British Seamen Fined

Light Watchman in Hospital

Two British seamen were fined $100 each in court here on a charge of criminal negligence following the death of the night watchman of the Prince Rupert grain elevator.

Overcoming in Prince Rupert Hospital is Gus Maguire, 65, who yesterday had a bullet removed from his chest.

Two sailors, Walter Geoffrey and Salwyn John, of the Merchant Prince, London, England, here for a grain, were told by Maguire, D. Vance the incident be a lesson to them.

They were charged under Section 44 of the Criminal Code, which carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison with or without a fine.

In sentencing the pair, the judge said he would deal with them under Section 1033, which permits a fine.

He disclosed that the two men came ashore and purchased a .22 rifle, taken it back to the ship and engaged in target practice.

They were shooting at cans and pieces of wood in the harbor when they heard someone and were told that the night watchman had been killed. Batey and Crowley carried the elderly man to the elevator foreman's office where he rested until taken to hospital.

Maguire told Mr. Vance that he never had a rifle in his possession and he realized the seriousness of the offence.

Fishing Areas Closed For Year

British Columbia main coast north of the Bella Bella area, which includes the Skeena, Greenville-Princedale and Bulkley areas, will be closed to all salmon net fishing for the rest of the year, the chief supervisor of fisheries in Vancouver announced.

It had been reported that a fisherman had been picked up in the week in the Central South Coast area. Catches from these areas have not yet been reported.

Best Fixes Fish Prices New Ruling

COVVER — The year's chum salmon price decision between the Fisheries Association of B.C. and Fishermen's Union has ended with decision down by Judge Joseph Arhuve.

Judge has ruled that "fair market prices" for fall chum be: 7½ cents per pound for anadromous Straits and Fraser; 6 cents per pound for land and northern areas; and 5½ cents per pound for Queen Charlotte Islands and west coast areas.

Decision came after a year of negotiations. Fishermen offered to sign a mini-price agreement for these areas: 11, 1952, at 7 cents, and 5½ cents per pound. The union demanded 9 cents and 8 cents.

Companies increased the price of Clearlake chum on Sept. 22, 1952, and fishermen rejected the offer with strike action.

Extra Artery Making New Men, Women Out of Persons With Heart Attacks

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP) — Sick human hearts are being made well and strong again by giving them an extra artery, a Canadian surgeon has announced.

Men crippled by heart attack, scarcely able to work, now are back at full-time work as oil well drillers, machinists, railroad workers and physicians. Dr. Arthur M. Vineberg of Montreal told an International College of Surgeons meeting.

The third artery brings life-saving blood to hearts starving because of blockage of one or both of the coronary arteries which normally feed the heart.

Heart attacks come because the coronary arteries harden and narrow, or are blocked by clots.

The dramatic operation takes an artery running through the chest and thrusts one end into a tunnel opened inside the heart muscles. The fresh supply of blood brings a new lease on life.

The third artery has been given successfully to eight out of nine men subjects in the last three years, he said.

It can be done safely for any heart victim "who can walk 100 feet or more," he added.

For the spare artery, Vineberg uses the internal mammary artery which nourishes tissues in the chest. One end of this artery is permanently closed off.

The free end is placed inside a tunnel created by separating heart muscle tissue. The muscles are not cut. They close back, holding the spare artery in place.

Other blood vessels in the chest take over the job of serving the tissue formerly supplied by the mammary artery. This artery is apparently singularly free from hardening such as affects the coronary and other arteries.

Dr. Vineberg said the oil driller now can hike 10 miles through brush country carrying a full pack. A machinist, unable to work 2½ years ago, now can put in a 16-hour day when he wishes. A physician, victim of two heart attacks a year apart, now is back at his practice.

The operation is also being used now at other hospitals, Dr. Vineberg said.

Schools Loaded to Capacity As Attendance up by 154

An increase of about 154 pupils has been tabulated in the School District 51 population according to figures released today from the school board office.

While district schools are crowded to capacity there is no danger of children going onto a shift system.

Biggest boost in school registration this month was at Conrad Street School where up until today 345 pupils are being taught as compared to 307 when the school closed in June. About eight of the Conrad School students are additions from the Port Edward School.

Thirty Port Edward School pupils are being taken care of at King Edward elementary school where the school population is presently 417. There were 385 pupils there at June. When the new Port Edward school is completed the pressure on city schools will be relieved.

Booth Memorial High School present school roles list about 583 students with another 35 additional ones expected by the end of September as students quit summer jobs and return from out of town. This anticipated figure of 618 this term compares with 576 students registered at the end of June.

At Port Edward Elementary School there are 91 students as

Reuther Urges War on Poverty

MONTREAL — CIO president Walter Reuther has proposed that Canada and the United States wage international war against poverty to break the back of aggressive Communism.

He suggested last night that the two countries ship part of their combined 2,729,000,000-bushel wheat surplus to impoverished countries, either as a gift or through long-term credit, as one weapon in the fight.

Wreckage Of Hall Plane Found East Of Ketchikan

SETTING OFF FIRE ALARM BRINGS BOY SURPRISES

WEBSTER, Mass. (AP)—A seven-year-old Webster boy got two surprises last night. He became curious about a fire alarm box and pulled the handle. The town fire whistle began to blow and the firemen found him still staring at the box when they arrived. Surprise No. 2 came along in the person of his dad, a fireman, who quickly got to the seat of the problem.

Wife of U.K. Diplomat Disappears From Home

GENEVA.—Police said today the American-born wife and three children of missing British diplomat Donald MacLean have disappeared. They have not been seen since Friday.

Britain has called officially for a Europe-wide search for the family of the man who is believed to have skipped behind the Iron Curtain and two British security officers have been sent to Switzerland to aid in the search.

The British Foreign Office indicated it may make a statement on their disappearance later today.

In London, William Didsdale, Foreign Office press officer, said it was a "matter of speculation" as to whether Mrs. MacLean had left to join her husband, who vanished in May, 1952.

Mrs. MacLean, 37, a native of Chicago, and the three MacLean children—two boys, nine and seven, and a two-year-old daughter—had been living here with her mother, Mrs. Melinda Dunbar, for some months.

Riddsdale told a crowded London press conference that two security men were rushed to Geneva the moment Whitehall got word Monday that the woman and her children had vanished without a trace.

MacLean and Guy Burgess, another British diplomat, crossed from England to France in 1951, ostensibly on a holiday, and vanished.

It has been widely assumed they either slipped behind the Iron Curtain or were kidnapped by Communist agents and taken there. No word has been heard of them since.

RCMP Inspector On Plane Trip

RCMP Inspector Taylor, head of the Prince Rupert sub-division was scheduled to leave this morning by plane for Whitehorse, Yukon, from which point he will begin a routine inspection trip. He will call at Atlin, Smithers and Burns Lake before returning.

THE BRITISH TELEGRAPH SHIP MONARCH lies off Middle Cove, about six miles east of St. John's, Nfld., completing the western end of a new cable connecting Newfoundland with the United Kingdom. The cable was floated to land on empty oil drums. After completing the cable to a point 250 miles off Newfoundland, where it will be spliced to a line from Cornwall, England, the ship will complete the network by connecting Middle Cove with Halifax.

Sinking Ship Starts Race For Safety

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — A sinking Spanish freighter, the "Marte", today began a frantic race to port . . . a race against time and the rising water in her hold.

The 3,744-ton grain-laden ship gave up attempts to patch the gaping hole in her starboard side and headed for St. John's, some 560 miles to the northwest of her position on the Atlantic.

The Marte appealed for help Tuesday when the crew appeared to be losing their desperate battle at the pumps, in a game attempt to keep her afloat. The United States Coast Guard cutter Yakutat left her North Atlantic weather station, to speed to the aid of the stricken Spanish ship.

A work party from the cutter helped the Marte's men in an attempt at patching the hole with cement and planks. However, today the Yakutat radioed the U.S. Coast Guard station at Argentia, Nfld., that the patching attempt had failed because of the awkward location of the leak, and the Marte began her race for land.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. G. Paulin, Victoria, and Mrs. R. Tillyer, Seattle, and three grandchildren, Terry, Ronnie and Elaine Daniels of Prince Rupert.

Nothing Discovered Of Five Occupants

KETCHIKAN.—Wreckage of a plane in which wealthy New Mexico oil man Ellis Hall and four passengers disappeared a month ago was found yesterday at Boca de Quadra, a timbered ridge 35 miles east of here.

The shattered plane was sighted about mid-day by a Ketchikan flier and well-known athlete, Herman Ludwigen, and positively identified by ground parties which beat their way through heavy brush to the scene.

(Ludwigen is well known in Prince Rupert. He was the star centre of Ketchikan All-Stars basketball team and last year won the most valuable player award in the annual international series here. He is a brother of Harry Ludwigen, the veteran Ketchikan baseball player, who also plays against Prince Rupert teams.)

Fate of the five persons aboard the plane is not known. Searchers reported finding no trace of them near parts of the widely-scattered wreckage, but a U.S. Coast Guard boat planned to go to the scene today to scour the area.

The remnants were from a green de Havilland, Hall, of Albuquerque, N.M., was flying a twin-engined de Havilland of that color when he vanished with his wife, two daughters and a young 17-year-old friend on a flight from Ketchikan last August 17 to Bellingham, via Smithers.

Members of the ground crews reported after darkness and rainy weather forced them to leave the spot, that a suitcase carried in Hall's plane had been found. There was no sign of other personal belongings.

Search for the plane, conducted by American, RCAF and Prince Rupert Aero Club planes, was spurred by the offer of a $30,000 reward made by Condor Petroleum Company of Abilene, Texas, in which Mr. Hall was a principal owner. Free gasoline was provided all planes taking part in the search by the Standard Oil Company, a subsidiary of Condor Petroleum.

It is understood that Ludwigen is in line for a major share of the $30,000 reward.

The search party said the wreckage was scattered over a half-mile of brushy, timbered land about 100 yards from the shoreline of Boca de Quadra, an arm of Revillagigedo Channel.

They said the aircraft apparently had been circling around. They said the right wing of the plane apparently clipped a mountain, sending the craft crashing to the ground.

The party said the plane looked as though it had exploded. Part of the cabin was located half a mile from the wing.

The wreckage was at an elevation of 1,200 feet.

The plane was reported seen in the same general area after taking off from Annette Island Aug. 17.

The plane was bound from Boston to Chicago.

The crash occurred in a lightly wooded area near the Albany-Schenectady highway, about 10 miles west of Albany. Cause was not determined immediately.

The plane struck the central tower of radio station WPTZ.

The plane was scheduled to land at Albany Airport, about six miles from the accident scene.

To Map Out 1954 Season

A review of the past season's activities and plans for the 1954 will be the main points on the agenda of a meeting of the Prince Rupert Little League Baseball Association called for next Tuesday, September 22, at the Civic Centre. President Art Williamson said this morning.

The meeting to which parents of Little Leaguers and prospective players between the ages of 8 and 12 years are invited is to be held in the Club lounge. Also besides the executive the association would like to see any senior baseball players who can offer constructive criticism before the official league is formed next year.

The association hopes to lay groundwork for winter program for the Little League, which will include blackboard practices and active pitching and catching training.

St. John Ambulance Launches Drive

St. John Ambulance Association, which has branches in 68 B.C. centres, is appealing for $100,000 this month to maintain its first aid training program and services.

The association, organized nearly 900 years ago by knights in the Crusades to free the Holy Land from Moslem domination, has been active in B.C. for 46 years.

In that time, said Mr. Justice J. V. Clynne of the B.C. Supreme Court, who is president of the St. John Council of B.C., "the organization has aided thousands of sick and injured citizens."

"The work of St. John is purely voluntary, and we hope that citizens will respond generously to our appeal."

Campaign chairman for the drive, which starts September 14, is Fred B. Brown, president of Vanwest Logging Co. Ltd. and Deeks-McBride Ltd.

J. Foley, vice-president of the Powell River Co., is vice-chairman.

Prominent representatives of every major industry and business in B.C. have volunteered to aid in the drive.

Money raised will be used for additional training facilities and to replenish and maintain supplies of first aid equipment in the 68 centres operated by the association.

The association's big job is training men and women for first aid positions in B.C.'s rapidly-expanding industry and for posts in the West Coast civil defence program.

Police officers, firemen, playground supervisors, forest rangers, school children, Boy Scouts, Guides and others also receive this training.

The association also operates 15 highway first aid posts whose services have been praised by Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac of the RCMP in B.C.

Its members serve in all large public gatherings, in Red Cross clinics, as nurses aides and in rehabilitation programs for the aged.

"Their work takes them into the factory and the home and their voluntary first aid teams are always on hand to give help to the sick or injured when needed," said William Manson, B.C. vice-president, Canadian Pacific Railway.

The Need is Urgent

JOHN RUSKIN had a simple piece of stone on which was written the single word "Today." It was a constant reminder to the great essayist that whatever the past may have held, whatever the future might hold, the present was of vital importance.

"Today" might well be one of the mottoes emblazoned on the banners of the Salvation Army, for although its workers live for the future; they make the most in service out of every passing day.

It is well known that this utilitarian body of men and women "work for the night is coming," but they do so with the realization that the golden moments of today, if lost or misused, are gone forever.

Moreover, they have a saying that the future cannot be improved unless the present is constructively disturbed.

The urgency of the present lies heavily upon all whose efforts affect other lives. The Army's welfare workers take their self-imposed responsibilities earnestly no matter whether their charge be a highly-organized city centre or a remote village outpost.

With the 1953 Red Shield Appeal, the Salvation Army asks its supporters to assist present labors which cannot go on without funds. In helping the Army today, Canadians are helping their country's future.

Human need cannot wait. The Salvation Army knows that. Let us help them, and do it today.

We all know the good work of the Army here and we can be assured that any generosity we show will be relayed tenfold by the Army to those who need it. Surely this is a gratifying form of interest.

Let's push the quota over the top by digging down today to help those who help others.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Government authorities who know how much they do NOT know about what can happen in the world wheat market are reasonably convinced that the western farmer will succeed in disposing of this year's mammoth crop.

But they won't guarantee that he's going to have a happy time in the process. In fact, they're almost willing to guarantee the reverse.

As they see it, the honeymoon period of recent years in the world wheat business is over for an indefinite time to come. But they believe that the real crisis won't come until the harvest of 1954. This year's problem is looked upon as merely a foretaste of the grim marketing situation that will be faced at that time if yields are as bountiful as the present world crop.

The strength of the western farmer's position in the present situation of almost universal surplus is the quality of Canadian wheat. It's a "buyers' market" in all wheat trading centres today—except in respect to the hard wheat for mixing purposes which Canada alone supplies in significant export quantities. That factor promises to give Canadian wheat an edge over its competitors in the scramble for markets that's going to be the Number One feature of the months ahead.

But while the quality of Canadian wheat may win it the nod from world buyers, government authorities don't expect that it will command a premium price. Although too much isn't being said for publication these days on the touchy issue of price, the basic opinion in departmental circles of government is that Canadian wheat will have to meet the price at which other world wheat is offered. There's far too much of it to be sold to make it practical for the Wheat Board to hold out for a premium price, the departmental experts believe.

Their view is, in brief, that if a market is found ultimately for this year's crop at whatever prices may be prevailing in world wheat trade, the grower should expect nothing more—and should consider himself fortunate, in the bargain.

It's not exactly a rosy outlook. But neither is the prospect wholly discouraging. United States policy of acreage reduction is regarded as constructive. By next autumn the chances are believed to be good of United States production being scaled down to domestic requirements. Canadian growers obviously will benefit from the disappearance of the United States as an exporter. That's the most hopeful potential development of the moment on the Canadian wheat producer's horizon.

THE LETTERBOX

GOOD WORK

The Editor,
The Daily News—
I note that two or three letters have appeared in the newspapers recently, stating that the provincial government has borrowed seven million dollars.

This, of course, is not true, but in accordance with an act passed by the Legislature the government guarantees all school bonds for capital purposes.

The government should not be criticized for this, but complimented, as it is saving local school boards one-quarter of their interest charges.

All I can say to the Social Credit government is, Keep up the good work.

Sons Need Lawyer

IT WOULD be little less than a public scandal if the 148 arrested Sons of Freedom were allowed to go to trial without benefit of defence by a good lawyer.

The hymn singing and praying radical Doukhobors say that they don't want any lawyers for "God will defend" them. Nevertheless there are great questions of public importance which may well be overlooked unless there are good defense lawyers in court.

The Sons of Freedom need to be defended against their own foolishness and ignorance of the law as much as for other reasons. For instance, in the absence of legal advice many of the 148 might plead "Guilty" without fully understanding the gravity of the charges or the consequences of such a plea.

HERE ARE a few of the reasons why it seems to me imperative that the Attorney-General, or the presiding magistrate, should exercise those provisions of the laws which provide for appointment of defense counsel when there is reason to believe that the accused persons are not fully fit to understand the gravity of the situation.

Any good defense lawyer might immediately ask:

1. Why there are 148 persons in custody on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency by parading in the nude when at least six reliable newspapermen who were actually on the spot reported that only 75 persons took part?

2. Why were the arrested Sons of Freedom not tried in accordance with regular procedure, that is by the magistrate nearest the alleged offence?

Why were 148 persons transported by special train many hundreds of miles—unless there was some other reason behind such transportation other than the ordinary impartial enforcement of the laws of Canada?

THERE ARE much larger issues involved in this case than the mere trial of 148 residents of B.C.

If any government of Canada can arrest 148 Doukhobors, separate them from their children, and transport them hundreds of miles from home before there is even the semblance of an appearance in court, then the door is opened for future grave abuses.

In this event, it would be little less than a public tragedy if the case were allowed to go by default. It is a sound principle of British justice that even the worst case is entitled to the best possible defense in court.

The fact that the Sons of Freedom ARE an unpopular sect, with a long record of turmoil making behind them is all the more reason why they should be adequately defended in court—even though they themselves do not understand the necessity for such defense.

AMONG other things, a good defense lawyer might find out whether the accused had been influenced in any way in their hostility to public schools by speeches of any Members of the Legislature, to the effect that the courses taught in the B.C. schools contributed to juvenile delinquency.

VICTORIA REPORT

by J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA — The Liberals, given short-shift by the public in last June's election, must make-shift at this session in the Legislature in the darkest, pokiest legislative office in the building.

The four Liberal MLAs—leader Arthur Laing, P. A. Gibbs of Oak Bay, Gordon Gibson of Lillooet and Arthur Bruce Brown of Prince Rupert—have been assigned one small room. It has a window looking into a well, so electric light will be necessary, even on the sunniest days.

Usually the leader of a party—even a minority party—has a legislative office to himself; not the Liberals this time. Mr. Laing—unless he howls about it—will have to squeeze for elbow-room with his three supporters. If he wants to talk privately, he'll have to scurry around for a cubby-hole somewhere else.

Last session Liberal leader E. T. Kenney had the old Leader of the Opposition's room, of good size and good furniture. Next to it is a huge chamber where, last session, Mr. Kenney's five supporters rattled around in the room's emptiness. There'll be no rattling around for the four Liberals this session; they'll hardly have space to breathe.

The old Opposition Leader's room has been given to the chief government whip, probably Bert Price of Vancouver-Burrard, and the deputy speaker, who'll likely be Hugh Shantz of North Okanagan. The big room next to it has been turned into a legislative committee room. That makes four committee rooms. The government must intend to push committee work this session in recent years legislative committees haven't done much.

The little room where the Liberals have been poked, was once used by the Clerk-of-the-House, until he found it so small he had to move to larger quarters. Last session Mrs. Nancy Hodges managed to get along in it by herself, but she didn't like it.

The lone Conservative, Dr. Larry Giovando of Nanaimo, fares better than the four Liberals. He has a room to himself, with a big window looking into a rose garden. Tom Uphill is next door to Dr. Giovando and his room, too, is bigger than the Liberals'. And so is the room to be occupied by Social Credit's Mrs. Lydia Arsens of Victoria, lone woman in the House.

CCF chieftain Arnold Webster, as Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition gets a fairly plush office looking into the rose garden. Next to him will be his 13 legislative supporters, in quite adequate quarters.

The mystery of legislative corridors is this: Why have Liberal leader Arthur Laing and his three supporters been shoved into a room so small they're bound to get on each others' nerves?

Mr. Don Forward drew ticket number 9364 which entitles that lucky ticket holder to the $35 third prize. The fourth prize winner was chosen by Mr. G. P. Woodside, who picked ticket number 3953. Fourth prize is $15.

Hugo Kraupner proprietor of the cleaning establishment said the prize money will be paid to holders of the stubs upon presentation of their stubs at his office.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

A movie show was staged in Prince Rupert last week. The theatre was packed, and there were long minutes when the stillness was profound. It was the sort of silence one remembers.

For there is such a thing as the magic of the motion picture. For example, the sinking of the Titanic 44 years ago is taking place again today. Not literally, but with a power and vividness almost beyond description. At least half of those who watched the screen as the great liner slowly settled into the Atlantic depths had not been born yet, but they could not have been more deeply moved than were others who chanced to be here in Prince Rupert on that fateful April morning in 1912.

Only too true, the ghostly vision of ice in the misty pathway of the Titanic and the thrilling cry of "Full speed astern!" A contrast, from varied pleasures, warmth and luxuries, to cold decks, crowded lifeboats and plain terror.

It's all become a memory—a part of unforgettable history—a sea drama unsurpassed—and the stark truth. Small wonder tears could be noted in many an eye as the theatre patrons filed homeward. For they were still witnessing the rows of brilliant lights along the sides of the Titanic fade and disappear, and hearing the distant strains of "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

It was in a doubtful, questioning spirit that news was received in Prince Rupert. How about confirmation? Perhaps the giant, four-funnelled liner was still afloat! What of the future? But time brought no comfort. It only meant a shock outlasting in grief and foreboding all that had gone before.

The mystery of legislative corridors is this: Why have Liberal leader Arthur Laing and his three supporters been shoved into a room so small they're bound to get on each others' nerves?

Mr. Don Forward drew ticket number 9364 which entitles that lucky ticket holder to the $35 third prize. The fourth prize winner was chosen by Mr. G. P. Woodside, who picked ticket number 3953. Fourth prize is $15.

CCF chieftain Arnold Webster, as Leader of Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition gets a fairly plush office looking into the rose garden. Next to him will be his 13 legislative supporters, in quite adequate quarters.

The mystery of legislative corridors is this: Why have Liberal leader Arthur Laing and his three supporters been shoved into a room so small they're bound to get on each others' nerves?

Mr. Don Forward drew ticket number 9364 which entitles that lucky ticket holder to the $35 third prize. The fourth prize winner was chosen by Mr. G. P. Woodside, who picked ticket number 3953. Fourth prize is $15.

Hugo Kraupner proprietor of the cleaning establishment said the prize money will be paid to holders of the stubs upon presentation of their stubs at his office.

Eileen Cross Opens Classes At Civic Centre October 5

Men and women interested in learning the finer points in sewing and tailoring or in "home rejuvenation" should pay a visit to the Civic Centre soon and register for classes to be held next month.

Eileen Cross of the University of British Columbia Extension Department will be returning to this city early in October to conduct her fifth annual series of courses, which have proved highly popular here in the past.

Co-sponsored by the Civic Centre Association and the UBC Extension Department, the three-week series starts October 5 and comprises afternoon and evening classes daily, alternating with sewing and tailoring one day and home rejuvenating the next. All classes are held in the small gymnasium in the Civic Centre.

In the home rejuvenating classes, Miss Cross teaches re-upholstering and re-finishing generally. Students bring their own furniture to refinish, either with upholstery, painting or varnishing.

In the sewing and tailoring classes, too, students learn as they make articles of clothing for themselves.

The classes are open to both men and women members of the Civic Centre. Registration opened several weeks ago and already close to 30 have registered.

In view of the popularity of the classes in the last four years, Civic Centre officials today urged those interested to register as soon as possible, to avoid disappointment.

British School Boys Start Journey Home

FORT ST. JAMES, B.C.—A group of 69 British school boys, tanned and toughened by five weeks camping in the northern British Columbia wilderness, have started the long journey home.

The boys, members of the British Schools Exploring Society, undertook the ambitious expedition to learn how to fend for themselves under difficult conditions.

Group leader Frank Hannell reported that the rugged area proved "ideally suited" for their aims.

"Our stay in this more impressive country has been a character-forming experience that none of us will ever forget," Mr. Hannell said.

The boys, aged 16 to 19, took part in 11 exploratory marches across densely wooded terrain north of Stuart Lake. Two parties reached the summit of Mount Sydney Williams, which rises 6,500 feet in the region north of Lake Trembleur.

The final test of endurance was the 116-mile hike exploring the unmapped region between Trembleur and Babine lakes, and the steep hills flanking the east shore of Babine.

The party making this 14-day trip was comprised of 15 specially selected boys, three leaders and a doctor.

Each member carried in his pack his own personal requirements and a share of the party's food, tents and scientific equipment. Individual loads varied between 35 pounds on the shorter journeys to a maximum of 65 pounds on the long marches.

Radio sets loaned by the army and the B.C. Forest Service were used to communicate between camps.

The society was founded in 1932 by Dr. G. Murray Levick, formerly a surgeon with the 1912 Scott Antarctic expedition, and has taken English school-boys on 15 exploratory trips to various parts of the world. Some 428 boys applied for the B.C. trip this year.

Soldier Wins Three Sets Of Wings

HANNOVER, Germany.—Sergeant Paul Camilleri, 32, of Salmon Arm, B.C., is one member of the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade who floats through the air with the greatest of ease.

This isn't so surprising when you know he has earned three different sets of wings in his service career—those of a fighter pilot, a glider pilot and a paratrooper.

Sgt. Camilleri was born on the island of Malta and served as a second lieutenant with the King's Own Malta Regiment until 1942 when he went to England to join the Royal Air Force. He was sent to Canada to train under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan in the spring of 1943 and his pilot officer's wings were pinned to his tunic in the fall of that year. The following spring he returned to England as a Hurricane pilot.

By the fall the RAF had more fliers than they knew what to do with so the young Maltese pilot transferred back to his old regiment in Malta and later served in Italy.

After a spell of civilian life he headed for Vancouver, where he joined the Canadian Army in the summer of 1947. At the Joint Air Training Centre at Rivers, Man., he won his paratrooper's wings in 1948 and qualified for his glider pilot's wings two years later. It is the wings of a glider pilot that he now wears on his uniform.

He manages to keep in practice by flying sailplanes at the RAF Gliding Club at Celle, a small town about 25 miles north of Hannover.

"It's a lot of fun," said the "winger" sergeant. "And besides you never can tell when the army may need me again as a glider pilot."

Meet Discusses Drunk Driving

TORONTO — The drinking driver, his behaviour and the question of whether he should drink and drive at all, is being scrutinized by experts from more than 20 countries, at the Second International Conference on Alcohol and Road Traffic.

Attending the conference are more than 200 scientists, doctors, lawyers, safety experts and law enforcement officials. Purpose of the meeting is to study the effects of alcohol on road traffic and to determine what can be done through education, law enforcement and legislation.

Options Mine

PENTICTON (CP)—United States interests have optioned a large deposit of tungsten ore on Rear-don Mountain, 20 miles southwest of here, officials of the Alcon Mining syndicate said Tuesday.

Preliminary examination shows deposit to be 600 feet wide, 2,000 feet long and estimated 100 feet deep.

HIGHER HEMLINE GOOD

LOS ANGELES (AP)—To a traffic engineer, the higher hemline decree by stylist Christian Dior is a safety factor.

Burton W. Marsh, Washington, D.C., safety director here for the national convention of the American Automobile Association, said Tuesday that only 24 per cent of pedestrian deaths involve women.

The raised hemline, he said, may reduce this percentage even more. He didn't explain whether he meant that male drivers would keep a sharper eye peeled, or that the gals now can scamper with more agility.

Stern Reminder

ANSONVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Calvert council was in session in this town near Timmins when the new night constable appeared. One of the councillors halted his oratory when he learned he must remove his car, double-parked in front of the town hall. The session was held up while the councillor reparked his car.

Those who passed with honors were Marilyn Farmer, 14 of 428 McBride Street, Jean Currie, 14 of 511 Cotton Street; Derek Allen, 12, of 221 West Second Avenue; Raymond Windle, 10, of 332 East Ninth Avenue.

Miss White reported to the Daily News that Marilyn Farmer and Derek Allen deserved commendation for learning the three pre-eminant rescues and resuscitation of the Royal Life Saving Society and the Holger Neilson method of artificial respiration.

She said that poor weather during the examination period prevented many of the pupils from taking their practical tests.

SPOKANE.—Spokane Indians downed Salem Senators 5-2 in the sixth game of the best-of-seven Western International Baseball League playoffs Wednesday night to clinch their third WIL pennant in five years.

The Indians, WIL champions in 1948 and 1951, added 1953 bunting to their collection with a three-run rally in the top of eighth.

It was the third straight win for the Indians and gave them the playoff series by 4-2 margin.

Good Luck, Good Play Lead to Grand Slam

"Trapped," said Mr. Champion when he saw the dummy in today's deal. "You urge me into a small slam, and when I bid six you go on to seven."

"I've got a big hand," countered Miss Brash. "Maybe you shouldn't have jumped to six spades. And besides, you haven't been set yet."

"That's because I haven't even played to the first trick yet," Mr. Champion growled. It did indeed look like the chances for seven were slim. There would have to be a lucky break in the trump suit, with four trumps outstanding including the queen and jack. And even if the trumps were 2-2 it appeared that a 4-1 heart break would wreck the hand.

Mr. Champion got over the first hurdle by good luck and over the second by good play. The opening lead was the nine of clubs and dummy's ace won. Mr. Champion discarded a small heart.

Now if he had taken two rounds of trumps and then depended on the hearts breaking 3-2, he would have lost his contract. Instead, he took precautions against the hearts breaking 4-1 and as you see that was a necessary play.

Beginning at trick two, he cashed the ace of diamonds, led a small diamond and ruffed it. Then he cashed the king of spades and led a small spade to the ace. He ruffed another small diamond.

Now he led to dummy's king

Season Likely to Wind up With League Mentors Intact

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1953 major league baseball season looks as if it's going to be one of those rare years in which 16 managers who started in April are going to finish in September.

Since they have survived this long it is unlikely that any of the skippers will be fired or quit with only one week and a half to go. Post-season changes are another matter.

In only 10 other seasons dating back through 1901—the year the American League was organized—have one set of managers gone through the entire year. The last time it happened was 1947. Before that it was 1942.

Even this year didn't escape without strong rumors. In June odds were strong that Rogers Hornsby, familiar figure in mid-season changes, wouldn't be around Cincinnati much longer. Hornsby is still there although he hasn't been rehired for 1954.

A cellar-dwelling outfit early in the season, the Redlegs picked up abruptly toward late June and rumors of a sudden managerial switch died away.

They beat the Giants 4-3 Tuesday night. Four singles and a walk produced four Cincinnati runs in the second inning. Rookie Fred Baczewski scattered eight New York hits for his 10th victory against three losses.

In other National League games yesterday afternoon and evening Philadelphia Phillies broke the Chicago Cubs 10-game winning streak with a 4-2 decision, Brooklyn edged St. Louis Cards 4-3 on Duke Snider's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth and Pittsburgh defeated Milwaukee 7-5.

With the pennant pressure off, Cleveland Indians shaded New York Yankees 1-0 as Bob Lemon won his 20th game. Chicago White Sox whipped Boston 6-0 in the only other American League contest.

Robin Roberts won his 22nd game in stopping the Cubs. He struck out five and walked none.

of hearts, played the good king and nine of diamonds and got rid of two more hearts. He cashed the ace of hearts and ruffed his last heart with dummy's last trump.
