A Book of Interest

A BOOK of exceptional local interest has come to the editor's desk. It is entitled "The Canadian Y.M.C.A. in World War II" and the author is none other than Alan M. Hurst, who was director of Y.M.C.A. war services in British Columbia during the war and who is now principal of the Prince Rupert High Schools.

Apart from the angle of interest through the authorship, Prince Rupert receives a large measure of attention through the telling of the story of the war services of the Y.M.C.A. which stemmed out of this city into a vast and isolated area. Increasing the interest are many "now it can be told" aspects of the tale.

The book tells in fine style the history of a fine job well done.

Interesting appendices are replete with valuable statistical information.

BETTER FARM LIFE

THERE IS no getting away from the fact that if we expect to be fed, it is the farm we must look to. So it is with more than indifferent satisfaction that Canada should hear Ottawa's announcement that the farmers are prospering. To a degree greater than ever before they are improving their possessions, and making every-day life more convenient and liveable. Water systems are being installed in homes. There are bathrooms, flush toilets, kitchen sinks with accompanying water, piping and outlets, and also septic tanks. Compared with 1948, improvements reveal a 53.3% increase. There has been a total of $19,000,000 made in loans, chiefly in Ontario and the prairies. This has made possible new buildings, an extension of electrification, small house construction for farm help and the replacing of machinery.

Too long have those who create the crops on which we all depend, accepted long hours, endless work, scant reward and little comfort.

HOW TO GET ALONG!

KEEP SKID CHAINS on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low, persuasive voice. How you say it often counts more than what you say.

Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs you.

Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging word to or about somebody. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it. If criticism is needed, criticize helpfully, never spitefully.

Be interested in others; interested in their pursuits, their welfare, their homes and families. Make merry with those that rejoice; with those who weep, mourn. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as one of importance.

Be careful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Hide your pains, worries, and disappointments under a smile.

Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Deliberate, but do not argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.

Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves, and refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. Make it a rule to say nothing of another unless it is something good.

Be careful of another's feelings. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort, and may hurt where least expected.

Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and a bad digestion are a common cause of back-biting.

Don't be too anxious about your dues. Do your work, be patient and keep your disposition sweet, forget self, and you will be rewarded.

SATURDAY SERMON

TRUE OR FALSE IN RELIGION

(By Rev. Earl Solland, St. Paul's Lutheran Church)
"Beloved, believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits, whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world." I John 4:1.

All men are religious. Some are more so than others. There are many kinds of religion. Most religions have much in common. There is the worship of someone or something which involves self-denial and sacrifice. There is a recognition that an atonement for guilt must be made. There is also the fact that we are responsible to another being. Our life is not our own, but its service belongs to another. Many religions recognize these principles.

There is a great difference in the methods by which men try to satisfy these inmost cravings of a spiritual kind. These differences are responsible for the many kinds of religion. We are reminded in the text that it is the spirits that cause the forms of worship. When men have a kindred spirit, they band themselves together for the purpose of worship. When they have divergent spirits, then they disagree and do not have a common bond for unity. It is the spirit within man that determines the royal commission on the press including the suggestion for the voluntarily-established council to supervise the fourth estate.

STANDARDS FOR PRESS

Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, deputy prime minister, dropped the hint that the government might take some action, if the press itself failed to set up such a council.

Beverly Baxter, Canadian-born Conservative member and himself a journalist, charged that the commission's investigation was "a political move to disparage and muzzle the press."

The press itself does not take kindly to the House of Commons decision to set up a press council to control its standards.

The Daily Express accuses the government of "trying to throw a cloak of genial respectability over the murky origins of this attack on traditional British liberties."

The Conservative Daily Telegraph said that a government-nominated press council, equipped with the suggested powers, might easily lead to that state of control of press which the commission's report repudiated.

The Conservative Yorkshire Post said that a press council would be "superfluous" and said that such a council might "too easily become the nerve centre through which different interests would try to supply pressure on newspapers."

The Manchester Guardian took a favorable view to the proposal of a voluntarily-established council.

"I hated to invite her, but if I hadn't, none of the boys would have showed up."

IT'S HARD TO EXPLAIN TO FRANK—Children in the emergency housing community at Uplands, Ottawa, have been ordered to get rid of their pets to prevent spread of diphtheria that has already caused two deaths. Frank Bernadeso, shown here, is one of the many children who do not understand why it is necessary that their dogs must be sent away or destroyed.

Ray Reflects . . .
. . . and Reminisces

Some day the early history of Prince Rupert will be written. Meantime, the first settlers and citizens are passing away in increasing numbers. Within the year, a few died who perhaps, as well as anyone left living, could have described the times of long ago. Writing a history, if it is to cover the ground thoroughly, is a large order and advancing age has been known to dim memory. Yet, a record of the past should have its place.

Necessity of transfer between Seal Cove and Section 1 was early realized, but it has taken time and substantial growth in population to bring about the results once hoped for. However, today's crowded busses offer a contrast as well as fulfillment. All old timers can well remember the commencement of the service and the confidence shown. The correct idea was there all right, but it was "still pretty early in the morning."

Holidays, blest holidays, refreshing soul and body! Sure thing, but how to get by the first few days of settling down to the old routine later on? The wench is felt in the sudden turning from lordly leisure to getting there on time—orders, obedience and now and then, a pair of cold eyes. There's a faded, tiresome, prosy feeling. Fact is, it's most uncomfortable.

Life in Montreal is inclined to be inconvenient unless one can speaking both languages. Perhaps the majority do. Yet there remain a sizeable number who, either through plain indifference or carelessness, do not. They miss a lot. It was once the unpleasant lot of the writer to be assigned to the Civil Courts where most of the proceedings were conducted in French. Some of the cases were difficult enough to grasp even when explained in purest English. So the only way to meet the emergency was to learn the language and, in the interval, arrange to meet bi-lingual staff members of other papers every day, in the sheriff's office. They would graciously reveal what happened that forenoon. And they certainly did.

A Canadian knowing only the English tongue, and fresh from the Maritimes, out west or from the Pacific Coast might feel lost to suddenly find himself in Montreal. At first, it does not feel like home at all. The daily chats in the old office worked well, for the boys understood the other fellow's angle and were most co-operative. Autumn faded out and winter that is winter, arrived sharp on the dot. In no time at all, it seemed, the gale of Christmas was everywhere. Just before noon, one day the sheriff handed to each scribe, an envelope with his compliments. Each contained $50. That helped, too!

failed to return home yesterday, missing the plane at Vancouver due to a confusion over daylight saving time. They are expected back this afternoon. The Terrace Scouts were Roy Clifford, Francis Gavin and Arne Haaland who were met here by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gavin and Mrs. J. Haaland with whom they completed the homeward journey by car last evening.

member of the Terrace trio, the most thrilling event of the trip was the March Past before the Governor General, Viscount Alexander, who was one of many distinguished visitors who appeared during the bivouac.

A tour of the city of Ottawa one of the days made a break in camp routine. Weather was warm and sunny throughout the stay at Ottawa with an exception of one dull day, somewhat like that in Prince Rupert yesterday on their return home.

"Food was fine" agreed the returning boys as they described the kitchen fatigue duties in which all shared in typical and practical camp fashion. The ceremony of the pouring

Attractive Place of Business
Is New Grocery, Confectionery

A feeling of space and lightness greets the customers as they enter Phil Lyons' recently enlarged and renovated confectionery and grocery store on Fifth Avenue and McBride Street. The store, which is now known as Lyons' Fine Foods Limited, is designed for semi-self service.

The main entrance off McBride Street is slightly recessed and flanked by two large plate glass windows. Near the door and just to the right is the cold meat cooler. To the right of this is a short serving counter and behind it is the main counter with stocked shelves in the rear. Off to the right at the south end of the store confectionaries and tobaccos have been conveniently arranged.

Occupying the 'L' space of the store and the greater part of the 1,000 square feet of floor, is the grocery section. Two large display gondolas of the latest design will permit customer to readily see and select their favorite packaged brands. The gondolas will be placed near the front of the store and arranged so that there is ample passage room around them. The inside walls of the 'L' will be lined with shelves displaying canned and packaged goods.

The entire walls and ceiling of the store are painted white and this feature, in combination with the spacious windows and fluorescent lighting, ensures a bright atmosphere at all times.

Construction work on the building, including repair of foundations, alteration and installation of windows and reconstruction of the interior was carried out by the Skeena Construction and Cabinet Company. Interior decorating was done by Fred Scadden and the electrical installations were made by Grant and Newton. Philpott, Evitt and Company Limited supplied the construction material and paints. Bogardus Wickins Limited provided the plate glass windows.

THREE ON STAFF OF NEW FIRM

Mr. Lyons will have a staff of three capable clerks to assist him in providing customers to Lyons' Fine Foods Limited with efficient service.

Mrs. Helen Astoria, who has been with the business for the past 10 years, will hold the position of assistant manager in the new firm. Helen Stokoe and Mary Driscoll will be the other clerks on the staff.

Branches Out
In Business

Phil Lyons was born and raised in Vancouver and it was in the schools of that city he received his formal education. In 1929 he came to Prince Rupert and was employed by George Bushby in his Rupert Marine Products plant near the head of the harbor. In 1935 Mr. Lyons married Miss Mary Comadina, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Comadina, pioneers of railway construction days.

For a short time Mr. Lyons was on the staff of the Bank of Commerce but during the latter part of 1930 he accepted a position with the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Company. He remained with the company until 1939 when he left to join the army after serving several years as a reservist in the 102nd Heavy Battery.

Just prior to his discharge in 1944, Mr. Lyons was officer in charge of reserve artillery training, leaving the army with the rank of Captain. Following his discharge he returned to Prince Rupert and entered into a partnership with Peter DeJong and four years later on April 8, 1948, he purchased the business from his former partner.

Being owner and active manager of his own business Mr. Lyons finds his spare time limited but, as president of the Holy Name Society and as an executive officer of the local Liberal Association and a member of the Canadian Legion, he manages to contribute to the general effort of the community.

Mr. Lyons' enlarged and renovated confectionery and grocery store will be known as Lyons' Fine Foods Limited in the future and it is his hope that, under the new management, he and his staff will be able to provide a more efficient service to customers.

Alex Haig's Eleven—Morgan; Dunbar, Eby, Cornwell, Bishop, D. Gomez, Baxter, Pavlikis, P. Wilson, Armstrong, Ward.
Jock Davidson's Eleven—Boulter, Wilson, J. Ferguson, Mazzone, Veitch, Yelland, Currie, Parkhouse, R. Smith, Sonstebly, Murray.
Alternates who will be available for either team are Kratuse, Wyatt, Bremner, F. Gomez, Lien, Greer.

Alex Haig's eleven will wear Legion colors and meet at Legion headquarters prior to the game. Jock Davidson's eleven will turn out in Battery regalia and will meet at the Armories. Alternates will be allocated at the field before the game.

CHANNELS HARNESS THE THAMES—Ontario's Thames river, a rampaging uncontrollable flood in the spring will be tamed probably by next year, when diversion channels are completed. The channels will remove the annual threat to industries located in the river area and to farms whose acres were under two or three feet of water. This straight channel at Ingersoll is six miles long. Heavy machinery, in operation day and night, may set a new Canadian excavation record there.

Tuna Prospects Dimming—Many Yachts Are Calling—Coquitlam Is Now Back

Prospects for the tuna fishery on the British Columbia coast this summer have a definite dismal aspect. So far, the season has brought forth none of the fish in commercial quantities and water temperature investigations have revealed cooler water than last year when the boats met with success off the Queen Charlottes and Vancouver Island.

Some fish are being caught off the Washington and Oregon coasts, particularly near the mouth of the Columbia River, but the run there has not been as large as was hoped for. Those who felt that last year's appearance of albacore was a phenomenon of a passing nature are becoming vocal.

Since no tuna have shown up off this coast, the matter of price is of little importance here. However, at Vancouver and Seattle, buyers are paying $350 a ton, a vast come-down under the $650, $600 and $550 which was paid in the rush a year ago. By the end of July, 1948, the tuna run off the Queen Charlottes was at its peak. It extended into the third week in August when rough weather forced the boats away from the open sea on the west coast. If anything is going to happen in the tuna industry this year, it will have to be soon.

An interesting article on the lighthouses of the British Columbia coast appears in the supplement of the Vancouver Province, of recent issue. The author is Violet Seaman.

Prince Rupert has been the calling point for a record number of yachts this summer, reminding of the carefree pre-war days. The luxury boats are of all sizes, but are mostly American. Three large ones were in port this week. However, two of the biggest and most luxurious have still to make their appearance here. They are the charter yacht, Corsair, formerly J. Pierpont Morgan's private means of marine transport, and Max Fleischman's Haida, both of which are in Alaskan waters at the present time. Although it is not necessary, it is possible that either of the vessels may stop here to clear inwards with Customs and Immigration authorities.

H.M.C.S. Ontario docked at 2 p.m. last Wednesday in Juneau for a five-day visit. The cruiser, which has a total ship's company of 550 officers and men will call at Prince Rupert August 5.

Gillnet fishermen on the Skeena and Naas had a fair week, according to reports from the fishing grounds. Average on the Naas was between 700 and 800 fish per boat for the week while on the Skeena the average for Thursday was 32 sockeye and 24 pinks which was fairly representative of daily catches for a week.

Down at Rivers Inlet, gillnetters averaged 55 fish per boat on Wednesday which is the latest report from that area. About 1,000 boats are fishing there.

At Smith's Inlet, 102 boats averaged 45 fish a day for the week. The seiners had a fair week too. In Whale Channel 50 boats averaged 650 fish each on Wednesday while in Dean Channel nine seiners averaged 800 fish on the same day. However, the week's average in Dean Channel is expected to be somewhat below that indicated by Wednesday's catch.

In Fitzhugh Sound, 25 seiners average 400 fish a day during the week.

Two coastal liners of Union Steamships Ltd. were in port late yesterday. Resuming service after having been off the run for three weeks following a stranding, the steamer Coquitlam, Capt. William McCombe, arrived in port at 1:30 yesterday afternoon and sailed at 10 p.m. for south Queen Charlotte points whence she is due back here tomorrow to sail at 10 p.m. on her return south. At 8:30 last evening the steamer Catala, Capt. Ernest Sheppard, arrived on her regular weekly run, sailing at midnight on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

With a record 304 passengers,

OXYGEN REVIVES TIRED DEER—Novel life-saving was credited with saving the life of this three-point buck after the frightened animal was chased into the ocean by dogs. Lifeguards herded the deer back to shore he was too tired after his frantic swim to even stand. Lt. Bruce Klidder, Alfred Hart and Eddie Hoffman are shown applying artificial respiration to the buck by feeding him through a rubber mask. He was then released in the good as new.

TEMPORARY PERCH FOR PERMANENT ROOST—Mrs. Jean Ellis is up in the air at Revere Beach, Mass., over lack of housing. She is pictured here on covered platform 50 feet in the air from which she has vowed she will not descend to the ground until some landlord hears of her plight and offers an apartment for her and her family at a rental figure they can afford to pay. The right offer will ground her.
