Strong Case to Keep Haines Road Open Made by Member for Skeena

A strong case for the year round maintenance of the strategic Haines Highway has been presented to Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of national defence at Ottawa, by E. T. Applewhaite, M. P. for Skeena. An exhaustive brief on the subject has been prepared by Mr Applewhaite who submits that the transportation economy of the whole north country would be altered to the benefit and better service of communities in Alaska and Yukon if this highway could be kept open the year around for the transport of people and goods by road northward from the port of Haines. Mr. Applewhaite also shows how the port of Prince Rupert could be used to great advantage as the gateway to Alaska owing to its proximity as a railway and highway terminal. The brief prepared by Mr. Applewhaite, on the basis of information obtained in various quarters, disclose, among other things, that Chilkoot Motorship Lines which operated last year between Juneau and Haines while the Haines Highway was open between June 9 and October 31 is now planning to extend the service to Prince Rupert and would transport mail as well as automobiles and other traffic northward from here. The far-reaching effect that proposed ferry service between Prince Rupert and Haines would have on all aspects of transport economy to Alaska and the Yukon is also emphasized by Mr. Applewhaite. "Alaska markets awaiting to be tapped would provide a steady, year-round flow of traffic over the highway if it was kept open," Mr. Applewhaite submits. "Supplies for military installations would move over the road throughout the year and would exceed by many times the small trickle of 4000 tons transported in 1949. Likewise the 5000 tons of civilian cargo is only a small percentage of the potential." As for the traffic from Prince Rupert to Haines last year Mr. Applewhaite's brief says that 4,012 tons, mostly of perishable commodities, was moved from Seattle over the Canadian National Railways to Prince Rupert and thence to Haines via Alaska Freight Lines barges. Mr. Applewhaite points out how traffic over Haines Highway increased from 497 vehicles and 1006 persons in 1947 to 3,202 vehicles and 6,206 persons in 1949. It would be difficult he points out, to forecast the potential automobile, bus and truck traffic if the highway is kept open the year around. Prince Rupert's Position "When Prince Rupert is considered as the shipping point the saving in time and transportation costs becomes substantial," says the brief. "From Prince Rupert it is less than 1100 miles to Fairbanks and shipments can be made between the two points in just three days. If the shipment originates in Canada and can be moved to Haines by Canadian vessel, transportation costs are reduced still further—Repeal of the discriminatory section 27 of the Jones Act, which will come with statehood for Alaska, should permit Prince Rupert to assume its rightful place in the Alaska shipping scene. The speed with which this would occur largely depends on whether the Haines Highway is developed to a standard comparable with the Alaska Highway and maintained throughout the year. It is vitally important that such development should take place now. Mr. Applewhaite points out how that portion of the Haines Highway located in Alaska was widened by the Alaska Road Commission during the past year and hard surfacing would be completed this year and concludes with the reminder to the Canadian minister of national defence that the Canadian section of the Haines Highway is under his department for maintenance and operation. Mr. Applewhaite's brief is now in the hands of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce for attention by the highway and Alaska committees.

1950 Weather Here Better

Prince Rupert is having a much better start this year from the weather standpoint. The city has had 237 hours of bright sunshine so far this year as compared with 184.7 hours in the first three months of 1949 while the precipitation thus far in 1950 has been but 17.67 inches as against 24.46 inches in the corresponding period last year. The monthly weather summary, as issued by the Dominion meteorologist at Digby Island, was as follows: Maximum temperature, 54.9 on March 16. Minimum temperature, 22.9 on March 10. Mean temperature, 38.6. Maximum barometer reading, 30.37 on March 29. Minimum barometer reading, 29.17 on March 18. Precipitation, 5.9 inches. Sunshine, 105.8 hours. Maximum wind velocity, 25 miles per hour from southeast on March 22.

A court in the Soviet sector imposed the death sentence on Werner Gladow, aged 18, who said he used Al Capone as his model in directing a band of 68 thugs. The prosecution traced two murders, ten attempted slayings and 21 major armed robberies to the gang.

Applewhaite Is Great Booster

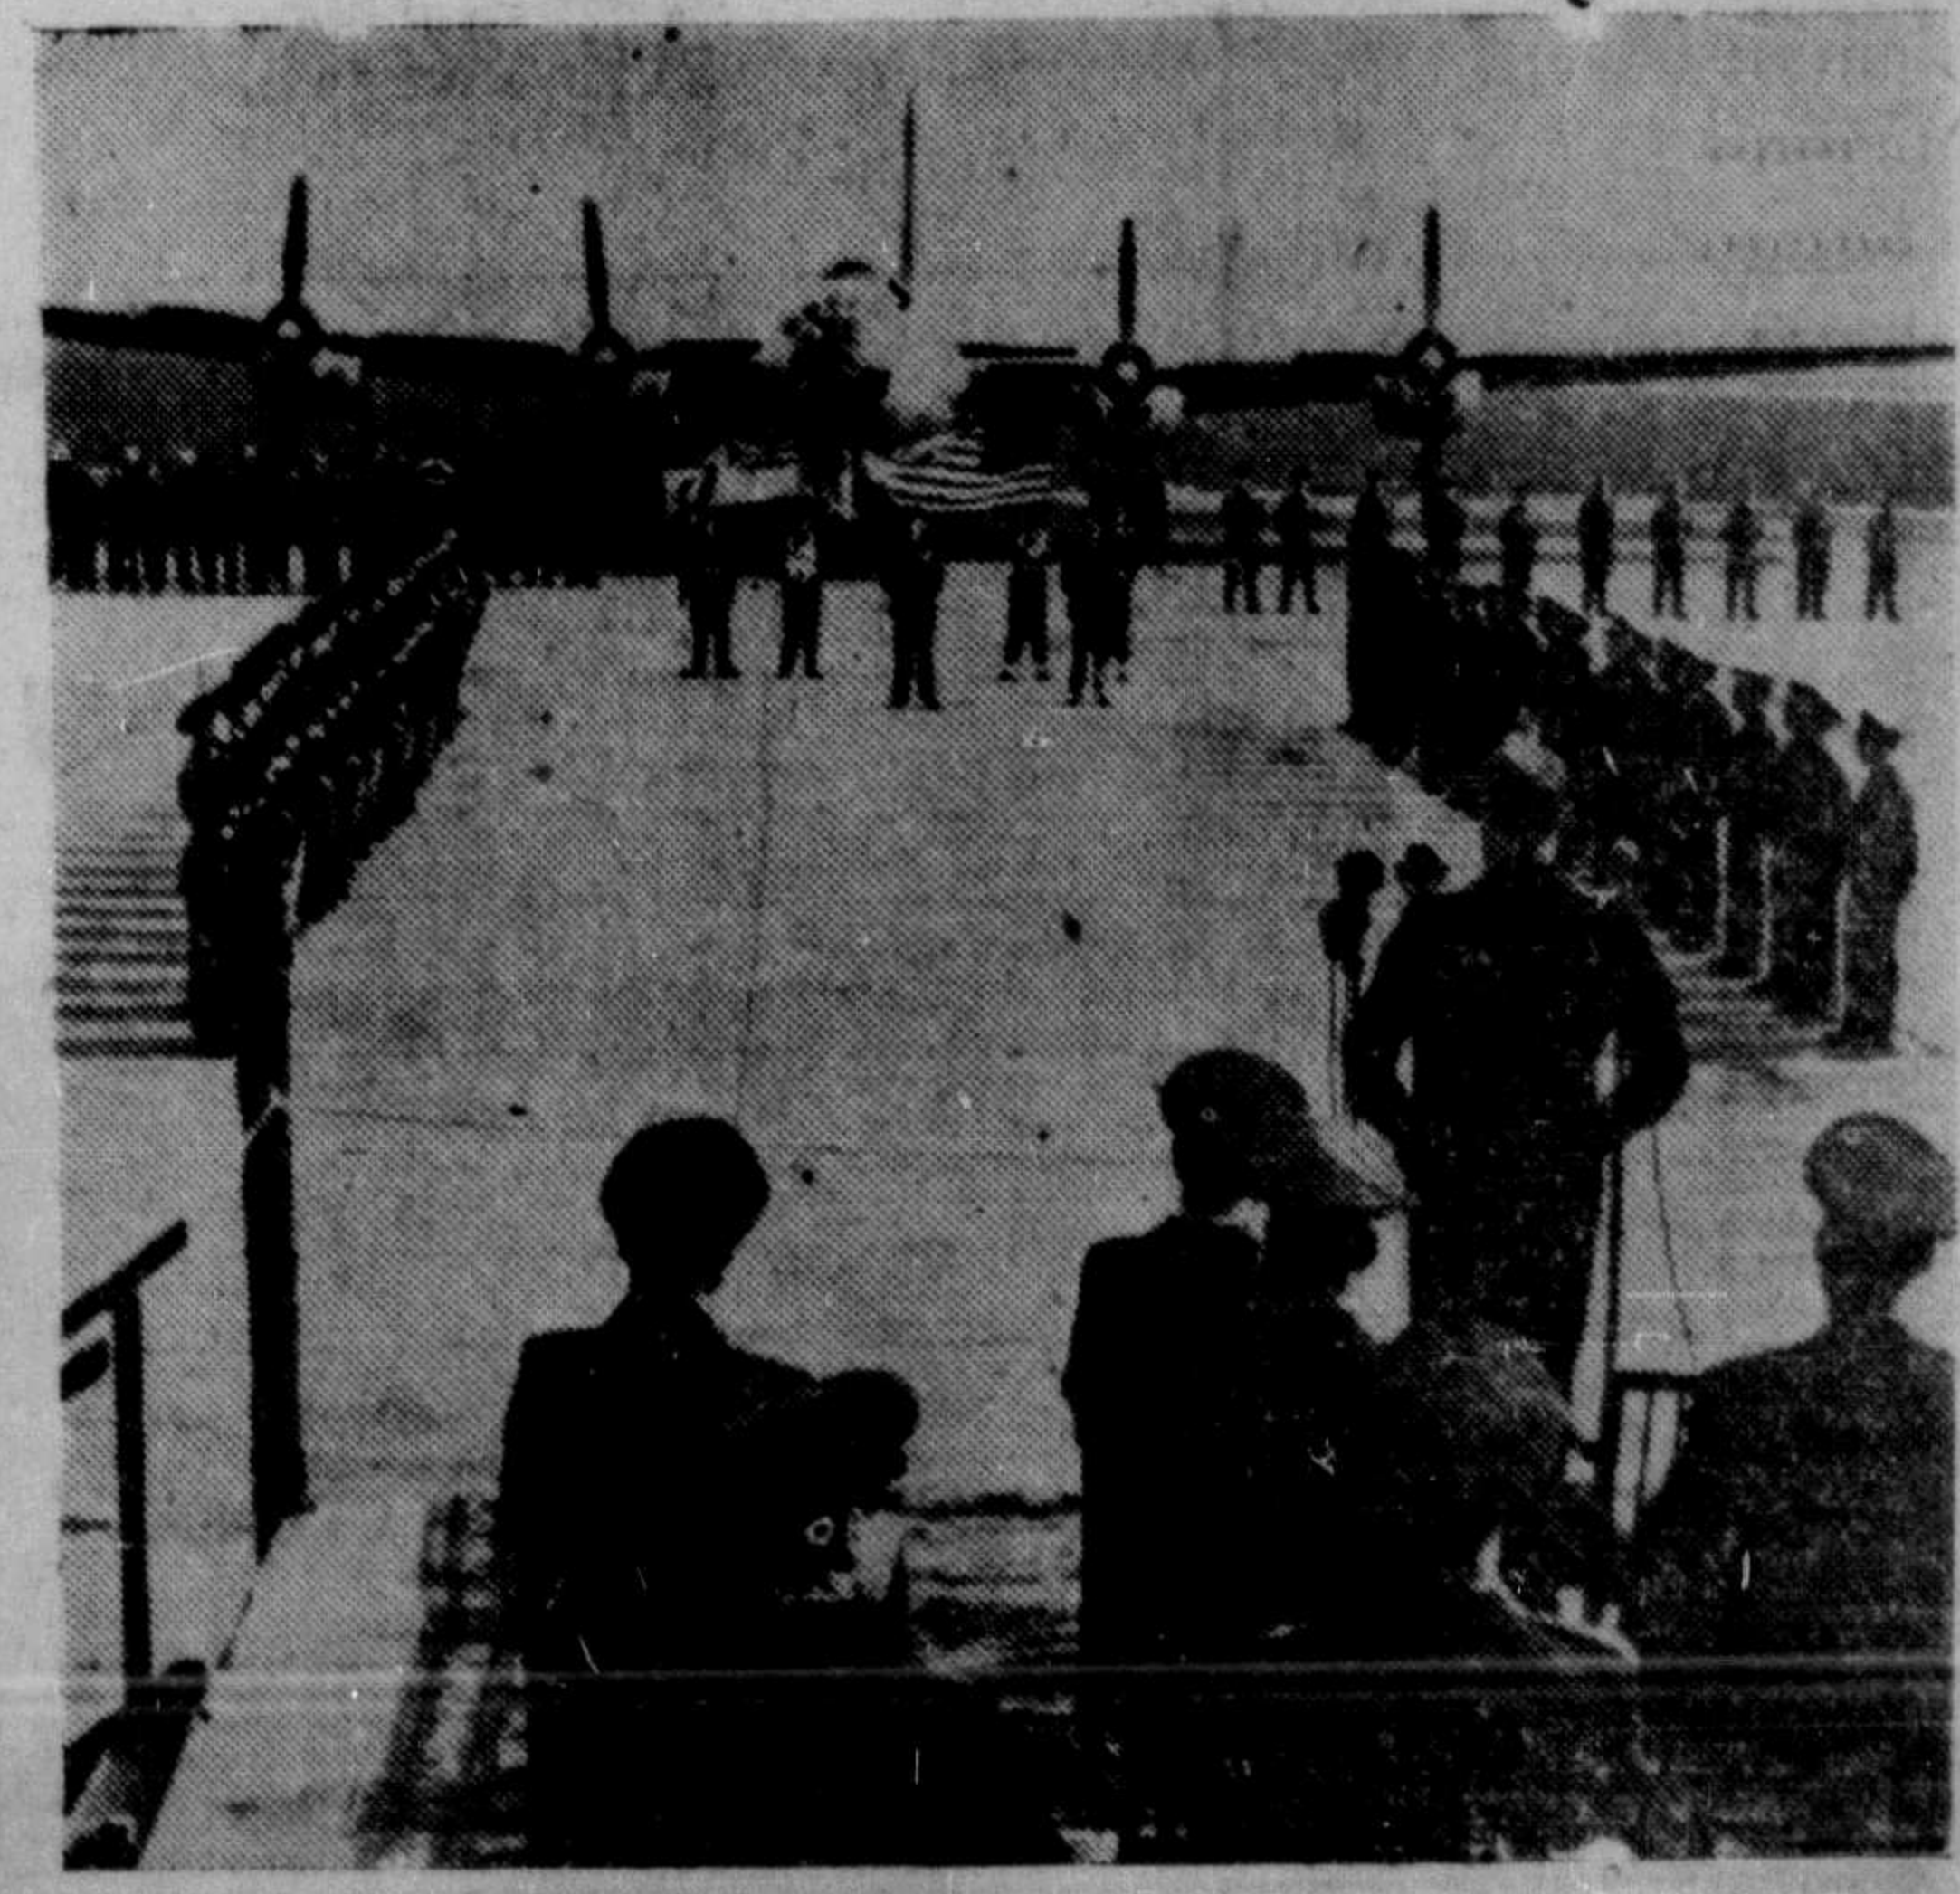

Prince Rupert doesn't need a Chamber of Commerce as long as it has Ted Applewhaite, M.P., declares the bulletin of the Rotary Club of Aylmer, Quebec, where the Skeena member spoke recently. "No amount of artistic pamphlets could be as convincing as this man who knows and loves every inch of the ground. "Sincere and enthusiastic, he has at heart the true progress and prosperity of the whole province as well as his own constituency. "By the time he was finished, we were wondering why we lived any place but B.C. in general and Prince Rupert in particular. Scandal have we heard general, social and economic problems of a region more expertly explained. Anything we don't know about Prince Rupert now is something that hasn't happened yet."

New weather ships will also "soon" take their positions in Pacific waters, he said. Improving Museum

THE MUSEUM BOARD is to be congratulated on obtaining an expert to come to Prince Rupert and arrange the very interesting local institution in a manner that befits its value and potential interest. Its attractiveness will undoubtedly, be very greatly enhanced as a result of the overhaul and classification.

The Museum has become one of Prince Rupert's principal centres of tourist interest and there are many articles in it of unique and curiosity-exciting value.

A lot of good work has been done locally in organizing and arranging it and appreciation is due those who have brought it along this far.

ANOTHER ASSET

BEAUTIFUL FROM THE standpoints of site, equipment and furnishings, the new Canadian Legion edifice is today something meriting fullest support and co-operation. Not only is it an outstanding asset for the Legion, it will grow as a facility to Prince Rupert as a whole and to all who share in the common task of community work.

One need go no further than think of publicity, which is needed just as much as ever. Every summer tourists call here. Practically all are people of culture and some of distinction. Many are elderly.

The lure of remoteness and unpeopled wilds helps draw north residents of older lands and great cities. They do no forget the amenities of the civilization they are accustomed to.

If, by way of illustration some systematic plan could be evolved here whereby some of these chance strangers could enjoy an hour at the Legion, the experience to them, would indeed be a happy surprise. This, without question, would be the source of a type of publicity for the city that cannot be bought.

HOME AFTER THREE YEARS IN ANTARCTIC.—After three years among the desolate wastes of the Antarctic, three young British scientists have returned to civilization. Their relief ship was unable to break through the stiff pack-ice which surrounded their advance base on Stonington Island in Marguerite Bay. Rescue had to be achieved by air, and a Norseman aircraft brought them to safety. Now, their great adventure over, they are in London. Although marooned, the British party had ample food and fuel stocks. Left to right: Terence Mark Randall, Bernard Stonehouse and Harold Jones.

A communication received by the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce from the Better Business Bureau has advised that, notwithstanding representations which may be made, a publication known as the Western Canada Police Review has no connection with the Western Canada Police Association and is not its official organ.

A. D. Vance, after spending the past week here, left by today's plane on his return to Vancouver. He will be back here shortly to take over the new post of manager of the Albert & McCaffery business here for B. C. Packers. Mrs. Vance and young son will pay a visit to Mrs. Vance's home in England before coming here to take up residence.

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce has received no further information from the Vancouver Board of Trade in regard to a visit to Prince Rupert in early summer since a preliminary announcement that a goodwill tour party would be here May 18. It is not known whether the group is coming by steamer or by highway.

A. B. Brown brought up at Monday night's meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce the "terrible mess" of twisted pipe and other debris that still remains at the corner of First Avenue and Seventh Street two years after the destruction by fire of the old Central Hotel. The Chamber will communicate with the city with a view to getting the "eyesore" cleaned up.

No developments of importance appear to have transpired in the warehouse situation since the announcement that it was the purchaser's intention to tear down the big building and ship the lumber to Edmonton. Suggestions have been heard of possible use of a portion but there appears to be nothing beyond the rumor stage.

Ralph Browne, formerly of Prince Rupert and now assistant manager of the Alaska Development Board in Juneau has a report carrying the recent Daily News announcement of the opening of the Skeena Highway and that the date is ahead of last year's time. Numerous Juneauites, the report says, take their cars from Juneau to Prince Rupert, driving the rest of the way to the United States over picturesque roads.

Popular Local Couple Married

Amid a setting of daffodils fresh spring pussy willows and cedar boughs, all intertwined with crepe paper, a popular Prince Rupert couple, Helen Betty Hamilton and Robert Anker Holkestad, were married in candlelight by Rev. Earl Soiland in St. Paul's Lutheran Cathedral Friday night.

Oil Painting Is Dedicated

Unveiling and dedication ceremonies of an oil painting by artist-preacher Rev. H. G. Jorgenson of Fosston, Minnesota, were conducted in the First Baptist Church Sunday. Rev. Jorgenson has been painting a mural on the presbytery wall since his stay in the city. It depicts the walls of Jerusalem, the Hills of the Crosses and symbolizes the River of Life.

Rev. Jorgenson has been conducting revival meetings at the church for over a week, preached his final sermon on Monday night. Sunday morning he spoke on "From Slave-boy to Governor" and "Crossing the Canyon" in the evening. His meetings have been well attended throughout the week and last night the church held a good crowd.

Mr. Jorgenson left yesterday aboard the Coquitlam and plans to talk in Vancouver, Seattle and Bellingham. Following visits there, he will return to his home at Fosston.

Seen At... Civic Centre

THE EXTENSION COURSE in tailoring and home refurnishing started on Monday evening under direction of Miss Eileen Cross. Registration and a general discussion was the business of the evening, much interest was shown among the large number of people attending. Furniture of every description has arrived at Civic Centre for rejuvenation and startling results are eagerly anticipated. The afternoon class on Tuesday was accommodated in the small gymnasium of the Civic Centre where many found a pleasant atmosphere in which to plan their project in the tailoring course. This two weeks of instruction under the capable direction of Miss Eileen Cross should be most valuable to those who are able to take part and of interest to any who might find time to drop in for an hour or so. The classes will not be held on Good Friday as the Civic Centre will be closed.

BOYS' WOODWORKING CLASS was the first group in the Civic Centre to receive books of raffle tickets on the coming raffle of the hand-made ladies' purse and a brief case. This eager group was most anxious to help support their Civic Centre and within the hour Master Bill Kergin, the first one to receive a book, came back with ten tickets sold and took another book which he also promptly sold. The articles to be sold on display in the Lobby.

Grass Fires March Grief

There were 19 fire alarms but only one serious fire occurred during the month of March in Prince Rupert. Children playing with matches in the Star Apartment Building on Third Avenue West, on March 12, caused a blaze which charred a second floor room and destroyed furniture. The flames licked through the ceiling and into the attic. Damage was estimated at $900. The blaze was fought by firemen at 3:10 a.m. Owner of the structure is Charlie Hew Lee.

On March 1, chickens had a narrow escape in a coop owned by W. Sawka, 704 Seventh Avenue West. An alarm was put in at 2:30 a.m. and, after the blaze was quelled, the interior of the building was charred and tools damaged.

Fire Chief Earl Becker was perturbed about the large number of grass fires out of control during March so he banned all such fires during dry days. But one or two calls did come in following his order. In all, 12 grass fires were attended by firemen.

Two slight blazes were caused by flames from a blowtorch. One of these, to the Yacht Club, indirectly resulted in charges of failing to stop at the approach of a fire truck, laid against three city motorists. All were fined and given warnings.

Still Seeking Full CBC Network Program

Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will inquire as to what progress is being made towards having full Canadian Broadcasting Corporation programs broadcast from station CFPR of Prince Rupert. W. J. Scott, at Monday night's chamber meeting, felt there had been little change in the service except for the addition of the National Hockey broadcast. Some time ago assurances had been received that full CBC network coverage might be expected here. The Chamber's radio committee will take the matter up.

Mrs. G. D. Mead, wife of Sgt. G. D. Mead, formerly of the provincial office of the B. C. Police here, now in Victoria, left for Vancouver today by plane enroute to Seattle for a visit.

Halibut Fleet Busy Rigging Gear—Flat Fishing Active

Gear rigging in preparation for the opening May 1 of the 1950 halibut fishing season is the order of the day on the Prince Rupert waterfront. There is activity on every hand. Machine shops are busy on engine overhaul work but the tendency is to defer painting and boat hull work, apart from what is urgently necessary, until the weather improves. In some cases this may mean until after fishing in Area No. 1 is over. About seventy-five halibut boats, it is estimated, now make their permanent headquarters at Prince Rupert while probably about fifty more boats make landing and outfitting headquarters for the summer here. About fifty American boats land here regularly during the fishing season in Areas No. 1 and 2.

There has been a revival in flat-fishing activity in Hecate Straits and at least fifteen boats are engaged. In addition to the flat fishing for fillet processing, some boats are engaged in scrap fishing for use in manufacture of fertilizer. There are also some American vessels now engaged in flat fishing in Hecate Straits. Movement of Alaska fish into Prince Rupert for transshipment East continues slight as is usual at this time of year. Last vessel in was the Robert Eugene from Ketchikan which was in from 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon to midnight with four carloads.
