Unemployment

THE SERIOUSNESS OF AN unemployment sit- will still be far above anything uation can be judged from various standpoints and with particular reference to circumstances. The federal government has reiterated its opinion that 375,000 persons in Canada is not to be regarded too seriously since it is to a large extent seasonal. However, it is quite a chunk of unemployment. We would not like to see it get any greater and it is reassuring that the figure is now beginning to decrease .

The Prime Minister says that the unemploy- in the war. ment situation is far from depression levels, indeed, he does not believe that a depression is imminent. However a more serious view is taken by the C. C. F. and some of the trades unions people whose opinions are also entitled to respect and who, in fact, are in a position to be as intimate with the lot of the people who suffer from unemployment as might be the Prime Minister himself or some of the government officials.

If the total number of unemployment were lev- And our experts advise us that elled out over Canada, some of the more serious pictures, such as that in Vancouver, would not be so apparent. If not Prince Rupert because there is so much more activity in this area owing to the increased tempo of development from an industrial and construction standpoint, British Columbia has been having a rough winter from the unemployment standpoint.

Nevertheless while there may be particular problems and some cases of genuine misfortune, fectively to keep up employment and the city paid the nurses in generally speaking there would still appear to be a pretty good prospect for steady employment of capable people who are ready and willing to do a good day's work for a reasonable day's pay.

As for really skilled workers, we still seem to hear more of shortages than abundance of availability.

IMMIGRANTS AND JOBS

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS has heard some extraordinary economic theories during the years, but seldom has it heard a more extraordinary charge than that 375,000 Canadian are listed as unemployed today because 360,000 immigrants were brought into the country since the war ended, observes the Edmonton Journal. The accusation was made by P. E. Gagnon, an Independent representing the Quebec riding of Chicoutimi. The similarity of the totals must surely have swept Mr. Gagnon off his mental feet.

Far from the 360,000 "new Canadian" putting old Canadian out of jobs, they created more work for all.

Their arrival in the country meant 360,000 more consumers of Canadian foods, clothing, shelter and services. The 360,000 meant that many more buyers of goods and services, which in itself is a considerable market.

It is demonstrable fact that in the years before 1914 when the tides of immigration flowed most strongly into the dominion, the country prospered greatly.

Every immigrant capable of doing a day's work is another mouth to feed, hence another "market" for farm products.

Every immigrant who can earn a day's pay is a buyer of the goods and services produced by a ! 1 wage earners.

Every immigrant who can make or do something is a producer and adds to the wealth of the coun-

St. Laurent -

OTTAWA-Our trade experts do not expect our exports in 1950 to reach quite the same high level they reached in 1949," said Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent, Tuesday night. "But after all, 1949 was the best-year in our history, and we do expect the 1950 level Canadians dared to hope for few years ago. That does not mean that we should be complacent, and the government is not complacent. But neither does it mean that there is any occasion for panic or loss of confidence in the future and the future trade and prosperity of this country.

"What about unemployment? It is true we have had more unemployment in Canada this winter than at any time since early "And I don't think there are any Canadians who have not been sorry to see the unemployment figures increasing. They do bring back memories—and fears-none of us likes.

"But before we decide the country is already on the road to another depression, let us look at the other side of the picture.

"Employment has been at as high a level as it was last year. they expect unemployment all through 1950 to be at levels very ily is "becoming critical and we close to those of 1949—which was the highest in our history.

"Apparently there are some penses continue.

people in Canada who expect the government to find a job on public works project for every man or woman who becomes unemployed for any reason at any season of the year.

"Now the present government believes that public works and development projects should be used to keep up employment. And we intend to use them for that

"But we have never claimed that public works could be cure-all for unemployment whatever its cause or its character.

"Every sensible person knews public works are not much use to provide jobs for stenographers or waitresses who happen to be out of work The effective way to use pub-lie works is for the purpose of keeping up employment in the construction industry. That industry in turn provides a lot of employment in other industries and services.

"And nearly everybody in Canada knows the construction industry has been going full blast ever since the war. The prospects for construction in 1950 look just as good as for any previous year.

HOMOGENIZATION breaks up Libby's Baby Foods so THEY ARE TEN TIMES FINER IN TEXTURE THAN FOODS WHICH ARE ONLY STRAINED. Coarse food particles are pulverized, and even the food cells themselves are broken open. This has two important effects which are of particular importance to you and your baby.

First and most important, it makes Libby's Baby Foods so easy to digest that they are well tolerated even by six-weeks-old infants. This is only true of Libby's Baby Foods. Married In Vancouver

A wedding of much local interest was solemnized in Vancouver Saturday evening, when Helen Marie Marchildon, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Wain of this city, became the bride of Captain John Fielden Denning, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Denning, also of this city.

In the absence of her parents, the bride was given in marriage by A. J. Squire, a well known former Prince Rupert resident.

The bride's wedding costume was fashioned from rich blue silk velvet, styled with long Dolman sleeves and enhanced by a billowy blue lace skirt. She wore a large picture hat of the same blue lace as her skirt, over sil_ ver lame, silver slippers and tiny wrist length silver mitts. She carried a dainty white prayer book, gift of the groom, topped by a small delicate white orchid bouquet.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Josephine Sikes, well known and popular former city girl, wore a modish pale rose gown with Dolman sleeves and draped back, with a small veiled hat and gloves to match. Her pretty crescent shaped bouquet was fashioned from pink carnations. iris and hyacinth.
