GANDHI VICTIM OF ASSASSIN

India's Great Spiritual Leader Shot To Death at Prayer Meeting

Slain By One of Communal Hindus Whom He Led to Independence—Killer In Custody

NEW DELHI (CP)—Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi was shot to death tonight by one of the Hindus he led to independence. The frail and wizened little political and spiritual leader was the target of three bullets fired at close range at his prayer meeting on the lawn of sumptuous Birla Mansion, estate of the Indian industrialist who had long supported Gandhi. He was 78 years of age.

Police arrested the assassin immediately. He was identified as Nathuram Vinayak Gode, 38-year-old Marathi Hindu, known as an extreme advocate of communalism who speaks English well. He is being held incommunicado at police headquarters.

Bystanders said that Gandhi slumped forward as a third shot rang out. He seemed unconscious as he was carried to his quarters in Birla House. Death followed within half an hour. He did not speak between the shooting and his death.

A crowd of several hundred persons formed about Birla House, many of them weeping. The assassin was described as a civilian Hindu from Poona. He was seized by the police immediately after firing the three shots from a range of only a few feet.

The killer is believed to have disagreed with Gandhi's policy of moderation.

INDEPENDENCE HIS MAIN GOAL

Gandhi's death came less than a year after he had achieved his life's main goal of independence for India but he considered it a failure because India and her 400,000,000 people were divided into separate Dominions, partitioning resulting from bloody, communal warfare.

It was in an effort to end the bloodshed that Gandhi undertook this month the last of his many fasts. After five days, during which he threatened to starve himself to death, he broke the fast on January 18.

During the tense days of the last fast, some of the more militant shouted bitterly: "Let Gandhi die."

Shortly after this fast a bomb exploded near a prayer meeting, also in the Birla mansion estate, but it did no harm. A Hindu was arrested.

Some Hindus, their women folk violated in communal upheavals, had resented Gandhi's plea for peace with the Moslems.

WAS LEADER OF 400,000,000 PEOPLE

Gandhi led India's 400,000,000 people to his cherished goal of freedom from British crown rule, but the reward he received was bitter sorrow and disappointment. For the cause he had endured prisons and fast. His favorite weapons for rousing the masses were civil disobedience campaigns and hunger strikes, the latest of which was only a few days ago aimed to end warfare between Hindus, Sikhs and Moslems.

In his own eyes, the little Hindu ascetic was a failure at the hour of his greatest victory because freedom divided his country into two hostile dominions (he had sought a unified, independent India) and plunged his people into frightful communal fighting—Sikh and Hindu against Mohammedan—which had no parallel in the last several centuries of the sub-continent's long and blood-stained history.

On his 78th birthday in 1947, the year of attainment of Indian dominion status, Gandhi said he had almost lost all de-

Air Hero Is Crash Victim

Sir Arthur Coningham In Atlantic Tragedy With 28 Others

LONDON (C)—Sir Arthur Coningham, British air hero of the Second World War, is believed lost with 28 others today aboard a British commercial plane enroute to Bermuda.

Last reports said that the plane was eight hours overdue and British South American Airways said that hopes for its safety looked black.

A dispatch from Bermuda said the plane was reported to have crashed 440 miles northeast of Bermuda. Seven search planes are looking for wreckage.

The plane, a Tudor 4, left London Tuesday, stopping at Lisbon and the Azores. It was delayed at the Azores by "extremely severe weather," an airline announcement said.

Social Afternoons, Evenings to Be Part New Civic Centre Plan

Sociability will be the keynote of the new "adult activities" program which will begin at the Civic Centre next week, under direction of Mrs. J. T. Harvey, who Thursday announced a plan for a weekly series of social afternoons and evenings for grown-up members.

The afternoons, naturally, will be for the ladies. Every Wednesday at 2:30, Mrs. Harvey, who is chairman of the adult activities committee, plans to hold an afternoon social at which members can play bridge or other card games, knit, sew or just talk.

Locate of these gatherings will be the ladies' lounge, where, if they so desire, the ladies may enjoy a cup of tea and lunch delivered to their chairs or tables from the cafeteria below.

While among local people, the social gatherings will be restricted to Civic Centre members, they may bring out-of-town guests.

Informality will be a feature, Mrs. Harvey says. Members may arrange their own foursome, bringing their own cards. The whole

Urges People of India to Bury Differences—Condolence of King and Queen

LONDON (C)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee is expected to Pakistan to bury their differences tonight to India and ences in the crisis caused by the assassination of Gandhi. Attlee will broadcast a tribute to Gandhi on behalf of the British government and the people.

A government official said that almost anything might happen in India because of the shooting. The official said that the authorities would have to move fast to keep the situation in hand.

"Thank God, the assassin was not a Moslem or he certainly would break loose," the official added.

The King and Queen sent a message to the Viceroy expressing themselves as deeply shocked at Gandhi's death which an "irreparable loss to India and mankind."

SHANGHAI—University of Shanghai was taken over by military police yesterday and British soldiers and Chinese police charged students who demonstrated violently against the British.

CRISIS IS THICKENING

Outlook for Premier Schuman's Government Brighter

PARIS (C)—With Premier Robert Schuman having staked the life of his government on approval of his financial program, the political crisis in France is tense following the rejection by the National Assembly's finance commission of the cabinet approved bill to withdraw some $1,540,000,000 worth of 5000-franc notes from circulation. The commission's decision, however, was not final and last night the Assembly approved the bill over the adverse report. That made the outlook for the government being completely sustained much brighter.

Meantime, to forestall speculation during the two days of debate on public financial measures, all banks in France are closed.

Shortly before the bill was introduced in the Assembly, Premier Schuman said the cabinet had agreed to it in a meeting held before the session of the Assembly.

Notes of 5000-franc denomination, economists say, have been used extensively by speculators on the black market in currency and by hoarders, notably farmers.

The 5000-franc note is worth $23.50 at the present internal rate.

LAKE SUCCESS (C)—Senator Vincente Francisco, Philippines delegate to the United Nations Palestine Commission, yesterday advocated a big military force to back United Nations decisions. Previously he had declared that immediate action was needed to enforce the United Nations partition of the Holy Land. He said that the five big powers should take the lead in the "formation of an international army" to carry out the resolutions of the United Nations if necessary.

An announcement of particular interest in musical circles is made today of the decision of the Prince Rupert Shrine Club to take over sponsorship of the Prince Rupert Civic Band. The hope of the Shrine Club is in the not too distant future to have a fully uniformed and instrumented band for the enjoyment of the citizens of Prince Rupert.

There are at present 15 vacancies in the band and prospective players are being invited to contact Bandmaster Peter Lien.

One of the pilots of a search party said he had seen the second plane crash and explode. It appeared to be a flying fortress.

WIDOW OF PRINCE RUPERT, IS BURIED OVER WAR HOUSE COST

HALIFAX—When a reporter of the Halifax Star interviewed Austin E. Brownell, regional supervisor of the Central Housing & Mortgage Corporation, to find out why former wartime houses here were being sold to tenants for $3,300 while in Prince Rupert they were going for $1,600, the government agency official gave this explanation:

"It seems," he said, "that when the war was over most of the people who had flocked over here to live in these houses were sent to Prince Rupert during the boom war years were anxious to get back to their native towns and cities... or to a place where a little more civilization surrounded them.

"So now there is a ghost town. In order to sell the houses and realize some of the money expended in building the places, the government was forced to cut down the price which is away below cost less the depreciation," he said.

The newspaper here instituted the inquiry after being informed by Mrs. J. Ernst, who is buying a house for $3,300, that she had a letter from Mrs. G. A. Hebb of Prince Rupert telling of the $1,600 houses.

After Gandhi, What?

POSSIBLY, there could have been no more disturbing incident in the current troublous career of India than the deplorable assassination of Mohandas Gandhi. What the repercussions may be can only be imagined.

For fifty years a shriveled, physically puny man—Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi—was a dominant figure in the life of India, a driving force in the long, bitter struggle for Indian freedom.

The Mahatma (Great Soul)—as the Hindu nationalist and religious leader was called during most of his career—was variously regarded as a saint, a revolutionary and reactionary, a patriot, a clever and unscrupulous politician, a saboteur and appeaser of Japan.

In these conflicting estimates there is no doubt, aside from the political issues involved, that millions in teeming India regarded him as nothing less than a god or saint, although he himself meekly denied it.

When a character such as this, to whom almost immortality was attributed, is removed with sudden violence, the reactions of a people such as those who were his followers and his enemies can only be a matter of conjecture.

PRINCE GEORGE NEXT?

ANNOUNCEMENT of the H. R. MacMillan interests of intention to build a $12,000,000 pulp mill on the east coast of Vancouver Island is great news for the British Columbia coast and Prince Rupert people, with their own $15,000,000 project under way, will be among the most gratified that the lower coast is to have another major industry.

Availability of timber products incidental to the company's major sawmilling activities in the area, power in plenty due to the new Campbell River development of the provincial government and fresh water in large quantities were the principal factors in the decision to locate on the east coast of Vancouver Island.

With several large pulp mills now located on the coast, it would appear logical that the central interior country, most likely around Prince George, should also soon be the site of a pulp or paper mill project. The requisites of such a project are readily available for development in that area.

"I a person would eat onions regularly, he wouldn't have many colds," declares a physician. Or friends.

JAP MOVE PROTESTED

British Columbia Runs Into Variety of Reactions

VANCOUVER—Operators of British Columbia logging camps today continued plans to vigorously protest Tuesdays surprise provincial government order discharging 800 Japanese workers from crown timber lands of the interior.

The workers are the main bread-winners for six thousands Japanese who remained in the province out of the pre-war population of 23,000.

The provincial order, reinforcing policy enacted at the turn of the century, prohibits the employment of Orientals on crown timber lands but does not affect sawmills.

The Japanese, main force of many interior lumber operators, were put to work in the woods in 1942 by federal order-in-council to boost the wartime production. The federal order has been rescinded and the provincial policy swings back into effect.

Lumber camp operators immediately protested. The Japanese, they said, had been "steady, loyal workers" and have "abided by the laws of the communities." They also had been trained and could not easily be replaced.

Premier Byron Johnson and the cabinet have been asked to meet "as soon as possible" with the British Columbia district council of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) by Harold Pritchett, district president, who describes the order as discriminatory.

The action of the government is considered atrocious by several groups.

Spokesman for the Canadian Civil Liberties Union in British Columbia and the Japanese-Canadian Citizens' Association announced plans to lay a formal protest before the provincial cabinet.

The Japanese, in the meantime at least, cannot go to the coast. Following the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, the federal government removed all Japanese from coastal regions and the ban is still in effect.

JIM WEST SAYS

...ABOUT THE RED FRONT

Other day an American labor leader told his union members:

"In this country a Communist is a fellow who keeps his heart and mind in Moscow and his skin and stomach in the U.S.A."

Weird how Communism sucks in some intellectuals. I should think an "intellectual" was a person who did a lot of independent thinking; but amongst the Communies you think what they tell you to think and if you get out of line, they crack down on you. If you're not allowed to think for yourself, how can you be an "intellectual"?

Strange, too, how some workmen figure Communism can help them when Russian Communism puts between 12,000,000 and 20,000,000 people into slave labor camps—biggest work army of slaves in all history. And no denial of the fact comes from Moscow.

Doesn't seem to make sense that some Communists Uncle Sam won't let cross into his country, claiming they're agents of Russia and against democracy, are running big unions in this country.

But most puzzling of all to me is how some people figure Socialism is very different from Communism when both were started by Karl Marx, both want the State to own the means of production and run the people who produce things; because Russia put it into practice and there you can see how Socialism works when you try it full scale.

HOPELESS BUT WORTH WHILE

Gen. Maltby's Report on Desperate Defence of Hong Kong

LONDON, (P)—Although critical of the inadequacy of their training, equipment and transport, Major General C. M. Maltby, general officer commanding British troops in China when Hong Kong fell December 25, 1941, paid tribute to the gallantry of the Canadians and their "stubborn defensive fighting" in the face of their handicaps.

Authority of a 27-page document on the Hong Kong affair, which was released by the War Office yesterday, Maltby said the Canadians were not only inadequately trained but they were also without proper transport.

In his dispatch, originally written in a Japanese prison camp, Gen. Maltby told a story of impossible resistance by inadequate ground forces with almost no air or naval support and in-

BURNED FUNERAL VESSEL FOUNDERS

BOSTON (P)—The United States Army funeral ship, Joseph V. Connolly, went adrift from a towline yesterday off Cape Race, Newfoundland, and sank, the Coastguard reported. The vessel had been previously ravaged by fire, abandoned by her crew and was under tow for New York.

The Coastguard said that the towing hawser slipped off the towing drum of the tug curio and, almost immediately, the Connolly disappeared from the cutter Acushnet's radarscope.

Gale and snow squalls were prevailing when the Connolly disappeared.

Farming was considered so important to Britain during the Second World War that farm hands were "frozen" to their jobs.

"Strategically we gambled and lost but it was a worth-while gamble," Maltby added.

Uproarious Basketball

TERRACE—Spectators at the Civic Centre had an evening of merriment and laughter Saturday night when the Terrace Kinsmen put on a display of basketball, the like of which has never been seen in Terrace before.

Dressed as negroes in grass skirts and red and white armbands, King Zambeni (Dudley) and his Revellers Congregation led to the centre of the floor where they played against the Terrace boys' basketball teams.

The boys, with a score of 17 to 14, won the game, but only by the assistance of a play that placed the ball in the hands of the Terrace players. The antics of the grass-skirted non-players divided the attention of the audience and when Fred Thomas had a hard keeping the players in control. On the whole, it was a merry evening which ended with dancing.

During the early part of the game the Junior girls played a parking game, the Terrace Machine Shop team emerging victors by a score of twenty to ten for J. H. Smith's Store team.

Some of these teams are coming in in good style and a little practice will reveal some competition for Rupert.

Hirohito's Tax Bill

But Has $8,000,000 Fortune Left

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese people in effect have given Emperor Hirohito another vote of confidence.

They did it by showing obvious and genuine relief as former premier Hideki Tojo white-washed the Emperor before the International War Crimes Court.

Fighting for his life, Tojo insisted that Hirohito had no responsibility for the war, even while giving evidence that seemed to indicate the Emperor had a part in reaching the decision to fight.

Newspapers throughout Japan bannerlined "Emperor Free of War Responsibilities" and Japanese everywhere seemed highly pleased. Tojo's word was generally accepted by Japanese as assurance that Hirohito could not be incriminated.

This adulation is one of the few perquisites retained by the imperial family after its conversion into taxpaying individuals forced to live for the first time on a fixed and closely supervised income.

Hirohito—the Japanese government said—started New Year as one of the few Japanese who paid all his tax bill. It totalled 3,338,206,702 yen ($66,764,134) or 90 per cent of his assessed assets.

He paid it by turning over imperial palaces, vast tracts of forests and other income estates owned for generations by the imperial household. He retained an estimated 400,000,000 yen ($8,000,000) worth of personal possessions and imperial treasures.

The Diet voted the imperial family 45,000,000 yen ($900,000) as its first year's fixed income. From this budget, the imperial household ministry must maintain Tokyo's imperial palace and such detached palaces as the Emperor chooses to occupy with the government's permission. The Tokyo palace staff recently was reduced to about 1,000 persons—about a fourth of what it used to be.

UNDER NEW ALLIED POLICY

All this resulted from policies of the Allied occupation designed to strip the imperial court of special privileges.

Only the Emperor and his immediate family, of the formerly extensive Japanese royalty, retain that status.

Hirohito and his descendants do retain unusual security on the throne, so far as the Japanese people are concerned. No political leader of any consequence yet dares to advocate abolition of the emperor system. It will continue, unless the Allies force its elimination.

It is also unlikely that the Emperor will ever feel any real financial pinch. His subjects are not likely to tighten the purse strings any further, of their own volition.

Even today, volunteers are booked through next fall for the "opportunity" to rake leaves and clean the palace grounds here—at a consequent saving to the emperor's purse.

Hirohito's numerous trips throughout Japan, incidental, are also no drain on his funds; they are financed by local governments. The local governments also maintain some of his villas, including one in Kyoto which has been kept in top condition for years without ever receiving an imperial visit.

And when the Allies depart, the emperor may get back his private train and some additional automobiles.

The emperor business is still a paying proposition in Japan.

rites for JOAN THAIN

St. Andrew's Cathedral was filled this afternoon with sympathizing friends paying final tribute to Joan Thain, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Thain, who passed away Monday.

Schoolmates and fellow members of Job's Daughters made up a large part of the congregation as Rev. Basil S. Prockter conducted the service.

The Job's Daughters' choir, of which deceased was a member, sang the hymn "Abide With Me," the congregation joining. Peter Lien was organist and choirmaster. Ushers were Alex Mitchell, Alf Rivett and G. J. Davies.

At a ceremony on conclusion of the service, Job's Daughters Honored Queen Solveg Mork, flanked by Princesses Lorna Donaldson and Peggy Pullen, placed a crown of lily-of-the-valley on the casket which was surrounded by scores of floral offerings. The princesses then placed her choir gown and mortarboard cap alongside.

While the rite was in progress, Miss Barbara Teng sang the solo anthem "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Interment took place in Fairview Cemetery with high school classmates of the deceased acting as pallbearers. They were Bernard Jordan, Ernest Elliott, Burns Pierce, Everett Pierce, Norman Shenton and Charles Currie.

CARNIVAL TO BE HELD AT USUAL TIME

Civic Centre Executive Critical of City Council for Allowing Crescent Shows Here July 10

The Civic Centre Association will hold its annual carnival in August, despite a decision by city council to allow Crescent Shows to come to the city on July 10, a meeting of the Civic Centre executive decided Wednesday night.

Association members were critical of city council's action which, they believe, will leave the carnival at a disadvantage by allowing an outside show to set up for a week here prior to the community money-raising gala.

Council Monday night granted Crescent Shows the right to come to Prince Rupert on July 10 after Henry Meyerhoff, owner of the show, had appeared in the council chamber to make his request. The proposal was sharply opposed by Aldermen Stone and Black.

Date of the carnival was not set definitely, nor was the type of entertainment which the carnival will offer. However, it was decided that it will be held at its usual time in the lull between the sockeye and coho salmon fishing seasons.

The executive also decided to authorize the construction of a concrete sidewalk along the Second Avenue frontage of the Civic Centre building. The work will be paid for by the Civic Centre Association and will be done under plans approved by the City Engineer.

Club Activity THE LANGUAGE HOBBY CLUB

This club is composed of a small group of students—chiefly seniors who wish to pursue the study of languages a step further than the limits set by classroom practice.

Until now, difficulties of a specific nature have been discussed, difficulties which the average student inevitably encounters in a foreign language course. French, for example.

In addition, something of a practical and experimental nature will be attempted. A few lessons of the better known European languages will be taught and continued to the extent of student response in the matter.

CREDIT UNION INSURANCE PLAN DEVELOPED

The annual meeting of the Credit Union Tuesday the eligibility for membership was broadened to include residents of the Prince Rupert district. It was felt that this would give many more the opportunity of participating in the co-operative insurance system.

The meeting endorsed a new insurance plan, whereby a member may create a $2000 estate immediately upon agreeing to pay $100 a year for ten years. At the end of the ten-year term the member has saved $2000 and during that time has insured for $2000 at no cost. This is the result of the Credit Union participating in a low-cost protective insurance plan.

Mrs. Florence Greenwood rear treasurer's report which included a healthy growing operation. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Greenwood for the energy and time she has devoted to the Credit Union.

Members were added to those whose term of office had expired on the board of directors, supervisory and committees. President of the Credit Union is George Viers, secretary, Joe Griesell, and treasurer, Mrs. Florence Greenwood.

DISPUTE IS HEARD UP

Settlement of Issue of United States Representation in Winter Olympics Hockey

MORITZ, Switzerland (AP)—Albert Mayer, member of the International Olympic Committee and of the Swiss organizing committee, announced yesterday that the I.O.C. had voted 10 to 6 to ban both United States hockey teams from the Winter Olympics and added that the Soviet Union would reject the decision. The officials had accepted the entry of the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States as the official United States representative, resulting in a bitter dispute by the United States Olympic committee which had formed its own team. The whole matter was cleared up yesterday when the A.H.A. withdrew its entry.

CANADA'S FOOD PRICES GO SKY HIGH—CONSUMERS DEMAND HALT TO RISING COSTS—Rising food prices in Canada shows indication of a credit situation developing in the country, particularly in lower-wage industrial areas, stated G. Christensen, national director of the food division of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. An emergency meeting of the national executive of the food division of the association was called in Toronto to consider rising food costs. Dave Irvine, left, illustrates how much pork has shrunk in the recent price increase. Before the last 10-cent a pound jump, $2.45 bought the larger, Now $2.45 buys the smaller roast. A loaf of bread, pound of butter and a pint of milk does not leave much of a dollar left these days, Mrs. Viola Pearce, right, finds out.

But he was not without detractors. In 1942 Gandhi was denounced as an "arch saboteur" by L. S. Amery, British secretary of state for India, because of his civil disobedience campaign launched while Japanese invasion forces stood at the threshold in Burma during World War II. Winston Churchill strongly opposed independence for India, forecasting "blood and misery."

Even in India Gandhi had his foes. More than once stones were cast at him by Indians who were rebellious against his teachings that only through love and non-violence could any lasting victory be won. But friends and foe agreed that Gandhi above all others was responsible for plucking India, known as "the jewel of the Empire," from the British crown.

"ARCHITECT OF FREEDOM"

India was divided into an independent Moslem dominion (Pakistan) and a Hindu dominion (India). Earl Mountbatten, governor-general of the latter referred to Gandhi as the "architect" of Indian freedom. Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, a men and children cruelly slain in those places and New Delhi. No matter what the world thought of his work, the evidence of violence convinced Gandhi that he had failed in striving for a goal he considered even greater than attainment of freedom—the teaching of his legions of followers to love their enemies as they did their friends.

Everywhere Gandhi was recognized as the master strategist of the Indian independence movement and the engineer of passive resistance and civil disobedience movements which had such an important part in the manoeuvrings toward independence.

For these and other activities he spent 12 years in prisons and underwent long fasts which sometimes endangered his life. His Indian followers were countable in the tens of millions and they gave him devotion difficult for the western mind to understand. In his 1942 passive resistance campaign thousands upon thousands of them courted beatings, imprisonment and confiscation of their properties at his simple call to rise.

WAS LAWYER BY PROFESSION

Until the early days of freedom he had influence almost like that of an orchestra leader, firing the people's nationalist spirit or calming them by his call alone. After freedom he once commented that "the time was when whatever I said the Indian masses followed, but today mine is a lone voice."

Gandhi stepped into the world's consciousness from the background of a promising practice as a London-educated young lawyer, after early training in his native India. From London he went to South Africa where he championed Indians and people of Indian descent in their fight for equal rights, and there organized his first civil disobedience campaigns and had his first taste of jail for political activity.

When he returned to India in 1915 he ranked alongside C. R. Das in the Indian nationalist movement and upon Das' death in 1925 became the recognized leader of the nationalists. In India as in South Africa he led crusades against conditions which he considered oppressive, but he was loyal to the British crown until Viceroy Lord Linlithgow in September, 1930, declared India at war with the Axis without consulting any Indian legislative body.

PROMOTED DISOBEDIENCE

Gandhi's reply was a wartime civil disobedience campaign with independence as its objective. He had halted prior civil disobedience campaigns when his people broke away from his teachings of non-violence, but this time he allowed it to run its course, and it was a course marked by bloodshed. In July of 1942 Gandhi demanded that Britain hand over the government of India to the Indians and then withdrew. The British regarded his political activity as hampering India's resistance to Japan. He was arrested in August when the All-India Congress adopted a resolution advocating civil disobedience and Indian independence, but instead of being placed in jail the little leader was held in the Aga Khan's ornate palace at Poona. It was the sixth time he had been imprisoned.

"I always get the best bargain from being behind prison bars," he once said. His hunger strikes often brought about compromises, for the British feared public reaction in event of his death through fasting. He was interned in the palace for 21 months and then released. His failing health was given as the reason. HIS LONGEST HUNGER STRIKE During that period he went on a 31-day hunger strike in protest against "the leonine violence" which he accused the government of using to suppress the civil disobedience campaign, and against the policy of locking up members of the All-India Congress party. On only two of his eight previous fasts since 1918 had he gone that long without food. Lord Linlithgow tried to dissuade Gandhi from his fast at Poona because of his poor health. He characterized it as "political blackmail for which there can be no moral justification." When Gandhi was released from internment he wanted to know what the war situation was. Medical advisers tried to persuade him to rest, but the emaciated little man remonstrated: "Let me know what is going on around me. If I am to die, let me not die an ignorant man." DEATH OF HIS WIFE His fasts were for various causes—for penance, for protest for attempts to bring about reforms. Three were announced at the start as being "unto death." In 1947 he fasted for three days to protest the Hindu-Moslem strife in Calcutta. That was his tenth fast. A few days ago in New Delhi he staged a similar fast, ending it when he felt domestic peace was secure. Previous to this fast, he had told communal leaders that the one responsible for the next "untoward" incident would be first to jump into the fire" and that his own next fast would be "unto death." During his confinement in the Aga Khan's palace, his wife of 61 years died. She had been in internment with him. Gandhi so overshadowed his wife that she was called "the woman nobody knows." They were married when both were 13 under what the Indian leader once described as "the cruel custom of child marriage." By the time she was 18, she had borne three children. After the birth of their fourth son their relationship, at Gandhi's suggestion, became as brother and sister. Gandhi was born October 2, 1869, at Porbander and was reared in an anti-British atmosphere. His father, who had been premier of several small native states, once went to jail rather than apologize to a British Commissioner he had taken to task in public.

Another four months and the handsome, smart-looking ss. Prince George, last word in ship construction in a British Columbia yard, will be here. Her appearance will mark the commencement of a new era in B.C. Alaska shipping and tourist travel. More than ever, today, over snowbound America people are thinking of next summer and the enchantment of the "inside passage."

There are comparatively few in town now who were here when the bows of the Prince Rupert and Prince George, fresh from the hands of their builders across the Atlantic, first cut the scenic waters of the north coast. To each was extended the heartiest of "handshakes." Practically the entire population swarmed aboard each and the feeling was reciprocal. Admirations were distinctly vocal. Cameras were unleashed. The three funnels, taller than now, drew comment. So did the long, rich-looking corridors, comfortable seating and appointments in general. To the hard-bitten northerners, this was luxury indeed. They could almost say it was their own ship. That was nearly 38 years ago and since then, in war and in peace, and in all weathers, the service has been ably maintained. The mileage has been enough to have them steam around and around the globe.

It may be due to plain, every day stupidity, yet there are some things a fellow cannot understand. Why is it that people arriving here from the interior suffering from frostbite (or dashed close to it) and who know all about the Rupert climate, profess to be so delighted as well as amazed, to find it so mild and free from cold on the coast. However, it's a job, sometimes, to drum up small talk. We'll let it pass.

Why the "skunk cabbage?" Who has the correct name and address of the individual so lacking in common decency and judgment that he fastened such iniquity on this herald of springtime? Why could not a happier designation been thought of? What's in a name? A darned lot, since you ask me! The term "skunk cabbage" is an insult, an affront, slander, libel, and reaches a depth of infamy almost impossible to tolerate much longer. It will be making the annual visit in another month or so—the golden-hued old timer spangling the muskig mile after mile. Why not say "Wild Lily" or "Sweet William." Much better!

ROTARY CLUB QUIZ CONTEST

A team, arbitrarily termed "experts" by Entertainment Chairman E. T. Applewhite, went down in defeat before a group of similarly-designated "amateurs" in a quiz contest at the weekly Rotary Club meeting at the Commodore Cafe Thursday afternoon. Questions asked by Quizmaster Applewhite were drawn from the January issue of the Rotarian magazine. Members of the winning team were Club President Lee Gordon, Alex McRae and Fred Scadden. The losers were C. A. Berner, R. G. Vandersluys and Stewart Donaldson.

Guests at the meeting were W. A. Walker, Vancouver, Trevor Hill and W. E. Simmons.

Canada's dead and missing in the Second World War were about 41,000 but during the same period more than 80,000 Canadians died of cancer.

COAL-FED BACON ON THE HOOF—Did you know that hogs thrive on coal? Ross Bennett of Pueblo, Calif., owner of the hogs being fed here by Miss Marie Massarotti, says that coal-and-rock-salt is an excellent conditioner for hogs. He feeds his 70 porkers a ton of slack coal a month and 100 pounds of rock salt. He gets the coal at $5 a ton, which is also cheaper than corn or grain. Because the coal keeps the hogs in top condition, says Bennett, they derive more good from what they eat and thus require much less corn. They seem to be enjoying the shovel of coal donated by Miss Massarotti here.
