Defending Prince Rupert

WE HAVE NOT BEEN HOWLING calamity but we would prefer to have our readers think we have been talking insurance in certain comments we have been making in the recent water and power crisis and in advancing another suggestion that has been made.

In the water crisis, the city has been without adequate fire protection, there is no doubt. Particularly has this been so along a good deal of the waterfront although some establishments are equipped with pumping facilities which might be used in case of emergency.

While the situation appeared to be getting under control yesterday, barring some unforeseen eventuality, the power shortage did seem rather grim the last few days and, under certain circumstances, such for instance as a railway tie-up which would interrupt deliveries of coal to the dry dock steam plant, it might become critical again.

Every one, of course, hopes for an early change to more normal winter conditions in Prince Rupert to remove these water and power crises without further emergent measures. But the Weather Man is not promising much relief yet.

The new suggestion which is being advanced is that one of the Canadian naval vessels might be dispatched to this port to take up its headquarters during the water and power emergency to stand by in the event of a waterfront fire or a further deterioration in the electrical supply situation or for possible other relief purposes. The vessel, as naval vessels have done at other places under such circumstances, could be used to pump water if required or to feed electrical power into the city lines to meet a deficiency.

If an enemy nation threatened Prince Rupert or any other port with attack, the Navy would be quickly rushed to the scene to provide defence. It would seem reasonable to provide defence against calamity through circumstances other than strictly enemy attack.

And talking about possible disaster conditions, it is to be supposed that other organizations are also keeping their powder dry.

BRITISH POLITICS

REACTION FROM ONE POINT of view to the other has something typically British about it. It bespeaks the British attachment to moderation, a political factor that takes the dynamite out of many a situation that would explode in any but British hands. It is what makes Hyde Park oratory safe—the wilder the safer.

Now that Britons know they are about to be put through a political campaign culminating in general elections February 23 you can almost hear them pulling up mental drawbridges, even at this distance.

One difference between the coming election and the one that brought the Laborites to power in 1945 is that the contending parties are more nearly equal in political maturity than they were then. So their promises may sound more alike than they did then. The voter will probably find generalities to left of him as well as to right of him when the cannonading begins.

On the matter of specific promises the Laborites have noticed that parties with more experience aim not at a mandate for doing certain things. They do not ask direct permission or direct orders from the people. They aim at winning power, reserving their position to use that power as they best see fit. This is not necessarily a sign of political dishonesty. It is a device to preserve flexibility of action. The flexibility could be used for political gain, yes. But it also can be used to achieve ends dictated by the common good through wise timing and strategic selection.

The Conservatives should feel some advantage from the devaluation of the pound. This has put a heavier burden on the workers. It invoked demands for higher wages to offset the reduced purchasing power of the currency. The Conservatives will doubtless blame the Laborites for the devaluation. The Laborites have already had to bear the onus of keeping the lid on wages in the face of trades-union restlessness.

Even when faced with disappointments, one can never tell what the British will do. The British are so self-controlled.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

Prince Rupert has been hearing a lot about rationing. Rationing of food, rationing of fuel, rationing of this, that and something else. It is now come to our very door steps and isn't so good. It will be easier to have some faint notion of the other fellow's troubles, in the future.

Five hundred sacks of mail from Vancouver goes east by way of Prince Rupert. Of course this is the short route between east and west.

John Strachey, Britain's Minister of Food, must be realizing a general election is on. He announces substantial increases in bacon and candy rations. For it must be admitted that today, after any old time, the way to the heart of the average man, and this embraces the electorate, is through the stomach.

The feel of good earth, concrete, wood or masonry beneath one's cautious feet should awaken gratitude—anything save fresh snow with smooth ice underneath or slippery hummocks. On the verge of a hard fall its enough to make one catch his breath—and scores are becoming experts in remaining erect.

Even with conservation of power and water, Prince Rupert, compared with what happened elsewhere, has been fortunate. Except an unusually lengthy cold snap, and its effect on utilities, there has been little (if that much) to cause anything approaching hardship. No floods. No succession of blinding snowstorms, no suspension of vehicular traffic, no stoppage of train service for days on end and no fatalities due to stress of weather. Taking it all around, Allah has been good to this part of the north.

The Medical Health Officer advises the boiling of drinking water, during the present power crisis in Prince Rupert. To do so, is no trouble, and even if it were would be well worth while. Health comes first.

Still Walking After Long Hike

John Kristovich, hardy Ketchikan trapper, who drifted across Dixon Entrance from Portland Inlet to the northwest corner of Graham Island in a broken down trolling boat and then hiked for fifty miles around Naden Harbor to Massett Inlet, has not had enough walking. He was "out for a walk" when Canadian immigration authorities tried to contact him by long distance telephone.

The immigration people are in touch with the United States Coastguard at Ketchikan and two of Kristovich's brothers, James and Thomas, were considering coming to Massett to help John repair his stranded boat. But what seemed more likely is that the Coastguard would come down to Massett and take John back to Ketchikan.

VETERANS MINISTER—Canada's minister of veterans' affairs, Milton Gregg, knows well the veterans' problems and interests. He won the Victoria Cross and the Military Cross during the First World War and was sergeant-at-arms in the House of Commons from 1934 to 1939. Mr. Gregg, born at Mountain Dale, N.B., in 1892, also is a noted educationist. He was elected to the Commons at a by-election in 1947 and was minister of fisheries before taking over his present position. (C.P. Photo)

Letters to the Editor

POWER SITUATION

Editor, Daily News:

The Northern B. C. Power Company has asked the citizens of Prince Rupert to conserve power to the extent of 40% and the Daily News concurs with an editorial. Both the notice and the editorial accuse the people of non-co-operation with the Power Company administering practically a verbal spanking to the citizens. Have either of these parties paused to reflect on the indiscretion of this move? Last year the same situation arose and the Power Company was contemplating a conservation measure. Luckily the elements intervened and the situation was relieved.

What action did the Power Company, who have a franchise to deliver power to this community take, to see that this necessity did not arise again?—NONE.

Today they are not requesting but arbitrarily enforcing on all the people of this community, a conservation measure that could have been averted if they had been willing to put some of their money into raising the dam at Falls River.

The small business man such as myself who lives on his ability to produce is not only deprived of his ability to pay his power bill but the legitimate profit he derives from the use of the power the Power Company is obliged, through their franchise, to produce for his needs. I grant when the power is off so is his bill but so is his ability to earn a living and this is curtailed through the reluctance of the vested interest to advance any more capital, even though the situation clearly shows that such an investment is required.

The Power Company is asking for a new rate structure and a renewal of their franchise. It is for the people of this community to ponder whether the company complied with its bargain and whether they should put up with cuts in their comfort and earning capacity? Instead of telling the people that they have not co-operated with the Power Company, the officials of that Company should offer their apologies to the citizens for their own (the Company's) lack of foresight and enterprise when affecting a cut in power deliveries.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor,
DISGUSTED.

IF BABY IS CROSS FIND OUT WHY

HEALTHY BABIES are not cross. Your baby should not be cross. If he is, then something in his little system is "out of order." Probably Baby's Own Tablets can promptly "put it right." Mrs. H. — of Fernie Falls, had the experience. She writes: "My little girl was irritable, feverish and sometimes sick at her stomach — what a relief it was, after giving her Baby's Own Tablets, to see how much better she was."

Sweet-tasting — easily crushed to a powder, if desired. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Promptly effective in simple fevers, constipation, teething troubles, upset stomach and other minor ills.

Never be without a full box of Baby's Own Tablets. Sickens so often strikes in the night. 29 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

PRINCE RUPERT TAKING IT
ed dwellers who have no light from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m.
Hardware dealers report a run on portable gas heaters. Coal oil lamps and candles are at a premium and some stores have none.
Restaurants, taverns, moving picture theatre and bowling alleys are posed with no problem since the principal business section of the city has light from 11:30 in the evening.

Some stores have been somewhat irked by the 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. cut-off and others by being off also from 1 to 4 p.m. However, coal oil, gas and storage battery lamps have been pressed into service. Lack of customers seems to be more of a difficulty than being able to take care of them. Prince Rupert shoppers seem to be just staying home. No merchant has yet seized on the idea of capitalizing his lit up hours to stage a good big sale. That would draw the women.

Industrially, it is the quiet season in Prince Rupert and weather had slowed things down anyway so there is no great loss in industrial payroll. Generally speaking, it is a case of making the best of the hours allowed and keeping the staffs on the job.
Construction work at Watson Island, nine miles away, where Columbia Cellulose Co. is building a $35,000,000 pulp mill, has been curtailed for some time on account of the cold weather.
Pouring concrete in freezing weather is impracticable. This is making it impossible to employ a full crew of men. Cutting down of the light supply is causing some inconvenience in the camp.
Schools are running almost normally. Generally speaking, the schools have enough daylight to be able to carry on even though lights are off. One school is closed because of inadequate heating.

TIMBER SALE — 18874 SEATED TENDERS will be received by the District Forester, Prince Rupert, B. C. not later than noon on the 23rd day of February, 1950, for the purchase of Licence X-48874 near Takush Bay, Smiths Inlet, to cut 1,046,000 feet of Cedar, Hemlock, Balsam and Other Species of Sawlogs. Two (2) years will be allowed for removal of timber. Further particulars of the Chief Forester, Victoria, B. C. or the District Forester Prince Rupert, B. C. (11)

2 H.P. Engine For Telephones
A two horsepower engine is supplying sufficient power to operate the telephone system and emergency switchboard lights during the electricity curtailment, Jack Edwards, superintendent of telephones, stated this morning.
The small engine, coupled to a spare generator, was hastily connected to the telephone batteries and the engine's surge of power was underway just in time to supply electricity during the three hour curtailment period. The small power plant is situated at the back of the City Hall and will be watched by Mr. Edwards during curtailment hours so that any difficulty will be promptly attended to.
No long distance calls to Vancouver are possible at the present time until the Northern B.C. Power Co. can cut the transmitter into the Shawatians line. This is expected to be completed by today. The land line to Terrace, Prince George and Hazelton are in working condition.
City Council Monday night granted Superintendent of Telephones Jack Edwards the power to purchase a two horsepower gasoline engine.
"Due to the emergency, we should purchase a small air cooled engine that could be wired in next week," Mr. Edwards said, "and keep the telephone system working."
Price quoted by Mr. Edwards was approximately $100 for the engine and $25 installing costs.

High Prices For Firemen
Manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, R. G. Hopkins, expressed his gratitude to the city fire department in a letter read to members of city council Monday night. The text of the letter addressed to Mayor G. W. Ruderman was:
"In connection with the fire which destroyed the Moose Lodge Building on Second Avenue early this morning, we would like to draw to the attention of yourself and the city council that we consider the work performed by the Fire Department in saving the adjacent buildings in the block, including our own, was quite remarkable and they deserve the highest praise. The efforts of the department were all the more remarkable because they worked under a handicap of low water pressure and frozen hydrants."

SHIPS and WATERFRONT

Due to requirements for boat unloading and trains service, the waterfront circuit will be on power was turned on at 11:30 certain days. For example the power was turned on at 11:30 a.m. yesterday in order that the steamer Prince George could be unloaded. Regular curfewment effects the waterfront between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. To compensate for this extra usage of electricity, curfewment will be extended at some time during the day for two hour intervals when least inconvenience will be caused.

CONSISTENCY

(By I. Grumble)

Some folks just can't make up their mind
They change it several times a day,
But I'm consistent, all the time
I grumble.

Of tonics I have quite a few
The weather is a favorite one
So rain or shine just listen to
My grumble.

At times the rain just gets me down,
Gum boots, umbrella, slicker hat,
I don them all and as I frown
I grumble.

At other times the weather's dry,
Water and power both are low,
And so to bed I simply hie,
And grumble.

Or comes the frost; the ice is fine,
But I don't skate, or ski or sleigh;
My pipes freeze up and so I whine
And grumble.

Down falls the snow; the kids are glad,
Snowmen spring up, so big and fat—
But snowballs fly, the walking's bad,
I grumble.

Now as I walk about the town
Bad roads and sidewalks bother me,
And as I climb, up hills, then down,
I grumble.

And then the city engineer
Improves the roads. What's all this mess?
The streets are up! Well, have no fear,
I'll grumble.

I like the best, and no delays.
New roads, new schools, new telephones,
But if the city rates they raise—
I'll grumble.

You see I am consistent, though—
"What's that about the after life?"
In heaven above, or... well below—
I'll grumble.

score at that time showing Morgan leading 103 to 36. In the second half of the game Stewart gradually gained supremacy, finally winning 200 to 165. During the match Stewart made breaks of 24 and 25 while his opponent several times got into double figures which did not entitle recording in the "break book."

Besides winning the prize for the tournament, Don also carries off the prize for the highest break during the tournament
