The Mandate Ends

THE END OF THIS WEEK will see the departure of British forces from Palestine and perhaps the immediate start of full-scale war between Arab and Jew. The struggle that follows may be severe, and may lead to grave complications throughout the world. This, however, is a time when lots of predictions fall short of expectation. For example, when Britain withdrew from India, the consequences would be horrible. Yet, India appears to be reasonably calm. The recent election in Italy involved such a tangle of hatreds and intrigue that few indeed, could foresee just how dire everything in all likelihood, would be. But Italy is still all in one piece. There may be war, but let us hope that it can be confined to its present proportions and then reduced by reasonable negotiations.

CLOSER UNDERSTANDING

FURTHER EVIDENCE of the increasing importance of Canada in the British Commonwealth scheme of things is furnished in the report of Mr. Gillis Purcell, general manager of The Canadian Press, to the effect that British newspapers, despite restricted space, are carrying a growing amount of Canadian news. In contrast to the sparse coverage afforded this Dominion's events a decade or two ago, the change in policy is a development of considerable significance.

As Mr. Purcell remarked, the immigration of a large number of residents of the British Isles has tended to increase the interest in the country to which they have come. Over and above that, however, is the natural curiosity of the people of Britain in a land which is gaining wider recognition in the sphere of international affairs. The further fact that the Canadian larder is being opened on a generous scale to those whose diets profit from the staples and supplements that are shipped from this country adds a further inducement to know more of this vast territory. Whatever the causes, however, the result is gratifying. The greater the interchange of news, the closer will be the understanding between fellow members of the Commonwealth on each side of the Atlantic.

LADY MOUNTBATTEN VISITS INDIAN REFUGEES—Lady Pamela Mountbatten, wife of the governor-general of the Dominion of India, is shown taking an interest in a tattered book shown her by one of the little refugees brought from the Punjab to New Delhi. The new government of India is meeting the refugee problem by establishing centres throughout the country where young and old are cared for.

Reminiscences and Reflections

By W.I.

A signboard placed anywhere along a road like the Skeena Highway would have to be fascinating indeed not to be regarded as unsightly. They all are, anyway! No tourist, or roving visitor wants to be eternally reminded of something he does not care a sweet-scented whoop for. They can see plenty that's infinitely better. No need of paying for it either.

Speaking of weather, a subject that was never known to wane in Prince Rupert, the next few months will be very unsettled. There will be elections in Ontario, Quebec and Saskatchewan, and in August a national Liberal convention. There will also be a municipal election in Prince Rupert late in the year. Sizing it all up, the general outlook is cloudy.

Berner MacFadden, physical culture enthusiast, 78, and a sweet young thing, 42, were married a few weeks ago in Florida. It was not long ere she was feeding the foolish faddist wedding cake, in the making of which no white flour, and very little sugar had been used. Sometimes, punishment does fit the crime.

Anyone possessing a good voice and love of song has been greatly blessed and because of this, it becomes his duty to give pleasure to his neighbors, as well as himself. There are so many delightful old melodies, though this is not saying jazz is included. "We're Here, because We're Here" is, for example.

Chinchilla Ranch In Home Basement

Pair of Tiny Animals Worth Their Weight in Gold

WINNIPEG — Did you ever hear of anyone operating a ranch in a basement? It's simple—if you have $1,250 to buy the right pair of animals.

Charles Addison, a 29-year-old ex-R.C.A.F. veteran, proves that it can be done. He runs a basement Bar-X in his home with the most expensive fur-bearing animal in the world—the Andes chinchilla.

Fully grown, these button-eyed mammals weigh in at 16 to 22 ounces. At $625 apiece, some are worth more than their weight in gold. And the female of the species—because it's heavier—is more valuable than the male.

Chinchillas are rather exclusive property. Few people in Canada own any on the hoof and as far as Addison knows, no Canadian owns one on the shoulder. That's because there are only 25 genuine Chinchilla coats in the world. At $25,000 a coat even the rich must wear mink, and like it.

Addison isn't in the business to raise coats. Chinchillas are too new to this continent to allow for anything but cultivation for breeding purposes to get the industry on its feet.

This applies even to the world's largest ranch—Chapman's at Inglewood, Calif. They have 2,200 animals (the equivalent to 18 full-length coats) and won't be pelting to any extent until at least 1955.

M. F. Chapman introduced chinchillas to North America when he brought 11 from their native haunts in the Andes Mountains in 1920. Addison's six little gold mines, like all the other animals in the 313 ranches in the United States and Canada, are offspring of those original 11.

They bred about twice a year and can bear young when they reach the age of about nine months. Each will live from 12 to 15 years with their fur being marketable at 18 months.

Raising chinchillas is no great tax on brain and patience. They'll stay healthy if you keep them clean, out of draughts and in temperatures between 50 and 80 degrees. A chinchilla dines but once a day and its food bill for the whole year is only $3.

Chinchillas don't like to live alone. So, if you want a contented animal, you'll pair him up.

U.K. COASTLINE NEARLY CLEAR OF EXPLOSIVES

By SHAUN McQUILLAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — Britain's coastline, still showing scars of wartime anti-invasion preparations, is nearly mine-free again. By summer, it is expected holiday-makers will be able to wander about any seashore at will, except for a few black spots.

Of 2,000 minefields sown along the shores with 350,000 mines, only nine remain. German prisoners-of-war, who took over from British sappers, cleared 20 areas.

One of the largest uncleared areas is at Mundesley, Norfolk, now described officially as "a permanently fenced area." Here 1,000 land mines have become lost in a three-mile-long ledge, through the cliff being washed into the sea. Experts have not yet found a way to recover them.

A similar problem exists in two small areas at Folkestone, Kent, and Hastings, Sussex, where hundreds of tons of refuse was tipped onto mined areas.

Three of the last six land minefields now are being cleared in Dorset—at Worbarrow, Kimmeridge, and Swanage Bay, where the action of the water is washing the mines out to sea.

USE WATER JETS

Biggest area is at Saunton Sands, Devonshire. To get at 50 mines embedded in sand dunes, water is being pumped three miles from a stream into high pressure water jets, mounted on armored tractors, to wash away sand so the mines can be detonated.

The remaining fields are on the Yorkshire coast, six miles south of Filey and at Mablethorpe, Lincolnshire. In each place only about half a dozen mines have been cleared.

At Weybourne, Norfolk—the heaviest minefields were laid in East Anglia—14 armored bulldozers were blown up while 4,000 mines were being cleared from a four-mile stretch of beach. Some mines were located 20 feet under sand drifts. "One of our main difficulties has been to locate minefields exactly," said one officer. "Many were laid in a hurry at the height of the invasion scare. Then units went overseas and plans were lost." Freedom of the beaches has not been won without casualties.

CONRAD P.T.A. HOLDS TERM'S FINAL MEETING

The final meeting of the year was held at Conrad Street School Tuesday night with a large turnout of members. Martin Stuart was in the chair.

The choir, ably conducted by Mrs. Harry Seaman and accompanied by Mrs. B. Eysolfson, sang "Lord, I Want to be a Christian" and "Come to the Fair" as well as several rounds. The Grade I choir then favored the gathering with "The Little Elf" and "All the World is Gaily Dancing" as well as several class songs. Miss J. Urquhart conducted and accompanied this group most creditably.

Little Anna Colussi charmed the audience with a tap dance to the fine music of Mike Colussi on the accordion.

The chairman then made presentations to Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. Eysolfson and Mrs. Glenn for their help with the choir. Following the short business session, the meeting adjourned with a social hour with Mrs. Vic King the genial social convener.

80-Year-Old Woman Is Hot Hockey Fan

EDMONTON, (C)—An 80-year old woman is one of Edmonton's most rabid hockey fans—but it was only last year that she saw her first game.

Mrs. A. D. Carmichael was born in Scotland and lived in Sedgewick, Alta., before moving to Edmonton eight years ago. However, she found her time occupied without taking an active interest in sport.

She received her baptism of hockey last year when she was escorted to an Edmonton junior league game. From that moment she was a dyed-in-the-wool fan. Her only difficulty in watching the play was keeping track of the puck.

She remarked once, "My that rubber thing certainly travels very quickly."

Since that eventful game, she has witnessed other junior contests and also a pro all-star event. She is keenly interested in all the players but refuses to commit herself on her opinions of performance.

She favors Turk Broda in the National League and adds "That Syl Apps is a good player too."

Mrs. Carmichael had a number of relatives with hockey teams—the Kenora Thistles, Winnipeg Monarchs and Melville Millionaires. Two brothers played for Melville and a son was prominent on the Sedgewick team.

QUEEN MARY CHAPTER HEARS DELEGATE REPORT

A delightful interlude was enjoyed Tuesday evening, when Queen Mary Chapter, I.O.D.E., held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. D. C. Stuart, Westview.

Mrs. Keilback, regent, in the chair, gave a comprehensive report on the provincial annual convention, held this year at Victoria, which she had attended.

An amusing incident occurred, she recalled, showing that the Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Banks, knew Prince Rupert, when on being introduced to the five delegates from the city, he laughingly referred to them as the Halibut Queens.

She told the ladies of Mrs. R. J. Sprott, a recent visitor to the city, reporting on a membership of 3,174 for B.C.

Mrs. Selby's post-war report showed the sum of $31,980 had been raised this year for the purpose of carrying on the work. This included 88 crates of clothing and food parcels for 856 needy families.

There were equally inspiring reports read from the various branches of the order.

Arrangements were completed for the bridge and cribbage drive to be held at the Civic Centre, Friday May 28.

Mrs. Kempton said four food parcels had been sent this month to Britain and read notes she had received from grateful recipients. The meeting took the form of a grocery shower in order to fill future food hampers.

A member of long standing, but a newcomer to the city, Mrs. Gordon Reade, was welcomed to the chapter.

The meeting was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Keays won the monthly raffle.

June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gillis, Angus Court.

WED IN SOUTH, TO LIVE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. William Cameron Johnston, who were married in Vancouver last Friday will make their home in Prince Rupert, at the radio station on Digby Island.

The ceremony took place at 8 p.m. in the chapel of St. Andrew's Wesley Church, Rev. O. W. S. McCall officiating. The bride, Estelle Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. M. Corbett, was given in marriage by her brother, Leslie J. Corbett. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnston.

The honeymoon is being spent in California. A sister of the bride travelled from Hollywood to be soloist at the wedding service.

HOW CAN I ???

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean the dirty, black bottoms of aluminum pans?

A. This can be easily done by placing the pans in a shallow pan, in which a teaspoon of soda has been dissolved in a little water. Heat the water and let it simmer for a few minutes.

Q. How can I strengthen weak ankles?

A. By bathing daily in a solution. An improvement will usually be noticeable after a few applications of salt, water, and alcohol.

Q. How can I make wood durable and weatherproof?

A. Wood can be made extremely durable and weatherproof by covering with several coats of hot linseed-oil varnish.

FLOWER-PILED SAILOR HATS SUMMER STYLE

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON — Sailor hats, massed with summer flowers and wider at the brim than the old Edwardian boater, are setting a London style note for warm-weather wear.

Ribbon and veiling also are emphasized in the new models from which many women have chosen their first summer hat.

Princess Elizabeth, for her 22nd birthday luncheon at Windsor Castle, wore a straw sailor trimmed with spring flowers. Similar models have been popular at spring race meetings.

Several attractive sailors, in felts and straw, were displayed at the Millinery Information Centre's recent London show.

One striking example was a side-width brimmed sailor of misty-blue fur felt with pink camellias in the under-brim and a chin-tie veil caught by a sliding slot of blue felt.

Straw examples included a navy blue sailor with side clusters of blended pastel-shaded straw boater with two giant flowers and a white synthetic matching hatpins stuck cushionwise into a navy rouleau band.

A cartwheel sailor of rustic straw in lime green, with a zig-zag trimming of navy ribbon on front brim, had a fur felt counterpart in apple green with beige ribboning.

"HOT CROSS BUN"

The Information Centre's show of moderately-priced hats—ranging in retail price from 15 shillings to £3 15s ($3 to $15)—included a number of teen-aged hats. Prominent was a "Hot Cross Bun" riding hat of blue, lightweight felt, stitched in sections and weighing only 1½ ounces.

Other teen-agers were a forward-tilted beret in pastel pink fur felt, with two devil "horns" and a half bonnet in pale turquoise blue, the brim covered with felt blue marguerites.

Town hats on display included one of navy straw with waved, double-edged brim, its cockade and brim edged with white gres-grain. One tailored hat in fawn fur felt had blended duck and pheasant feathers in an up-bow-thrusting mount.

A natural-colored straw grandmother's bonnet with high central cluster of mixed flowers and the veil was conspicuous among models shown for sophisticated town wear. For summer travel there was a sky blue chenille rouleau turban with tie ends and a dusky pink puff-crowned cloche with adjustable head fitting and looped side bow of petersham.

Textile Industry For South Africa

Import Operators, $200,000 Worth of Machinery as First Step

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa, — Wool-spinning and weaving machinery worth $200,000 which has been moved to Port Elizabeth from northern France, will begin production shortly. This will be the first of five new spinning, weaving and combing concerns from overseas which will form what may become a major South African industry.

Twelve French operators have been brought from Normandy to instruct workers in the new industry, and on them will fall the burden of training the 600 men and women who will be employed when the plant reaches full capacity.

It is hoped the mills will soon turn out 1,800,000 pounds of worsted yarn a year.

Workers now being trained show considerable aptitude. One girl is pronounced by the French foreman to have been quicker and better than any of the first-ward-tilted beret in pastel pink fur felt, with two devil "horns" and a half bonnet in pale turquoise blue, the brim covered with felt blue marguerites.

rate women operators in France. She learned her job in two weeks against the usual three months' training period.

The language barrier between the French instructors and the learners has not proved a difficulty, as much of the instruction has in any case to be carried on in sign language because of the noise of the machinery.

DIES' ANTICS STEAL SPOTLIGHT

MARIENNE IZSAK
YORK — The small old tow-head, wearing much more than her usual slowly down the show ramp.

One winsome maid of six, fascinated by the applause that greeted her and the spotlight focussed on her, turned and preened in the centre of the stage until forcibly evicted. The spectators loved it.

Another stopped en route at a table with the patient air of a dog waiting for a biscuit and refused to move until she had been given something. Then she walked happily on, chewing.

A scared-looking, big-eyed gamut from bathing had of four insisted on walking in the wrong direction and had evening clothes in her each time to be given a push to get him headed the right way.

It was the antics of the Margaret O'Brien, the child that kept the spectators movie star just back from a visit to England and Italy, walked in with her mother during the middle of the show. She wore a printed batiste princess-style dress and a wide maize ribbon on her curls, which she wore loose instead of in the customary pigtails.

What did the others wear? Oh, yes—well, they were bathing suits, err-r-r, wool—and their afternoon dresses were ah, loose and some of them were cut in er, princess style and the materials were ah-h-h, cotton and batiste and, oh yes, organdy.

LONDON, — Boys with catapults cost London's Wandsworth district $480 monthly by breaking 300 street lamps.

Famous Pin-Up Girl

Adele Mara "Star of Stills," To Appear in Million-Dollar Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Adele Mara is better known for her pin-up photographs on barracks walls and warship bulkhead than she is for her pictures on the screen. But she has put away her bathing suit now—all 36 of them—in favor of Hollywood's more conventional glamour.

In five years "the star of the stills" spent 1,140 hours before the movie cameras, in 28 films. Yet in the same period she devoted 2,400 hours, clad in bathing suits or scanties, in the portrait gallery. She posed for more than 5,000 pin-up pictures, altogether. Each of these, in thousands of copies, went around the world.

This darling of the press agents found other ways, too, to familiarize the public with the charms of her figure. Semi-clad, she fondled a kitten for national cat week. She munched lettuce for national vegetable week. She escorted tots across the street for national safety week. She

Modern Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. What should one do when with a crowd, following a dance, and the others wish to stop somewhere to eat, and one is not hungry?

A. One can always order something very light and make an attempt at eating it.

Q. When calling on a friend and she is not at home, is it all right to leave a message?

A. Yes. "Sorry to have missed you" may be written on one's card.

Q. Is it all right for a girl to give her fiancé an engagement present?

A. Yes, this is often done.

even posed, for the war assets administration, with otherwise sexless 18,000-volt transformer the government was trying to sell.

Her studio now has decided that anyone who can inspire nearly 6,000 fan letters a week deserves a better fate than "star of the stills." She has accordingly been given the feminine lead opposite John Carroll in "The Blue Lady," a million-dollar opus.

"Legs are O.K.," said Adele, "but stars have to have faces, too. It's time folks discovered I have one."

They've given Miss Mara an ash blonde rinse and long flowing gowns. She runs around now looking sultry. Her voice is huskier, too. An assistant director even remarked the other day that she had very beautiful eyes.

RADAR DETECTS ICE

STOCKHOLM — The use of radar to protect ships from ice packs along the coast has proved successful here. Radar shows a different pattern on the screen for different types of ice, so the ship can be navigated through pack ice, drift ice, or firm ice.

JAYCEE PUBLIC SPEAKING CLASS HOLDS DINNER

The Junior Chamber of Commerce public speaking class wound up its 1947-48 activities last night with a dinner and presentation in the Civic Centre during which R. G. Moore, the instructor, was recipient of a gavel, bearing an engraved silver plate.

The presentation was made by Junior Chamber President A. P. Crawley who thanked Mr. Moore for his gratuitous efforts in training young men in the art of public speaking.

Attending the dinner were 15 class members and Rev. Basil S. Prockter and R. D. Cleland, two of the three members of a panel of judges which decided the win- held in March. Third member of the panel, G. A. Hunter, was out of the city.

Chairman of the meeting was Carlo S. Hanson, leader of the Junior Chamber leadership training committee.

SCIENTISTS SEE SYNTHETIC FUEL AS MOTOR POWER

By MAX SKELTON
HOUSTON, Tex., —How will United States automobiles be fueled in the year 2148?

Scientists studying the problem today indicate the answer will be a synthetic gasoline produced from coal.

The petroleum industry is devoting considerable attention to the problem.

Joining with the industry in its look into the future are government agencies, particularly the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

Participants in the studies don't expect to be around in 2148 but their common goal is to have an answer to the future supply problem just in case petroleum reserves don't last as long as most estimates indicate.

Current studies involve experiments in producing synthetic gasoline from natural gas, coal, shale and tar sands.

Atomic energy also enters the picture but present indications give it little chance of being used to power automobiles. It apparently is destined for large scale space heating and commercial purposes.

There are two plants now under construction for production of gasoline from natural gas, one in Texas and one in Kansas.

The Bureau of Mines already is conducting large scale experiments in Colorado and has plans underway for two plants which will deal with coal experiments.

NUCLEAR POWER
A member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission recently predicted a working model of a production type nuclear power section will be in operation within 10 years.

R. C. Alden of the Phillips Petroleum Company recently said current oil reserves of 25,000,000,000 barrels could last 13 years at present rates of demand but that, without being optimistic, one can conclude potential reserve will push the figure from 60 to 200 years.

Alden gave this picture of possibilities of natural gas and coal being converted into gasoline, the estimates being based on current known reserves, demands and synthesis procedures:

Natural gas—present reserves of 165.9 trillion cubic feet would produce 11,700,000,000 barrels of gasoline, which would last approximately 13 years.

Coal—known reserves of 3.2 trillion tons would produce 4.7

MILITARY SCHOOL TO STRESS SPORT

Kingston Training Centre Will Enter Intermediate Football

KINGSTON, Ont. — Officials at Royal Military College here are going to take sports seriously when the college re-opens as a tri-services cadet training centre next September.

In keeping with this policy, Maj. Edward G. Brooks, adjutant, will attend the football clinic at Montreal this spring under the direction of Vic Obeck, grid member of McGill University.

Maj. Brooks has been named coach of the R.M.C. football team which will play only exhibition games this fall but enter an intermediate league next year.

More familiar under the name of Jeff Brooks when he played as captain for the old Red and White squad in 1939, Maj. Brooks played in the same backfield as Bee Rowland and Denny Whitaker, familiar in Canadian grid-iron annals.

TINY STAR

It is estimated that the smallest shooting star, in spite of its brilliance, is about the size of a large grain of sand.

trillion barrels of gasoline, a supply sufficient to last several thousand years.

Dr. Paul C. Aebersold, chief of the isotopes division of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission makes these estimates on possibilities of atomic-energy as a source of power:

1. Current known reserves of uranium would supply 10 times more energy than known reserves of oil.

2. Coal as a world resource of power is a thousand fold more plentiful than uranium.

3. Total energy demand of the world for all heat, mechanical, motive and electrical power is about 2,600,000,000 kilowatts, the equivalent of 2,000,000 pounds of uranium. Known uranium reserves could meet this demand for 50 years.

JAYCEES SEEK 1949 CONFERENCE FOR THIS CITY

Prince Rupert will be the site of the 1949 provincial convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada if the three city delegates to this year's conference have their way.

Armed with Prince Rupert literature and a determination to sway next year's convention this way, S. G. Furk, Harold Helgeson and Edward Mussallem stepped aboard a C.P.A. plane, Victoria-bound this afternoon.

"We are going to plaster the Empress Hotel with Prince Rupert propaganda and talk to every delegate there to convince them that they should hold the 1949 convention here," Mr. Furk said this morning. He is secretary of the Prince Rupert Junior Chamber.

The convention opens in the capital city next Monday. Delegates from all parts of the province will attend.

Prince Rupert lost out by a narrow margin a year ago when the conference at Harrison Hot Springs voted to hold this year's meet at Victoria.

"We are one of the most active Junior Chambers in the province," Mr. Furk declared. "If there is any possible way of convincing the delegates to come to Prince Rupert next year, we will do it."

PLAN MORE ACCOMODATION

STOCKHOLM — There's a shortage of hotel rooms in Stockholm now, but plans are being made to build three new hotels with a combined total of 945 rooms as soon as the material shortage is overcome. Two of the hotels are already planned in detail.
