Frost Hits Wheat Crop

WINNIPEG — Rainy weather during the past week in south-central Manitoba and south and central Saskatchewan, has tended to set back harvesting operations and in some places early swathed grains are drying slowly according to the weekly crop report of the Department of Agriculture, Canadian National Railways.

The northern part of Saskatchewan and all the province of Alberta requiring only another ten days for completion.

Most grains are yielding well in Manitoba and Saskatchewan but extensive frost damage is reported in the province of Saskatchewan where wheat is grading on the average between numbers 2 and 5 and in some localities as low as 6. In Manitoba the wheat grading appears to be a little better, in most cases between 2 and 4, while in the Edmonton district in Alberta wheat is yielding lower, approximately 15 bushels per acre and grading between 2 and 4.

Weather continues sunny and bright in the Okanagan Valley. Prunes are now moving in great volume mainly by express, and movement of apples in volume is about to begin.

Blood Donors Coming Through

Although response to the drive for blood donors has not been as large as was anticipated, Drive Chairman T. Norton Youngs said this morning about the same number of volunteers had come forward as there had been at the same stage last year.

Canvassing committees from different organizations have been working hard and have covered the greater part of the city. However, he said, some are bound to be missed and these can telephone for appointment.

Even those who have not made appointments will be welcomed at the clinic while it is here.

Clinic times in the city are:

Monday—7 to 9:30 p.m.
Tuesday—1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m.
Wednesday—1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Mechanical arrangements for the clinic are in hand, Mr. Youngs said.

However, there was a little difficulty in obtaining mattresses, but that has now been solved.

Mr. Youngs stressed the need for more blood, as its use was being extended to shortening human suffering as well as saving life. He asked for the backing of the whole community in making the drive a success.

Weather Holds Up Flights

Yesterday's CPA flight to Sandspit was postponed until this morning because of poor visibility and high wind at the island point. Bad weather conditions also prevented the second flight Wednesday and yesterday's flight from Vancouver from reaching Sandspit, coming no further north than Port Hardy.

Yesterday's passengers from Prince Rupert to Sandspit left here for the island point this morning and the return flight arrived here during noon. The regular flight for the day was to leave on time in early afternoon.

Nehru Is Endorsed

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru was accorded a complete vote of confidence by the All India Congress yesterday after he had threatened to resign if his policy of dealing with Pakistan was not fully endorsed. He rejected a policy of retaliation against Pakistan by India.

The Prime Minister was critical of the stand the United Nations was taking in regard to Communist China.

Veteran Vessel Scrub Strands and Capsizes

THE VICTIMS
The man whose body was recovered is George House. The missing man is Ralph Sandy. Both are from Namu. The Scrub was salvaged this morning.

Stranded in a storm at sea at 6 o'clock last night, the seineboat Scrub capsized four or five miles from Sandspit, Queen Charlotte Islands, in the rough waters of Hecate Straits. Two members of the crew are feared lost and four were picked up and have made shore safely, according to early reports received today by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Daylight Saving Over On Saturday

Daylight saving—what many people consider an annual nuisance while others hail it as a great boon—will come to an end for 1950 at midnight Saturday when clocks will be put back an hour to revert to standard time. There will be at least one benefit now—an extra hour Saturday night for rest or relaxation.

New Drive By Allies

Offensive From South Is Commenced

TOKYO—While the drive into Seoul has been somewhat slowed up from the start following the new invasion at Inchon last week, five South Korean divisions, the force totalling 50,000 men, have started a new offensive from the Pusan perimeter. This drive had reached a point twelve miles beyond Taegu today and was still advancing. It is part of the pincers movement designed to cut off the Communist forces and to take the capital city of Seoul.

Indicating that the Communists do not expect to hold Seoul, all top officials of North Korea are now reported to have withdrawn from the city, taking prisoners of war with them so that they cannot be recaptured. Only a skeleton staff of lower Communist ranks remains behind but a stiff rearguard fight is being put up.

Elements of a British brigade advanced five miles yesterday in the Taegu area.

The Allied 10th Corps and North Korean defenders battled bitterly for Seoul at close quarters today on both sides of the Han River. Some fighting was at bayonet range. To stand off reinforcements for the Red-held capital, allies put forces across rail lines and highways north and south of the city. Units of the United States 7th Division drove into Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, from the 10th Corps' Inchon-Seoul beachhead. Suwon is a vital communications centre.

U.S. Marines used bayonets and flame-throwers to make a mile-wide swath through Seoul's industrial western suburb, Yongsong, on the southwest side of the Han. Other marines cut rail and highway lines into the capital from the northwest.

A tank-led mystery column, reported yesterday to be moving southward from Red China's Manchurian border, remained a mystery. An army spokesman said he had heard nothing of such Red reinforcements.

On the Pusan perimeter, Allied forces punched out wide gains, and the North Koreans continued to retreat to the north.

Germany Is Discussed

WASHINGTON, D. C.—General George Marshall assumed his post as secretary of defence today, in succession to Louis Johnson, and one of his first acts was to go into conference with the British and French defence ministers to discuss the situation in Western Germany.

Coffee Shop Propaganda

by James Taylor

BANGKOK (Reuters)— Communist propagandists in Thailand are exploiting one of the cheapest methods of information dissemination in southeast Asia—Coffee-shop rumors.

For every newspaper reader among Thailand's scattered population of 18,000,000, there are at least 10 persons who read little, if at all. But all of them drink coffee and spread gossip in public places.

It is significant that the Communist propaganda technique here does not attempt mass conversation to party ideology. The rumors are passed in simple, colloquial language; there is no attempt to insert the usual party dogma or dialectics. Phrases like "Anglo-American Imperialists" have no place over a cup of coffee.

Western propaganda, in the form of multi-lingual printed information bulletins, is in direct contrast. To untutored Thai minds, it could seem almost morosely dull in its studiously-reasoned arguments, its strict adherence to facts—and its patent indications of crusading purpose.

The bulk of American and British propaganda here is the product of elaborate toil, expensive planning and presentation. Its receptive readers are the educated people, who form only about one per cent of the country's population.

The Communist-inspired rumors have the mob appeal. The Red propaganda machine is geared to a fine understanding of the vulnerable spots in the psychology of the majority of Asians.

Few Thai people wholly believe the coffee-shop gossip which they themselves spread. But it suffices for the Communists purposes that a residue of doubt and suspicion remains in their minds.

In coffee-shop parlance, the Anti-Communist western powers fighting in Asia are "ground simply under the common label of 'foreigners.'" Similarly simple is the definition of Russia and its satellites merely as "The Peoples' Governments."

"Rupert" Crew Men Scalded

Hit By Live Steam When Gasket Blows Off

VANCOUVER (CP)— Two members of the crew of the coastal steamer Prince Rupert, which is undergoing annual overhaul here, were scalded by live steam when a gasket blew out in the engine room today while the vessel was lying at dock here.

Most seriously injured was 25-year-old fireman, Oscar Arneson. Hospital attendants report his condition as fair.

Engineer Art Thomas was also burned by live steam but is expected to be released from hospital shortly.

The accident occurred when only a skeleton crew was aboard the Canadian National Steamships vessel.

Crew members had partially shut off the boilers and closed the engine room.

N.Z. Korea Unit Raised in Week

By J. C. Graham
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Although volunteers for New Zealand's force for Korea are now in camp and training, there is still a great deal about the force and its role that has not been announced, presumably for security reasons.

It has been announced by Defence Minister T. L. Macdonald that the New Zealand unit will be the artillery component of a British Commonwealth Brigade, and will include, in addition to artillery, signals, electrical and mechanical engineers and other ancillary units. The original statement of its size was that it would probably be from 1,500 to 2,000 men.

There were 5,982 volunteers for the force when recruiting was closed after little more than a week. Preference was given to single men between 21 and 27, though some outside these limits were accepted because of previous experience or qualification in specialist roles.

It has still not been revealed except by implication what type of artillery formation the unit will be. The minister has said that it will not have an anti-tank or anti-aircraft component, so presumably it is a field or medium artillery unit, and it probably will use 25-pounders.

FIVE WEEKS' TRAINING
Brig. K. R. Park, a First World War soldier who was chief New Zealand liaison officer in London in the Second World War, has been appointed overall commander of the force. He will be concerned with administration duties and will not have operational command. Lt. Col. J. W. Moodie will command the artillery unit.

The volunteers entered camps at three centres on August 29 to begin five weeks' basic training. Later the force will be concentrated at a single camp to complete its artillery training.

A proportion of the men are ex-servicemen but, as a large number have had no previous experience, a full training program is needed. No announcement has been made on the length of the course or the likely date of departure.

Fortunately New Zealand has a ready-made training organization available. Under the Dominion's conscription scheme, a keen and enthusiastic training cadre has been built up. A draft of 18-year-olds has just vacated the training camps, so that all facilities were immediately available to start the Korean force men on a proved and up-to-date training schedule.

Jailed and Fined For False Entry

SEATTLE — Armstrong Lower, Victoria, B.C. self-admitted member of the University Marxist Cultural Society, yesterday was sentenced to 18 months in penitentiary and fined $1,000 for illegal entry to the United States. He is a former University of California student. His previous student visa was cancelled after the immigration department investigated his political background.

Symphony Group Planning Concert

Prince Rupert Symphony orchestra, under direction of Neville Gerrard, is beginning to shape up for its fall concert late in November. Present plans for the concert are for a variety of selections.

About 30 to 32 members are turning out for the weekly sessions Tuesday evenings. Mr. Gerrard is pleased with the response but says the more musicians that will take an interest in the symphony the better.

New Store Is Opened

The official opening of Overwaitea Limited in their new premises and Manager B. H. Lane's reception yesterday afternoon and evening, drew hundreds of citizens to look over the store.

Modern in every aspect, the new store has goods displayed to best advantage. The mirror-backed fruit and fresh vegetable display boxes drew particular admiration from housewives. Push carts are provided for shoppers in the completely self-service establishment to save carrying anything while making their selections.

At the checking out counter is a revolving table on which the customer sets his purchases. They are automatically brought in front of the checkoff girl, who lifts them onto the delivery counter, where the customer picks them up on the way out.

During the reception, refreshments were served by Mr. Lane and his staff, who wore white carnations for the occasion.

The Experts Say...

By Kay Rex

Canadian Press Staff writer VARIETY IN SANDWICHES

Those same old sandwiches day after day they're monotonous to make and can come pretty dull eating unless mother determines to introduce a little variety into junior's school lunch.

Health experts warn that a child's health as well as his progress and interest in school may be affected by the meals he eats.
In view of this, the school lunch should be regarded as more than just a mid-day snack. It is a mid-day meal. Sandwiches are easy to carry and nutritious if ample portions of the right fillings are selected.

Meat and poultry: Sliced, with lettuce. To left-over meat loaf, bologna or liver, add grated onion, celery or carrot.

Fish: Flaked with cucumber, or tomato juice.

Egg: (Hard cooked or scrambled) chopped or mashed with diced celery, parsley or chopped onion.

Cheese: Sliced or grated, plain or with onion, lettuce, celery, parsley, jam, jelly or nuts.

Peanut butter: Plain or with honey or molasses, banana or other fruit.

Vegetables: Shredded lettuce, sliced tomato, cucumber, radish chopped raw cabbage, carrot with raisins or grated cheese, baked beans.

Fruit: Chopped raisins, dates or prunes.

HOT DISH ACCEPTABLE

A hot dish in the school lunch is highly acceptable, particularly in cold weather. Food should be selected which can be succe-fully heated. It is placed in a glass jar labelled with his name.
This can be heated in a hot water bath at school.

Creamed beef may be the selected hot dish, accompanied by raw carrot, brown bread, cookies and milk.

Thick vegetable soup is another easy-to-make preparation.
Brown bread also may go a long with this, together with an apple for dessert and milk.

DRESSING UP TEA

From the tea bureau come several interesting suggestions for dressing up the popular beverage.

Tea cocktail: One tea bag; one cup boiling water; one cup grapefruit juice; two teaspoons lemon juice; cracked ice.

Add boiling water to tea bag and brew for five minutes. Remove the bag and allow the brew to drop to room temperature.
Put into a cocktail shaker or jar with /tight-fitting cover, add fruit juices and cracked ice.
Cover tightly and shake vigorously until the ice is practically dissolved. Serves from four to six persons.

Lemon flavored tea biscuits also have been suggested as an accompaniment for iced tea. Just add the grated rind of one lemon and a tablespoon of sugar to your favorite baking-powder

Cast Of Characters For Bridge Column Announced

Easley R. Blackwood, whose daily bridge column starts in the Daily News tomorrow will use a cast of seven characters in place of the usual North, South, East and West. The unique plan will allow him to let his players' personalities exert a very real influence on the game, thus making the bridge games as played in his column true to life.

Mr. Masters, host at a bridge club, has to take on all comers as partners, and accordingly, must vary his game if he expects to come up on the winning side—which he frequently does. Like everyone else, Mr. Masters dreads having Mr. Champion for a partner. Although Mr. Champion is an outstanding player, technically, he makes the mistake of expecting his partners to be as good as he is, riding them unmercifully and loses both points and friends in the process.

A sly old fox who sticks by old-fashioned bidding methods, Mr. Dale, like Dale Carnegie, tries hard to influence people and make friends—especially his partners.

Mr. Dale influences Mr. Abel favorably, while Mr. Champion turns Mr. Abel's game into a shambles. Though he can play pretty well, Mr. Abel is not always at his best.

Mrs. Keen is a power to be reckoned with—she has played rough-and-tumble party bridge for years and has a house full of prizes to show for it. She recently took up rubber bridge and is now learning to modify her bidding style, and is becoming a more formidable opponent with each passing game.

Mr. Muzzy, on the other hand, leads his partners and opponents sometimes to wish he were in far away places. He forgets to count trumps— forgets what trumps are. Always wants to review the bidding and has the mistaken idea that he is winning. In the same general class is Miss Brash—always talking, but never says "pass." Is insulted if her opponents enter the bidding. Give her a couple of kings and she is off to the races—give her nothing and she bids anyway.

Mr. Meek fits his name very well. Afraid of his own shadow, he is afraid that if he bids somebody will double him and murder him.

Mr. Blackwood will introduce the characters in action starting tomorrow. Watch for his interesting and informative column in the Daily News.

Teachers' Meet Terrace Today

TERRACE—The schools here are closed today for the teachers' institute meeting. Chairman is R. Hayter, principal of the Hazelton Senior High School and Elementary School.

Arrangements were made for the teachers in the Hazelton and Skeena areas to be picked up by car today and brought to Terrace. They will return home this evening.

Following the opening remarks by the Institute chairman, a school board member and the inspector of schools, there was a talk by C. W. Alger, school secretary, on the School Board office, its responsibilities and functions in school administration.

H. Noakes spoke on the school library, its organization, management and use.

Mrs. Parker of New Hazelton gave a talk on music in the elementary grades and preparation of pupils for participation in festivals.

Mr. Leighton, Hazelton Senior High School, talked on the school and the community.

A. J. Wilson dealt with the management and organization of rural schools; Mrs. Labelle, on the causes of failures in the elementary grades; Mrs. Mandzuk, on methods in arithmetic and science; Mrs. Livingston on adaptation of instruction to the slow learners, and Mrs. McIntosh on the principles and practices in primary grades.

Towards the close, there was a junior-senior high school teachers' open forum on the adjustment to the secondary school program, followed by a question period.

While here the teachers were the luncheon guests of the Board of School Trustees.

Terrace Makes Disaster Plans

TERRACE—A meeting of the disaster committee of the local branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held on Wednesday evening and plans were made for "Operation Mercy," a province-wide practice for an emergency such as fire or any other catastrophe. Details of these plans will be divulged later.

The question was asked as to what would happen if, due to any catastrophe, 100 burned or injured persons had to be cared for and would Terrace be prepared for such an event. The disaster committee will organize a committee of key persons
