RAILWAY CHIEF PAYS TRIBUTE

MONTREAL—A message from R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president of Canadian National Railways, says:

"Canada has lost a statesman, a great citizen-soldier and a leader of the bar in the death of Col. J. L. Ralston. In the early stages of the last war I, as chairman of the Defence Purchasing Board, from which sprang the Munitions and Supply Department of the Dominion Government, had the good fortune to be closely associated with Col. Ralston, first in his capacity of Minister of Finance and later as Minister of National Defence. He never spared himself and his advice and counsel were always available both by day and night. I doubt if any man worked harder than he did. Throughout his public career Col. Ralston had a keen appreciation of the value of railway transportation in peace and in war, and in no section of our national life will his passing be more deeply regretted."

THOMAS DEWEY WINS OREGON

PORTLAND (CP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York ran an easy length ahead of Harold E. Stassen today in tabulation of Oregon's Republican presidential primary count but whether he had finally taken the measure of his Minnesota rival still rested in a late count, which is yet to come. Returns from 951 of 1,861 precincts gave the New York governor 41,488 and Stassen, 35,506.

Depends On Water Power

VICTORIA (CP)—Establishment of a huge aluminum plant in British Columbia depends upon water power potentialities, top executives of the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd. said Friday night. R. E. Powell, vice-president of the eastern corporation, conferred with cabinet ministers and discussed development of water power sources along the Central British Columbia coast.

In a statement Mr. Powell said that investigations were being conducted to "determine if prospects justify preliminary studies which alone will cost $1,000,000 and take two years."

The province has no bauxite nor any other important raw materials required in the manufacture of aluminum but it does have enough undeveloped water power for the establishment of a plant similar to the one the company operates at Arvida on Quebec's Saguenay River.

British Columbia has three such power sources each with about one million gross horsepower. They are:

Chilco-Taseko with a possible development at the head of Bute Inlet.

Eutsum-Kimsquit at the head of Dean Channel.

Taktsa-Kemano at the head of Gardner Canal.

A similar plant to the $300,000,000 Arvida plant would mean the employment of several thousand workers with a city of 20,000.

City School Children Observe Empire Day with Dual Meet

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER, I.O.D.E., SPONSOR ANNUAL PATRIOTIC RALLIES AT CAPITOL THEATRE

Students of the city's elementary and high schools Friday afternoon attended two Empire Day programs in the Capitol Theatre under sponsorship of Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., hearing speakers emphasize the value of the British Empire and Commonwealth in a troubled world and taking part in a patriotic program.

First of the two programs was for children of the five elementary schools. Lasting more than an hour, it consisted of a program of student presentations and talks by Mrs. Jens Munthe, Municipal Regent and Rev. Basil S. Procter. This was followed by the High School program, main feature of which was an address by Mayor Nora E. Arnold.

ST. JOHN, N.B.—Deputy Police Chief M. P. F. Biddiscombe Friday confirmed that a ring selling babies for adoption was operating in Saint John and said it was international in scope. Babies, it is stated, were being sold in New York and Jersey. Reports of the ring came to attention of police more than a year ago when an unnamed mother wanted her child back after having offered it to the ring.

VANCOUVER BOY FAST

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wally Alexander of John Oliver High School featured a High School track and field meet here Friday when he came within one-tenth of a second of equalling Percy Williams' record for the 220-yard dash. He ran the distance in 22.1 seconds against the 1928 mark of 22 seconds flat. John Oliver School won the meet for the third consecutive year.

Chairman of both gatherings was Mrs. E. W. Becker, educational secretary of Municipal Chapter.

In her address, Mrs. Munthe described Empire Day as the "most important for us all." "On this day, as members of the Empire, we proudly remember the great heritage that is ours," she declared. "It is a privilege, and it is with pride that we commemorate this occasion. It is our hope that you, as sons and daughters of the Empire, may always find the inspiration to carry on with dignity and honor its fine traditions."

Rev. Basil S. Procter delivered his address in the form of an allegory which brought out the right of all people, particularly minorities, to enjoy freedom. He pictured to the children, a land of "little people," tiny folk who were discovered by children and who, because of their size, were treated in the manner of dolls by the youngsters.

He carried the picture further into real life by comparing this to the days of colonization, when native inhabitants, often aboriginal, were treated in somewhat similar manner by the stronger races.

This idea, he said, was out-moded and now all people regardless of their strength, should have the right to enjoy their lives under the principles of democracy.

The program concluded with the singing of the anthem "Land of Our Birth" and "Land of Hope and Glory" by children from all the schools under direction of Principal J. S. Wilson of Borden Street; a medley of Empire songs by the King Edward School Choir, accompanied by Miss Mardel Solland; rhythm band selections by the Annunciation School rhythm band; a group of songs by the Conrad Street School choir, directed by Miss Urquhart; "Drill of the Pixie Army" by the Borden Street School; "This Canada of Ours" by the Borden Street School choir accompanied by

Victoria Day

PERHAPS more than any other legal holiday in Canada the celebration of May 24 strikes a responsive chord. The date is known by different names but, to a multitude of Canadians, it's been "the twenty-fourth." That covers everything. There is something about it that seems so natural, so fitting and appropriate. The day marks a historic anniversary and something else, as well. After winter's harshness and spring's chill it heralds something happier—the soft touch of summer, blossoms and verdure, rest and relaxation. Welcome, indeed, the 24th of May—birthday of Victoria whose long reign saw so little of war and so much of what today is so greatly sought—peace on earth, goodwill to men.

Canadian enjoyment of a statutory holiday on the 24th of May—a holiday unique in the British Commonwealth and Empire—is due largely to the wisdom of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his fellow legislators.

May 24 was first observed in 1838, the year following the accession of Victoria to the British throne, and held its place as an Empire holiday for more than 60 years.

When the Queen died in 1901, Canadians generally agreed it would be a pity to abandon May 24 and celebrate the birthday of Edward VII, which fell in the inclement month of November.

Parliament, on the motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on May 2, 1901, passed a bill designating May 24 as an annual holiday to commemorate the Good Queen.

If the Turkish ambassador who attended her coronation in 1838 could see the fireworks sparkling in night sky above Canadian towns and cities on this 24th, he would certainly be astonished that Victoria's birthday should be honored in a land thousands of miles distant, 110 years later.

History has it that the ambassador was so struck by the magnificence of the coronation he could not walk to his proper place, but stood bewildered, muttering: "All this for a woman."

The pomp and display of that occasion was justified by a reign that saw wide colonial expansion and the growth of British power on land and sea. The Queen became Empress of India, a title calculated to impress British sovereignty on the minds of the princes and peoples of the great sub-continent. And it was during her reign that a group of scattered colonies were welded into a new nation—the Dominion of Canada.

Victoria Day in Canada is distinct from Empire Day, which since 1899 has been observed in schools on that last school-day preceding May 24. Elsewhere in the Empire, Victoria Day has merged with Empire Day, and is not kept as holiday.

A Canadian woman, Mrs. Clementina Fessenden, is credited with establishing Empire Day. As a result of her efforts, the Hamilton school board, of which she was a member, in 1898 set aside one school afternoon of the year as "Flag Day" to inspire children with patriotic sentiments.

The Dominion Educational Association soon made it a national movement. The Earl of Meath took up the idea and the first celebration in the United Kingdom in 1902 heralded the beginning of its spread throughout the Empire.

MORALS AND VD

IN THE CASE of venereal disease, prevention means an understanding that conduct and not medication lies at the core of the problem.

Despite all that medical science has done and is doing to control VD, the scourge is still with us. The fact that in at least one large Canadian treatment clinic—since the advent of quick cures—one-third of the patients are repeaters would tend to prove that syphilis and gonorrhoea are no longer purely medical problems.

Medical science, it would appear, has far outstripped moral teaching in the fight against venereal diseases. The lack of widespread attention to this teaching is actually defeating science in the anti-VD war. The treatment of these diseases with sulfa drugs and penicillin has had spectacular results, and, because of such speedy cures, there seem to be people who disregard moral restraint.

Believing that those people are among those whose moral training was inadequate, the Health League of Canada emphasizes that venereal-disease prevention lies in character education—in an understanding that only the highest of moral standards will ultimately defeat this world-wide scourge.

Venereal diseases may be curable—but they are preventable only if conduct between the sexes remains on a high plane.

CANCER CURE NOT PROVEN

Official of B.C. Medical Association Sounds Warning Here

After declaring that it was the earnest hope of all medical men that research work now going on to find the cause of cancer would come to fruition speedily, Dr. F. L. Whitehead, executive secretary of the British Columbia Medical Association, speaking before the Gyro Club while visiting the city this week, commented upon a report that a Victoria doctor had found a cancer cure and warned the public against being led to believe that anything extraordinary had been done up to the could be proven in a minimum present in any case. Nothing of say, six months. Meantime the British Columbia Medical Association and the board of directors of St. Joseph's Hospital was urging the greatest caution in jumping to conclusions. "No one wants to see a repetition here of the Braund affair," commented Dr. Whitehead.

Dr. Whitehead was speaking on the subject of "Modern Trends in the Practice of Medicine." Only within the past two centuries, he declared, had the practice of medicine and the knowledge that goes with it had been really developed along scientific lines. In that time control had been brought about of scourges such as smallpox, plague, yellow typhus, malaria, typhoid and diphtheria which maladies had been practically eradicated. Great advances had been made in the fields of anaesthesia, fracture treatment and blood transfusions. It was well known today what was being accomplished by the use of penicillin and streptomycin although the possibilities of the latter had not yet been fully explored.

Dr. Whitehead alluded to the public demand for prepaid hospitalization and medical care, the desire for protection against the costs of being sick. While extremely helpful to the public, such plans, Dr. Whitehead admitted, were also "to the general good from the point of view of the doctors" who were thus given freedom to go ahead and were actually provided with more security.

Speaking of the large investment involved in becoming a doctor, Dr. Whitehead declared that the "old day of the general practitioner as understood 20 or 30 years ago is passing away rapidly." Specialization was the order of the day. Special qualifications were required and obtained today by doctors in even the smallest of communities.

Trend of the times in the treatment of mass afflictions of humanity such as tuberculosis, cancer, mental ailments and venereal disease was toward uniform methods. Costs involved demanded that public moneys be put to work in order to try to control the situation. The provision of millions of dollars as announced recently by the federal government was to be welcomed. It would assist materially.

Doctors, the speaker said, were welcoming the provincial hospitalization insurance scheme and could be expected to co-operate fully with it.

President Orme Stuart presided over the luncheon and thanks of the club were extended to Dr. Whitehead by Grant Stewart, Dr. L. H. Leeson, president of the British Columbia Medical Association, acknow-

CHURCH

SATURDAY SERMON

A MISSIONARY VISION

By A. W. Carmichael, Missionary to India
 "Where there is no vision, the people perish." Proverbs 29:18.

The tom-toms thumped on all night and the darkness shuddered round me like a living, feeling thing. I could not go to sleep, so I lay awake and looked and I saw and it seemed like this:

That I stood on a grassy sward and at my feet a precipice broke sheer down into infinite space. I looked, but saw no bottom; only cloud shapes, black and furiously coiled, and great shadow-shrouded hollows, and unfathomable depths. Back I drew, dizzy at the depth.

Then I saw forms of people moving single-file along the edge. There was a woman with a baby in her arms and another little child holding on to her dress. She was on the very verge. Then I saw that she was blind. She lifted her foot for the next step . . . it trod air. She was over, and the children over with her. Oh, the cry as she went over!

Then I saw more streams of people flowing from all quarters. All were blind, stone blind; all made straight for the precipice edge. There were shrieks as they suddenly knew themselves falling and a tossing up of helpless arms, catching, clutching at empty air. But some went over quietly and fell without a sound.

Then I wondered, with a wonder that was simply agony, why no one stopped them at the edge. I could not, I was glued to the ground and I could not call. Though I strained and tried, only a whisper would come.

Then I saw that along the edge there were sentries—set at intervals. But the intervals were far too great; there were wide, unguarded gaps between. And over these gaps the people fell in their blindness, quite unwarned; and the green grass seemed blood-red to me, and the gulf yawned like the mouth of Hell.

Then I saw like the picture of peace, a group of Christians under some trees, with their backs turned toward the gulf. They were making daisy chains. Sometimes when a piercing shriek cut the quiet air and reached them, it disturbed them and they thought it rather a vulgar noise. And if one of their number started up and wanted to go and do something to help, then all the others would pull that one down. "Why should you get so excited about it? You must wait for a definite 'call' to go. You haven't finished your daisy chains. It would be really selfish," they said, "to leave us to finish the work alone."

There was another group. It was made up of people whose great desire was to get some sentries out but they found that very few wanted to go and sometimes there were no sentries for miles and miles at the edge.

Once a girl stood alone in her place, waving the people back; but her mother and other relations called and reminded her that her furlough was due; she must not break the rules. And, being tired and needing a change, she had to go and rest awhile; but no one was sent to guard her gap, and over and over the people fell, like a waterfall of souls.

Once a child caught at a tuft of grass that grew at the very brink of the gulf; the child clung convulsively, and it called but nobody seemed to hear. Then the roots of the grass gave way and, with a cry, the child went over, its two little hands still holding tight to the torn-off bunch of grass.

And the girl who longed to be back in her gap thought she heard the little one cry and she sprang up and wanted to go; at which her relatives reproved her, reminding her that no one is necessary anywhere—the gap would be well taken care of, they knew. And they sang a hymn.

Then through the hymn came another sound like the pain of a million broken hearts wrung out in one full drop, one sob. And a horror of great darkness came upon me, for I knew what it was—the cry of blood.

Then thundered a Voice, the voice of the Lord; and He said, "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" Then said I: "Here am I; send me." And He said, "Go and tell this people . . . Jesus said: 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature . . . and lo, I am with you always.'" (Isaiah 6:8; Mark 16:15; Matthew 28:20.)

COLD ASSIGNMENT IN JAPAN—Lieut. Willard Beham, pilot assigned to the snowbound U.S. air force base at Chitose, Hokkaido, Japan, holds an 8-foot icicle as proof that his 49th fighter group is located mightily close to the north pole. The air force base, situated where the old Japanese 41st naval base used to be, lays claim to the fact that it is colder than any other base in Japan. All buildings at the airfield are connected by tunnels so as to eliminate walking outside in wintry weather.

WED QUIETLY AT CATHEDRAL

A quiet wedding ceremony solemnized last Saturday at St. Andrew's Cathedral united Miss Helen Isadore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isadore of Smithers, and Charles H. Foster, formerly of Stettler, Alberta. Rev. Basil S. Prockter officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by Charles Anderson and witnesses to the ceremony were Anthony Peterson and Mrs. Madeline Penney.

Following the ceremony, close friends of the couple attended a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Peterson, 423 Seventh Avenue West.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster have taken up residence in the city. Mr. Foster is employed at the Prince Rupert Hotel.

The firm attachments within the Empire were subject of an address delivered by Mayor Nora Arnold, Canada's Woman of the Year, to the High School students. The solidarity of the Empire, she said, is founded on similarity of principles and sentiment springing from the British tradition which has embraced the globe. She illustrated her point by saying that, within her own family, members now lived in various parts of the British Commonwealth. They lived in various parts of the world, but were still members of the same family.

This gathering was also addressed by Municipal Regent Mrs. Jens Munthe, concluding with the anthem "Jerusalem, Land of Our Birth" by the Junior Girls' Choir.

At the conclusion, Mrs. E. W. Becker expressed the thanks of the Chapter to the speakers and to J. Harry Black, manager of the Capitol Theatre, for granting use of the theatre for the occasion.

McIntyre was winner of the box of home-made candy which was raffled.

LIFE in this Prince Rupert

by BIDDEE JINKS

I like front seats. It may be a carry-over from horse and buggy days when only that vantage point allowed small people to watch the shining muscle of a horse's flank knot, then ripple smoothly out again to let his hind hoof clip just under the lifting front one. And at a gate the fellow in the front seat always got the lines handed to him. The horses knew when to stop and start; even so it was a large moment.

In concerts there may be a spot further back where acoustics make tones of voices or instruments blend perfectly but to me the performer or performers rate one up on what they produce. And I like to be near enough to know they are really alive.

I felt it most at George Chavchavade's first concert. Half-way back I sat in unsatisfied agony. Hearing was not enough. I wanted to see his hands, his expression.

Next time it was different.

And now, when the Spanish Waltz, orchestral arrangement, comes over the air I hear instead Chavchavade's inimitable piano arrangement; see his fingers follow their own perfect pattern—and he himself giving accent by that small bounce upon the stool.

It was much the same for the Music and Drama Festival. The choral numbers carried a reasonable distance but, when the plays came on, I wished heartily I had taken time out somewhere to learn lip-reading. And that mufflers had been distributed in the back, right-hand corner.

The last night is pinned in my memory. Performances may have been no better but was up front where the unmarred spirit of it all was full and sweet. Many times I found I must swallow—and would think, "I would not miss this for anything."

The first time was on the first number—the Borden Street Choir. They were first on, slightly tremulous, their faces a bit taut, and their shoulders tight. Then Mr. Wilson smiled.

The audience saw only Mr. Wilson's back—and the reflection of his smile, if they noticed, on the children's faces. It fell on them all from right to left. It gathered them in one close group with himself, a steady, relaxed, smiling band of little children ready to sing when Mr. Wilson gave the signal.

This same close bond between leader and choir was pronounced in the Annunciation School presentations. Sister Mary Lawrence had her own method of giving inspiration. As they sang she singled one to the right, one to the left, then another and another, to send them a special smile. Like a direct sunbeam it came back to her, the confident smile of a young girl. And they blended happily together, vibrantly as a flowing stream.

One member of this choir was particularly pleasing. Her contralto was full and true but she caught my fancy by the way she sang. Al Johnson sang that way. He simply put himself, his own unique, personal qualities into a song, and made it pulse.

This girl is Bernadette George, a native, whose home is near Fort Fraser. She has attended the Lejac School, then took Grade IX by correspondence before coming to Prince Rupert for her Grade X.

Being completely deaf in one ear is no handicap, apparently, to this girl. She is the first student who has been able to carry the contralto for the Annunciation Choir. Besides, she is a good student, in itself a lovable quality.

This girl won't be taking part in the Festival next year. It is unlikely that she will be here. But if I am, you may count me in—on a front seat.

ADVOCATES NEW COCKPIT AS CRASH REMEDY

Accident Investigator Proposes Eliminating "Design Error" in Planes by Standardizing Controls

By James J. Streibig
WASHINGTON. (AP)—Pilot error is blamed for most air crashes but pilot perfection has been pushed near the limit until supermen are born.

Safety experts, looking around the pilot to learn what makes him make mistakes, are convinced that "design error" is a very important item. Now they hope to give the good pilot a better cockpit.

During the war the United States Air Force lost more than half as many pilots in training accidents as it lost in combat. An air force study of the experiences of 460 fliers since the war disclosed one important fact: All pilots make mistakes sometimes.

Some pilots make more mistakes than others. Half of all the errors reported were "substitution"—that is, operating the wrong control, such as lowering the wing flap instead of the landing gear.

Nearly one-fifth were "adjustment"—moving a control too much or too little or not moving it fast enough. Nearly one-fifth of the mistakes were simply forgetting to do something. The rest of the errors were caused by moving a control the wrong way, moving it unintentionally or by not being able to reach it.

Robert V. Garrett, chief pilot and senior accident investigator for the civil aeronautics board, says two things need to be done: Cockpits should be standardized; Pilots should be trained more.

BRITISH AHEAD

The British government ordered standardized cockpits years ago. In this country cockpits differ not only between makes of planes but within the same series of the same model. Garrett recalls that during the war one series of Liberator bomber—the B-24-D—had four different cockpits. With split-second decisions necessary in instrument flying, it meant that pilots virtually had to be trained for each airplane.

The air force and the navy have taken one important step toward standardization by grouping the six basic instruments used in "blind flying." These are the air speed indicator, directional gyro-compass, artificial horizon, altimeter, turn and bank indicator, and rate of climb indicator.

The most common type of error, accounting for about one-fifth of all pilot mistakes occurs in the "power group"—the four handles which control fuel mixture, propeller pitch, fuel and supercharging. They must be operated in that order when increasing power, and in the reverse order to decrease it. The natural arrangement would appear to be to place the controls in the order of use, but few planes have it that way.

The second most common failing—confusing flap and wheels—accounts for one error in eight. In most airplanes those controls are in the same area and some times have the same shape. Both are used in landings and take-offs.

Garrett proposes that all cockpits be standardized, whether for military, commercial or private planes.

Standardization would mean having each control in the same relative position in every cockpit. The effectiveness of that would be increased by "code-shaping" the handles so that a pilot would recognize the control by feel, and by distinctive coloring.

A further step might be the changing of the movement of some controls, such as from horizontal to vertical or rotary. Still another step might be to place the light used to show whether a control is on or off right in the handle instead of above, below, or beside it.

HOW CAN I ???

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I clean walls thoroughly?

A. A good solution for cleaning painted walls is 1 cup of kerosine, 1 cup of vinegar, 1 cup hot water. Apply with a cloth, then wipe thoroughly with another soft cloth.

Q. How can I remove onion odor from the fingers after peeling onions?

A. Rub the fingers with crushed parsley. Chewing a sprig of parsley after eating onions will clear the breath.

Q. How can very soiled eggs be cleaned?

A. Wash them in a solution of baking soda and water, using a small vessel.

SHORT SPORT

The oldest annual turf classic in North America, the King's Plate, will be run Monday next at Toronto when a field of top Canadian three-year-olds meet in the 80th running of the historic event with its purse of 50 guineas and $10,000 added.

A throng of 40,000 is expected to crowd old Woodbine Park to watch the dozen or so thoroughbred match speed and stamina over the gruelling mile-and-one eighth gallop in Canada's top racing fixture. Eastern stock has held the coveted trophy since its presentation in 1860 in honor of Queen Victoria. But since nominations were extended in 1944 from Ontario to railbirds see a strong western threat from the topsy-turvy field of campaigners.

Lord Fairmond, western hope from Whittier Park Stables of Winnipeg, entered the charmed circle of favorites when he turned in a dawn work-out mile in 1:41 3/5 recently. The brown colt by Fairmond out of Sweepden, will be piloted by Albertaborn Johnny Longden, the bronzed veteran who recently made American turf history when he booted home his 3,000th winner. Graduating from the Alberta wheat fields, the 38-year-old veteran was signed three weeks ago by Lord Fairmond's owner R. J. Speers. Pre-race forkouts have failed to establish a heavy favorite but horsemen think Sweepden, carrying the rouble-blue silks of Toronto's Hatch Stables, may repeat the winning performance of Hatch's entries in 1941, 1944, and 1945.

Established in 1860 as the Queen's Plate, this foremost of Canadian races was run as such until 1902 when it was changed to its present name. The King's purse has been presented every year though the rules for the classic changed through the years. Originally the race rotated among various Ontario centres but in 1883 it was established permanently at Toronto's Woodbine Park. In 1944 two other changes were made; the $8,000-added money was increased to $10,000 and owners were allowed to take their plate-rides south of the border for winter training. But if they race across the border they are disqualified.

With 20 King's Plate victories—eight won consecutively from 1891 to 1898—the famous Segrain Stable is well out in front since Don Juan won the inaugural running of Canada's richest horse race at Carleton Place, Ont. The Hatch and Giddings Stables follow the yellow and black silks with five each in its unbroken 89-year old history. The race has been staged at Carleton, Guelph, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Prescott and Picton. Although bettors will remember last year's Plate upset when a rank outsider, Moldy, thundered into the stretch, turning back a half-dozen favorites, to reach the wire and just fall short of Utmost's track favorite of 1:33 4/5 set in 1945.

BREATHESAY FOR ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER
BREATHEASY OF CANADA
Ltd. Vancouver, B.C.

after it opened. While fishermen this year have been experiencing some rough weather in the Straits, particularly this week, the weather, as a whole, has been better and deliveries have been sustained at a higher level than a year ago. Also, there are more boats fishing.

Several days this week, the sea has been too rough for small vessels to haul gear but the larger boats kept at it and deliveries have continued steadily. Comparison of the landings from regular halibut boats at Prince Rupert with those of last year does not confirm reports that this port has received less than in 1947. Landings here between May 1 and May 22 totalled 3,937,500 pounds while, during the corresponding period last year, there were 2,840,000 pounds delivered.

Just how much halibut has come in from the numerous fish camps is not known but it is believed also to be greater than a year ago.

Larger American landings at this port, too, have balanced more evenly the percentage delivered to the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative and the fish companies. This year, according to the daily landing reports, the Co-op has received about 55 percent of the landings, while last year, Co-op deliveries totalled more than 65 percent.

As has been stated, one of the reasons is larger American deliveries here. Seattle and Alaskan boats so far have delivered 717,500 pounds, all of which has been bought by the companies as compared with 320,500 pounds for the same period a year ago.

Total landings from the regular fleet at the Co-op up to Friday were 2,138,500 pounds while at the same time, 1,799,000 pounds were sold over the exchange. All Co-op landings were from Canadian boats while fish sold on the exchange, 1,081,500 pounds came from Canadian vessels and 717,500 from American. Just what is holding the price up, no one seems able to determine but it is confounding many of the pessimists who predicted dangerously low sales levels.

THIS AND THAT

"He wanted his hair cut just like his daddy's!"

Starting at 154 cents for medium, the price has not only held strongly during the last three weeks but has increased slowly until Friday's sales activity brought a peak of 20 cents for medium, 18.9 for large and 10.5 for chicken.

Or, taining, however, that has been borne out is the failure of chicken halibut to retain its favored place on the market. Whereas, in former years it commanded good price, it is now less in demand than either of the larger grades and the market reflects it.

Spring salmon season this year has been a marked disappointment so far. Vessels on the Skeena, of which there are about 30 fishing, report small catches as do trollers in Chatham Sound and off the Queen Charlottes.

The navy's oceanographic vessel Ekhol, which arrived here early this week, went out on its first expedition into Chatham Sound, returning after its initial experiments last night. Purpose of the experiments is to determine salt content in the waters at the outflow of the Naas, and Skeena rivers. Four scientists, under direction of Dr. J. P. Tully and Dr. G. L. Pickard, have divided themselves into two teams which will alternate at sea almost continuously between now and the middle of September

AUSSIE WOMAN RUNS HATCHERY

Big Enterprise is Down-Under Version of "The Egg and I"

SYDNEY, Australia (C)—The United States best-seller, "The Egg and I" has a modern, streamlined Australian parallel in the real-life story of a Sydney woman who manages one of the biggest chicken hatcheries in the Southern Hemisphere.

She is Mrs. A. Pearson of Strathfield, who presides over the hatching of some 30,000 chicks each week. At the hatchery all work—with the exception of chick sexing—is done by women. The owner, Stanley Gamble, considers that women make ideal assistants in this highly specialized business.

Mrs. Frances Merrett, for instance, has the job of testing the eggs for fertility after they have been in the incubator from a week to 10 days.

In this modern hatchery the incubators do everything but cluck. Their capacity is from 10,000 to 16,000 eggs and they are made of Queensland silky oak.

Chicks from the Gamble hatcheries are sent all over the state of New South Wales as far afield as Maitland, the possibility of foreigning of chicks herself.
