Might Have Been Worse

MR. Abbott's budget to meet Canada's new defence expenditures, the necessity of which is unquestioned in view of the current situation, might have been worse.

The ordinary person can congratulate himself on having escaped, for the time being at least, a direct increase in taxation through the personal income tax being unchanged. Incentive to efficiency and production will not be further discouraged.

The five percent increase in the corporation tax, although it will be resented by business still laboring under a burden of taxation imposed during the last war, was the simplest and possibly the fairest way if business was to have any increase at all.

Mr. Abbott exercised good judgment in going easy on the "necessity" items. Automobiles, the less essential electrical appliances, jewelry, photographic supplies and liquor feel the force of the new taxes and that is fair enough and causes no undue hardship. Probably too much money is being spent on these items anyway.

There may be some wonder why the biggest increase of all—thirty percent—should be imposed on the soft drink, candy and chewing gum items although it was to be fairly expected that these items would be assessed.

On the whole, however, Mr. Abbott's bill is not too bitter—certainly not any worse, on the whole, than most of us were expecting.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Knowing more about taxation today, than we did yesterday, it is now perhaps fitting to ponder the theme. There are more diverting subjects, but it will pay you to heed something that's certain. For that matter, so is death.

Many a wife has been known to give her husband a presentable haircut. She is entitled to at least half a dollar.

More than two centuries ago, an Acadian couple named Leblanc were expelled from Nova Scotia for refusal to swear allegiance to King George. Today, Moncton is the scene of a notable gathering. Ten thousand descendants of these original Leblancs are there to help have a holiday and make "whoopie." Verily, they come from all over the continent, with all claims confirmed, and cheerfully letting bygones be bygones. But it's doubtful if one can recite "Evangeline."

Ex-Governor C. S. Osborn, aged 89, of Michigan, who died recently got this one off not long before he passed out: "The longer I live the harder I find it to hate anyone. It doesn't pay."

Wheat cutting is about to start and the crop will be one of the best in years. Harvesters are travelling, mainly from Ontario and Quebec to Winnipeg from where they will be distributed over the prairies. What they earn will help them through the winter. Grain elevators at Vancouver, Fort William, Port Churchill, St. John and Halifax will all be busy. There is also an excellent elevator at Prince Rupert. As for winter loadings, there is nothing official. We'll go a bit further, and say—"or unofficial."

The trouble in Korea presents a new feature of modern warfare. In other campaigns, accredited reporters did not help form the casualty lists. They wrote, and, of course, took chances, but today it's different. Three correspondents were killed in a day, last week. This makes not far from a dozen dead since the invasion.

The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix says an optimist is a man who planted a big vegetable garden and threw away his wife's can opener. Maybe so! But in Prince Rupert, no one ever heard of a bottle-opener being cast away.

Suppose you wish a new car or plan building a house? Down payment will be less heavy, where the home is concerned. This appears to be the way taxation looks at it. A dwelling is a necessity. So is a car, but not necessarily a new one. It might almost be called a luxury and that's what Mr. Abbott's taxes look at.

By ELMORE PHILPOTT LABOR HAS WON

THIS IS WRITTEN on Labor Day, 1950. It is written just after the most amazing strike in Canada—and probably the most amazing nation-wide strike ever staged in any great country. What I shall try to show is that a revolution has already taken place in Canada. True, it has been an invisible and almost painless revolution.

But it is a revolution nevertheless. For social and political power has already passed from one class to another.

THE FIRST STRIKE that I remember was in my boyhood days in Hamilton. It was about 1906 or 1907 so I would be ten or eleven years of age at the time.

The street railway employees were on strike. I dimly recall, for the right to have a union. At first the sympathy of the general public was against the strikers. The custom in those days was for employers to "break" strikes by hiring strike-breakers. There were companies which even supplied strike breakers, including "goon" squads of toughs and rowdies.

The Hamilton strike became more and more violent—due to the determination of the strikers to halt operation of the trams. Finally the Mayor read the Riot Act on the steps of the City Hall.

The Dragoons were imported from Toronto to help break the strike. They were of course regular soldiers. The very news of their importation changed public opinion in Hamilton. Whereas formerly the increasing weight of public opinion was AGAINST the strikers—now a more elemental quality seemed to pervade the hearts of all the people and indeed the very atmosphere.

The climax came when the mounted soldiers charged the

Ernest Bevin Is Optimistic

Does Not Think Aggressor Would Unhesitatingly Start Trouble
SOUTHAMPTON, England (C)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, as he boarded the Queen Mary here for a trip to the United States, said that "an aggressor will think twice before he starts trouble if Atlantic Pact powers and their friends stick together."

Mr. Bevin added: "With sound organization, complete understanding and merging our forces so far as we can, I believe we can prevent any third world war or any serious disturbance in the world."

crowds with drawn swords. There wasn't much blood spilt, as I recall it. But I still recall the vivid tales of women as well as men plunging into the fight—stabbing horses in the bellies with hat pins—and the wild melee that followed.

I can't remember the detailed outcome of the strike, except that trade unions won a sort of foothold in Hamilton.

Yet, thirty years later, when I went back to live in Hamilton for a year, nobody who tried to organize a trade union in any of the big steel companies had a snowball's chance to last on the job more than a few days.

Contrast the successful steel strike in Hamilton a couple of years ago with the conditions of 1907 or 1937.

Or contrast the great railroad strike of 1950 with the Winnipeg strike of 1919. This year's strike was a thousand times more dangerous, from the national point of view, than the fracas in 1919. Yet nobody was taken to court charged with sedition as the beloved J. S. Woodsworth was in 1919. Nobody was sent to jail. There was no infamous Section 98 rushed through parliament.

LABOR'S FUTURE struggles are going to be with itself. For the first law of any society is that the dominant class must govern, or get out of the road and make way for some other element which will.

You haven't got "law and order" when garbage lies for weeks on the streets of Hamilton because of a wage and hour dispute.

Labor itself must soon face basic questions like this:

To what extent may the strike weapon be used, when its use menaces the health of the whole community?

MRS. ARNOLD SPEAKS

and dwarfed children she remembered from her younger days in England. The sixpence meal at school was doing a good job with the children.
At about eleven years of age, children were subjected to a selective examination to find whether or not they should proceed further in school. Only a few were allowed to proceed to a secondary education and to university. It caused a great deal of anxiety on the part of parents she said, and caused injustices in some cases where children had had setbacks in early life. But she would give no guesses as to the final outcome of the plan, which was started during the war.
Mrs. Arnold said there did not seem to be a great deal of excitement about the Korean war. People had a resigned attitude toward it but believed something had to be done to halt armed aggression.
The poor condition of rolling stock on the railroads and the difficulties in getting assistance in the stations struck her. Equally noticeable was the comfort of long distance motor coaches. Most of the tiny automobiles were old. Hotel accommodation was unobtainable, she said, except in inferior establishments where rates were high and services and amenities at a minimum.
She referred to bomb damage, particularly in Coventry, where one saw on the outskirts single tiles replaced and going into the city these increased to larger patches and finally to groups of buildings destroyed and in the centre everything destroyed. The cathedral was gone with the exception of the spire. She said she had been told the spire clock had kept chiming out the time all during the fateful night of the bombing. A sanctuary had been rebuilt from stone from the wall and a cross fashioned from two fallen timbers.
GRAND RACE
Mrs. Arnold said the British were a grand race. They were taking their hardships of the past few years well. There was

Write His Play In "P.O.W." Camp

LONDON (C)—Londoners have been given a new play, "Sayonara," appearing at the New Lindsey Theatre, which its author Ken Attwill admits was written "under somewhat trying circumstances."

At the close of the opening performance, he gave members of the cast some of the details. The play, he said, had been written in secret during 3½ years he was held a prisoner-of-war in Japan.

"I had three difficulties to overcome," he said. "What to write the play on—as paper was almost unobtainable; how to write it without being detected by the Japanese guards; where to hide the script."

Attwill found a solution for each problem. The play was written on the back of soup can labels. All the work was done at night by the light of the moon. The script was hidden inside a model yacht he carved with a razor blade from a piece of teak wood.

W. W. (Bud) Lewellyn, Beverly Hills, California, arrived in the city this week to visit his family until the end of the month.

Baseball— Series Count Evened Up

Abel & Odowes Score 11 to 3 Win Over Commercial

The old men of Abel & Odowes came to life in last night's Senior Baseball League championship series to win by a score of 11 to 3 and even up the series count at one game each. Next game in the series will be Sunday afternoon.

In the first inning, with Cornwall, first man up, safe on an error, Dahl came through with a hit and Pavlikis was safe on a fielder's choice. Cornwall, who had started for home, was caught between the plate and third on a run down but Morgan, who had started for home, was safe at home, with both runners advancing to second and third. Abel came through with a hit to score Dahl. Lindsay, next man up, was safe on a fielder's choice with Pavlikis out at home plate on the play. Hartwig filed out and Sunberg grounded out to put the Clothiers ahead 2-0.

Abel & Odowes scored six more runs in the third inning on six hits and an error to go further ahead. Commercial finally came to life in the bottom of the third with D. Scherk, safe on an error and stealing second. Sinclair struck out with Scherk going to third. Hawryluk next man up, was safe on a fielder's choice when they attempted to catch Scherk at home plate but he was safe. Shier filed out and Simundson next up forced Hawryluk at second to end the inning with Abel & Odowes ahead 8-1. Commercial were able to score again in the fifth when McDonald, first up, grounded out and D. Scherk was safe on an error, but was trying to steal second. Sinclair came through with a hit, Hawryluk was walked and Shier came through with a lovely two-base hit to score Sinclair. Hawryluk, on third, attempted to steal home on an overthrow but was out at home. Commercial got another run back in the bottom of the sixth on a couple of errors by Abel & Odowes and a base on balls to cut the lead down 8-3. Abel & Odowes came right back in the top of the seventh with three more runs on four hits. Commercial could not do anything in the last of the seventh and the game was called on account of darkness.

Jackie Sharpe pitched a nice game for Abel & Odowes, allowing the Commercial only two hits while Abel & Odowes were getting fourteen off Hawryluk who started for Commercial and was relieved by McDonald in the top of the fourth.

Civic Centre Given Boost

Reports on Convention—
New Municipality Proposed

TERRACE — Nick Schmeling, director of the Civic Centre, was the guest speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Terrace and District Board of Trade which was held in the Credit Union Hall on Wednesday evening. President C. J. Norrington was in the chair. Mr. Schmeling spoke on juvenile delinquency and the influence for good the civic centre could have on the youth of the town. Youngsters must have an outlet for their surplus energy and what better place could there be for it than the centre where they can have the right kind of guidance?

Mr. Schmeling has prepared a program of roller skating, volleyball, basketball and boxing but heat must be provided to keep the theatre open in the winter. He stated that two heating experts had examined the present system, which was totally inadequate. With the help and co-operation of the community a new heating system would be installed and he asked for that co-operation.

Telling of the number of juveniles brought before him in court last year. Stipendiary Magistrate W. H. Robinson, in seconding a vote of thanks to Mr. Schmeling stated his faith in him as a director and said that he was his (Mr. Robinson's) best ally in the district.

REPORT ON CONVENTION

Delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade convention held recently in Prince George gave their reports. Harry King giving a full and interesting report on the business and resolutions passed at the sessions and Mrs. C. R. Newhouse giving a short report from the women's point of view.

A vote of thanks was extended to them both for their reports.

Mr. King also stated that word had reached Prince George of the local disappointment in the illustration station here and he was told there that this disappointment had been justified. This station had not been on the agenda. However, he had been given the assurance that everything would be different next year as a man would be placed here. At the same time, some valuable information on what can be done with fertilizers had been gained here.

Following the report of Duncan Kerr, chairman of the highways committee, the board decided to write W. E. Bottomley, engineer, requesting him to have the transprovincial highway No. 16 gravelled as soon as possible on the stretch between Terrace and Copper River which was started last spring and not completed.

RADIO

Reporting on radio, S. Howlett said that there was no news of the booster station. Eric Turner of Kelowna had conducted a survey in town on August 18-21 and his report on radio interference was read to the meeting. The main source of interference appeared to be from faulty fluorescent lighting but, this type of interference did not travel far. A letter of appreciation for Mr. Turner's help and co-operation will be sent to headquarters in Victoria.

Speaking on utilities, George McAdams stated that he had been informed by the local plant manager that a portable power unit had been received which would take on the increased load this Fall prior to the installation of the big unit at the end of the year. He reported that the commissioners were doing all in their power on the water situation. The report of a second engineer had been needed before the by-law for a further loan could be

If It's Any Comfort, Gyros Are Happy That Rotary Won At Golf

Rotary has at last scored a triumph over Gyro. It happened at golf recently on the Smithers course. Gyro's Joe Scott was defeated by Rotary's George Mitchell in the final of a Prince Rupert golf tournament.

But Gyros are generous and not downhearted. The comfort which Rotary may derive is considered to involve no blot on the long-bright Gyro athletic escutcheon.

And there is bridge and basketball and such like coming up when the "junior" service club is confident of retaining its honors.

Mrs. Little PTA President

TERRACE — Mrs. Dubley G. Little was unanimously elected president of the Terrace Parent-Teachers Association at the annual meeting held in the Credit Union Hall on Thursday evening. Mrs. Campbell presided and Mrs.

G. Haugland acted as secretary. Other officers elected were: Vice President, Mrs. C. R. Newhouser

Secretary, Mrs. R. Elkins Treasurer, Mrs. Newkes. Appointed to the service and publicity committees were Mrs. F. Clifford and Mrs. G. Haugland. Other committee appointments will be made at the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was given to the retiring executive and special thanks to the social convener who had attended to the refreshments for the meetings last year.

Thanking the meeting for her election, Mrs. Little said that it was difficult for her to take over the office as she was not familiar with P.T.A. work nor its aims and objects but that would be rectified before the next meeting. Believing that there should be co-operation between the school staff and the parents the community should be one hundred per cent beside the organization and all should lean shoulder to shoulder to put it across the public. She would like to see the membership and attendance doubled and trebled.

New teachers and beginners' parents were especially welcomed to the meeting.

Terrace Bible Society Meets

TERRACE—The executive of the Terrace Branch of the Bible Society met in the parlor of Knox United Church on Tuesday afternoon. Representatives of the various Protestant churches in Terrace were present.

The President, Mrs. Ellwood Brooks, reported that last year $184.36 was raised. By means of such assistance the B. C. Auxiliary of the Society was able to distribute 25,372 Bibles and Scripture portions in 33 languages, including Arabic, Bengali, Chinook, Icelandic, Lettish, Punjabi, Roumanian and Yiddish. Copies in Braille were also distributed.

Last year the British and Foreign Bible Society increased the number of languages in which the Scriptures are printed by six, bringing the world total up to 1084. The Society as a whole circulated 1,800,000 copies of the Scriptures throughout the world. At present its scholars are working in 43 new languages, reducing them to writing, and translating the Bible into them.

The annual canvass of the Society will commence in Terrace on September 18.

passed. This had held up proceedings until a qualified engineer had been located in town and his report sent in. On the return of the bylaw from Victoria the plebiscite to borrow money would be prepared. It was hoped to have it before the end of September and the commissioners asked for the co-operation of the Board in getting the taxpayers out to vote on plebiscite day. The opening of the Home for the Aged was contingent on a good water supply.

Further business pertaining to the village was the setting up of a committee to consider the feasibility of the district being incorporated as a rural municipality. On the committee are H. King, D. Kerr and J. Kill.

Viewing with concern the continued traffic violations, particularly speeding motorists, it was felt that there should be a tightening up of the traffic regulations. As no criticism of the police was intended, a letter will be sent to Constable Brue concerning this matter and assuring him of the Board's co-operation in having it rectified.

The chairman of the highways committee was asked to inquire into the matter of the removal of two danger points on the highway west of town, the removal of the bank on the north east corner of the Frank intersection (Weeks Road) and on the southwest corner at the school intersection.

GAME RESERVE

As area which was set aside as a Game Preserve in 1939 had now become more populated, the inhabitants would like to have the restrictions on hunting removed. The advice of the game warden, Ed Martin, had been that the residents draw up a petition to be backed by a reasonable organization such as the Board of Trade to be dealt with by an order-in-council of the Game Commission. A committee was appointed to deal with the matter of certifying the petition of the residents of the area south of the C.N.R. to the central line of the Skeena River, east to the Skeena bridge and west to the Kalum bridge—the game preserve—when it comes up. On the committee are Mr. W. Robinson, Dr. McPherson, Mr. Gillanders.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Duffus were admitted as new members to the board.

Mr. Collins, Terrace's new lawyer, was welcomed and introduced to the meeting by President Norrington.

G. McAdams and C. J. Norrington were named delegates to the Cancer Society meeting on September 8. A motion to pay a convention fee to the Prince George was passed.

"Every year science is creating more 'miracles' to make living easier in countless ways. And what we see today is only the beginning of an amazing new era of comfort and convenience.

"But it seems to me that some people are expecting too many miracles. For instance, they believe that, by some kind of magic, old-age benefits will provide all the money they're ever going to need when they retire.

"I believe in security for everyone, but I want mine planned to suit my own individual needs. That's why I have my own life insurance. It'll take all the life insurance I've got now, and maybe more to help provide the kind of retirement income I want and when I want it!"

"My life insurance is flexible, too. I had my choice of dozens of different kinds of policies. And my life underwriter helped me arrange a balanced programme that gives my family protection now, while it builds a better income for my old age.

"Come what may, I'm still relying on my own life insurance. Like millions of other Canadians, I've found it the sure road to security!"

At your service . . . To help you meet your future financial needs with made-to-measure planning, your life insurance company serves you through a trained life underwriter. He takes a personal interest in your problems, analyzes the facts that must be considered in building a sound life insurance programme.
