Western Powers Give Trieste To Italy

Important Announcement Policy By Bidault

IN (CP)—The United States, Great Britain have decided that Trieste must be returned to Italy. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault of France announced today.

The area is disputed between Italy and Yugoslavia. Bidault said western powers feel it must go to Italy in order to preserve peace between neighboring countries.

Revision of the Italian peace treaty would be necessary to end Trieste's status as a free territory.

Bidault made the announcement in a speech here following signing of a customs union agreement between France and Italy.

—Although Attorney General Tom Clark of the U.S. yesterday ordered him by immigration authorities to leave Canada, Madame Irene Joliot-Curie had been detained following her arrival from France, a official expressed alarm over communist sympathies among woman physicists Frederic Joliot-Curie, expert.

Madame Joliot-Curie, chairman of France's national defence committee, said she was "exempted over the fact that atomic research is being conducted by M. Joliot-Curie who has communist sympathies."

Action On Road

A YEAR AGO about this time and on occasions since, we have urged the provincial department of public works to adopt a policy of regular snow clearing that would keep the Skeena River Highway between Prince Rupert and Terrace open throughout the winter. It was thought that the snowslide diversion at Kwinitsa was put in as a measure to assist in keeping the road open but, instead of that, the department threw up its hands when the snow became three or four feet deep between Kwinitsa and Shames and did not try any more. In the meantime the railway came along and threw more snow off the track on to the road and then the whole mess froze with the result that now little short of ice-breaking methods are needed to clear it out.

Notwithstanding statements and suggestions, even in the Daily News, that the road might be opened within a week or so, it appears doubtful if it will be clear in much less than a month unless there should be a very sudden thaw or break-up which itself might complicate the situation in other ways.

Possibly there is nothing much that can be done about it this spring except hope for the best. It might be a good time, though, when the motorists are anxious to get on the road and are in somewhat of an indignant mood about the prospect of further delay in being able to start driving to Terrace and elsewhere in the interior, to vigorously register our feelings with the authorities in charge, with the hope of having the matter rectified. There would appear to be no good reason why necessary action—be it in the way of adequate machinery, personnel or anything else—cannot be obtained so that a situation such as existed during the last three springs may be permanently obviated in future. They blamed it a year ago on the Kwinitsa snowslide. That has been bypassed. This time it is the lack of suitable equipment. So let's get that attended to now.

And, after all, Prince Rupert people feel they are entitled not only to an early opening of the road but to an all-winter highway.

H.M.C.S. CHATHAM

H.M.C.S. CHATHAM, Prince Rupert's peace-time naval reserve division, successor to the wartime shore ship which was an important integer of the organization of the Battle of the Pacific, is "at home" this afternoon, showing its wares and extending its hospitality to the Public of Prince Rupert. The hope of Chatham and its officers and men is to win a stronger measure of goodwill, interest and support and it is to be hoped there will be gratifying response.

It is well and fitting that there should be a strong and active naval reserve unit in Prince Rupert. The men comprising its strength receive good, healthful and useful training with a large measure of interest and pleasure thrown in. They also do a duty to their country by being fit and ready to defend themselves and their homes should the necessity arise.

Founded on the tradition of the old Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve which for so many years was an honored institution in Prince Rupert and whose men acquitted themselves with glory and credit during World War II, H.M.C.S. Chatham has something indeed to live up to and we extend to it every good wish, bespeaking for it an appreciative and active interest on the part of the public.

TIE WITH CROWN

PRINCESS ELIZABETH, in a personal note, courteously acknowledges her gratitude to the Indians of Hartley Bay for their wedding gift of two hand-made golden bracelets. History has revealed that in her dealings with the original inhabitants of other lands, Britain appears to have been gifted. An incident like this cannot but be one of many reasons why the tie between the Crown, and others, no matter how distant, or obscure, endures.

IT'S 'OK'

IT'S "OK" THIS and "OK" that! How this precious pair of uninvited Mutts and Jeffs ever managed to become incorporated into the language has not yet been made clear. But "OK" serves and, with no indication of waning popularity. "OK" signifies approval, sanction. It's another way of saying "yes." It saves time, and leaves no room for doubt or misunderstanding. "OK" is smart and seemly—clean cut, precise and in keeping with the spirit of the times. Let "OK" stay!

LETTERBOX

WORLD PEACE ANSWER

Editor, Daily News:
I believe that world peace can only be attained through intellectual relativity for a unified Continental America linking Mexico, United States and Canada on a common ground of understanding.

It should be recognized that we must strive for one world. We must commune together on a common ground of intellectual understanding with all three fronts—Canada, U.S. and Mexico forming the nucleus for a unified Continental America.

The hope of future peace lies in our youth. By merging of individual vibrations or faculties, we will eventually implement a common intellectual brotherhood forming a unified Mental Giant.

This power would stand to serve notice on opposing factions that America is a force to be reckoned with. It would also serve to reconvert other nations. Relatively, they would have to meet this intellectual power on a common basis; thus by setting an example we could secure peace without war by standing as the most powerful intellectual force on the face of the earth.

Through exemplifying within Continental America the continental brotherhood we would need no other propagating of propaganda, automatically banishing all other issues.

If Mr. Churchill can advocate common citizenship for Europe would it not be more essential as a Canadian, that I should advocate common citizenship for Continental America?

HIRAM ROTHWELL

LIFE in this Prince Rupert

by BIDDEE JINKS

It was the morning before the weather man pulled one of his March surprises. The sun came up early, chasing the heavy dew into atmosphere in nothing flat. Children sauntered lazily to school, some in knee socks and with bright, bare heads, but hugging warm jackets against a persistent chilliness.

A blue-jay called raucously down from a high perch, casting a strident sound into the chorus of smaller, sweeter birds. And I hung blankets and woolen comforters, steaming and fluffy, onto the line stretching from the back door to away out yonder.

There is nothing that makes a woman feel better than getting her bedding washed in early spring. Donning a new hat isn't in it. Something joyful gets into every phase. Making the bubbling suds are just luke-warm, giving that final shake and pat after they are on the line, watching them swish back and forth until you gather them in, dry and fragrant.

It was a glowing day, from high, blue heaven to the tiny nooks of house-wifely pride. Without rhapsody I thought: "In such a world, how could there be the threat of war?" It came unannounced, a dark shaft into utter brightness.

I knew then, admittedly or not, whether the day be lit with the gladness of our own personal worlds, that the thought of war lurks just beyond any narrow ridge.

It is not fear. And it did not rise with Dorothy Thompson's 90-day edict. Far from that, her assertion—even if she knew for sure—held a hint of throwing an unfair time-bomb at her reading public. If it were true, what to do? If it erred altogether, why stimulate the thought and talk of war?

Many people neither went into panic after they read it or discarded it for hokum (as Jack Scott did with humorous disdain). Instead, they put it on a shelf where they could regard it sanely now and then, consider it curiously in the light of day by day world affairs. Meantime, they went on living.

CHURCH

SATURDAY SERMON

OUR SALVATION

By Rev. Earl Solland, Pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church

Behold thy salvation cometh; behold, his reward is with him, and his recompence before him.—Isaiah 62:11

God frequently reminded the people of Israel that there would be a Saviour who would redeem them from the bondage of sin. In order that they might understand that sin was exceedingly evil, God let them taste the consequences of their evil deeds. When they suffered and cried out for help, he made promise of a mighty deliverer. Though they were often reminded that sin brought untold misery, they frequently disregarded the advice of the prophets of God. Isaiah warned them but to little avail. They chose their own way, a path that led away from God and so there was destruction as its result.

If we stop for a moment and think of what a promise like the verse from Isaiah 62:11 means, then we can see a little of the wonderful love that God sends toward us. While we were yet His enemies, Christ died for us. Though we may turn from God, He seeks after us. While we wander on paths of our own choosing, there is a constant desire on the part of God to draw us back again so that we might have true fellowship with Him.

This way of return to God is our salvation. It is provided for us in Jesus Christ, God's Son, our Saviour. He it was who has been made our substitute, so that He bore our sins in His own body on the cross, so that we might have the right to see God. Of course, there are some who don't bother themselves with this wonderful opportunity to receive the forgiveness of sin. Others by carelessness pass this by. But those who listen to the voice of God and receive Jesus Christ into their heart will find that He has His reward with Him which is eternal life.

BRIDGE PLAYERS DISCUSS BIDDING

A discussion on the fine points of bidding took place during the lunch intermission at the bi-weekly adults' bridge party held in the ladies' lounge of the Civic Centre last night. There were six tables in play and the function was under direction of Garnet Hull. Winners were Miss Mary Astoria and Eric Trimble.

The next of the bridge parties, to be held in two weeks, will be the last of the season.

DON SCHERK, WHO LED JUNIORS, TOPS INTERMEDIATE SCORERS

Don Scherk of Bo-Me-Hi duplicated his 1946-47 performance and copped his second scoring title in two years by scoring 143 points to pace the Intermediate Basketball League during the past season. The Bo-Me-Hi forward earned his leadership by a 13-point margin over his teammate Doug Shier. He also scored the most field goals, 63.

Doug Shier led all the way in free throws and attempts. He scored 28 out of 60. Ole Slatta of Fashion Footwear had the best free throw percentage by scoring 20 out of 38 for 53 percent. Sid Scherk, Merchants centre, was the league leader in personal fouls with 52, followed by Harry Menzies, Fashion Footwear forward, with 51.

Game records show Port Edward scoring 56 points which was high for a single game. Bo-Me-Hi and Morgan's combined for 83 points, tops for a single game. Arthur Gurney of Port Edward scored the most points in a game, 25, and the most field goals, 12. Slatta of Fashion made the most free throws in one game, 7 out of 8. Merchants committed the most fouls in a game, 24. Fashion Footwear and Port Edward made the most fouls in a game, 38.

Three players scored 20 points in a game. Bo-Me-Hi's Jim Flaten scored 20 points early in the season. Slatta scored 20 for Fashion and Arthur Gurney scored 25 for Port Edward.

Bo-Me-Hi played their season through undefeated which will be a record hard to beat in future years. Morgan's had a streak of 11 games.

SHORT SPORT

Do you know how to watch a hockey game? Chances are you don't. Just read what Tony Allan of the Winnipeg Tribune says: "Look around sometime when the rink is about half-full.

Most of the crowd will be grouped 'front and centre' while only a discerning few will be sitting where they get a proper perspective. Lots of people, who have been going to hockey games for years, still have the idea that a good seat is one at centre ice—where nothing of importance takes place—but they can't see what happens around the net, and they watch every scoring play from behind.

In the days of the three-man rush, there was something to see at centre ice, Allan claimed. But those days are gone forever. With the present vogue for pressure hockey, the game is played almost entirely inside the bluelines. One team shoots the puck into the corner, then attempts to bottle up its opponents behind the blue line. Any mid-ice skirmishes is purely coincidental.

Accordingly, the regulars who turn up for every game no matter what teams are playing, the scouts and any idle hockey players in the house—you'll find most of them squatting behind the screens at either end. They like to see the plays coming at them and to get a close-up of those goal-mouth scrambles.

Then, Allan said, there is another school which prefers the corners—and either blue line is a pretty fair vantage point. They get an angle shot of the plays coming towards them, and a first-class view of what happens in the corners or directly in front of the net. Of course, Allan admits that when you're sitting behind the screen, or in one of the corners, there'll be the odd game in which all the goals are scored at the far end. But, he said, over a season's play you'll get your fair share of action.

Rupert Girl Is Charming Bride Styles of Spring Are Intriguing

Spring Ascendant As Wallace's and Brownwoods Stage Display For Rebekah Lodge

One of the season's prettiest weddings was solemnized on Thursday evening in First Presbyterian Church when Miss Mary Green (Mollie) Frew became the bride of Eric H. Tycho Rev. Allan M. McColl conducted the service which was performed before the altar bedecked for the occasion with baskets of spring flowers.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, to the strains of the wedding march. She was a picture of loveliness in a wedding ensemble of delicate shell pink. Instead of the customary white wedding gown the bride chose shell pink net over dainty lace of the same color and, from the slender waistline, the dress reached almost to the floor in billowy fullness. Her veil, the same shade of pink, was attached to the hair in a petalled halo. She carried a shower bouquet of snap-dragons, lily-of-the-valley and heather.

Mrs. N. I. Tycho, sister-in-law of the groom, was the lovely matron of honor in a gown of white sheer with pink velvet flower at waistline and matching flowers in the hair. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and blue iris.

Graceful and competent models displayed with charm and poise a wide variety of sportswear, casuals, dresses, suits and ensembles designed for every occasion by Canada's leading costumers.

What the well turned out children will wear this spring was also exemplified as a curtain-raising feature which was quite as delightful and interesting as any of the other sequences in an eye-filling entertainment.

Crowning event of the evening was the lovely wedding group finale which was presented with realistic finish, making a sparkling denouement for the whole show.

During the signing of the register Miss Joanne Langridge charmed the guests as she sang

A lad applied for a job at a drug store. His interviewer began to fill in the form.

"Your name?"

"Henry Ford," answered the boy.

"That's a pretty well-known name, isn't it?"

"It ought to be," said the boy. "I've been delivering groceries around this neighborhood for two years."

The manager heard that the $36-a-week clerk had a car and asked him how he could afford it with four children.

"Oh, that's easy," said the clerk. "There are 500 of us employed at this factory. I raffle my wages every week at four bits a chance."

RUPERT GIRL IS BRIDE

"When Song is Sweet," accompanied by Mrs. E. J. Smith at the organ.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held in the Oddfellows' Hall. Guests were received by the bride's mother, lovely in a gown of grey silk figured in red with grey accessories and corsage of red carnations, and the groom's mother, Mrs. G. H. Tycho of Smithers, who chose a gown of green with trim of gold and with which she wore brown accessories and corsage of yellow carnations.

The bridal couple received the congratulations of their many friends as they stood beneath a white wedding bell in an arch of pink and white, on either side of which stood baskets of spring flowers.

J. S. Irvine proposed the toast to the bride which was suitably responded to by the groom. Jack Frew proposed the toast to the matron of honor to which the groomsman responded.

Dainty refreshments were served from two tables at each end of the hall. The tables were covered in lace tablecloths with flowers and tall pink tapers. On one table stood a beautiful three-tier wedding cake which was duly cut by the bride and groom and then cut for serving by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Reid, and Mrs. Tycho, the groom's mother.

Mrs. J. S. Irvine, Mrs. G. W. Abbott, Mrs. S. D. Macdonald and Mrs. P. Wikdal poured while those serving were Mrs. Alex Mitchell, Mrs. Tommy Fraser, Mrs. J. M. Irvine, Mrs. R. G. Irvine, and the Misses Evelyn Macdonald, Dorothy Macdonald, Dorothy McLeod, Marie Boulter, Donna McEwen and Beverly Nelson.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. O. T. Sundal of Terrace and Mrs. J. Hansen and Mrs. C. Dahlie of Smithers.

Telegrams of congratulation were read from friends and relatives in Vancouver, Klemto, Montreal, Kelowna, Kamloops and Scotland.

Following the serving of refreshments dancing was enjoyed with Andy McNaughton at the piano and later in the evening many friends gathered on the dock as the happy couple left on the Prince Rupert for a honeymoon in southern cities.

The bride chose as her going-away costume a three-piece tailored grey suit with hat to match and black accessories and she wore a corsage of American Beauty roses. Miss Mickie Murray caught the bride's bouquet.

Following their honeymoon the couple will reside in Kamloops where the groom is at present with the Canadian National Telegraphs there. It is expected they will return to the city some time in the fall.

Many beautiful wedding gifts testified to the popularity of the young couple. The bride was born in Prince Rupert and the groom until a few months ago was in the employ of the Canadian National Telegraphs here.

This man had the habit of coming home three or four times a week three sheets to the wind, so his wife determined to teach him a lesson. With the aid of her feet and a floor lamp she made a fair imitation of a ghost and then went in and shook her husband.

"Wash this?" he murmured softly.

"This is the devil," was the answer.

"Shake old horsh," he said. "I married your sister."

Oolichan Run Under Way—Waterfront Beginning to Liven Up—Beam Trawlers Active

The oolichan run on the Naas River got under way this week but no complete reports of its size have reached the city. Apparently, it is not exceptionally large. However, hundreds of natives are at Fishery Bay on the northern river for their annual harvest of the small fish which provide both a food staple and a delicacy for a large part of the Indian population. Small quantities have reached the city as more are expected as the boats come in for supplies. At present, the huge boiling pots are rendering the oil from tons of the fish. The natives use the resulting grease in a manner similar to the way white people use butter.

Herring are reported to be spawning in the Big Bay area, north of Prince Rupert. Herring eggs, drifting on the tide, are whitening the shore line, indicative of a productive year. This season's herring catch, during January and February, was one of the heaviest in recent years in northern waters.

The six-member organizations of the Co-operative Federation have approved in principle a move to amalgamate into one operating organization.

Incidentally, the Federation made a firm denial of reports that it had been barred from membership in the Fisheries Council because it was a communist-dominated organization. On the contrary, it says, the Fisheries Council has sought to have representation from the Federation ever since the formation of the council two years ago.

A statement by A. V. Hill, director of member relations for the Federation, says that while some groups might be willing to employ the "Red-bogey technique" to damage the co-ops, "they can hardly believe that a responsible body such as the Fisheries Council of Canada has permitted the release of such false statements.

Reports that all members of the Co-operative are also members of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union were termed ridiculous. Mr. Hill's statement said. The U.F.A.W.U., also accused of communist domination, is a separate organization which negotiates wage agreements with the Co-operative just as it does with private companies.

While co-operative principles permit discrimination against race, creed or politics, probably not more than 10 to 15 percent of the members of the fishing co-operatives are also members of the U.F.A.W.U., Mr. Hill said.

Estimates of the public works department which have been tabled in the House of Commons at Ottawa include an item of $70,000 for completion of the new fishermen's floats at Fairview Bay at the west end of the Prince Rupert waterfront. The completion project includes a level crossing of the railroad track connecting up with the city road and a breakwater beyond the west end of the new floats.
