CAN LABOR CODE IS NOW IN EFFECT

Various As 'Model' and 'Flabby Makeshift'

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Workers in a large group of key moves in today under the shelter of Code that has been described as a "model" and as a "flabby makeshift." Controversial acts to move through the next years, the code sets up a bargaining organization.

Under the old wartime legislation which the code supplants, a union needed only a 51-percent vote of those balloting in an election for certification. This stiffer provision has been criticized by Labor, whose spokesmen contend it would tend to hold back a union in its formative stage in a plant.

Some workers' groups—notably the 360,000-man Canadian Congress of Labor—also have contended that the scope of the code is too limited. They would have included such undertakings as coal and steel and the meat-packing industry. A country-wide strike in these industries, they contend, is difficult to settle now because the union involved has to operate under the different laws of several provinces.

Labor spokesmen also have been critical of a clause giving the Canada Labor Relations Board—the new body that will administer the act—power to revoke a union's certification when it loses a majority of workers in a plant.

They claim employers could use the provision to bedevil unions without legitimate cause. Powers of the new board under the code is that a union must have the vote of more than 50 percent of the personnel in a bargaining unit before it can get certification as the recognized

Another major feature of the code is that a union must have the vote of more than 50 percent of the personnel in a bargaining unit before it can get certification as the recognized

COMMUNIST ESPIONAGE

New Lead Said to be Uncovered in U. S. Investigation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressional spy investigators today ran down a new lead they said may knit together claims that communists operated a pre-war underground and war-time espionage rings in Washington.

Representative Richard Nixon, Republican-California, said that a lead uncovered in efforts to verify a statement of Whitaker Chambers that he got a government job in 1937 while acting as a Communist part agent.

GURVICH IS SENTENCED

On a mischief charge arising out of the recent dynamiting of a house on Seventh Street, Spiro Gurchik elected for summary trial and pleaded guilty in city police court this morning before Magistrate W. D. Vance and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment less one day. The time will be served at Okalla Prison.

A plea for leniency in view of Gurchik's previous good record as citizen and soldier was made by A. B. Brown, defence counsel, and J. C. Brady, former district engineer for the provincial department of public works, and Col. S. D. Johnston appeared as character witnesses in support of the plea.

The magistrate commented upon the seriousness of the offence but agreed, in passing sentence, to take into account his previous good record.

WALLACE IS NOT WANTED

Progressive Presidential Candidate Gets Icy Reception

BIRMINGHAM, Alabama — Henry Wallace brought the Progressive Party's campaign into the deep south today in the face of an icy reception by municipal officials.

In North Carolina, Wallace was a target of over-ripe eggs and tomatoes. He was bluntly told by one mayor that "your presence is not desired." Other city officials told him segregation laws would be strictly enforced.

It was on May 1 that Wallace's running mate, Senator Glen Taylor (Dem.-Idaho), was jailed in Birmingham on charges of disorderly conduct when he sought to use a door reserved for negroes.

Currency Problem

Is Still Big Hurdle in German Crisis

BERLIN — Control of Berlin's snarled currency loomed today as the big hurdle in the east-west attempt to solve the German crisis. It appeared slated to hold the prime attention as the four military governors met on the second day. An informed source said the problem now centered on how the three western powers could supervise a single Soviet-backed currency for all Berlin while permitting Russians to issue it. There are still predictions in authoritative quarters today that the Berlin blockade may be lifted by the first of next week.

BUS OVER EMBANKMENT

Driver Clarence Lovin Shaken Up But Not Seriously Hurt

A 42-passenger Arrow Lines bus shouldered aside a guard rail to roll and bounce 100 feet down a bank from the Seal Cove road yesterday afternoon, ending in the bottom of the gulley with its wheels up. There were no passengers aboard at the time of the accident and driver Clarence Lovin, aside from a severe shaking up, escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

The driver who was on the run to Seal Cove had discharged the last of his passengers at the Seal Cove Circle road and proceeded only about 50 feet when the bus came in contact with the guard rail. Lovin is unable to explain how the accident occurred but, once the rail was pushed aside by the weight of the bus, the outside wheels dropped down and the big vehicle toppled over. The bus is stated to be a complete loss.

The Inhospitable Arctic

WE INCLINE TO THINK of our Arctic as a great lone land given over to Eskimos, mounties and missionaries. Russia thinks of hers in terms of gold. Up in the Arctic in the Kolyma River basin in Siberia she has been mining gold for years. It isn't a pleasant land. The temperature has gone to 94 below zero. The rivers are frozen nine months of the year, the subsoil is glacial ice, the land is swamp and mountain and dwarf forest. But it is inhabited country with better than 66 goldfields. It is estimated that there are a half million people in this desolation, we are told by the "Economist" of London.

Why can't we do as well? Let us frankly admit that our system lacks the effectiveness of which the communists always boast, at least as far as our north is concerned. We have no secret police, and we are sensitive of the feelings of our prison population. So we don't send them to the Arctic. We don't keep them there under armed guards, and specially trained dogs. We don't encourage them to work by an ingenious four-grade system of food, only the first of these sufficient to sustain life, so that the incentive to work is not pay but self preservation. We rather wonder how our Canadian communists would relish such efficiency.

INDIANS AND LIQUOR

FROM THE TIME of Noah down to the present day mankind has been battling with the liquor problem, writes Anthony Walsh, noted American anthropologist, who has been working among B.C. Indians for many years. It affects not only the Indians but also the people of the whole world. We all know that, although the Indians are prohibited from buying liquor, they can acquire all they desire, providing they are willing to pay the price the bootleggers and suppliers demand for it. During the war, the boys in the services were allowed to consume liquor. Is it not asking too much of human nature, that a man who for three or four years has been given the opportunity of drinking, should be suddenly expected to refrain from it? Walsh continues:

"Should the time come when the Indians are allowed to purchase liquor at the stores, the problem would still be unsolved, because it would be taken to the reserves, where, if drinking were to be controlled, every second man would have to be a policeman.

"I've thought often about a conversation I had with a Pueblo Indian who stated that when he was a youngster he looked forward to the day when he could get drunk and ride around the plaza yelling and hooting. He stated that he changed his outlook when his parents gave him the opportunity of getting a higher education.

"Then he said something about which I had thought much but had never been able to solve: We have to prepare for the day when the Indians will be able to drink freely as the white people, and the only way we can do this is through education in the home and in the schools.

"Much of this work will have to be carried out by the Indians themselves and the responsibility of maintaining law and order on the reserves will have to be placed in their hands. We will have to say, 'If you want to take advantage of the privilege of drinking, you must see that your people drink in moderation.' During the transition period there is bound to be a trying time, but we cannot retain the present system, whereby the Indians consume their liquor as speedily as possible, a practice which results only in widespread drunkenness.

"We must give the Indians the opportunity of attempting to work out their solutions and to stand on their own feet. To do this we will have to change our approach. It will not be easy to overcome the present mistakes of administration, whereby chiefs and councillors are only figure-heads and lack real authority. It is to be hoped that the new recommendations, if they become law, will renew self-confidence in our Indians.

"Furthermore, the old Indian policy has been costly for what Canada has been getting for its expenditures. The bill was $5 million in 1926 but it has risen to $22 million this year. And the Indian population is increasing at the rate of 1500 a year."

LETTERBOX

THE POLL TAX

Editor, Daily News:

Whereas, It is my intention at an early date to introduce a resolution authorizing the city clerk to prepare a bylaw providing for the elimination of the poll tax as a qualification for householders registered as voters, in municipal election in the city of Prince Rupert, you will find enclosed herewith, in part, an editorial which appeared in the Vancouver Sun of August 19, which, I think, will be of value to your readers if reprinted in your paper:

"Blame Where It Belongs"

"The City Council used to have two stock answers to poll tax protests. Now it has only one. Premier Johnson destroyed the other in a letter to Mr. Everett Crowley. He referred Mr. Crowley to the Vancouver city clerk, according to Victoria dispatches, 'because municipal poll tax is strictly a municipal matter.'

"Councils for the past 20 years have excused their collection of the poll tax on the grounds that it was a provincial matter covered by a provincial act. 'If we don't collect it,' they said, 'the provincial government will.'

"Mr. Crowley accordingly asked for repeal of the act. Mr. Johnson implies that no such measure is necessary. All the municipalities need to do is repeal their own poll tax bylaw and stop taking money under false pretences.

"The poll tax is wrong in both theory and practice. Almost no alderman will dispute that. And no alderman can now disclaim or evade responsibility for it by seeking to blame it on the government.

"This reduces the aldermen to their other traditional defense—if it can be called a defense. After trying to shift the onus to Victoria, they have customarily come through with a rider to the effect that—'and besides, we need the money.'

"Lawyers defending convicted thieves and absconders frequently make the same plea in asking mitigation of sentence for their clients. And the plea may even be factually, if not morally, sound. In the City of Vancouver's case, it used to be. But not any more.

"Vancouver has recently imposed a business tax and has been promised its proportionate share of the provincial sales tax. It could get along without the poll tax very comfortably. In all likelihood, receipts from the sales tax alone will be ten times as much as the poll tax yields.

"Proof that the city doesn't require the poll tax is found in the fact that the 1948 civic budget was easily balanced without

WINNIPEG (P)—It took two clerks more than an hour to read out the 237 theft, forgery and uttering charges against William Piniak, 37, when he appeared in court Monday. The offences took place between July 30, 1944, and last Friday.

Piniak was sentenced to five years hard labor in Stony Mountain Penitentiary after pleading guilty to all the charges.

Woman Doctor To Serve Homeland

SYDNEY, Australia (P)—As assistant surgeon on the liner Orontes, a 26-year-old Sydney woman recently returned to Australia after two years in Britain.

She is tall, fair Dr. Joan Redshaw, formerly senior resident medical officer at Woking and District Hospital in Surrey, and subsequently house surgeon at the Hospital for Sick Children in Great Ormond Street, London, which post she left to become the first woman doctor appointed as a ship's surgeon by the Orient Company.

Back in Australia, Dr. Redshaw plans to specialize in pediatrics to benefit the children of her own country.

appropriating a dime from prospective sales tax revenue. When that money comes in, it will be so much velvet.

"When it does come in, a City Council with any regard for equity and justice would strike the poll tax from its ordinance book and put itself square with its own conscience."

GEORGE B. CASEY.

ROTARY TO HAVE TWO VISITORS

Prince Rupert Rotarians will meet twice this week, instead of once, in honor of two distinguished visitors, both of whom will arrive here today from Alaska.

Tonight, the club will hold a special dinner meeting at the Broadway Cafe to welcome Edward Warner, Governor of Rotary International district 101, who will arrive on the Princess Louise from Ketchikan.

Mr. Warner, who comes from Tacoma, accompanied Angus Mitchell, of Australia, President of Rotary International, north while the International president was on a tour of Alaska. He will leave by tonight's train to visit the Prince George club.

On the same boat, arriving from Skagway, will be Peter H. Bennett, deputy director of the United Kingdom Information Office, Ottawa who will remain in the city until tomorrow before leaving for the Queen Charlotte Islands by plane.

Mr. Bennett, who is described as an outstanding speaker, will address the Rotary club and guests at a luncheon meeting to be held at the Broadway at noon Thursday. The luncheon has been advanced an hour in order to give Mr. Bennett time to catch his train.

Now 34, Mr. Bennett was graduated from Oxford University in 1936 with a Bachelor of Arts degree and later served with the foreign division of the British Ministry of Information in the British Isles, Europe and the near East. Later, he was head of the British Information Liaison office with the United Nations in New York.

The Rotary club has officially invited Gyro club members to attend Thursday's luncheon, and it is expected that a number of other guests will be present.

WEEDON, Northampton, Eng. (P)—"Effrontery" of non-churchgoers in demanding church facilities for weddings, christenings and funeral is condemned by the Rev. L. Lewis. Attendance, he says, does not justify his parish's existence.

NEW CANADIAN LABOR CODE

der the code will be considerably extended beyond that of the old wartime Labor Relations Board.

The former body had power to certify a union. The new one can go as far as directing either party to a dispute—Labor or management—to undertake collective bargaining.

However, the final imposition of penalties in the event of violation of the code is up to the ordinary courts.

LABOR UNION'S STAND

Some Commons members hammered hard against this set-up, declaring the government should enforce its own legislation. Labor Minister Mitchell took the stand that the Act was primarily a conciliation instrument, and the courts should be resorted to as little as possible. He predicted few cases would wind up in court.

Against Canadian Congress of Labor contentions that the code is weak and inadequate in many respects, Mr. Mitchell has taken the stand that it is "good legislation"—at least for a starter. If defects are found in the first year, he says, they can be eliminated with later amendments.

It is the government's hope that the code will be adopted as a model for legislation in all the provinces, with a view to bringing some uniformity out of the existing hodge-podge of Labor laws across the country.

The Ontario government already has adopted it completely, and some of the other provinces have indicated to the Federal government they are considering enacting legislation along the same lines.

The new board that will administer the code will be under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice G. B. O'Connor of the Appellate Division of the Alberta Supreme Court, one of Canada's top Labor experts in the judicial field. Mr. Justice O'Connor was chairman of the old board.

Others of the 10-man board will be the same as those on the old organization, including four from Labor, four from management and one from the Labor Department. The chief executive officer will be M. M. MacLean, chief of the Department's Industrial Relations Branch and one of Canada's foremost industrial disputes conciliators.

SHE WAS TOPS IN OLYMPICS—Grand Slam Olympic performance of Mrs. Fanny Blankers-Koen, Dutch mother of two children, continues to be the talk of the sporting world. The Dutch mother, who won four gold medals is now back at home in Amsterdam. She shows the medals to her husband.

Seasonable Ideas for Housekeepers

COOKIES AND CAKES, NEW AND HISTORIC — OLD RULES STAND

World history reveals many stories connected with cake baking. One tells of a French princess who, when she married an English king, brought her own chef with her to her new home. One of his specialties was a small cake which she called "petit gâteau taillé." The English people heard the name and called them "petticoat tails." In England these cookies have always carried that mispronounced name.

Spain gives us those marvelous little "Churros" or puffy crullers which are served with hot chocolate for breakfast. Norway is famous for Karde-moune Kakes which we call cardamon cookies. From China come special, rich little almond cakes. From other countries we have adopted anise drops, peppernuts, springerle and many other delicious cookies.

Whether cookies are kept in a huge pottery jar or a cookie tin it is a satisfaction to have it full—at least once in a while. Home economists have many new recipes for cookies, adapted from these favorites of other lands.

There is a difference in types of flour. For cookies it does not make any difference which kind is used, so long as the measurements are correct. All-purpose flour is made from hard wheat. If a cake or flour, all-purpose flour will do cookie recipe calls for pastry just as well but less is required. The rule is to use one cup less two tablespoons of all-purpose flour for every cup of pastry flour called for in the recipe. Many recipes appearing in magazines call for fortified or enriched flour. This type of flour is not used in Canada but an equal quantity of pastry flour may be substituted when following cookie recipes.

As in all other cooking, it is wise to follow the rules, measure accurately and watch the oven temperature.

Cinnamon Snaps
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 cup molasses
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
5 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 tablespoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening with sugar, add molasses, lemon juice and grated rind. Sift two cups of flour with soda, cinnamon and salt and add to first mixture. Gradually work in remaining flour to make a stiff dough. Turn onto slightly floured board, roll out very thin, cut in desired shapes and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 10 minutes. Yield: About 5 doz. cookies 2" diameter.

Mexican Wedding Cookies
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup shortening
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sifted pastry flour
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
3 tablespoons icing sugar

HOME LEAGUE HITS AGAINST HIGH PRICES

A group of Prince Rupert people gathered in the city police court last night to indict the high cost of living, deciding for the second time within a month to make an effort to curb soaring prices by seeking re-establishment of controls.

They met in the police court chamber in the city hall which had been made available by Mayor Arnold to the recently formed Home Makers' League whose avowed intention is to halt the stratospheric rise of commodity prices.

The meeting was called by Mrs. Ross Richardson, who invited members of various city organizations to attend in the hope that they would persuade their members to sign petitions urging the government to bring back controls.

Suspicion of Communism raised its head when a delegate asked Mrs. Richardson whether or not she had ascertained a Vancouver consumers' group which she had contacted for information, had communistic tendencies.

Mrs. Richardson replied that so far, she had had no reply from the group which she had written, but she would make certain that it was not Communist-directed before the Prince Rupert Home Makers' League had dealings with it.

The meetings decided that before any resolutions were circulated to be forwarded to Vancouver, literature on the background and aims of the south-

Alderman A. S. Nickerson, who represented the city, declared that high prices originated at or near the source of the commodities, and that retailers were equally as opposed to them as were consumers. Freight rates, especially rail rates, had only a slight effect on present prices, he said.

Reminiscences By W.J. and Reflections

Prince Rupert's first theatre was not so hot. It had no merit, grace or comfort. It was not so easy on either eyes or ears. It stood on ground, now part of the railway yard and drew crowds nightly. There was no foyer. You just paid and entered, to sit, if lucky, on a kitchen chair, and if less fortunate on a bench. What went on, on the screen, was most erratic. It could be said, truthfully, that the motion pictures were full of motions, and that was all. The orchestra consisted of the late Frank Stevens who manfully belaboured a piano—an instrument that should have been drawing a pension. However, Prince Rupert, always a tolerant town, cheerfully paid admission because, as patrons sometimes said "the show was so bad it made them laugh."

A Canadian newspaper published in January, 1862, advertises butter at 15 cents, eggs at 15 cents, a barrel of apples at $3, and a hundred pounds of beef for $3.50. The income tax was unheard of. And who wants to wager that in 1948 there is not just as much complaint and as many half-past-twelve faces, as could be experienced eighty-six years ago.

With an eye to the turning of a more or less honest penny, next winter, Montrealeers are said to be trying to buy butter fifty pounds at a whack, and hoarding it in their homes, selling when prices are high. They will instal "freezing equipment," to keep the butter cool and firm. There are some dwellings in any eastern city where that would be quite unnecessary.

A tidy piece of change was left in Prince Rupert, last week, by the Indians. There were not many stores, restaurants or cars in town that they missed. Brand new outfits in the way of suits and hats and caps for the youngsters, as well as elders, were noticeable along the streets. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that the natives believe in large families. They earn their money here, and they spend it here. And that's more than plenty of folks can say.

Someone, with more time than anything else, says a bee, in order to turn out a pound of honey, must travel from hive to flower, and back again, no fewer than 2,750,000 times. Often, the bee has to fly a mile on a single flight. But not a single word is said about overtime.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., (P)—When 2nd Battalion The King's Regiment landed here after overseas duty, "Old Boy" deputy-mayor W. G. Gregson was there to welcome them. "I started as a private," he said, "and by exercising some influence, finished as one."

Newspaper Party At Prince George

Transfer of Citizen to New Ownership Marked, With H. G. T. Perry as Host

PRINCE GEORGE—An epochal event in the newspaper history of Prince George was observed in a social way on Monday night at the Club Cafe here when H. G. T. Perry, for years publisher of the Prince George Citizen, retired from the field of active journalism with the disposal of his newspaper to a partnership of his former employees—C. A. Warner, H. G. Kennedy, Nestor Isowsky and Harry Gregson. Memories over more than a quarter of a century of newspaper publishing here were recalled as Mr. Perry, in the address of the evening, said his farewells, culminating in a warm expression of well wishing to his successors in the business.

Principal response was by C. A. Warner who expressed mutual good wishes to Mr. Perry and, with feeling words, presented to him a handsome pen and pencil set and to Mrs. Perry a beautiful bouquet of flowers, both Mr. and Mrs. Perry responding.

H. G. Kennedy, Nestor Isowsky and Harry Gregson were also heard and G. A. Hunter, managing editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News, was on hand to bring the greetings and best wishes to all concerned not only of himself but of the personnel of the Daily News with which Mr. Perry remains actively identified.

Arrangements for the evening's proceedings were in the hands of Mrs. Jack Brandle. Music, provided by Sid Perry and Harry Gregson, community singing and dancing brought the evening to a close.

There were thirty present.

SUTTON COLFIELD, Warwickshire, Eng., (P)—Surrounding innkeepers have been asked to help search for a missing $200 ($800) pedigree Alsatian, Laish Peter of Norn. Fran Riego, chairman of the British Alsatian Association, who is leading the search, said: "Peter likes a daily drink of beer. We hope he may call in a pub somewhere in quest of one."

TOURISM IS NO. 1 INDUSTRY AND SHOULD BE FOSTERED, SAYS WRITER

Tourism is becoming a No. 1 export potential and industry and Horace Sutton, travel editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, is surprised that there is not a greater appreciation of the fact in this part of Canada.

"Nature has given you everything," said Mr. Sutton, who arrived in the city on last night's train in the course of a tour of Canada gathering information and local atmosphere for a book he is to write in addition to articles for the Saturday Review and New York Times. "Your scenery is magnificent, more so probably than you appreciate. You have big game hunting, many things of the greatest interest to travelers. There is a great field for the development of an industry which would be of the utmost profit to your communities and your country, particularly at a time when you are so desirous of obtaining American dollars."

The first essential in the development of the tourist industry was that of providing good highways, declared Mr. Sutton. With the highways of Canada in their present condition, the Dominion was losing millions of dollars annually of revenues from people who would come to Canada but, instead, remained on the better roads of the United States. He agreed that highway development should be on a national scale.

Eastern Fishermen Quality Conscious

OTTAWA—Hon. Mr. Mayhew, minister of fisheries, who has returned from a visit to the Maritime Provinces, praised the fishermen for being quality conscious. Mr. Mayhew said, after a visit to some 60 east coast fishing areas:

"It promises well for the future of the trade when one finds people engaged in the production side so sensible of the importance of maintaining high quality standards."

FIRST WOOD GRINDER

In 1885 Alexander Buntin installed at Valleyfield, Quebec, what is claimed to have been the first wood grinder in America.

With the highway should also be provided suitable accommodation for tourists and organization attractions, preferably peculiar to the individual communities. Then publicity campaigns could be embarked upon.

In Prince Rupert Mr. Sutton saw opportunity for tourist hostels and also organization of the hunting and fishing of the area.

Mr. Sutton, who has travelled extensively in Europe and who is now finishing a trans-Canada tour, saw the Pacific Ocean for the first time at Prince Rupert following his arrival from Jasper Park on last night's train. He is sailing this afternoon on the Princess Louise for Vancouver and Victoria whence he will head direct to Toronto enroute to his headquarters in New York.
