SECRETARY OF INTERIOR PLEASED WITH PROGRESS

With House Ready to Approve, Mr. Krug Is Hoping For Action By Senate

WASHINGTON, D.C. (CP)—United States Secretary of the Interior Krug today described as "wonderful" the House of Representatives sub-committee's approval of the bill to give Alaska statehood.

"I think the House will probably pass the measure and, if only we can get the Senate to move, we might have two new states before summer," Krug said at a press conference.

The other state would be Hawaii.

B.C. Wins In Curling

Capture Dominion Championship For First Time—Eight Wins, One Loss

CALGARY (CP)—Defeating Quebec Thursday night in a thrilling extra-end final match by a score of 11 to 10, Theo (Frenchy) deAmour's rink from Trail captured for British Columbia its first Canadian curling championship. British Columbia won eight of nine matches in the competition which has been in progress at the Victoria Arena here all week.

Following the conclusion of play, the tankard was presented to the Trail rink by Mr. Justice Thane Campbell of Prince Edward Island, president of the Dominion Curling Association. An enthusiastic crowd of 5200 fans watched the finals.

NEW ENVOY OF CZECHS

Successor to Loyal Ambassador Speedily Named

WASHINGTON, (CP)—Czechoslovakia's new communist government already has an envoy on the way to replace the ambassador to the United States who quit rather than "serve the state."

Diplomatic officials said yesterday that Irvin Munk had been named minister-counselor to Washington after last week's Red coup in Prague. He was enroute here when Ambassador Jura Slavik quit on Wednesday and would become charge d'affaires, heading what staff does not follow Slavik into voluntary exile.

UNITED CHURCH MISSIONARY WORK REVIEWED AT CONFERENCE HERE; CRUCIFIXION COMMUNIST ACTIVITY

"They crucified him and in three days he was dead."

This sentence, quoted in the Overseas Mission Report of the Prince Rupert Presbytery, described the fate of a modern Chinese martyr, Rev. H. S. Forbes, a former missionary in China, and now minister at Ocean Falls, yesterday reviewed the work of the overseas missions of the United Church of Canada in Trinidad, Africa, India, Korea, Japan and China. He spoke feelingly of his former home in Honan, China, from which the missionaries have been driven out.

A letter from Dr. Cunningham in Chengtu, China, dated December 7, 1947, describing civil war conditions, told how two young, educated Chinese who had hoped to stay and work (Continued on Page 5)

Students Survey Soggy Books As Booth School Classes Resume

Classes resumed this morning at Booth Memorial High School, still damp from the drenching it received early Thursday morning when vandals opened the valves of four fire hose lines, pouring tons of water into corridors and classrooms of the building. However, in many cases, the work done by the students and teachers was that of sorting out soggy books and classroom equipment in an effort to determine the extent of damage done to student property.

Damage to the building itself cannot be estimated until it dries out, Principal A. M. Hurst said. Most likely damage is expected to be the collapsing of the plaster finishing to walls and ceilings which were saturated as the water poured through the school. In the meantime, the building has stopped dripping, Mr. Hurst said.

Wooden floors and woodwork also are likely to suffer from the water which in some places was lying to considerable depths in the classrooms. Warping and heaving will be a probable result.

This morning, scores of students surveyed their soaked textbooks and notebooks, replacement of which may prove costly to parents.

Police and school authorities are still seeking to learn the names of those who committed the vandalism.

The act was committed within a matter of hours after the School Board, at its monthly meeting, had affirmed an earlier decision to repair Booth High School to extend its life, and to build a new school on the King Edward grounds for elementary school use.

Premier Johnson In Statement of Policy

Urges Closing of Tax Agreement With Ottawa—To Work Further On Extension of P. G. E. Line

VICTORIA (CP)—Premier Byron Johnson, in a policy report to the Legislature today, declared that existing tax agreements between the Dominion and the province cannot be considered fair unless social security proposals of the federal government are put into effect. He said the rapid rise in social service costs made it imperative that the tax agreement negotiated with the Dominion government last year be completed.

The Premier said there had been a heavy drain on surplus account surplus at the end of the fiscal year which at the end of the fiscal year would be about $300,000.

"There is little or no reserve left," the Premier said "with which to meet abnormal economic conditions now existing in the province.

"Expenditures during the last fiscal year were $46,300,000 and estimated expenditures for the year ending March 31 will total $65,644,000.

"When present commitments are met the surplus will dwindle to $300,000."

The Premier said that, if the provinces do not agree to implement the federal government's green book on social security, the province will be compelled to meet emergent problems by adopting restricted schemes of its own.

Mr. Johnson said that negotiations for extension of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will be resumed in the spring. Proposal for a joint undertaking in connection with the northern extension will be placed before the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and the Dominion government.

Former Premier John Hart will continue as president of the railway.

Surveys of coal resources in the railway area will "continue to bring to light a greater volume of coal."

KITIMAAT, GREENVILLE TO MEET IN CHAMPIONSHIP HOOP FINALS

Championship of the Northern B.C. Native Basketball Association will be decided in the Civic Centre gymnasium tonight when Kitimaat, which has scored more than 100 points in two nights, clashes with Greenville, also winner of two games in the current series.

Kitimaat achieved its chance at the championship by defeating Aiyansh by a score of 52 to 19 last night during the same four-game session which saw Greenville advance into the championship finals by overcoming Metlakatla 46-27.

In the consolation round, Port Simpson and Kitkatla will meet for the Junior Chamber of Commerce trophy following last night's semi-finals in which Port Simpson defeated Kincolith 58-28 and Kitkatla beat Massett 49-21.

Kincolith, 1947 holder of the glistening B.C. Packers Trophy, emblematic of the north coast native championship, was knocked out of the running Wednesday night when the powerful Kitimaat team overran them by a 56-22 score.

The former champs confirmed their current lack of competence by falling before Port Simpson in the consolation round last night.

Greenville provided the supreme fan-pleaser last night by putting on the floor 12-year-old A. McNeill, who thrilled the galleries by scoring eight points in 10 minutes.

DE VALERA'S SUCCESSOR AT CHURCH—John A. Costello (bareheaded), 56-year old Dublin lawyer, who became Eire's third premier and head of its first coalition government, is shown leaving the Pro-cathedral in Dublin after a votive mass for the opening of the dail (parliament). Other man is unidentified. With the ending of Eamon de Valera's strong nationalistic rule of Eire after 16 years, Costello immediately announced the formation of an oddly assorted government of five parties and independents.

Appeal For Better Understanding By Col. Hoy—Urges Better Canadian Patriotism

Appeal to Canadians to obtain a greater knowledge and understanding of South Africa and its problems, particularly the racial question, to read more about the country and, if possible, go and visit the southern Dominion was made by Col. Charles N. Hoy, Canadian-born veteran of the Boer War and two world conflicts, but for fifty years a resident of South Africa where he has engaged in farming and also held important governmental administrative posts, in speaking before a social gathering of the Women's Canadian Club in First Presbyterian Church Hall Wednesday night. Col. Hoy's interesting discourse, which included explanation of the historical, political and racial set-up of the Union of South Africa with reference also to its domestic economy, industry and natural resources, was further illuminated by the projection of four talkies depicting fruit growing and wine production, scenery of the Cape area, game life and one of the Royal Visit which included metropolitan scenes in some of the more important cities as well as native customs.

Mrs. T. N. Youngs, president of the Women's Canadian Club, was in the chair and Mrs. S. R. Donaldson presided at the piano to accompany the singing of "O Canada" and "God Save the King."

Following Col. Hoy's lecture and moving pictures, refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid of the church with Mrs. (Continued on Page 5)

Pathetic Hoodlumism

THERE IS SOMETHING pathetic about the act of perverted vandalism which occurred at Booth Memorial School during Wednesday night. Possibly the lawless hoodlums who were responsible are more to be pitied than censured for the asinine and pointless sabotage.

While the act could not be classed by any means as playful mischief but rather wanton stupidity of the sneaky, crackpot type, it is a sort of thing the community must be protected against. Every effort must be made to apprehend the perpetrators and, apprehended, they should receive penalties of weight severe enough not only to be effective punishment but to be deterrent to other furtive deficients who might be inclined to see fun in some sort of a depraved way in such acts.

It will be also interesting, if and when the culprits are apprehended, to ascertain, if possible, just what circumstances, barring complete moronism, made them get that way.

In the meantime, the important thing is that the culprits in this case should be rounded up for the protection of the community and before persons of such apparent mental irresponsibility can get around to doing further damage.

COMMUNIST CHALLENGE

THE CLANKING and rasping of metal can be heard around the world as the ominous sound of the Soviet iron curtain slides farther westward. Now Czechoslovakia has succumbed. Next it looks like Finland.

While the United States dallies with the Marshall plan, the communists in Europe make the most of the delay, knowing that all the time they have in Europe is that which the deferment in the passage and application of the Marshall plan gives them.

While there is dalliance about western aid, the communists do not wait. That is the point in the challenge of recent developments in Prague and what may be occurring in Helsinki, to say nothing of China.

TALKING OF 'FRILLS'

WITH ALL DUE RESPECT to School Inspector Hyndman who like many of the younger school of educationists may be just a little over-enthusiastic about the new ultra-modern ideas on pedagogical methods, we still think there is something to be said for Mayor Nora Arnold, herself a veteran school teacher, and those who believe there are some "frills" in certain aspects of education today.

We do not think for a moment when Mayor Arnold spoke of "frills" that she had any idea of suggesting that there was not plenty of need for improvement in this city's school grounds and buildings which every one must agree have reached a point where they are a disgrace to the community.

Be that as it may, however, School Inspector Hyndman must know that, even under such difficulties as exist, good scholastic attainment and educational achievement are still possible. Nobody is going to suggest that good school buildings and good grounds are "frills" but we are going to say here that there is tendency today to silver spoon and pap-feeding methods in education and we also suggest that intellectual attainment, cultural development and plain thorough-going preparation to meet life in a practical and conscientious way are not being achieved to any greater degree today than in a generation or so back when conditions were certainly quite as rugged as they are today.

Results speak for themselves and we doubt very much, taking it by an large, that even Mr. Hyndman can say results are any better today than they were then.

HULL'S MEMOIRS

OF SPECIAL INTEREST to Pacific ports, and certainly to Prince Rupert, are the memoirs of Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State under Franklin Roosevelt. He describes that fateful Sunday when, even as negotiations with Nippon's two diplomats were still in progress, bombs were raining on the American fleet taken unaware at Pearl Harbor. Hull pictures the way Nomura and colleagues withdrew from his office. It's interesting.

FINED $300 ON LIQUOR CHARGE

In city police court Wednesday, John Maxymyshyn pleaded not guilty to a charge of supplying liquor to an Indian. The case was adjourned until afternoon, when accused was found guilty and fined $300 with option of six months' imprisonment. Mary Wong pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and received a fine of $5 plus $3.50 costs from Magistrate W. D. Vance.

GLASGOW, Scotland, 9 - Robert Carvay, 23, a laborer, who swam across the Clyde in a snowstorm for a bet, was fined $8 for a breach of the peace.

"FACT OR FANCY"

Editor, Daily News:
Ald. George B. Casey's letter under the above caption would ordinarily call for no reply or recognition but lest some young person, unaware of modern developments in philosophical thought should be led to think, because no-one replies, that "silence" thereby gives "consent". I feel that some comment is due for the sake of the younger generation who have not yet had the advantage of experience.

The outmoded and long-discarded views of Mr. Casey would seem to indicate that his reading must have stopped with the late-lamented Robert Blatchford or perhaps as far back as the late Robert G. Ingersoll!

To bring Mr. Casey up to date, may I quote one of the greatest and most brilliant thinkers of today (and not yesterday! not 1890), Professor C. E. M. Joad, than whom there is none greater as a thinker and modern philosopher. For Mr. Casey's information, Prof. Joad has been, for some years, the brilliant head of the British Broadcasting Corporation's "Brain Trust"—leading public forums on the air. For over thirty years, Prof. Joad has been a leading agnostic and rationalist but last year he threw a bombshell into the ranks of his erstwhile friends by boldly announcing before a large gathering of Britain's leading thinkers that he had a confession to make. He said "Gentlemen, it is hard for a man to stand up and confess that for thirty years he has been wrong but that is what I have to do. For thirty years I have been an agnostic—with perhaps pardonable pride, I may say perhaps one of the leading agnostics! Today I confess that I have been wrong. I now believe in a personal God!"

Truly a manly confession and how do you suppose, Mr. Casey, that the great Prof. Joad came to believe in a personal God? He said "Strange to say, gentlemen, I have been led to believe in a personal God through first being compelled by the evidence to believe in a personal devil."

Yes, Mr. Casey, you are quite right—the old must give place to the new. The old worn-out, discredited theories of unbelievers and agnostics must be replaced by the new, the re-discovery of the eternal verities of God, the Bible, and the Lord Jesus Christ. Mr. Casey had better get up to date and fall into line with some of the greatest thinkers of all time—all simple believers in God and His revealed Word.

Letters to the Editor

THE YOUNG JOBLESS

Editor, Daily News:
I would like to say a word on behalf of the "future leaders" of our country. One of the chief topics of conversation around town is, I believe, the unemployment situation. It is all very well for people to say that former High School students can live at home when there is no work to be had but a man with a large family cannot afford to support a grown son or daughter.

A man without a job can draw unemployment insurance but most young people cannot. We are told that we left our jobs for little or no reason or that we have not paid enough into the Commission.

A hundred years ago a man would take his son into business with him to learn the trade or else he might send him to sea. Today a boy can't even go to sea for everything is tightly unionized including ships and seamen.

What is to become of our young people? Without jobs, many will turn to crime for a living. Can you rightfully blame them? A person can starve to death in Canada just as easily as in Europe, perhaps more so for in Europe the Red Cross feeds the people.

A word about the D.P.'s from Europe. This is just a means of getting cheap labor for our factories. Perhaps if we bring some to Prince Rupert we can teach them how to man the fish boats and Prince Rupert-born people can take charity or starve.

DEFENDS LOCAL STORES

Editor, Daily News:
We are herewith replying to a letter to your paper which you published Tuesday. Since the letter was a definite challenge to ourselves as well as any other business in Prince Rupert, we kindly request that you publish our reply so that the same public who read the original letter will also read our defence or rebuttal, as you wish.

The writer is connected with the Rupert Peoples Store, Wallace's Department Store and Rupert Mens and Boys Store, all of Prince Rupert. This letter therefore, can only be in defence of the above, as we have no authority to write for anybody else.

First of all, we were very pleased to see the publication of Mr. Giegerich's letter from Tiell. It has been our opinion for some years now that many people both in Prince Rupert and in the radius of Prince Rupert have a mistaken belief that prices elsewhere are lower than in Prince Rupert. Our own stores have concentrated for some years now on going direct to the same markets that the largest retail firms in Canada go to. It is quite obvious that a firm in Prince Rupert will have a considerably lower overhead than a firm that operates on a much larger scale. Therefore, it is quite obvious that, if a firm such as ours buys from the same sources as the firms operating on a larger scale, then we can also compete in prices offered to the public without any stretch of the imagination. We are pleased to advise the public that reads this column and their friends that the overall prices of our stores average as low as any firm in Canada for the same merchandise. Please do not misunderstand, we are not trying to tell you that we are lower than any other firm in Canada. We are, however, telling you that our average prices will be as low as the average of any other firm, either retail or mail order. Only yesterday we checked one item which is now enroute to us to compare our retail price, which we have already figured, with the price offered in two catalogues which we have in the office. We were pleased to find that in both cases, our price to the customer was lower than either catalogue. In many cases

HIGH WINDS VISIT CITY

Gale of 42 Miles Per Hour Continues Wednesday Night

March weather got into leonine stride since Wednesday night. Coming on early Wednesday evening, and continuing throughout the night, Prince Rupert experienced about everything in the way of plain and assorted breezes. People bowed before gales, struggled with gusts, fought short and fancy blasts and, when morning came, the wind was still going strong with occasional rain spells.

The wind attained maximum velocity of 42 miles per hour between 7 and 9 o'clock Wednesday evening and 5 and 7 Thursday morning.

Our prices will be the same and in some cases slightly higher. There is no firm anywhere, regardless of size that can be lower at all times on all merchandise, than anybody else.

Therefore, in reply to your letter from Tiell, we are pleased to advise that as far as this firm is concerned, Prince Rupert prices are not based on the price to Vancouver plus freight to Prince Rupert. Our merchandise is purchased direct from the Eastern markets and priced accordingly. We are not concerned with the fact that the Queen Charlotte Islands have only a few settlers. We welcome and invite any business from any community, regardless of size.

L. M. FELSENTHAL.

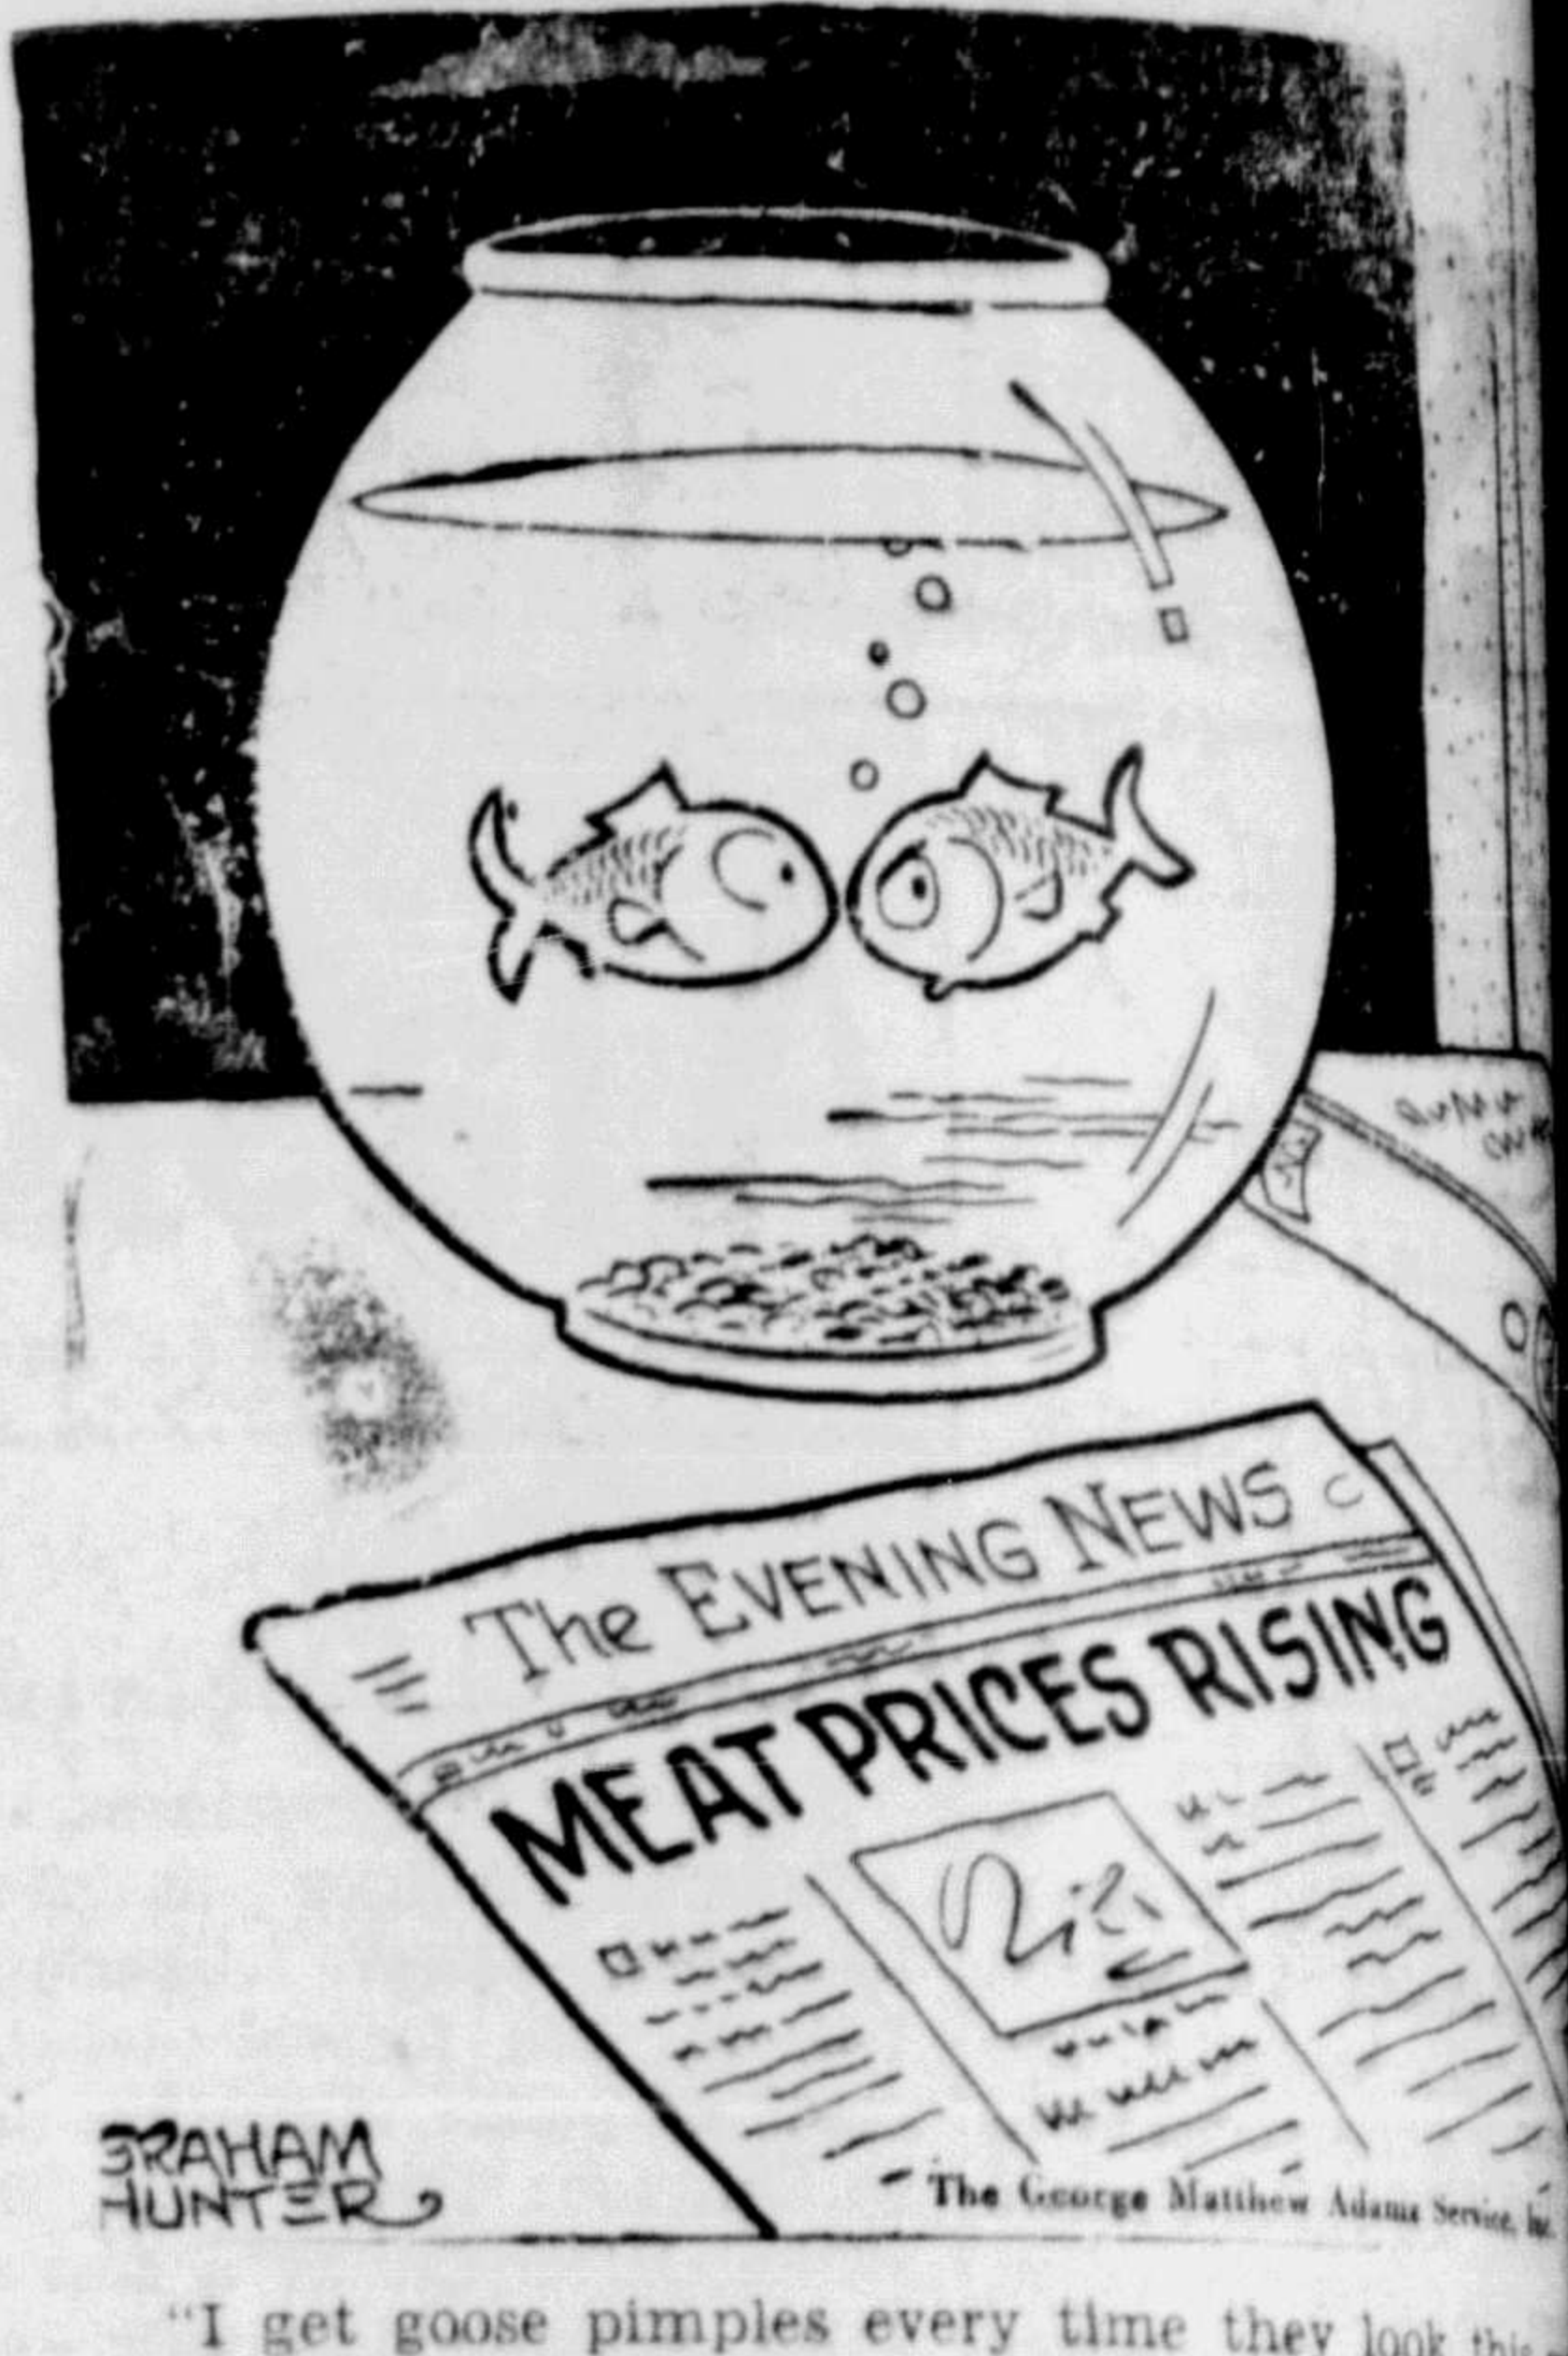

WOULD TAKE ANYTHING

Editor, Daily News:
Here is the local girl back again to cheer the two people who wrote Thursday night's letters. For a while I was beginning to feel absolutely disgusted with the people of my home town but last night's letters proved that there still are some human sensible people left here.

I'm afraid Prince Rupert is slipping. This town used to be known all over for its friendliness. Where is all that gone now? Have we driven it out with our stupid lust for money or have we still got it hidden down under? Please, citizens, if you have any sympathy or understanding left at all show it by letting the unemployed single people like myself find any kind of employment. Speaking for myself, I'm sure I am like a few others—we would take almost anything.

Thank you.

Out of the Shadows

by Gregory Clark

The doctors, the nurses, his mother, his sisters... they told him who he was. He, they said, was a musician. His mother spoke of what a talented little boy he had been—a prodigy. His sisters tried to recall to his memory incidents of his shy youth, his gifted manhood—concerts, dance bands, symphonies...

They told him, too, that he had joined the Navy; served in the North Atlantic; off Africa; off the Normandy beaches.

Words without meaning
To his clouded mind it meant nothing. He was in the neuro-psychiatric ward of a great new Veterans' hospital.

One day his sisters took this young man for a walk. Along bright corridors; down an elevator; through a great quiet tunnel.

At its end they came into another building, bearing no resemblance to any hospital. It is more like a comfortable attractively-furnished home, with pleasing decorations, inviting easy chairs and a baby-grand piano. Flowers are there, and girls in a well-remembered uniform. The Red Cross uniform. For this is a Red Cross Lodge.

Guided by his sisters, the young man came slowly out of the tunnel. He glanced vacantly about him. But, all at once, he buttoned his blue jacket—strolled casually across the room as though he had been there a hundred times, although he had never seen it before. He sat down at the piano. His fingers lightly over the keys.

Other men in blue uniforms were playing the piano. He didn't come out of the daze immediately. It was days, weeks, before sunrise followed the slow dawn.

At first, he played only bits of fragments of song, bits of Chopin, bits of messroom ballads. Then he smiled less vacant now—that was he could share. For other men were beginning to cluster around the piano.

Long ago this young man left the world behind him. He was cured.

Would any piano have done it? No, not to me, the piano was unimportant. The significant thing was this miraculous restoration of a musician's faculties was accompanied by surroundings planned, for the comfort of the afflicted, by the Red Cross organization always at hand wherever Humanitas is in distress.

an expression of opinion on the club on the question of an artificial ice rink in the city. George Dibb, the discussion with a support of the idea. He compared to Prince Rupert where ice rinks were successfully operated and costing enormously to the benefit of the community.

Montador was not in favor of an ice rink. He felt that an artificial rink would not be a good proposition.

Long argued that an ice rink was the one sport in the city that would be profitable. He pointed out that hockey and skating would be a good support to war- building and skating rink. He stated that more in favor of Prince Rupert having an indoor swimming pool.

to reply for the affirmative President R. G. returned the meeting over President George Dibb. President Moore pointed out that an ice rink was put into operation dozens, perhaps hundreds of the younger children would be provided with the facilities to participate in healthy recreation, something that is not available at present due to the lack of insufficient accommodations. He drew attention to the fact that hockey is Canada's national sport and that new children will turn to hockey if the required facilities are available. In comparing the benefits of a rink and a swimming pool the speaker said that, which has a large number of indoor pools, estimated about 4 per cent of population make use of the pool. On the other hand, he pointed out, skating is a form of recreation that appeals to all ages and among the boys of the city one or two hockey leagues benefit many who today have little to do in their spare time, especially during the winter months. Curling was also pointed out as a sport that could be indulged in by older people and carnivals and as money making activity for the winter while the summer box lacrosse, indoor carnivals, sport and various other exhibitions could be held.

Sheardown and Charles also spoke in favor of an artificial rink before the discussion was closed. A motion was passed by the club delegates that the Kinsmen Club should investigate the possibilities of an artificial rink and report back to the club.

LONDON.—Lord Chancellor said recently British unpaid magistrates dealt with 90 per cent of all crime in the country. Judges and stipendiary magistrates, he said, dealt with the remaining one per cent.

ROTARY REJECTS SKATING RINK

The weather and not a locally financed rink will have to satisfy the skating and curling urges of Prince Rupert, the Rotary Club decided Thursday afternoon. Unswayed by the eloquence of affirmative speakers, club members voted in favor of the negative in a debate on whether or not the club should sponsor an ice skating or curling rink here.

Champion of the affirmative was Martin F. Stuart, who in a five-minute address, told his fellow Rotarians that the club had proved itself as "capable of sparking various projects" and that a rink would be one "worthy of the club and worthy of the town."

He asserted that if Prince Rupert "wants to tie in with some national sport, it could do no better than promote ice hockey." The recent cold weather indicated a great interest in skating here, he said.

"Business men could put up the money. When it got going, it would pay for itself," he declared.

Dr. G. E. H. Montgomery, leader of the negative team, poured out figures which, he averred, would shatter any arguments as to the financial practicability of an ice rink. Initial cost, before the war, was estimated at between $100,000 and $150,000 for a minimum sized building, and to this would have to be added the cost of freezing equipment—$30,000 to $50,000.

"That was before the war. How much higher it would be now I am unable to say."

To this "astronomical" cost would be added the burden of operation, he declared.

T. N. Youngs, speaking for the negative, branded an ice rink "impossible from a financial point of view." Surveys made in cities under 30,000 had indicated that expenses and refunding costs would exceed revenues.

William Terry, affirmative speaker, discoursed on the satisfying pleasures of skating and ice hockey.

The Rotarians voted a substantial though unofficial negative to club sponsorship of such a project.

Guests at the luncheon meeting, held in the Broadway Cafe, were J. Sims, Vancouver; Neil Ross, Col. C. Hoy, Pretoria, South Africa; P. Allen, Vancouver; George Zala, Vancouver, and C. V. Eviatt, Departure Bay.

MR. EMPLOYER...

Do you still glance at his lapel?

From January, 1946, to November, 1947, 421,146 jobs were found for veterans through the efforts of the National Employment Service and the excellent co-operation of employers.

BUT THERE ARE STILL—

- 32,300 veterans in universities and—
- 8,800 more are still taking Vocational Training under the Canadian Vocational Training Plan.
- Many more are still in hospital receiving treatment for their war wounds.

These men and women have yet to stake their postwar claims in Canada's civilian employment field. They deserve the same consideration as was given to veterans during the first days of demobilization.

LET'S SEE THEY GET IT!

IS TRANSFERRED TO ALERT BAY

George McKay Moving From Yukon in Government Telegraphs Service

Passing through the city aboard the Princess Norah yesterday afternoon was George W. McKay, who was enroute south from Dawson where he has been living since leaving Prince Rupert some 20 years ago. He will join Mrs. McKay, who left the north some time ago for Victoria, and later will proceed to Alert Bay, Mr. McKay being transferred there in the government service.

Mr. McKay was with the telegraphs at Hazelton and here for years and he continued in this service after locating in the Yukon. The city of Dawson, he says, is something of a ghost town in winter, but there is much more going on in the way of industry and population in the months of summer.

Mrs. McKay is a daughter of Mrs. K. E. Birnie of Smithers, formerly residing here, and who is now in the city, the guest of Mrs. J. A. Lindsay.

AUTO CLUB IN SESSION

R. G. Van der sluis New President—Local Branch to Have Greater Autonomy

Posed with a dropping membership in the face of increasing problems, Prince Rupert branch of the B.C. Automobile Association plans to recruit new strength and to gain greater autonomy for the branch in relation to its Vancouver headquarters.

Annual meeting of the organization, held in the Civic Centre last night heard its year's work and its current problems outlined and elected new officers for 1948. All officers were elected by acclamation.

President, R. G. Van der sluis, Vice-President, N. R. Gerrard, Secretary - Treasurer, Hugo Kraupner.

Directors—Robert Elkins, A. G. Bartlett, J. E. Boddie and Jack Mussalleim.

Mr. Van der sluis took over the presidency from J. Harry Black who had held it since the club's formation two years ago.

Highway improvement is the major problem facing motorists in Central British Columbia, it was pointed out by retiring president Black in his report. He urged a larger membership and a continual activity by the association to keep the matter before the attention of the provincial public works department.

Secretary-treasurer Kraupner, who resumed office for his second year, reported on the financial condition of the Association and on a convention of the B.C. Automobile Association which he attended last fall at Vancouver.

He told the meeting that negotiations were under way for the establishment of a regional office of the B.C.A.A. here, which

APRIL DANCE BY KIN CLUB

Members to Campaign for Kiddies' Kamp Celebration

The success of the Kinsmen Leap Year dance and most eligible bachelor contest encouraged members attending Wednesday night's dinner meeting of the club to approve the executive's recommendation to hold a gala April Dance. Ray MacLean was chosen as chairman of the dance committee with William Long and R. E. Montador as his assistants.

Stan Saville, chairman of May 24 ticket sales committee, reported on the progress of the campaign and suggested that, during the latter part of March and the first week in April, club members conduct a city-wide canvass. Mr. Saville told the club that it was up to every member to get out and sell to the best of his ability in order to make the Kinsmen Kiddie Kamp the success it should be this year.

President R. G. Moore briefly outlined the duties of the various May 24 committees and announced that the sports events would run off in open or picnic style rather than in the group method used during previous meets.

Guests at last night's meeting were Joe Goscoe and Walter Morgan.

GOVERNMENT SUSTAINED
OTTAWA—By a vote of 173 to 38 the House of Commons turned aside a C.C.F. motion of non-confidence in the government in the lingering Throne Speech debate. The resolution would have criticized the government for its price control policy.

with the Communists had been killed. Another Chinese Christian was asked who he followed. He said, "Christ." They asked him what happened to Christ and when he answered that he was crucified they said: "You will die in the same way." And they crucified him.

Mr. Forbes' address brought to a conclusion a supper meeting sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of First United Church. The forty guests included visiting friends and delegates to the W.M.S. Presbytery and the Prince Rupert Presbytery. Other speakers at this gathering included Mrs. C. W. Hodgson, Rev. W. P. Bunt, and Miss Helen Hurd.

Mrs. C. W. Hodgson, President of the B.C. Conference Branch of the W.M.S., told of the work that the W.M.S. was doing in British Columbia hospitals, schools, settlement and community work. She gave a picture both of the extent and of the varied forms of work done and of the contribution being made to the life of the Church and of the community.

Rev. W. P. Bunt, superintendent of missions for B.C. Conference, reviewed the work of the Home Mission Board. The highlight of his address was the encouraging news that 12 candidates for the ministry had been received in B.C. in the past year.

Miss Helen Hurd, now a W.M.S. worker in Prince Rupert, and formerly a missionary in Japan, spoke of her work among the Japanese in the re-location centres during the war. She told many stories of those who had established themselves across Canada and of the rich contribution they were making to the life of the land in many varied forms of work. Many of them, she said, paid tribute to what the church had done for them during the trying war years.

At the Presbytery meeting approval was made of grants by the Home Mission Board to missions of the Presbytery.

Report of the Missionary and Maintenance convener revealed that churches of the Presbytery had increased their contributions to $3,100. On the other hand grants noted for the mission churches exceeded $12,000.

During its business session, the conference voted a loan of $1000 in addition to a grant of $1000 to the Kispiox congregation to assist in the rebuilding of the Kispiox church. The church is to be built with volunteer labor.

The Presbytery approved Rev. R. A. Wilson as United Church chaplain to Miller Bay Hospital.

John McLeod in charge and Mrs. E. P. Saunders, Mrs. J. G. Garrett, Mrs. C. G. Ham, Mrs. T. W. Brown and Mrs. S. J. Hunter assisting in serving.

CANADIANS SHOULD BE MORE PATRIOTIC

In opening, Col. Hoy, who boasts dual nationality—Canadian by birth and South African by long residence—suggested that Canadians should be more articulate in their patriotism and devotion to country. He had noticed a lack in this regard and suggested it might be overcome by more active inculcation of pride of country through medium of the schools and such organizations as the Canadian Club. Col. Hoy gave assurance of the respect and esteem which Canadians enjoyed throughout the world as citizens of their Dominion, the Commonwealth of Nations and the world.

Speaking briefly of British Commonwealth affairs, Col. Hoy saw the assumption of independence by various colonies as a mark of advancement of liberty and freedom within the Commonwealth rather than breaking up of the Empire.

Col. Hoy stated that the form of government in the Dominion of South Africa was somewhat similar to that of Canada. There were three capitals in reality—Capetown, legislative seat; Pretoria, administrative centre, and Bloemfontein, judicial seat.

Col. Hoy described the gold and diamond mining industries, the latter of which was under production quota and market control. There were also the chrome, iron and coal industries.

Going on to the political and governmental set-up, Col. Hoy told of Gen. Smuts' government party, the United Party, the others being the Nationalist party, which had favored a republic, Labor and Dominion. The European people enjoyed the franchise with a limited number of colored people in two of the four states.

There was still a color prejudice which the government was endeavouring to remove by education.

Between the British and African elements of population there were the most cordial of relations but the most serious national problem was that of the Indians, who had been originally imported as farm workers, and who, through inassimilability, had become a "political headache." In 1946, in the attempt to settle the question, certain sections of Natal had been set aside where the Indians might purchase land and whence they might also have representation in Parliament.

GEORGE GILLIS
PRINCE RUPERT-BORN BOY IS DOING WELL IN MUSIC

A native son of Prince Rupert is George Gillis who was born here 14 years ago and appears to have thrived in the climate that some southern British Columbia people insist is wet.

For over 3 1/2 years George has been delivering papers for the Daily News in an area that has one street which might rightly be renamed Doctor's Row. His route takes in Fourth and Fifth Avenue West between McBride Street and Fulton.

George attends the Annunciation School where he is in Grade Nine this year. Basketball is his top sport although he isn't a member of an organized team. Reading and the activities connected with the Civic Centre, of which he is a member, take up most of his spare time but he does find time to work on his collection of stamps. Music holds great interest for George and he is a smooth operator when it comes to fingering the keyboard of a piano. As to what the future may hold, by way of an occupation, George isn't making any commitments. He still has several years of high school in which to meditate the problem.

ICE HARVESTING IN ALBERTA—Moose Jaw, Sask., district farmers have come into town to take off another kind of crop—the 1948 ice harvest—in which the yield is measured in tons, not bushels. Ice cutting on the Moose Jaw river began just after Christmas and during February will be taking off the second crop in some spots, where water has frozen again to the required depth of about 20 inches. The health department has tabooed the ice for cooling martinis, and has ordered that it be used for refrigeration and wash purposes only. Ice harvesting here bears a strong resemblance to logging, for men float on the huge chunks of ice until it reaches the cutter, and manipulate the frozen water with long-handled sticks with sharp prongs on the ends. Norman Lowe, who is manipulating the ice-cutting machine in the picture is typical of the ice harvesters.

Reminiscences
By W.I. and Reflections

Not infrequently, when a building is partly destroyed by a fire, someone will say "oh well, might have been best had it gone entirely." But how far correct is he? And how easy it is to say. When cash is tight and material scarce and costly, one is liable to count his coppers and revise the view that it's cheaper to build anew.

Of the making of movies there's no end and the work demands new scenes, fresh backgrounds and novel action. The great northwest has not been entirely neglected. Discoveries have disclosed that more than the mounties have been entrusted with duties there. One need go no farther than Old and New Hazelton and find all the answers. What's the matter with screening the race to lay the Atlantic cable—dramatic expedition to Behring Sea and from the shores of the narrow sea, link up with Europe first. But, it failed. The Atlantic won out. And a variety of equipment was abandoned. The crags of the Rocher de Boule have all the scenic setting needed. Wire, thrown away, helped fashion a bridge made by the Indians across the rush-

There was even more pomp than usual at Victoria last Monday. When Parliament opens, the glitter and richness of pageantry comes as a glad necessity. The legislators have no objection. The lieutenant governor doesn't mind a bit. And as for the general public, they just devour it. As a show, here is something distinctly the highest of high class, and one does not have to pay a penny. Let's go on liking it! Of course! Why not!

One can faithfully attend school and yet have a great deal to learn concerning geography. Many realized this during the war. Thousands discovered how little they actually did know. For example, one afternoon in Prince Rupert, and American Army lieutenant and local folk were chatting about provinces, states, kingdoms, zones and all such subjects. In introducing the young officer, it was stated he came from Virginia. Inno-

SWIMMING POOL AT HAYS CREEK

Even the Winged Birds Are Taking Hand

In regard to the winged girls gathering and meeting on the Hays Cove Creek, the eligible bachelor was not all that was discussed, it appears, as there was one that was tapping the wires and listening in on the conversation. Among other things discussed and decided was to get the Canadian National Railways to donate the Hays Creek flats to the city for a swimming pool for the young generation. The winged birds felt that they had the pleasure and opportunity for many years to roam over the flats but, by this time, they should give up a little of their pleasure for the young ones that are walking the streets and have no place to go swimming in the summer. Last year they invited several youngsters in and had two or three small craft sailing and they enjoyed it very much together. So, the winged birds, together with their elected bachelor, unanimously decided to petition the citizens and city council for immediate action on behalf of the winged birds and the young generation of Prince Rupert to have Hays Cove Flats put in shape for a first class swimming pool as it was intended for in the first place by nature.

JIM WEST SAYS

... About "Russia's" Europe

I've been reading a book by a man named Hal Lehmann called "Russia's Europe." Lehmann is a newspaperman who used to write for papers like PM, the New Republic, the Nation and the New Statesman. These papers, I understand, are the journals which some of our pink columnists read to get their inside information on what skunks the people are who run the Western democracies as compared with the sweetness-and-light boys from Moscow.

Well, Lehmann, it seems, went to the Balkans to write a book the leftists would eat up... the kind of thing he'd been doing in his articles before he went to the Balkans. But what he saw behind the Iron Curtain opened his eyes. He sent stories about it to his "liberal" newspapers and they suppressed them. He lost his backers but he had a shocking story to write and he put it in a book.

It isn't a book about how Communism or Socialism would work if we only gave it a chance. It's a book about how Russian Communism or Socialism and variations of it have changed the life of the people of countries like Hungary, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland, etc. Here is no theory but just what happens when the Kremlin boys and their stooges go to work on the ordinary people of the country. It's a book you ought to read.

cently enough, someone asked "Where is that?" Shades of George Washington. Nevertheless there have been occasions when people found it necessary to inquire what part of the globe British Columbia was situated in.
