A lawyer, Joseph Cohen, said the action arose from a dispute over ownership of the air craft. Vinson, he said, was acting on instructions from his company — Ocean Air Trade Ways — which had leased the plane to Curtiss Reid Flying Service Ltd.

The defence chose trial by jury. Preliminary hearing was set for June 6.

Manitobans Assess Their Losses As Sun Dries Homes

MANITOBA (CP) — Soggy Manitoba dried Sunday under a blazed Western sun. The continued its headlong drop. The twin cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface drowsed through a warm, Sunday. A light breeze lifted dust on Portage. The vast flood of 1950 was fast becoming a normal peril to those not affected by the greatest flood to hit Manitoba since it became a province in 1870. The newly created Manitoba rehabilitation authority appeared to swing into action thousands, forced from their homes by the dirty water, spent the day assessing their losses.

Pilot Held On Damage Charge

MONTREAL (CP) — An American pilot was charged today with damaging an airplane just before it was to take off for Rome with 52 passengers on a Holy Year trip.

The pilot, James Vinson, 29, whose address was given as Florida, was accused of releasing the air brake pressure on the plane. The defect was discovered in a routine check before the plane took to the air.

International Spy Hunt May Be Any Time Now

OTTAWA (CP) — Indications today are that Canada is engaged with Britain and the United States in an anti-espionage drive whose pace has not been matched since the celebrated spy trials of 1946. There are signs that it may blow open at any time. But it is all submerged and curtailed off. No one in Ottawa was talking.

Indication is a London report that one Canadian among those swept up in a recent nation swoop on an atomic spy network.

The Land of Pakistan

"WHAT is Pakistan?" This question is being asked more and more frequently, as one of the world's youngest nations plays a steadily greater role in international affairs. The visit this month of its Prime Minister, Liaquat Ali Khan, to the United States and Canada, has underlined the question for North Americans.

Canada has a special interest, not only because Pakistan is a sister Dominion within the Commonwealth, but for at least two other important considerations: (1) the excellent possibilities for development of profitable trade relations; and (2) the firm assurance from its leaders that Pakistan will stand with the free nations in the struggle for world peace.

Geographically, Pakistan is unique as a nation. It consists of two distinct physical units, separated by 1,000 miles of foreign territory. The two units, West and East Pakistan, are situated respectively north-west and north-east of the Republic of Bharat (India). Karachi, the modern capital and main port, is in West Pakistan.

West Pakistan, with its 307,000 square miles, is nearly as large as Saskatchewan, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia combined. East Pakistan's 54,000-odd square miles top the total area of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Most of the new nation's people, however, are located in the smaller segment of the Dominion. East Pakistan contains more than 45,000,000 of the country's total population of some 77,000,000.

With respect to its political birth, Pakistan is unique. It is a nation which was deliberately created not on a racial, linguistic or economic basis, but on that of religious unity. It is the world's dominant Moslem state.

Economically, Pakistan is essentially agricultural. Its largely agrarian population produces plenty of raw materials. The trouble is, however, there is little industry yet to turn these raw materials into consumer goods.

Pakistan today, with a good balance of foreign trade, wants to change this picture in order to raise the standard of living of its people. To this end, Pakistani leaders realize they must (1) import more machinery, steel, coal, oil and fewer manufactured goods; (2) with these capital goods build up an indigenous industry; and (3) export the products of this industry after meeting domestic needs, and cease to export raw materials except when surplus to the needs of its own factories.

Agriculture, for the immediate future, remains the new nation's mainstay. The government attaches the greatest importance to its 26 agricultural development schemes, covering such fields as research, marketing, forestry, animal husbandry and technical training, all to be completed by 1953.

Some day Pakistan hopes to export—instead of raw jute—twine, yarn, rugs, tarpaulins, upholstery and the countless other articles which can be made from jute. For the Pakistanis this would mean increased employment, higher wages and better living.

Historically, the new nation dates its record from 712 A.D., when Arabs, led by Mohammed Bin Qasim, settled in Sind, a province of what is now West Pakistan. About 200 years later, large numbers of Moslems poured into the country through the Khyber Pass.

These new settlers, Turks, Afghans, Persians and Turkomans, brought them the faith of Islam, a religion closely akin in its basic tenets to Judaism and Christianity. Except for the extreme south, most of the Indian sub-continent came under Moslem government and until the middle of the 18th century was ruled by the Sultans and Emperors of Delhi, now the capital of independent India.

Clashes between Moslem and Hindu, out of which grew division of the sub-continent into two independent dominions drawn on religious lines, persisted for centuries. Many attempts aimed at a synthesis of the Moslem and Hindu faiths proved unsuccessful.

Establishment of an independent Pakistan and an independent India was to the Moslem minority the only logical answer.

As I See It

By ELMORE PHILPOTT
One-Wing Bluebird?

THE FIRST COAST-to-coast campaign staged by the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society ran into bad luck. It was temporarily overwhelmed in the public mind by the Manitoba floods.

It was in Vancouver that the first little Bluebird cars appeared on the streets, driven by the bright young physio-therapists who take the treatment to curtail crippling right into the homes of the sufferers from arthritis.

Vancouver needs $50,000 to carry on this work next year. But up till now only $21,000 has been collected. Even with the dollar-for-dollar matching grants made by the government, this could mean a drastic cut back in the work of the society. It would be a shame if this had to happen.

NO CANVASSER WILL CALL on you for a donation to C.A.R.S. If you think the work of the society is worth supporting put your contribution in an envelope today and send it to Mary Pack, Executive Secretary, C.A.R.S., 997 West Broadway, Vancouver. Or if you live east of the Rockies and don't know the address of your provincial C.A.R.S. simply send it to Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, Ottawa.

WE HAVE ALL HEARD OF the famous fireman's holiday. But do you know how some Vancouver policemen spend their one day per week off? They drive the Bluebird ambulance which takes the bed-ridden patients to the arthritis clinics at the Vancouver General or St. Paul's.

Also, here is one of the nicest things I ever heard. Two of the best hairdressers in Vancouver give some of their free time each week to provide hair-dos for women patients in Veteran's hospital, and for girls bedridden

Famous Quints Are 16 Years Old

CALLANDER, Ont. — The Dionne quintuplets, 16 Sunday, aren't interested in boys — so their dad says, anyway. As far as he's concerned, that's as it should be.

"Some people think I should give the girls more freedom," Oliva Dionne said in an interview, "but I feel it is my duty to keep a close check on them, and I intend to do so, until they have finished school at least." That means not for a couple of years. The quintuplets are in grade 10 and shooting for high school education.

Each of the girls received a birthstone ring as a family gift. Now that they are 16 years old, Papa Dionne is teaching them to drive a car.

David McCullough returned to the city on the Coquitlam yesterday afternoon from a holiday trip to Vancouver.

or homebound with rheumatism. ALMOST EVERY DAY COMES word of new hope for sufferers from rheumatism. All the world has heard of Cortisone, ACTH. I wrote last summer of remarkable improvements secured by new treatment in Europe.

The Chemical and Engineering News for January 2, 1950, tells of hopeful results obtained by use of glucuronic acid.

Artisone is a new steroid hormone, derived from vegetable sources in Mexico. Reputable scientists claim to have achieved benefit in checking acute rheumatic cases with this substance.

But most of the interest in recent months has centred around a treatment developed in Sweden. This combines injections of Percorten with almost-simultaneous injections of vitamin C.

Percorten is a hormone secreted by the adrenal glands. It can be produced for a small fraction of the present cost of Cortisone or ACTH.

THE POINT IS THAT NO matter how many or how miraculous the remedies discovered for arthritis, Canada will require the machine we already have set up in C.A.R.S.

Indeed only by extension of such machinery will we be able to make full use of the knowledge and remedies we have.

Ray Reflects and Reminisces

What's the weight of that monster halibut we're all guessing at? Some dark night, out in the harbor catch another, the bigger the better. And it would be a simple matter to reckon from there.

Of course, being a beaver, he knew how to use his head. This one, swept into Winnipeg by the flood, found he had to find a new home and dug in, under the residence of Arnold Davey, chief game guardian of the Manitoba Dept. of Game and Fisheries. Not minding water in the least, he fashioned himself a cozy retreat. Even Mr. Davey could not say that much.

The printing of menus appears to be a favourite space-filler with many a newspaper: and this gives opportunity to ask questions. Why should stewed prunes be at the head of so many breakfasts? Far be it from us to slight or debase the gentle and nutritious prune. It's an old, old friend. But, for Pete's sake, why this hopeless lack of vision? Why not a change of name or something. Stewed prunes! Alas. Why not call it prunella, and throw in a shot of lemon. It would at least be a refreshing touch of novelty.

Twenty pounds of chlorine are being mixed with every million gallons of Winnipeg's drinking water. But that unhappy city has a real reason.

"Children now love luxury. They have bad manners and show contempt for authority.

They show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter a room. They contradict their parents, gobble and tyrannize over their teachers." Sounds modern, but was really spoken by Socrates two thousand years ago.

British Columbia's Sons of Freedom question, aired in the Federal parliament recently, recalled an incident there in 1928. Then all three major parties were led by bachelors. Mackenzie King was Prime Minister, and R. B. Bennett and Robt. Gardiner headed the official Opposition and Progressives. One day a serious speaker asked King what he would do if, some morning, he stepped into his garden to find there six naked women. King, promptly and with unsmiling face, said he would at once send for his honorable friends, the leaders of the Opposition and Progressive parties.

It looks like a deep slash in the Federal Government publicity output. Once the cost barely exceeded a couple of million. Today, it's six times that. Parliamentarians are becoming restless and supercritical. Beautiful work is turned out. Skilled labor gives employment to thousands. But, cry those who have the floor, is it all worth the money? Is it actually needed? Plenty of janitors might be able to give a revealing opinion.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Seaman and daughter, after spending the past month holidaying at Massett on the Queen Charlotte Islands, arrived in the city on the Camosun yesterday afternoon on their way back to Terrace where they now make their home.

LETTERBOX

HELPING FLOOD RELIEF

Editor, Daily News: I see in the paper about my friends, Mr. Thain and Ald. George Casey, as well as the Daily News, are going to take up a collection for the people of Winnipeg. I wish you good luck and trust to God you will have it.

There are a lot of good people in Prince Rupert and I have experienced their generosity. Not long ago I came home after being sick and the first day friends called to ask how I was getting along. The next day a load of coal came along. Then there was a roast of beef, a big pie and a loaf of bread.

We hope that the $5 in which my boy, Paul, and I have shared in giving the flood relief will do some good. If it helps the old people like myself and the young, we will feel it is the best $5 we ever spent.

I also want to thank my good neighbors and friends for all the kind things they have done for us.

I have found that if you are honest and always do good things you will get along all right.

FRED OLSEN.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Fraser, having spent the week-end in the city to visit Mr. Fraser's mother, Mrs. R. McCook, who is a patient in the Prince Rupert General Hospital, returned to Terrace yesterday.

It pays to advertise.

Progress Of Church

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Union, Local Pastor's Theme

At morning service in First United Church on Sunday, Rev. Lawrence Sieber referred to some of the highlights of the annual conference of the United Church in British Columbia. The theme was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the union of the churches when the former Methodist Church, Congregational and most of the Presbyterian Churches decided to amalgamate. The history since then was one of expanding, growing and successful development. It had been most enlightening and stimulating to recall the contributions made by such laymen as A. L. Fortune and David Spencer and such ministers as James Robertson and Thomas Crosby. The number of new churches being built and the arrangements made in some cases to re-establish churches in the more recently developing centres of population were a sure indication that the church was alive and carrying out its obligation to "go into all the world and preach the gospel."

At the evening service Mr. Sieber spoke on the "First Christian Service." On this anniversary of the first pentecost it was worth while recalling Simon Peter's first service and his congregation. It consisted of a handful of believers with many unbelievers. The large attendance of unbelievers was due to the energy, enthusiasm and expectancy of the believers. Today that same enthusiasm was needed. The unbelievers gained an experience and a thrill that no material stimulant could give. They realized their guilt and they were told of the way of the new life with all its assurance of lasting satisfaction. This was a challenge to all today and the progress of civilization depends on our response. Christianity is the answer.

In the morning service the Junior Choir was heard to good advantage in their two-part rendition of "The Good Shepherd." In the evening a male quartet consisting of Rowland Miles, Dyke McMillan, Keith Faight and Charles Roberts sang very effectively "Bless This House." Henry Plum was organist.

Is Dedicated To Father's Memory

Dedicated to the memory of his father, the late Giacomo Colussi, one of Prince Rupert's earliest settlers, is Colussi's Music Store which Mike Colussi, popular local accordionist and musical technician, has opened in the former Walker Music Store premises at Second Avenue and Fourth Street.

The late Mr. Colussi, who settled in Prince Rupert in 1910, was himself a keen music lover and teacher. He lost his life in 1938.

A favorite childhood recollection of Mike's is that of his father trying him out on his large model piano-accordion. All he could see was the ceiling. Years later Mike's father told him that he had shown promise of being "long" on enthusiasm and "short" on talent. Notwithstanding that, Mike has become a talented and popular musician and, during the war, in which he served with the Canadian Army overseas, his services were much in demand.

There was a "modest" opening of the music store at the end of last week but "there will be nothing modest about our service," says Mike.

SHIPS and WATERFRONT

Southbound to Vancouver after an early tourist season voyage to Alaska with a tour party organized by the Portland Journal, C.N.R. steamer Prince George, Capt. E. B. Caldwell, was in port from 6 to 12 o'clock Saturday night. Weather was not all that it might have been with rainfall somewhat copious but the American travelers were well pleased. They had several hours for shopping here and curio stores did a good business.

Union steamer Coquitlam, Capt. John Boden, was in port on good time at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the south and sailed at 11 p.m. for Alice Arm, Stewart and other northern points. The vessel had a capacity cargo of freight and fair-sized list of passengers. At 5:30 another vessel of the Union line arrived—the steamer Camosun, Capt. William McCombe, from north Queen Charlotte Island points—sailing at 9 p.m. for Butedale, Bella Bella, Westview and Vancouver.

Thirty school teachers on their way home from Juneau held up the Princess Louise for twelve hours Friday. The ship was eight hours late getting to Prince Rupert at midnight Saturday. Boarding here here were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leverett and Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Mansell.

Kitselas Woman's Birthday Party

Many friends from Usk and Terrace as well as from her own village were in attendance last Monday night at Kitselas when Mrs. J. Hudson of Kitselas celebrated her seventy-fourth birthday. Many beautiful gifts were presented.

Games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening from early evening until well on into the morning.

Delicious refreshments featured a large birthday cake with appropriate number of candles.

On Tuesday night the young people of the village gave a surprise party in honor of Mrs. Hudson.

TIM-BER-LOX

Protects Paint from Peeling and Blistering

A Penetrating Sealer and Paint Mix

Tim-ber-lox is a clear liquid made from the finest, toughest resins and water repellent oils and is used as a thinner for oil based paints or as a clear primer before painting or varnishing.

OUTSIDE PAINTING

In order to secure a good paint job it is first necessary to secure a good ground or prime coat. It is in this prime coat that the addition of Tim-Ber-Lox to paint is highly recommended. Paint with Tim-Ber-Lox added, has superior penetrating and sealing qualities which provide a reinforced foundation against moisture and helps prevent the peeling and blistering of succeeding coats of paint.

PLYWOOD

A single application of Tim-Ber-Lox will prevent separating, will greatly reduce warping, buckling, surface checking and will eliminate "Grain Raise", leaving the surface smooth and uniform for subsequent coats of varnish or paint. It costs no more to use Tim-Ber-Lox—as Tim-Ber-Lox replaces the prime coat of paint or acts as a varnish undercoat where plywood is later to be varnished.
