The Crown

V/HEN the curtain rises on the coronation it will W be a curtain rising on a deep vista of history.

Not the least of the benefits of this ceremony is that life in the present takes on a profounder meaning in the larger context of time which its pageantry recalls.

The coronation is an act of the highest poetry clearly gaining. The fact that in the Commonwealth's life, saddened on this occasion by the death in March of Queen Mary-widow of a King, mother of two Kings, and grandmother of the reigning Queen.

In relation to the Crown we are mystics. Our Queen is not a person exalted above us by Divine Right, nor a person of our own choosing. We have a part in her dignity, but she does not achieve that dignity at our will.

The Queen is the unimpeachable figure of all that is good in government; her crown is a symbol standing above creeds and parties. In a materialistic age, when the world is threatened by dangers never before known, the British Monarchy endures in noble strength. It is, in essence, the exaltation of dutiful example as opposed to the hazards of ruling by the mailed fist and the fleeting greatness of dictator-

One virtue in the coronation rites is that they are out of date. How could the stability and continuity of the national history be more impressively shown? Our Queen is crowned with the same ritual as that with which her predecessors have been crowned for more than a thousand years.

This is the oldest state ceremonial in Britain, and perhaps the oldest in the world. The first preserved ritual of an English coronation dates from the eighth century. There is one attributed to St. Dunstan, said to have been used by him at the coronation of King Ethelred in the year 978.

The forms are ancient, but the spirit embodied in them never grows old. That spirit is the solemn recognition of the sacred character alike of royalty and loyalty.

Feller Wants One More No-Hit Game

NEW YORK (AP) - There's one more thing Bob Feller i anxious to do before he calls it guits in baseball-pitch another no-hit game. "That would give me four, more than any other man in history ever pitched," Cleveland's persevering righthander remarked. "I figure it's the one important all-time record that's still within my reach.

"Sure, I'd like to win a world series game, since I never have, and I wish I could have won 300 games but I'm afraid there's no hope of that."

The onetime fireball king from Van Meter, Iowa, a trim and youthful 34, posted victory No. 240 April 27 by whipping Detroit 2-1 with a five-hitter.

"I'm not winning too many games this year, but, gee, don't know when I've felt better," Feller said. "I've lost some weight. My arm feels loose and seems to have a lot of whip in

"If things go well I ought to do as well as I did two years ago when I won 22. And that no-hitter-who can tell? It may pop up any time."

Feller pitched his first nohitter April 16, 1940, against Chicago. He got another in 1946 against New York, and his third in 1951 against the Tigers.

The only other men ever to pitch three no-hit games in the majors were Larry Corcoran, the old Chicago Nationals ace, who did it in 1880-82-84, and which would give him a 20-year span, excluding his four years in the armed services between 1942 and 1945.

Wherever big things are going on there you'll find the engineer

Wherever you go in Canada today, you see the work of the professional engineer. A river's course is changed and its rushing power harnessed for man's needs ... an oil pipeline scales a mighty mountain range ... a highway is punched through the rocky wilderness . . . the skylines of cities are altered in a few short months . . . and behind each mighty accomplishment stands the engineer.

Behind our many new industries, unknown a decade ago, as well as the unprecedented development of our natural resources-stands the engineer. His is the vision and the orderly thinking that is contributing so much to Canada's phenomenal expansion.

TT TE OF CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC never forget that ours VV is essentially an engineering organization. We know that our progress depends on the constant recruitment of young engineers and are proud of the contribution we are making to their training.

Engineering graduates join this Company each year

Each year, since its earliest days, engineering graduates have joined this Company to continue their training in special courses—nearly twelve hundred have already gained invaluable experience on the Company's well-known "Test" Course.

The purpose of the Course is primarily to ensure a constant supply of trained talent for this Company. A high proportion of the executives of this organization got their start on the "Test" Course.

The Course over the years has also contributed a constant stream of highly-trained graduates to fill the ranks of Canadian industry. In fact, it is a source of pride that not a few of them are to be found today holding important positions in many widely diversified engineering fields.

Everybody benefits from the engineers' work

Canadian General Electric currently employs some eight hundred engineers—that's one out of every eighteen employees—and is continually adding to their number. These men-whether they work as development, design, production, application, sales or service engineers, in the electrical, mechanical or chemical fields-are in the final analysis working for you.

They develop, design and manufacture the complex electrical equipment that generates power, transmits it across great distances, controls it and then puts it to work for the common good. They are constantly improving and simplifying existing products to increase their efficiency and lower their cost. They develop brand-new products to meet brand-new needs. In cooperation with our customers' engineers they design and install equipment to meet specialized needs-to raise productivity and to lower costs.

The engineers' part in Canada's rising prosperity

It is an important part of their work to find new methods of manufacture, and to develop new equipment and products that do more, last longer and cost less to operate. It is by employing outstanding engineers—the key men in Canada's progress—that we are able to play a worthy part in our country's industrial growth, and in the developments that are raising the living standards of all of us.

Bishop Fleming was born in Greenock, Scotland, and became interested in missionary work among the Eskimos when he was Educated at Greenock academy, he came to Canada in 1908 and entered Wycliffe College. He spent two years in Baffin Land before graduating. He was made a deacon in 1912 and a priest in

A few weeks later he sailed alone for the Arctic and was stationed for two years in Baffin Land.

He suffered a disappointment in 1916 while on a furlough when told his health was unsatisfactory and that he could not return to the Arctic.

He became rector of the church of St. John the Evangelist in Saint John, N.B. In 1927 he was appointed archdeacon of the Arctic under five bishops, but five years later the whole area was made into one diocese and he was consecrated bishop Dec. 21, 1933, at St. John's Cathedral, Winnipeg.

Bishop Fleming visited the Arctic annually. His diocese stretched from Aklavik to Labrador and south to Fort George on James Bay.

Bishop Fleming was the author of several books and a member of the Royal Geographical So-
