion of much interest. Mr. Service, who lives at Monte Carlo, is in Vancouver to attend the International Sourdoughs' Re-union August 12 to 15.

To date, the British Columbia salmon pack for the season is rated the highest in years, pinks and chums being mainly responsible. Catches of coho have also been unusually high. According to the chief supervisor of fisheries a total of 164,729 42-pound cases of salmon of all species have been packed to date. This compares with 126,035 for the same periods in 1947. The sockeye pack shows 79,403 notwithstanding this being an off-cycle year.

BRITAIN WINS IN 400-METRE RELAY

OLYMPIC STADIUM 8.—Great Britain won the 400-metre Olympic relay final today after United States although finishing first, had been disqualified. Canada's four-man team yesterday qualified and finished fourth in the final today. The Canadian team—Don McFarlane, London, Ontario; Jimmy O'Brien, Toronto; Ted Haggis, London, and Don Pettie, Calgary—finished second in the qualifying heat.

C.N.R. Emerge as Leaders Of City Fastball League

C.N.R.A. 28, GORDON AND ANDERSON 7
C.N.R. Athletics emerged as winners of the City Fastball League schedule last night when they brought the season's regular league play to an anticlimactic ending by defeating the lowly Gordon and Anderson team 28 to 7 in the most lop-sided game seen at Gyro Park in many a day.

As a climax to what has been a good fastball schedule, the encounter was a clear-cut flop. It had everything, including bats and balls, but somehow the vital ingredient of competition which has prevailed in most games was missing.

However, it is doubtful if any of the fans, including the most wholehearted G. and A. rooters, had much hope that the merchants would win the game. For C.N.R.A. it was looked on as pretty much of a routine chore which had to be performed before they could lay undisputed claim to top position in the league.

By performing the chore in yeoman fashion, the railroaders made it unnecessary for the two second-position teams, 99 Taxi and General Motors, to play their final game, set for tonight. Even if it were played, it could not possibly alter the league standings.

Instead, 99 Taxi and General Motors will meet Monday night in the first game of the semi-final playoff series. This will be a best-of-three series with the second and if necessary, third games played on Wednesday and Friday of next week.

Winner of this series will have the opportunity to meet C.N.R.A. in a three-out-of-five series for the championship, probably the following week.

As to last night's game, little can be said other than at the end of the fifth inning, C.N.R.A. was ahead of G. and A. by a score of 19-0. G. and A. scored their first run in the sixth following up with two more in the seventh and four in the ninth.

A glance at the error column of the score sheet probably will provide as good an explanation as any for their poor showing. It contained the figure 15.

C.N.R.A. used their standard pitching talent but employed it all. Lloyd Lahti was the opener and he pitched six innings, allowing three hits and striking out nine. Lorne Vanetta then moved in from first base to take over the rubber for three innings and struck out two and allowed five hits.

Whitman went the full eight innings for Gordon and Anderson, striking out three and giving up 18 hits.

C.N.R.A. had their biggest inning in the third when they brought in nine runs off seven hits.

SOCCER STUFF...

With the decision of the Football Association endorsing the action of the special committee in upholding the protest of the High School against the Battery's win of July 28, the standings of the Gilhuly Cup are as follows:

Battery	2	4	1	11	7	8
High School	2	3	2	13	12	7
Legion	2	3	3	10	15	7

With the protested game between the Battery and the High School the only game outstanding, the replay of this match on September 1 will decide the winner of the competition. The Battery can win the trophy by defeating or drawing with the High School. The students will need to win the game to win the trophy. It provides an interesting set-up.

According to the grapevine the Battery will turn out a new and very valuable player in their next game. It is none other than Ian Dunbar, the C.N.R.A. star softball pitcher, who also plays a bang-up game of baseball. Reports state that Ian has starred in Fraser Valley soccer. He plays on the right wing as a rule. He should be an asset to the already strong Battery eleven.

The Stuart Shield will begin on Friday, August 27 when the Battery and High School meet. The winner of this will meet the Canadian Legion in the final.

on Labor Day, Monday, September 6.

During Thursday evening's Football Association meeting talk turned to the Connaught Cup, Dominion Football championship trophy, the final of which start today. One player was prepared to bet 5 to 1 that the Montreal Carsteels would defeat Vancouver's St. Andrew's. Well that started things. It is interesting to note that 20 years ago New Westminster Royals won from Canadian Nationals of Montreal two games to one. The Royals had to come from behind to win the first game. They lost the second 1-2 but won the third game 6-1.

Then it came out that Jack Wilson had played for the Winnipeg Scottish in a Connaught Cup game in a preliminary round in 1920. He was only in the prairie capital for a short time but Dan McNeil, manager of the Winnipeg Scottish, persuaded him to turn out. Wilson had consented to play only because the Scots were short-handed, as he was already booked to leave Winnipeg on that evening's train. The Scots had a taxi waiting to take him to the train on which he and his wife were to leave for B.C. Jack says that, as he had not time to get a rubdown or shower following the game and he was on the train for a couple of days, he was so stiff that he didn't get over the effects for weeks. Well, what could you expect, an Irishman playing for a Scottish team?

The old-timers, and as many others as feel like it, will hold a work-out on the Acropolis Hill on Monday evening.

The "double bill" arranged for a week from Sunday is already arousing a considerable amount of interest. The mittie have their teams for Possibles but tentative selection

TALKING OF TREES

Trees are our bread and butter. Out of every income dollar in British Columbia nearly one-half has its origin in our forests. Over one-third of our province is best suited for the growing of trees. Our forests are the main source of our prosperity now, and will continue to be so in the future.
