First Atomic Power Station

Five Missing After Oil Tankers Crash in Fog-Cloaked Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — An Atlantic Refining Company tanker seeking safe anchorage in fog-cloaked Delaware river crashed into a sister ship early today, setting off fires on both. Four bodies have been recovered and five men have been listed as missing.

"Win by Six Points" — Dukes; "We'll Really Drive" — Bo-Me-Hi

"A win by six points," is the prediction of Duke of Connaught-coach Bob Hindmarsh for the third meeting of the New Westminster high school team with Bo-Me-Hi cagers at the Centre tonight. "We've got a real offensive game planned," said Hindmarsh, "and we're going to win."

Police Hold Man After Fire Aboard CNR Westbound Train

By ART GALLAGHER
Canadian Press Correspondent
Pembroke, Ont. (CP) — The end-pullman car on CNR Continental train No. 1, bound west, burst into flames at a junction at 2:05 a.m. today and one unidentified man in his life when trapped in the flaming coach.

University Professor Writes Comics

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) — University professor went to platform of a teachers' conference here Tuesday night and told something new about the children are so fond of comic books. Michael Lewis, director of Nottingham University's institute of education, told delegates comic strips can help children learn to read and extend their vocabulary.

for northern Ontario. The transcontinental's starting point is Montreal.

Cause of the fire, which started at the front of the coach, is unknown. However, a man whose name was not released, but who is believed to have occupied a compartment, is being held for questioning by police.

It is believed the victim boarded the train at Ottawa and was travelling to Haileybury, Ont. With escape to the car ahead cut off, those trapped in the burning coach fought their way to the rear, where a woman passenger used her travelling case to break a window, through which all 13 jumped. The body of the dead man, burned beyond recognition, was found in the rear vestibule of the coach, where he apparently had suffocated while waiting his turn at the window.

Menuhin Defends Decision Not To Travel by Plane

LONDON (AP) — Violinist Yehudi Menuhin today defended his recent decision not to travel by plane. He wrote the Times of London that mountain crashes have claimed three of his colleagues, all prominent musicians, and he doesn't want to be a fourth. Last month Menuhin cancelled an engagement in Israel because he would have had to travel by plane to get there in time. Several British newspapers chided the violinist for "grounding himself."

headquarters in Philadelphia announced.

Company officials said all 46 crew members of the 19,000-ton "super-tanker" Atlantic Engineer are safe. Fires aboard both ships were controlled quickly by the crews. Preliminary reports indicated no serious damage to either vessel and said no one was burned.

SOUGHT ANCHORAGE

A company spokesman gave this version of what happened: The Atlantic Engineer had anchored because of the fog about 6½ miles south of Wilmington and 25 miles south of Philadelphia. The Atlantic Dealer was proceeding slowly upstream, hunting for anchorage space. Several other ships were at anchor in the area.

Residents along the shore of the two-mile-wide river were awakened about 3:30 a.m. by the screech of warning whistles. They heard the thump of a collision, then a roar as both ships caught fire. The flash of flames was seen two miles from the river.

Emergency units and ambulances throughout the area went into action immediately. Ship collisions are a familiar story in the area. A lifeboat with a crew of five was launched almost immediately from the Dealer. Some time later the Chilean freighter Copiapo, bound for Baltimore from Philadelphia, picked up the lifeboat crew and two men who had been rescued from the river.

Wreck Toll Drops As 10 Found Safe

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters) — The known death toll of New Zealand's worst train wreck was revised downward today to 136. Keith Holyoake, deputy premier, said 10 more passengers who had been presumed dead now are known to be safe. He gave the total number of passengers on the death train as 278, of which 142 are known to be safe. The bodies of 119 have been recovered.

In his letter to The Times, Menuhin recalled the deaths in separate crashes of French violinists Thibaud and Ginette Neveu, and American pianist William Kapell. He was confident he would fly again, but would wait until plane designers have eliminated the danger of crashing on mountain slopes—the type of accident which killed his friends. His motive was dictated "not by impulse but by a compelling impulse besetting a surviving violinist."

51 Persons Escape Unharmed When North Star Crash-Lands

Wreckage Litters Vancouver Airport

By The Canadian Press

VANCOUVER. — Fifty-one persons aboard a crippled RCAF North Star transport miraculously escaped death or serious injury today when the four-engined plane crash-landed at Vancouver International Airport.

The plane was bound for Edmonton from Vancouver when it was forced to turn back after 45 minutes flying time because of engine trouble. Aboard were 43 passengers, including two women and two children, and a crew of eight. The plane, riding on three engines, flipped over on the runway and skidded off into a field alongside. A wing was torn off and fire broke out but was quickly extinguished by airport firefighters.

An RCAF official said most of the passengers suffered minor cuts and bruises and were shaken up but none was seriously hurt.

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area. Flames burst from one of the engines in the torn-off wing, but there was no fire in the main fuselage.

"We landed down on one side, and the next thing I knew a wing crumpled and the wall of the fuselage shot in towards me," said ordinary seaman Gary McIvor, one of four sailors going on leave from Victoria.

"I saw a gaping hole, so I dived through it and ran for my life. We thought it was going to blow up."

Another sailor was found covered with mud from head to toe but otherwise unharmed. He could remember nothing about the crash except that he was running furiously from the wreckage.

Weather was bad, with rain pouring down and visibility at a minimum at the time of the crash.

Rebels Tighten Pressure

By The Associated Press

HANOI, Indo-China. — Vietminh rebels tightened their pressure today on Dien Bien Phu, the last French fortress in northwest Indo-China.

French sources speculated that it is the major objective in the current Communist winter campaign, perhaps in preparation for another push into the invaded kingdom of Laos.

The Red-led invaders who knifed across southern Laos to Thakhek on the Thailand border last week, cutting the peninsula in two, have made no apparent move in four days. But at Dien Bien Phu, 300 airline miles to the northwest, troops of the Vietminh "iron division" today drew within four miles of the fortified plain bristling with French Union troops and U.S.-supplied arms.

PATROLS CLASH

A French army spokesman said strong French Union patrols clashed twice with Vietminh troops northwest and southwest of Dien Bien Phu. There was a strong indication that the Vietminh might be trying to move striking forces into encircling positions before launching an attack.

The rebels were reported within four to six miles of the fortress, which was taken by the French last Nov. 20 and steadily reinforced by airlift since then.

The French have been expecting an attack there by troops of Vietminh division No. 316, the "Iron Division," equipped with some of the best and heaviest materiel from China.

French army sources said if an attack comes on Dien Bien Phu, the battle will be hard and heavy.

$2 Billion Hydro-Metallurgical Scheme Mooted in North B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Work may start next year on a proposed $25,000,000 hydro-electric project in northern British Columbia.

E. G. Rowbottom, deputy minister of trade and industry for B.C., said Tuesday.

The hydro development would be the first step in a $2,000,000,000 metallurgical-chemical development planned in northern B.C. and the Yukon by Ventures Ltd., parent body of the world-wide Frohisher organization. Mr. Rowbottom said Ventures Ltd. still had to complete water rights agreements with the provincial and federal governments before completing plans for the project. Talks between the company, which has completed a survey of the area, and B.C. officials are expected to get underway in January.

The hydro-electric project would be used to supply power for a metallurgical plant planned at Tuluqua, near the head of Taku Inlet.

Mr. Rowbottom also said American interests are contemplating construction of a pulp mill in the north-central section of British Columbia.

The deputy said the mill, which would manufacture pulp for export, would probably be valued at $15,000,000.

He declined to give the exact location of the mill nor the name of the company interested in its construction.

Secret German Invention Electrocutes Ocean Fish

HAMBURG (Reuters) — A secret German invention for the mass electrocution of salt water fish will undergo extensive tests soon in the United States.

Dr. Paul Frederich Meyer-Waarden, head of the federal fish research institute here, said Tuesday night a converted German minesweeper, the R-96, has left for two years of tests in American waters under the auspices of unidentified U.S. interests.

He said the "revolutionary development" will permit huge catches of ocean fish suitable for the dinner table by merely twisting electric dials. Previously, he said, such methods could be used only in fresh water.

Details of the equipment are being kept a strict secret, at least for the time being, he said.

The patent-holders are two Germans, physicist Konrad Kreutzer and engineer Herbert

Mayor-Elect, Aldermen Take Oath

Mayor-elect George E. Hills took the oath of office just before noon today when he was sworn in by City Clerk R. W. Long.

In taking the oath Mayor-elect Hills, who becomes mayor January 1, succeeding Mayor Harold Whalen, said he would faithfully perform the duties of his office and will not allow any private interest to influence his conduct in public matters. He also swore allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and all her heirs.

Also sworn in earlier this week were Aldermen-elect Norman Bellis and Phil Lyons and Alderman Mike Krueger.

Russian Santa Gets Orders As Soviet Prepares For 1954

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP) — Old Grandfather Frost is getting some pretty strict orders in Russia these days. He's being told to pack mama dolls that really say mama and boys' games that won't fall apart when he makes his gift-bearing rounds on New Year's Day.

Grandfather Frost is the Soviet version of Santa Claus. He arrives a week before Christmas in the Soviet Union, which is observed Jan. 7 in accord with the old Julian calendar used by the Russian orthodox church.

Friday, millions of Soviet children will gather around fir trees to receive gifts and sweets. The grown-ups exchange gifts, too, and this year the cry is for quality goods.

Premier Malenkov's government has promised more and better consumer goods. Letter columns of Soviet newspapers disclose that the Russian consumer wants to see this reflected in better-made gifts now that holiday buying is in full swing.

A parent who bought a doll for his daughter had this indignant comment: "The instructions said that this doll could walk, roll its eyes and say 'mama.' The doll looks very nice—if you ignore the fact that its wig is made of rags and cotton waste glued to the head, instead of hair. Neither we nor our child could make the doll walk."

The ruble is quoted officially at four to the United States dollar, but 1,500 rubles would amount to more than two months' salary for an ordinary factory worker.

Instead of saying "mama" it only made hoarse sounds."

Moscow newspapers complained also about the cost of the toys. A doll's chair cost 22 rubles as much as a chair for grown-ups. The Moscow research institute on toys come up with a toy kitchen with a real sink, water in the tap, washing machine, meat grinder, pots and pans. But the cost was 1,500 rubles, nearly as much as a real kitchen for a real family would cost.

Prophet's Beard

DESPITE what he said yesterday about there being no winners, we are going to suggest to columnist Elmore Philpott that perhaps we are entitled to at least some of the hairs of the Beard of the Prophet he offers each year.

Apart from the fact that we prophesied Social Credit would win a plurality, instead of a majority, in the last provincial election, and slightly underestimated the power of the Liberals federally, we scored on all the questions he asked just one year ago.

For the record, our editorial on the subject, dated Jan. 2, 1953, read as follows:

"There will be a cease-fire in Korea but the peace will be an uneasy one. A heavily-guarded border between the north and south will be the scene of incidents from time to time.

"There will be no world war involving the U.S. against Russia, or any other combination of forces.

"Admission of organized German military units into the western defence alliance will remain an important issue but nothing will be done to execute it. Too many dangers are involved.

"Russia will still be a UN member in good standing at the end of the year.

"If there is a B.C. election during the year, Social Credit will be returned with an increased plurality but still lacking a majority. The order of the parties will remain unchanged.

"Louis St. Laurent will finish the year as our Prime Minister.

"In the event of a federal election, the Liberal government will be returned with a reduced majority. The order of the parties, and the seats held by each, will be: Liberals, 142; Conservatives, 70; CCF, 23; Social Credit, 21; others, 6." (Actual results were: L, 171; PC, 50; CCF, 23; SC, 15; others, 6).

How about it, Elmore?

Scripture Passage for Today

"The Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father."—St. Matt. 16:27.

All Aboard By G.E. Mortimore

Ho hum! Turkey soup for breakfast again. I think the immortal bird Keats had in mind was a turkey rather than a nightingale.

"Thou wast not born for death, immortal Bird!" No hungry generations tread thee down."

Well, the hungry generations (very often grandparents, parents and children in the same house) do their best on Christmas Day and for many days afterwards, but the immortal turkey just will not be trodden down.

Long after the last candle of the vigil has vanished down Junior's gullet, the turkey is still with us. All the Christmas dolls and teddy bears have now been dismembered by young disciples of Jack the Ripper, but the turkey still has all his bones intact—thanks to Father's incompetence with the carving knife.

If only we had given father the toys to play with and turned the children loose against the turkey with carving knives, a much more different division of labor would have been accomplished.

The toys would still be in good condition, and the turkey would be scattered through the house, the drumsticks hanging on the Christmas tree, the parson's nose wedged in a chandelier, and fragments of white and dark meat peppered over the carpet like confetti.

However, we must face facts. The turkey looks a shade haggard and hung over, perhaps, but he remains in the house, a dull and stubborn Christmas dinner guest who has outstayed his welcome.

He disappears for a while, but he is only skulking in the pantry or the refrigerator, preparing to emerge in some new guise as turkey giblets or turkey stew. But he can't fool us, any more than Uncle Charley fooled us in that padded Santa Claus suit.

One thing about Uncle Charley, though—as soon as he had the stuffing taken out of him, and Christmas was finished, he went away. It's too bad the turkey can't be persuaded to follow his example.

Cranberry sauce, anyone?

As I See It

India Peace Key

SOMETIMES I think that the Almighty Himself must have a special regard for that strange cluster of nations which we used to call the "British Empire" but now call the Commonwealth.

Some wit once said that God protects drunks, idiots "and the British Empire." For in spite of making just about every mistake possible, the British world kingdom has a way of "muddling through."

SURELY the pending visit of Canada's Prime Minister to India is one of the most fortunate things that ever happened for the British Commonwealth. Short-sighted United States policy has aggravated India to the point where really dangerous trends could be magnified throughout all India.

Notwithstanding India's clearly expressed opposition, United States is concluding a military alliance with Pakistan.

It is true that the scope of this alliance has been temporarily limited, and the U.S.A. has dropped the plan to establish American bombing bases on the soil of Pakistan. But Indians, who are as highly educated in power politics as any people in the world, will surely remember the pattern of the alliance between the U.S.A. and Spain. In the beginning all of the nations of western Europe, including Britain, expressed strong opposition to the Spanish-American alliance. The Americans temporarily dropped—or pretended to drop—the alliance. But after a brief cooling-off period the alliance was announced to the world as an accomplished fact. American war bases are now established at several places in Spain.

So the Indians are not likely to take at face value Mr. Dulles' assurances that he has no intention to do in Pakistan what he did in Spain.

HENCE the inestimable value of the forthcoming visit of the Prime Minister of Canada. Mr. St. Laurent is the one man in the whole western alliance best fitted to convince the people of India, from Nehru down to the humblest peasant, that the other nations of the British Commonwealth do understand what India is trying to do.

He can tell them for all of us that we know India's unprovocative attitude toward her big Communist neighbors to the north does not spring from weakness, nor from appeasement of evil, but from positive faith in positive attitudes.

Nobody knows better than our own Prime Minister that the famous four thousand mile undefended frontier between the United States and Canada was itself one of the greatest factors in keeping the peace between our two countries in North America. We can understand—even if John Foster Dulles does not—that intelligent Indians can believe they have more to lose than to gain, even in the military sense, from refusing to start an armament race with the Communists on their northern frontier.

WHAT Americans refuse to understand is that the same war bases which could be used by Pakistan in the event of war with Russia could also be used by Pakistan in the event of war with India.

The greatest contribution that any statesman can make to the people of southern Asia is to help create a basis of under-

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

It was a really good Christmas in the national Capital. Everyone from top government personnel down to the casual laborers who tidied up the city's streets after the light pre-Yuletide snowfall seemed to be in the mood. There was a subtle note of depth and sincerity to the mass celebration.

The explanation isn't too difficult to analyze. In recent weeks and months peace has seemed to be establishing itself ever more firmly in the saddle of world diplomacy. And the spirit of peace is the authentic spirit of Christmas.

External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson and Defence Minister Brooke Claxton finally set the stage for a Capital-wide celebration of an old-time Christmas of peace and good-will when they returned from Paris and the NATO Council meeting just a week before the holiday. They brought back a summary of the latest diplomatic intelligence gleaned by the leading NATO powers, United States and Britain especially. And the conclusion which was common to all the reports was that the outlook for peace in the world was more secure than it had been at any time since the commencement of the cold war, and that it was gaining all the time. Despite the atomic weapons now reposing in Soviet arsenals, top flight international observers who reported to the NATO grand alliance were unanimous in their belief that the Kremlin wasn't plotting a new war on its policy drafting board.

That doesn't mean that all is going to be plain sailing in the months ahead. The intelligence reports of the Western Allies suggest that, on the contrary, Russia proposes to maintain the cold war on at least its present scale—and even to step it up at intervals in order to keep the NATO powers guessing.

External Affairs Minister Pearson explained the situation to a press gallery correspondent by saying that Russian diplomacy towards the Western world in the months ahead was likely to be an alternation of "kicks and kindness." The aim of the Kremlin will be to keep the Western Allies tuned up to the pitch of a continuous war of nerves. The strategy back of such a policy is the traditional strain upon the unity of any group of Allies which a prolonged war of nerves imposes.

Britain's Treasury Chief Leaves For Meeting With Finance Ministers

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's treasury chief, Richard A. Butler, took off today for Sydney, Australia, to work out plans with other Commonwealth finance ministers to shield the Commonwealth's economy from the effects of an anticipated United States cut-back.

Though Britain does not look for any major recession in the U.S. economy, the fact was that even a slight reduction can have serious effects here. A one-per-cent slump in the United States brings, according to most economists, something like a five-per-cent slump in Britain as U.S. buying of British materials falls.

Butler will go into week-long discussions with his fellow finance ministers Jan. 8 hopeful of boosting inter-Commonwealth trade sufficiently to cushion a loss in dollar earnings.

"If we are going to move into difficult times we want to expand our strength and our resources out there (in the Commonwealth) and in this country as well," he said at the airport.

Most British newspapers see the U.S. economic outlook as the main backdrop of the Sydney conference. Most agree that the U.S. is headed for at least a minor recession.

Countries attending the conference are Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, the new Central African Federation and Canada, the only Commonwealth member which is not a member of the sterling currency area.

Bidault Says Russia Agreeable To Date of Meet

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told the French cabinet today that France, the United States and Britain will accept Russia's suggestion that the Big Four foreign ministers meet Jan. 25.

He also said that the note to be sent to Moscow soon will accept the proposal for a preliminary meeting of the four high commissioners in Germany to discuss the exact place of the meeting.

Earlier today Bidault reported to the National Assembly's foreign affairs committee on the Big Three's Bermuda conference. He told the committee that at Bermuda Prime Minister Churchill had favored integration of a West German army into the North Atlantic alliance, but that he reminded Churchill France holds a veto on new members in NATO.

He reported also that President Eisenhower held the opinion that "an autonomous German army is desirable neither for France, for the United States nor for Germany."

Government Allocates Funds For Civil Defence Work Here

Funds have been set aside for training and facilities for civil defence in the Prince Rupert target area it was learned.

The money is part of federal government grants which the federal government will contribute toward the cost of additional civil defence projects in the Columbia costing an estimated $80,000.

Biggest portion of the $80,000 estimate—$51,552—has been earmarked for the expansion of fire-fighting facilities at Vancouver, Kamloops, Okanagan, Alberni, Nanaimo, Cranbrook, Nelson and Siccan.

It is believed that the funds may be the outcome of first, a visit to Prince Rupert by B.C. civil defence co-ordinator General G. R. Stein and secondly a trip made by Bob McKay, co-ordinator for civil defence for the Prince Rupert target area and City Clerk R. W. Long to Kelowna to a civil defence meeting this fall. On both occasions Mr. Long stressed that if Prince Rupert was to have any kind of civil defence organization money should be made available.

Between Dec. 14 and Dec. 23 parcel post courier delivered 10 parcels to Prince Rupert postmaster Jack Burgess said this morning. On top of that, he said, more than 1,000 parcels were delivered by postmen.

Of 11,300 parcel total extra last year's 10,600 parcels were delivered through post office wicket.

Burgess said there was no influx of mail this year there was last year just before Christmas Eve. There were 16, 17, 18, 19, when more than 20,000 Christmas cards passed through the stamping machine.

Clayton of the RCMP and Rev. L. G. Sieber of the United Church travelled by plane to Hartley Bay Tuesday where the presentation ceremony took place in the presence of the 201 men, women and children of the village.

As the plane came in, the ceremonial flags of the village were raised and a welcoming party escorted the guests to the home of Chief Clifton, patriarch of all Native people of the northwest coast.

Mr. Anfield, in an address to the village group, took them back in history to the days when the Native people first came under the sovereignty of Queen Victoria.

He praised them for their loyalty and devotion to the crown, continued from that day to this Coronation year when a new, young Queen and mother reigns.

"It is right and fitting," said Mr. Anfield, "that the Native people should be numbered among those honored by Her Majesty in Coronation Year. No honor is more deserved than that being presented today to Chief Clifton, whose devoted service to his own people and to all the Native people of B.C. is known far and wide."

"For half a century the chief has guided his people, guarded them from evils and urged them to become progressive," the results of Mr. Clifton's work, he said, were evident in a law-abiding and religious people, living happily in a well-built community, whose progressive fishermen are trusted and respected by all.

As Mr. Anfield presented the medal he said, "This award is made to you, Heber Clifton, by command of Her Majesty the Queen. Long may you live to wear it and long may you be spared to lead your people."

Rev. Sieber also spoke briefly, challenging the people of the village, and especially the young people, "to uphold God's laws and to follow the chief in his work for the church in Hartley Bay."

He said that Chief Clifton had rallied his people to build a new church when the old one was destroyed by fire. The new church was one of the most beautiful in B.C. The example of courage, faith and perseverance set by the chief has been recognized by his Queen. "It must remain your task and duty to follow what He has taught you," speaking in his own language, Chief Clifton expressed his gratitude for the honor, assuring the Queen of his continued loyalty and devotion, and service to his people.

Following a ceremonial banquet, Ed and Lewis Clifton spoke on behalf of the people, after which the official party left.

Kitimat Rail Link, Bridge Noted in Annual CN Report

Clearing and grading of the new 45-mile rail link from Terrace to Kitimat, work on the seven-span rail bridge over the Skeena river and the new railway barge slip at Prince Rupert were among major projects listed by Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways in his annual report released today.

Work on the Terrace-Kitimat right of way is progressing, as is erection of the new bridge.

Three steel trestles are in place on the bridge project east of Terrace, and three spans have been erected.

The project is reported up to schedule and is expected to be completed within the contract time. Contractors are Dawson and Hall on the sub-structure with Dominion Bridge company handling the steel work.

Construction work on the rail bed also will continue all winter in the section of heavy rock work at the south end of Lakelse Lake as well as on some phases of the work north of Kitimat.

Track has been laid from the station to the north abutment of the new bridge, the first track placed on the new spur line.

The railway company has imported two Bombardiers for the winter supply transportation job. The streamlined vehicles, equipped with tracks and skis, can carry 12 men. They will be used between Lakelse Lake and Kitimat.

Hi-Boys Hand Dukes Second Loss in Row

Daily News Sports Editor

Booth Memorial High School Rainmakers flouted the percentages last night at the Civic Centre and handed the Duke of Connaugh High School team a 61-48 lacing that left the six-man Royal City squad confused and frustrated.

By all the odds the Dukes, former provincial champs, having sampled the small Civic Centre floor and only lost by four points to a hard-checking Prince Rupert team Monday night should have roared back last night, loaded for baskets. But the pattern never crystallized.

Jack Evans' Rainmakers got the jump on the visitors and had a 12-5 first quarter score to work on before the Dukes knew what had hit them. The Bo-Me-Hi lads, knowing how badly the Dukes wanted the equalizing game, really applied the pressure and never let their opponents get organized.

If the Dukes were upset in the first quarter they were lost in the second, only scoring two field goals and three free shots while Ron Ciccone, Freddy Kristman, his hook-shot working like a charm, and Dick Nickerson sank nine field goals and one free shot.

FOUND RANGE

Going into the third quarter on the bottom end of a 31-12 score, Dukes' Marvin Berg aided by Don Wallin, fought back tooth and nail. Berg coming out of the bucket spot began to sink his long shots from the side, collecting 9 points as the Dukes were edged 17-15 during the quarter.

Still battling back, Bob Hindmarsh's crew outscored the Rainmakers 21-13 in the final frame, as Evans put in his second string with the exception of Ciccone who was left on to set the pace for the others. At just under the three-minute mark Greig Forbes was fouled by Jack Rebagliati and was awarded one free shot which he took and sank. Play resumed and Ken Wallin and Berg sank two quick baskets. By this time Doug Sankey and Coach Evans were protesting loudly that Forbes should have been allowed two shots. Sankey continued to protest, despite being told by Umpire Ole Shitta that in high school basketball it is in the last two minutes that two shots are given automatically. When Sankey continued to fume he was banished from the game and three technical fouls were given to Bo-Me-Hi.

Berg showed praiseworthy control in taking his three penalty shots. Under terrific pressure, booed and roared at by the crowd, he took his time and scored all three.

Bo-Me-Hi's first string then went into action. At the one minute 42-second mark Rod Tait fouled out after playing a sensational game and received a well-earned ovation from the fair-sized crowd.

Others who received loud rounds of applause were Freddy Kristman, who led Bo-Me-Hi scorers with 21 points, Dick Nickerson, Ron Ciccone and Bill Morrison, who at the 52-second mark of the last quarter rifled a floor-length pass to Kristman under the Dukes' basket, who scored. Morrison also stunned spectators, team-mates and Dukes alike at the 6-second of the third quarter, when knowing he had no time to pass or dribble aimed a shot for the basket from the middle of the floor and sank it.

For the Dukes, Berg scoring 18 points, was outstanding as was co-captain Jack Rebagliati who worked like a slave to add 16 points to his team's total. Don Wallin came to life in the third and fourth quarters and Harry Keen contributed 5.

Rainmakers scored 25 field goals to the Duke's 18 with the Prince Rupert boys netting 11 out of 24 free shots while the New Westminster crew made 22 free shots pay off out of 33 chances. Rainmakers committed 20 fouls plus three technicals while Dukes were penalized 16 times. Ralph Clabby fouled out. The Dukes who discarded their white uniforms after Monday's defeat because they had suffered all their previous losses in white (one out of 15) wore purple last night.

Young Aussie Downs Trabert To Tie Davis Cup Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (A.P.)—Lewis Hoad, one of Australia's 19-year-old wonders, today defeated the American ace, Tony Trabert, 13-11, 6-3, 2-6, 3-6, 7-5 in a miserable, steady rain to tie the Davis Cup challenge round 2-2.

The condition of the Kooyong court was so bad after the rain, which went 62 games and lasted just five minutes short of three hours, that officials decided to postpone the deciding singles test until Thursday.

Now the optimism that was rampant in the United States camp has subsided somewhat. For the Americans' slumping star, Vic Seixas, will go into action against Ken Rosewall, the other Australian, 19-year-old, who has licked Seixas six times in a row.

It wasn't that the University of Cincinnati basketball player didn't perform well. He did. On occasions, he was brilliant.

The rain and wretched condition of the court bothered Tony, but that certainly was not why he lost. Young Hoad had to play on the same court. Perhaps Trabert was annoyed a bit more because he is a bigger fellow than Hoad and had more trouble balancing himself on the slippery turf.

Trabert slipped three times in the early going, and referee Cliff Sproule came onto the court after the fourth game of the second set and looked over the grass. He returned to his position without comment.

But two games later both players were wearing spikes. The turf was a mess when the match was over.

OUTDOORS With Marly —

Should you be one of the fortunate folk with some holiday time open right now, then the best suggestion is for a trip to Cloyah Creek, there are steelheads ready for an argument. Sizable grey cod are hitting white feathers or bucktail on a small lead at the Yacht Club, also on the float nearest the ice-dock at Fairview Co-op plant, and flounders at both points are taking any fish or worm bait dragged slowly along the bottom; all fish in prime condition.

The fishing tackle stores are featuring a nine-foot glass two piece rod by Montague, sells under $20 and is near perfection for steelhead and coho, works beautifully with light casting lures, would also serve with a spinning reel if a one-inch guide was installed between the reel and the ordinary one which is already built on. This stick is markedly similar to your columnist's favorite salt-water rod, which same stands up to punishingly heavy work including halibut and other bottom feeders.

A new and simple "automatic lead" shotgun sight is on the market, and it remains to be seen whether or not it will be permissible in this province, because it does some of the things which are done by the banned "Nydar" glass sight. This "Lead" sight is made to fit all types of shotguns, singles, doubles, over-and-under, and rifles too! In operation it is offset on either side of the barrel and the eyes look at the quarry through a frame, while the barrel is actually pointing ahead of the game and providing the necessary lead.

The sight is claimed to improve trapshooting as well, and works on the idea that so long as the object aimed at is in view over the sight bar, the amount of lead remains the same no matter the range within reasonable limits of course.

The famous Ashaway line folk have produced a fly line in one of the new synthetics called "Daeron" and said line should answer many fervent pleas. It is of small diameter, high density, and great tensile strength, which adds up to a line which will get down deep, particularly with the more lightly dressed flies and nymphs that work so well down stairs. This line, being of small diameter, offers less air and water resistance and its advantages are obvious, meaning longer straighter casts and easier pickup of a long line.

Those who failed to get all the things hoped for at Christmas have good news, for generally, glass rods are improved in type and quality yet lowered in price for 1954 due to the great demand built up in the past few years since their introduction.

If you are a new timer with a boat to care for this winter, do not make the mistake of using a linseed oil paint on the hull, this kind of paint is much enjoyed by various marine organisms, and keeps them well fed. Owners of larger craft should be sure that recent additions of electrical devices have not increased the rate of electrolytic action on metal fittings aboard, serious results might ensue and a check-up is in order.

Have you taken care of that rifle which is expected to do a job for you again next Fall, or is the barrel fouled up with corrosives from the last shot you fired? That's all for this year folks, and A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The voice of Maury Waxman who, in turn, is the voice of Nino Valdez, the Cuban heavyweight, trembled with indignation as he discussed the possibility of Rocky Marciano making his next title defence against Danny Nardico in Miami Feb. 24.

Maury had just finished reading Rocky's own announcement that the match had been made. "What's happened," he said, breathing deeply, "if that Rocky let the cat out from the bag. Sure We'll's denying it, but that's exactly what he's trying to do — sell the IBC on giving him and Rocky a nice payday against a fellow where his title couldn't possible be in danger. It's the same thing Gene Tunney did when he fought old Tom Heeney.

"I happen to know the IBC doesn't want any part of it. They know they can't sell Nardico down there where he was outclassed by Joe Maxim. Anybody can beat Nardico. Only reason We'll picks him is that he owes some old time favors to his manager, Lou Viscusi. They were partners once and Al would like to give Lou a payday."

SEEKS VALDES MATCH

The reason for Waxman's burn was, of course, readily apparent. He quit a soft job with matchmaker Chris Dundee down in Miami to help steel Valdez into an immediate match with Marciano.

"It says here," Waxman continued on a rising note, "that We'll says who is Valdez and why should he give him a match? That's a lot of audacity if I ever heard it. Valdez is six foot, two inches and over 200 pounds and he has beat the daylight out of Ezzard Charles and knocked out Heinz Neuhaus, the champion of Europe."

"Why don't we want to fight Charles first? Why should we? We beat him once, good, and all he's done since then is to beat this punk kid Coley Wallace. We'll fight him again if we have to, but not for any peanuts."

ALWAYS AIM HIGH

Why, we inquired cautiously, wouldn't it be smart for Valdez to first whip Charles again, if it's such a cinch he can do so, thus getting himself a fat purse and at the same time placing Marciano in a position where he couldn't possibly dodge him? "That's not how you figure in this business," Waxman said with fine restraint. "You've got to always look to get the big shot. You don't get in the big money unless you fight for the championship. We think our boy is ready right now to win the title, so why should we fool around with Charles or anybody else?"

Sandford Sparks Bruin Win

By The Canadian Press

Six years ago Ed Sandford came into the National Hockey League touted as one of the game's most promising centres. Until this season, he never quite lived up to the advance billing.

There was nothing amateurish about Sandford Tuesday night as he led Boston Bruins to a 6-2 victory over the fifth-place New York Rangers with two goals and two assists.

It was the only game of the night and Sandford showed 12,482 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden that he probably is heading for his best season in the big time. The year-old centre put the Bruins ahead 3-2 in the second period and scored in the third to run goal-total this season to 11.

Sandford never has as more than 16 goals in one season. He got 16 in the 1946 campaign.

The victory gave Boston strong hold on fourth place league standings. The Yorkers remained in fifth, nine points behind the Bruins.

Other Boston goals were scored by Godfrey, defencemen Laycoe and Johnny Peters.

Veteran centre Max Baer and Nick Mickoski scored for New Yorkers.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE
 By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
 Mr. Muzzy Finds Ace Makes Waste

"I don't see how I could go down on this hand," remarked Mr. Muzzy illogically, after he had just been set one trick at his four spade contract.

"Only you could do it," said Mr. Champion wearily. "As usual, when you are playing for 10 tricks, you think you have to win the first 10. Don't you understand that it could just as much if you win the last 10—or any 10?"

"Well, you're talking results," argued Mr. Muzzy. "Of course, you know how to play it after you see all the cards."

"I knew all I needed to know from the start," replied Mr. Champion hotly. "It was stupid to try to win the first trick with the ace of hearts."

Here is what happened. Miss Brash opened the king of hearts. Mr. Muzzy played dummy's ace—and Mr. Abel ruffed. A spade was returned and Mr. Muzzy won with the ace. Playing in a daze now, he failed to cash his two top clubs. Instead, he led the ace and another diamond. After winning two diamond tricks, Mr. Abel got out with a club. At the end Mr. Muzzy had to concede a heart for down one.

Mr. Champion was right. There was no hurry about winning a trick with the ace of hearts. On the bidding it was rather likely that Mr. Abel was void of hearts. Mr. Muzzy should have played low from dummy at trick one.

If Miss Brash continued with the queen of hearts, he should have ducked in dummy again. If she persisted with a third heart, Mr. Muzzy could ruff in his own hand, playing the last low heart from the board.

The point was that 10 tricks were in sight as soon as the dummy went down—that is, six spades, one diamond, two clubs and one heart. Unless things were very fortunate in the diamond suit, the ace of hearts had to win one of the 10 tricks. And at trick one that card was in jeopardy. Mr. Muzzy could not afford to play it until trumps were out.

Japanese Businessmen Return

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Four Japanese businessmen who have been conducting a study of mineral and timber resources in the Anchorage area left Monday for Tokyo.

The four Japanese, top officials of the Alaska Lumber and Pulp Co., a Japanese-owned firm which has announced plans to develop southeastern Alaska wood pulp resources in the near future, looked over other development possibilities in this area with members of the Bureau of Land Management and the Chamber of Commerce.

Tadao Sasayama, chairman of the board of Alaska Pulp, which was formed earlier this month in Juneau, expressed special interest in the territory's oil potential.

A ready oil supply here would be of great interest to Japan because of its relative nearness to Japanese islands, Sasayama said.

He pointed out that Japan has to import much crude and refined oil from the United States.

Before boarding a plane for Tokyo, Sasayama said he now has a good friend in Yugoslavia checking mining possibilities there. Sasayama said this same man, whom he did not name, had been asked to check on Alaska mining possibilities on his way back to Japan from Yugoslavia.

He said his group plans further visits to the territory next summer to push plans for its proposed pulp mill in southeastern Alaska. They also will further explore western Alaska resources, he said, but he declined to say what matters they would investigate specifically. A technical mission will precede them in the spring, he said.

Douks Renew Plea Against Policy

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Members of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect here renewed pleas that the B.C. department of education end its demands that their children attend school.

Eight spokesmen for the radical sect, whose sporadic outbreaks of arson and nude parading have kept the B.C. Kootenay district in turmoil for more than 20 years, made the latest request in an interview here with school inspector J. J. McKenzie.

Government May Provide New Trades For Sailors

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian and United Kingdom governments have begun operation of a plan to shift some Canadian deep-sea ships to British registry to ease their high running costs.

The governments concluded an agreement a few days ago and the flag transfer of the first two ships was quickly approved. Applications for the transfer of 10 more vessels—about one-quarter of the Canadian-registered deep-sea fleet of 62—are pending before the Canadian government.

Meanwhile the federal government is planning measures to provide new trades for deep-sea sailors displaced in the transfer of ships to the British flag.

HENRY GOLDSMITH, maitre d'hotel of the Calgary Petroleum Club, who was in charge of catering at the Big Three conference of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel of France at Bermuda in December.

Churchill Pleasure To Serve Says Calgary Maitre d'Hotel

CALGARY (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill has a healthy appetite. At the Big Three conference in Bermuda he ate more heartily than the other delegates and showed a gourmet's interest in the varied dishes served.

Henry Goldsmith, maitre d'hotel of the Calgary Petroleum Club who was in charge of catering at the conference, said the British prime minister particularly liked wild game sent from Alberta.

A young man who went to Calgary in July after serving in some of Europe's exclusive clubs, Goldsmith was requested by the management of the Mid-Ocean Club in Bermuda to cater for the conference.

He noted that President Eisenhower dined lightly on simple foods while Premier Joseph Laniel of France, suffering from a severe cold, could eat only what his doctor permitted.

Mr. Goldsmith recalled one incident:

"Churchill, after much persuasion got President Eisenhower to try some strawberry ice cream, the prime minister's favorite desert.

"The offer of a Churchill cigar, however, was refused by the President who doesn't drink or smoke."

Goldsmith brought back one of Sir Winston's cigars, a half-smoked butt and autographed photographs of the British prime minister and of Anthony Eden, Britain's foreign minister.

Goldsmith got the butt as a result of the daily coffee break when Sir Winston went through a ritual that kept the maitre d'hotel and his staff on their toes.

CIGARS ON THE RIGHT

"We would set the table with the coffee service and a box of the famous cigars, always on the right, along with Sir Winston's special cigar clipper," Goldsmith reported.

"Each day Churchill would first sip his coffee, then ceremoniously pass the cigars to his guests, take one himself, smoke half of it and neatly butt it in the ash tray."

It was after one of these rituals that Goldsmith obtained his souvenirs.

The Alberta game birds which included pheasant, grouse and wild duck, were sent especially to the conference by Harold Siebens of Calgary.

"Sir Winston had these delicacies on several occasions," Goldsmith said.

The Calgary maitre d'hotel said the American, British and French groups each had its own dining rooms with their own specially-prepared menus. Occasionally, the French would entertain the British, the British the Americans and so on, but never during the conference did they all dine together.

SCREEN ★ FLASHES

ST. LOUIS (CP)—The critics weren't talking after Tuesday night's world premiere here of "The French Line," a 3-D movie starring curvaceous Jane Russell which failed to win approval from movieland's self-censor, the Breen office.

Members of the St. Louis morality squad attended the opening, which Miss Russell herself passed up, and said they would report to their superiors today. Police chief Jeremiah O'Connell said the theatre management will be asked to discontinue the movie if the squad members declare it obscene.

Miss Russell was critical of her controversial dance sequence in the movie and decided not to make a personal appearance at the premiere.

Roman Catholics of the St. Louis area were advised in churches Sunday not to attend the movie. A letter condemning the movie and issued by two Roman Catholic lay groups was read to the congregations.

U.S. John Doherty, one of the morality squad members assigned to the theatre, said the squad members had a tough time getting to their seats because of the crowd. Doherty quipped the theatre manager as saying it was the largest crowd in six years.

CRITICS UNHAPPY

Movie critics were much more free with their comments in today's editions of the two St. Louis newspapers.

Myles Standish of the Post-Dispatch wrote:

"All I can say is, the song and dance in question which crudely exploits Miss Russell's wares may or may not be immoral—though certainly in bad taste—but the whole film is so tedious and inept I myself would never have stayed long enough to see the number if it weren't for the publicity."

"The police, of course, would not investigate the fraud being committed—that of continuing to exploit Miss Russell as an actress. Her talent is so meagre, after 10 years in films, as still to be amateurish."

The Globe-Democrat's Herbert L. Monk wrote:

"The plot... is largely for the purpose at hand. Largely that seems to have been to permit Miss Russell to display the voluptuousness which is her stock-in-trade and for which she is more noted perhaps than for her acting... otherwise there is little that is likely to strike many as unduly risqué, fewer still as vulgar."

Mallock Back in Jail

VANCOUVER (CP)—George Mallock, 38, listed as Canada's No. 4 most wanted criminal until his capture in New York last week, is behind bars at Oakalla prison.

Mallock, who jumped $20,000 bail while awaiting trial here in 1951 on a charge of conspiring to sell narcotics, was arrested by U.S. bureau of narcotics agents and an RCMP officer from Vancouver. He was returned here Christmas Day and will appear in Assize court Jan. 4.
