Atomic Wrath

DR. ALBERT EINSTEIN has declared that the hydrogen bomb threatens with annihilation all life upon the earth. Coming from the man who is credited with having been primarily responsible for the discovery of atomic energy, that warning is all the more authentic and serious for mankind.

There is more talk today about "security" and more schemes and efforts to achieve it than there has ever been before in the history of mankind. And yet there was never before a time when there was less security.

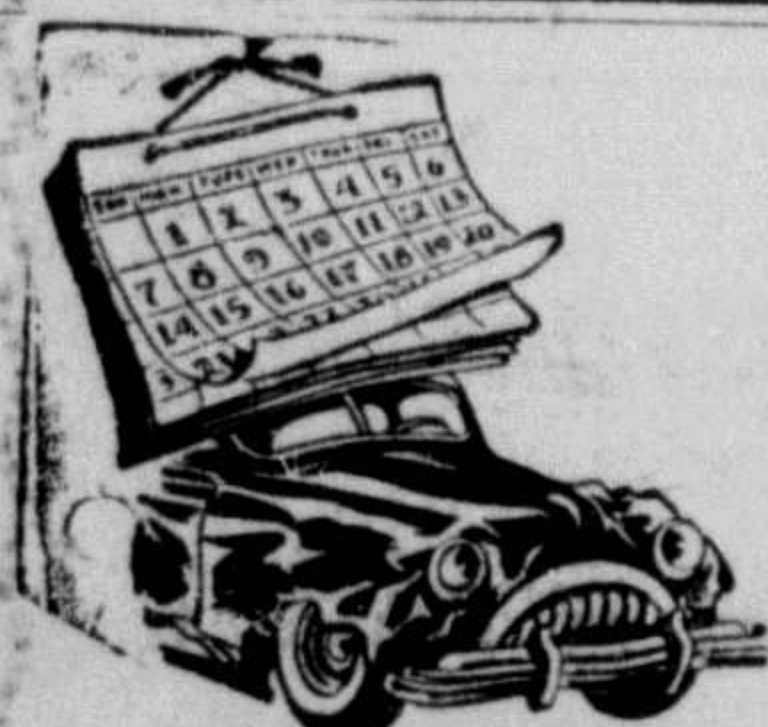

It has become a platitude to say that the only hope for the salvation of the souls of men is in the Gospel of Christ; but that is now equally true of the salvation of men's bodies and their whole material domain.

When one looks around on the world with its multimillions of human inhabitants and thinks of the infinite variety of vegetable and animal life which have taken vast ages to evolve to their present state, the idea that all these could be annihilated in an instant by a mechanical invention of man is monstrously fantastic.

John 3:1-15

"The Son of Man must be lifted up."—John 3:14.

The most wonderful thing we know about God is not His omnipotence, omniscience, or omnipresence, but that He was willing, in the Person of His Son, Jesus Christ, to undergo the infinite sacrifice of Calvary for our sins; for "when we were yet without strength, in due time, Christ died for the ungodly"; and, "God commends His love towards us in this, that while we were yet sinners, 'Christ died for us.'"

MOSES—A pictorial study by Guy Rowe, illustrator of the new book, "In Our Image," by Houston Hartie, a series of stories from the Bible. "In the third month, when the children of Israel were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the same day came they into the wilderness of Sinai... and there Israel camped before the mount. And Moses went up unto God, and the Lord Called unto him." Thereupon, the Ten Commandments were presented.

IT TOOK 58 YEARS TO WRITE THIS STORY

WHOLE BAND ENLISTS—Canadian military history was made when the Six Nations Indian Brass Band from the Six Nations Reservation near Brantford, Ont., enlisted to become the regimental band of the 56th Light Anti-Aircraft Regiment, formerly the Dufferin-Haldimand Rifles. Trumpeter Norton Lickers signs the enlistment papers to become Bandman Lickers (reserve army) while Bandmaster Dave Mitson of Dundas and Band Sergeant Walter Lickers, right, looks on. Capt. R. B. Beckett, adjutant, makes sure the documents are in order. (C.P. Photo)

Hydrogen Bomb May Not Work

LAKE SUCCESS—There is a chance of the hydrogen bomb failing to work even after a year's experimentation. There is a possibility of it being a dud. This is the view held by Dr. H. C. Wolfe, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists. Bertrand Russell, British author, says people have been talking about the expected end of the world for centuries. Life is hard to get rid of altogether.

CLAXTON RIDES JET—Defence Minister Claxton climbs out of a U.S.A.F. jet fighter-trainer after a short flight at Whitehorse, Y.T., at conclusion of Exercise Sweetbriar. The minister handed the controls briefly. His comment on landing was "you don't get the sensation of going twice as fast as ever before—it's as smooth as silk." He is met by Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, who later made his first jet flight. (CP Photo)

Indignation Over Condition of Floats—Submarine Freezing—Coddling and Flat-fishing Poor

Action of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association this week in protesting at the continued disrepair of the Cow Bay floats and insisting on early and effective repair action meets with general approval. The floats have, indeed become in a deplorable condition, involving menace not only to the many boats which use the floats but also to life and limb. In spite of newer and more modern floats, Cow Bay is still the centre of temporary mooring at Prince Rupert due to its central location. It is estimated that some 300 to 400 boats have been there this week and there will be more this week-end with the forthcoming native basketball tournament next week.
To 27 above. This, it is believed, accounted for, weeks later, dead devil fish, skate, clam, crab, cod and sole washed upon the beach. Many still remain floating in the Inlet.
Two Prince Rupert fishermen Charlie and Peter Haan, visited the Queen Charlotte point last week and were told of the incident. Natives report, "you can get wagon loads of the fish from the beach".
As a rule, said fishermen, fresh water cooling systems for engines in fishing vessels never freeze in this area. They also stated that fresh water cooling systems for engines in fishing vessels had never failed. An incident of this type is rare in this area. Hearing the statement, an imperial Oil sent a thermometer to a depth of three feet. The mercury dropped

For the past few weeks, residents of Skidegate have been in a state of disbelief. On the shores of Skidegate Inlet lay enormous amounts of dead fish. During the January cold spell in that area someone had remarked that fresh water cooling systems for engines in fishing vessels had never failed. An incident of this type is rare in this area. Hearing the statement, an imperial Oil sent a thermometer to a depth of three feet. The mercury dropped
Cesar Ritz, who left his native Swiss mountains as a boy to work in a Paris tavern and moved steadily upward in hotel business to launch the Ritz Hotel in Paris. Later he joined forces with William Harris, a London chartered accountant, to open the Ritz Hotel in London. In time a group of hotels in Europe and elsewhere were linked in a Ritz chain.
Then Robert W. Goetlet, a rich New York landowner, and an architectural firm organized a New York hotel to be built at Madison Avenue and 46th street, patterned after the Ritz hotels of Paris and London. In December, 1910, it opened its doors.
"On opening night we served an 11-course dinner," recalls Louis Diat, head chef who has been in the hotel's service since its opening. "One chef made 2,000 blinis for caviar and finally fainted at his stove."
Many others such as Charles Silvani, maitre d'hotel, and Steve Terzaho, headwaiter, served the Ritz for years and are known to hundreds of its patrons.
The aim of the Ritz was to provide food, surroundings and service which would make those who lived in magnificent houses and palaces feel at home.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

The troops returned south from Exercise Sweetbriar away up on the Alaska Yukon front, in February, and gradually are becoming thawed out. The boys have plenty to talk about. Incidentally, they pronounce it "Exercise Sweet-bh-r-r."

Kodiak also had troubles of its own last month, not unlike those that overtook Prince Rupert. The reservoir went dry when a freeze-up occurred. Murky water was pumped from a lake. Household-ers were urged not to leave faucets running and be mighty careful about fires. One blaze was fought with snowballs because of water exhaustion. It all has a familiar sound, but it must be admitted that Prince Rupert never came running with pails of snowballs.

Quite frequently, strangers coming here to live are quick to note the friendly spirit of their new neighbors. As cities go, it is rash, if not reckless to insist that this one is large, yet Prince Rupert is trying to set a good example to a world whose most difficult problem is how to be friends, one with another.

Where anyone sees one man smoking a cigar, dozens note both men and women using cigarettes, so it's scant wonder cigar manufacturers complain of a declining business. Some have suggested that the slow disappearance of the vest may help explain the situation for, without vest pockets, where can you put your smoke, or hook your thumbs. Perhaps it's somewhere there the root of the trouble can be found.

Today it is worse to seem to prosper than to be a criminal. There is no escape for the prosperous. You can find more men banished for their wealth than criminals punished for their crimes. One must apologize for any success in business. Concerning the foregoing the Financial Post says "That was not written this morning. Its author was Isocrates, the Athenian teacher who said this about 354 B. C. when Greece was sinking into the morass which led to the collapse of that civilization."

An aeroplane takes in a load of food to the three hundred residents of Aiyanih, the old native village in the Naas Valley. The long and cold winter had begun to cause shortages. Besides, the fishing season was below average. But in 1850 there were natives in Aiyanih. Perhaps also in 1750. How about table fare then?
