\V/E, APPARENTLY, HAVE PLENTY of water W and power now but the people of Prince Rupert are not forgetting their experiences of the late unlamented winter when they had a famine in both utilities.

The shortages may be over for the time being but the circumstances which brought them about may recur and constitute a continuing problem.

No doubt, the authorities concerned are taking the necessary steps as speedily as possible—the city in regard to water, the power company in regard to the power?

Spring is already here, even if it be a bit sudden. The time has arrived when work can be done. It will pass rapidly and there will be none to spare for what appears to be a big job in the renovating or expansion of the utilities to meet not only the present but the developing needs

Now is the time to start acting so that we may not be caught unprepared again. Citizens would be justified in being indignant if such conditions, after the warnings, should come again. There appears to be no necessity for such recurrence if adequate emerges each session as the strong man of the Govsteps are taken while still there is time.

SUCCESS

THERE IS NO ROYAL ROAD to success. The straightest road of all traverses the valley of hard work, and, no matter how a man may be at about the bush in the hope of coming upon a short and easy cut, he will ultimately have to fall back upon the rough highway of toil. There is no other way. Some men talk glibly of "secrets" of success as of something capable of being treated by medical formula or made the subject of "tips", like a horse race. Others prescribe a dose of normal maxims, as old as the hills and as familiar to the mind of youth as copy-book headings. These good people mean well and what they say is worth remembering and may be useful; but there are no secret by-paths to success, nor can a man gain the coveted goal by simple rule of proverb. The experience that teachs a man to make his own proverbs is the most helpf ul.-James Burnley (1901).

An honest man's word is more to be trusted than a bad man's bond.

GIVES WIFE ADVICE

"Do you mind a mere male having something to say about washdays? My wife keeps my shirts sparkling white, which is important in my business. She tells me the secret is Reckitt's Blue, which prevents clothes turning yellow. She takes no chances with anything that may damage fabric. Just a swish or two of Reckitt's Blue in the final rinse is all there is to it. The fact that Reckitt's Blue costs only a few pennies a month makes sense to me, too."
