Lifts All Restrictions Press Photos in Legislature

All restrictions on press photography in the B.C. legislature were lifted today after a long opening ceremony. The restrictions have been lifted since the death of Sir John A. Macdonald, a statement from the government.

His removal of the ban, after two minor relaxations, followed a storm of protest. "I wish to assure an aroused press by voluntarily withdrawing any restrictions, subject to an agreement with the legislative press gallery," the statement said.

He had wanted to enlist the co-operation of press, radio and television, the statement said, because "accommodations in the legislative hall were limited" and the press could be of "public service if voluntarily they could restrict the number of photographers assigned to cover the opening of the House."

Body Of Sabre Jet Pilot Found In Wreckage Of Crashed Plane

Instruments Failed On Practice Flight

VANCOUVER — Body of a U.S. Air Force F-86D Sabre jet pilot was found early today on nearby Grouse Mountain, 12 hours after his plane crashed into snow at the 2,500-foot level.

Body of Lt. Lamar J. Barlow, 35, of Tacoma, Wash., was found in the wreckage of the plane which became lost in rain-battered skies with useless instruments.

A search party of RCAF and RCMP officials left for the wreck shortly after midnight last night.

Wreckage was found 100 yards from a chairlift to the peak. It's a 20-minute, six-mile drive from downtown Vancouver to the foot of the lift.

Pilot Barlow, married but childless, was last heard from just after noon Friday when he reported he was at 20,000 feet and 15 miles northwest of the Vancouver airport.

Union Barred From Kitimat Demands Probe

VICTORIA (CP) — The Independent Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers told the provincial cabinet Friday that its officials are being barred from Kitimat and demanded a legislative inquiry.

A delegation from the union, largest in B.C., and headed by regional director Harvey Murphy, called Kitimat a "feudal compound" during the course of their annual meeting with the cabinet.

The union also asked the provincial government to request Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent to visit Communist China during his globe circling trip.

The delegation said the provincial government should pass a resolution asking the federal government to open trade negotiations with China where 400,000,000 persons offer a huge market for Canada's surplus production.

The union claimed that the Aluminum Company of Canada is turning Kitimat into a "company town" despite the fact it is incorporated.

Mine-Mill officials, the delegation charged, are being refused tickets on public carriers under the "guise of no accommodation" and persons landing at Kitimat must first produce written authority from the Aluminum company or Kitimat constructors.

Bargaining rights at Kitimat and Kemano were recently awarded to the American Federation of Labor by the labor relations board. Mr. Murphy said later the workers at Kitimat and Kemano would be given the chance to belong to the union of their choice.

West Must Maintain Alliance

ROME (CP) — Russia's conduct at the Berlin Big Four conference makes it "obvious" that the West must maintain and improve its alliance, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

"If we really want peace we must be prepared to undertake war to protect it," the 72-year-old Canadian leader said.

He spoke to nearly 100 Italian and foreign reporters during a brief pause in a hectic official schedule arranged for him during his three-day visit to Rome, part of his goodwill tour. He leaves Tuesday for Pakistan and India.

Earlier, under a warm Italian sun, the prime minister placed a wreath at the tomb of Italy's unknown soldier in piazza Venezia, where Mussolini formerly harangued his followers.

He also conferred with Italian government leaders at the Vittoriano palace.

Donovan Gets Six Months On Latest Assault Charge

It was "three strikes and you're out" in city police court Friday afternoon when John W. Donovan was sentenced to six months in Oakalla on an assault charge.

Donovan was released from jail eight days ago after spending a month in the lock-up pending completion of a theft charge against him. He was acquitted of the charge and released, only to land in jail again the same night, charged with an affray and assaulting a police officer.

He was sentenced to a total of one month and 14 days, or $75, paid the fines and was released from jail again.

But Thursday night the long arm of the law hauled him in again, this time charged with assault occasioning bodily harm to John Ridley Watson and yesterday he and another man, John Vandal, jointly charged, were each sentenced to six months in Oakalla.

Tying in with the Donovan court series was the session in

ON PRACTICE FLIGHT

Stationed at McChord field near Tacoma, with the 465th fighter-interceptor squadron, he was on a practice flight.

First word of trouble came in repeated calls of "May Day," the airman's international distress call.

He reported he was 60 miles north and that his instruments had failed.

Radar crews picked up the lone jet and guided it through the murk to a point 15 miles north. After asking permission to make an emergency landing at the Vancouver airport, Barlow disappeared. He had only 45 minutes fuel left.

Davis Boughey, a weekend skier making his way in darkness to one of the many small cabins on the slopes, found pieces of the wreckage scattered in the snow.

Two Arrested In Baby Probe

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today a Montreal woman was arrested at her home Friday night in connection with a $3,000,000 international black market in babies.

The woman, unidentified, was described by police as a director of a Montreal nursery.

Herman Buller, 38-year-old Montreal lawyer, was arrested as he prepared to board a plane for Israel with his wife and her parents.

Police said the ring, operating for the last 10 years, has smuggled more than 1,000 babies into the U.S.

ASTONISHED BY OUTCRY

"I have been astounded by the outcry from all sections of the press that my well-intentioned announcement has brought down upon me.

"I hadn't realized that what I regarded as a mechanical detail of housekeeping of my office would be regarded by the press of all political affiliations as a challenge to the historic British principle of the freedom of the press," the statement said.

The statement added that Mr. Irwin wished to meet the press after the session and "enlist their active co-operation in working out a mutually more efficient basis of pictorial coverage for succeeding sessions."

A few hours after announcing the original restrictions, Mr. Irwin relaxed them to allow two press photographers to take pictures, and Friday said two more, for a total of four, could attend the opening.

SPOKE IN FRENCH

Speaking in French, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that United Nations action in Korea "proved that concerted action is worthwhile."

"This was confirmed in recent days, by the insistence of Russia's foreign minister Molotov that we dissolve the NATO pact. It is obvious we will be wise to maintain and improve our alliance."

The Canadian leader arrived here Friday by air from West Germany after a short visit to the Gros Tinquin air station in eastern France where he saw the Canadian Sabre jet squadron based there. Bad weather prevented a visit to Canada's other overseas fighter base at Zweibrucken, West Germany.

The prime minister said his stops in West Germany and Paris have revealed "encouraging signs of increased confidence."

Amassador Pierre Dupuy and nearly 300 members of Rome's Canadian colony also were on hand at the airport.

The prime minister greeted his Italian counterpart in French, saying Italy is "engaged in a great common undertaking for the happiness and welfare not only of our two countries but for the whole world."

'Wrong Way' Jet Pilot Lands Safely in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An RCAF jet plane, on a routine training flight between two Canadian points, breezed into St. Louis by mistake Friday night.

PO. N. L. Harrison of Toronto, who was "surprised to say the least," said all his navigational aids had gone on the blink.

Harrison said he and FO. G. G. Macleod of Montreal left their base at Portage La Prairie, Man., Friday for North Bay, Ont.

"I began to suspect something was wrong," Harrison said, "because we picked up none of the scheduled check points on the radio."

This was shortly before St. Louis airport control tower radio operator Jerry Moonier heard the Canadian plane report itself lost.

Moonier put the Lambert naval air station's ground control approach unit on the alert and picked up the jet on a radio directional-finder near Springfield in southwest Missouri.

The ground control unit, tracking the plane on its radar scope, brought pilot Harrison safely into St. Louis.

The distance between the two points in Canada was estimated at about 900 miles, roughly the same distance from Portage La Prairie to St. Louis.

St. Valentine's

TOMORROW Dan Cupid will be on the wing, shooting out his arrows which are known for their stimulating effect on the heart.

Everyone likes to have little Dan around. He is not asking us to celebrate anything, but just to feel a little sentimental. He starts with the very young and goes right along to the very old. He has found that the common denominator of all is the wish to love and be loved.

Just how the occasion of his visit came to be called St. Valentine's Day remains a mystery. Historians have tried in vain to trace it to one of the many holy men by that name. The only conclusion they have reached is that it was accidental. Somehow a St. Valentine became associated with the medieval belief that birds began to mate at the start of the second fortnight of the second month.

"For this was on seynt Valentynes day," wrote Chaucer in the Parlement of Foules, "when every foul cometh ther to chese his make."

But the origin doesn't much matter. The important thing is to have someone to whom you can say, "Be my Valentine."

Public Ownership

WHEN an industry is taken over by a government, it is said to be owned by the public, which means that the public will pay for any losses but will not necessarily share in any profits. In most cases, the public's newly acquired property is put beyond the reach of the elected representatives of the public on the theory that it should be free from political influence—in other words, the elected representatives can't be trusted not to mess around with it.

How this can work out was shown a couple of weeks ago in the House of Commons when a member of Parliament asked the Minister of Transport, Mr. Chevrier, for some information about Canadian National Railways. Mr. Chevrier said he couldn't give it because CNR officials thought the information could be collected "only at considerable clerical expense and great inconvenience to themselves." The hapless member had to be satisfied with that as an answer—it was just too much trouble for the officials of the publicly-owned railway to produce certain figures requested by a spokesman for the public.

If boredom threatens during one of these long winter evenings, we can spend a pleasant hour or two figuring out who got railroaded in this instance.—Saturday Night.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

Saint Valentine's Day is February 14th and while this ancient and distinguished figure of the Roman calendar is said to have been martyred, juveniles of both sexes manage to extract no small degree of humor from the annual celebration. There used to be the mailing of alleged poems. Anyway they were robust.

Plenty of us are reading where 75 per cent of Canadian homes have a washing machine, 60 per cent have a refrigerator, 50 per cent a vacuum cleaner and 37 per cent an electric stove. The British barmaid was a flirt, and when the corporal went out to buy a paper, she pursued her lips and leaned over the bar toward the shy young private, whispering: "Now's your chance, darling." The private looked around the empty room. "So it is," he remarked—and promptly drank the corporal's beer.

It's a relief to behold the Vancouver press without seeing, day after day, so much of the new "ridge. Of course it's first class and has not been built too soon, but this daily bridge business was becoming tiresome. We've got a couple at Prince Rupert—Hays Creek and Morse Creek—and the history of each commonplace. The only sensation was early one evening when a light-seeing car broke through the guard rail and dropped sheer to the railway tracks below. Lady and her friend escaped without the slightest injury or consequence.

OUR TOTEMS. On the Fulton Street hillside among the trees, just along from City Hall stands a small, newly built shed or shack to provide shelter for those entrusted with improving the appearance and lengthening the life of Prince Rupert's totem poles. Canada has few to equal them, and their preservation is well worth while. The cost is light, compared with what is gained.

As I See It

by Elmore Philboott

THE leader of the CCF asked the Minister of Justice a question, the other day, which sounded simple.

It was whether the government of Canada would refer to the Supreme Court the validity of the recent legislation passed by the Legislature of Quebec, and which concerned distribution of printed matter on the streets.

The Minister did not exactly sidestep the query. But his answer was of the diplomatic variety which conceals the gravity of what was mentioned. Mr. Garson said that the Jehovah's Witnesses were contesting the validity of the legislation before the courts right now, and hence, he implied, the question of intervention by the federal government did not yet arise.

NEARLY every newspaper in Canada has written on the importance of the Jehovah's Witnesses issue. This sect which opposes war, and all organized religion, has carried on a militant campaign against the Roman Catholic Church in the Province of Quebec. The present government of Quebec has used all of the legal powers it possesses to suppress the activities of the Jehovah's Witnesses—whose activities are clearly offensive to the substantial majority of the Roman Catholics of Quebec.

In the famous decision the Supreme Court of Canada held that the provincial statutes, which had been used to arrest and imprison certain Witnesses, did not give the provincial authorities the extreme powers they had used. However, the Duplessis government was quick to remedy that situation. It sponsored a new law which clearly does restrict the power of the Jehovah's Witnesses to distribute its printed matter on the streets of Quebec, unless licensed in advance by the local authorities. The Legislature voted for the new law unanimously.

The Winnipeg Free Press shows by what a narrow margin the Supreme Court ruled that the province had any such power to pass such drastic laws. It is true that four Supreme Court Justices, of the nine on the bench, have ruled that the province has no right to interfere with the distribution of printed matter. But by a slender majority the present court seems to have decided—rather ambiguously and in a confused and contradictory manner it is true—that the province, and not the federal authorities, does have the power to say what printed matter may and may not be distributed on the public highways.

Naturally every intelligent Canadian will watch the outcome of the legal battle which is now shaping up with more than mere interest in a struggle between clever lawyers. What is at stake is whether or not every Canadian from coast to coast is to be guaranteed certain fundamental rights of free expression; or whether any province which so chooses may limit the freedom of the press, as its own legislature may enact.

WHILE the argument of the Winnipeg Free Press seems to me as sound as it is powerful, I cannot agree that the remedy for the really grave situation is as the Manitoba paper suggests.

"There could be no stronger case than is made out by the judgment . . ." says the Winnipeg paper. But the real catch is that the Parliament of Canada could not of its own authority enact such a Bill of Rights which would take away one whit of the legal powers which the provinces now possess.

In other words, if the Parliament of Canada were to pass a Bill of Rights, without prior agreement with the provinces, including Quebec, the courts could rule the Bill of Rights invalid to the extent that it trespassed on provincial jurisdiction.

All Aboard

By G. E. MORTIMORE

The makers of compound words are at their nasty work again. First they invented "smog" (mixed smoke and fog) and then "smaze" (smoky haze). I lodged a sharp protest with Webster over the last one. It did no good, of course.

Now we have "smice." "Until the word was coined by a weather forecaster in Regina, smice was called ice fog," a news story says. And as far as I'm concerned, it still is called ice fog.

Who does this weather forecaster think he is, anyway? Where is his license for running a word-factory?

There is something about weather forecasting that turns a man's head, it seems. Once he starts hob-nobbing with warm fronts and mixing with isobars on equal terms, he gets feelings of superiority. He thinks he's an expert on everything, including the language.

I can see that Regina weatherman now, leaning back in a swivel chair and looking smoggy—beg pardon, smoggy—at his assistant over the tops of his horn-rimmed glasses.

"Well, Henry," he says, "I think I'll invent a new word today." "Sure, boss," his assistant replies. "I'll take people's minds off those lousy forecasts we've been issuing lately. What's the new word, chief? I sure liked the last two words you invented—'smog' and 'smaze.' They've got every dictionary publisher from here to Nome after your blood."

"Thank you, Henry. The new word is 'smice.'"

"Smice, boss?"

"That's right. It means ice-fog."

"But if it's a mixture of ice and fog, shouldn't it be 'fice' boss? Or maybe 'ig'?"

"One more crack like that and you turn in your anemometer and get your pay. There's no room for insubordination here."

"I didn't mean any harm, boss. It was only an idea. I think the new word is terrific, honestly. It should cause no end of confusion. Why, if you keep this up you'll have a whole new language."

The foregoing fragment of dialogue will give you an idea how these weathermen operate, when they start making words. They are getting out of control, that's all.

How would you like it if writers and newspapermen started trying to make their own weather? I have a good mind to pack my bag with a couple of Polar air masses, a tropical hurricane, a few isotherms and a bundle of cumulonimbus clouds, take the next plane for Regina, and dump the whole lot in your weather office, or weather. That will teach you that you know nothing about.

Kootenays Expecting "New Era" After Record Construction Year

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—British Columbia's interior Kootenays district, home of Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company operations, is gearing itself for a large-scale industrial expansion in the face of slumping metal prices.

Disclosure that Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., of Canada Cominco profits dropped in 1953 for the second straight year has coincided with reports of construction projects recently completed or under way.

Business men are confidently predicting "opening of a new era."

This optimism is based on a booming construction program that saw more than $42,000,000 worth of major projects started or completed during 1953 and the fact that the value of total production of agricultural, forestry and mining industries in the area continued near the $200,000,000 mark despite a drop in lead and zinc prices.

Cominco sparked the construction drive with completion of a $9,000,000 fertilizer plant near Kimberley and a 210,000-horsepower hydro-electric plant at Waneta, about 50 miles southeast of here.

Other construction saw the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's $850,000 briquette plant go into operation at Michel, near the Alberta-B.C. boundary; completion of the $1,500,000 Canadian Pacific Railway's diesel maintenance plant here and East Kootenay Power Company's $1,200,000 power and storage project on Fall River.

The construction boom was reflected in nearly every municipality in the 20,000-square-mile area with new buildings, tourist resorts, housing subdivisions and churches springing up.

The fall in base metal prices hit mining hard in the district. The number of mines in operation fell from 75 at the start of 1953 to 30 early this year, with a resultant drop from 1,500 to 650 in the number of men employed.

However, mining authorities say this picture has been largely offset by discovery of new lead-zinc deposits with reserves running into millions of tons.

Lead-zinc production in 1953 dropped to $80,100,000, compared with $105,126,348 in 1952. The lumbering industry maintained a $25,941,196 pace last

67-Year-Old Railway Retains Five-Cent Fare

NEW YORK (AP)—Got a nickel? Want to go somewhere? You still can—provided you want to travel from Biddeford, Me., to Saco, Me., or vice versa.

The nickel fare is a memory in most cities. Transit companies tell you, and offer statistics if you question them, that operating costs are way up yonder.

But in Maine, the Biddeford and Saco Railroad Company still operates on a five-cent fare.

"The only one left in the country," says president J. Burton Stride.

It started 67 years ago with two-horse, open-car, four-wheeled conveyances. In 1891 it changed to electric trams, and in 1939 to buses. But all that time it has stayed loyal to the lowly nickel.

Weather Hits Lumber Industry

PORTLAND, Me.—Bad weather played havoc with Douglas fir lumber production in January. The West Coast Lumbermen's Association said Thursday the output was the lowest for any month since 1950 and that lumber shipments also fell off from January, 1953.

Production totalled 769,998,000 board feet, compared with nearly 876,000,000 feet in the same month last year. Orders, totaling 813,272,000 feet, and shipments of 785,561,000 also were down, the association said.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

The flow of news across Parliament Hill during the past week or so has been emphasizing the M.P.'s in a particularly forceful and realistic way the new sort of competitive world in which 20th Century Canada is living.

Since Parliament has been concerned mainly with routine, most of the interest has been centered in the conference of the Big Four in Berlin. Tabling of the year's estimates, with their increase of more than $50,000,000 over last year's figure, was a timely reminder of the stake which this country has in a settled world and peaceful diplomacy.

The news from the Berlin meeting wasn't regarded as too hopeful by Parliament's experts on foreign affairs. Some satisfaction was expressed in the fact that the four powers at last were sitting down around the same table. But underneath that limited foundation for hope, there was the uneasy fear that they were meeting simply to disagree. And that prospect was faced as a doubtful improvement over the previous situation.

But the most depressing feature of the news in the minds of the M.P.'s during the week was the word from Moscow that Isvestia, the official Soviet news organ, had published two articles dealing with progress in the perfection of atomic weapons. The articles presumably were by way of warning to America. They told of rockets capable of being launched against American cities, of other atomic weapons capable of being launched against the American coasts from submarines.

The articles were at least mildly blood-chilling. The minimum inference which they suggested was that the present was no time for the Western powers to relax the intensity of their military atomic research.

With Canada a major partner in Western democracy's atomic research, this situation has more carried an extra frapperies, plus special gifts for their rounds to lovers everywhere. The age-old tradition to send anonymous or other feminine the sentiment is the same, even if the verse is funny. The annual observance still gives the shy suitor a chance of putting his message across. If the cards had lost their usefulness, they would not be sent in such great numbers.

St. Valentine himself never wrote any love songs, but Charles Lamb called him "the great immortal go-between," and under his banner sentimental love has blossomed for centuries.

BEHEADED IN ROME

There were several saints called Valentine but the one most closely connected with tradition is the saint who was beheaded in Rome, February 14, 270 AD. He is believed to have been a match-maker who secretly heard the vows of young lovers, thereby incurring the wrath of the emperor who had banned wartime marriage by Roman soldiers.

Valentine's Day usually brings a whirl of dances and parties, but this year, with the great day falling on Sunday, most events have been scheduled for other days.

The Legion Auxillary staged a Valentine dance last night, and tonight the Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its Valentine ball.

This afternoon Prince Rupert women had their choice of two teas, a Valentine tea at the Lutheran Church and an IOE tea combining celebration of Founder's Day and Valentine Day.

The Canadian National Recreational Association also will celebrate tonight at a cabaret musical show.

What is the meaning of our brief life on earth? The purpose of man's life on earth is that he shall be a dynamo for the transmutation of physical energy into spiritual values—let us think of it this way.

Perhaps these few suggestions may help us to live a life worthy of the brief time allowed us on earth.

1. More time devoted to communion with God in Bible-reading, meditation, intercession, and the renewal of our ideals.

2. Self-examination — not merely by the Ten Commandments, which are mostly negative, but by the positive virtues of the Christian life: the two great commandments (Mark 12:30); the new commandment (John 13:34), "Am I loving my neighbor as myself?" by the lists of virtues in St. Paul's Epistles (Col. 3:12; Eph. 4:1-3, 25-32); by our sins of omission; in almost every parable of our Lord the last are lost never for what they have done wrong — always for what they have failed to do: lost opportunities.

3. Intercession — This should embrace the world and its needs; the unemployed; the oppressed (countries without Christ); hospitals; prisons; sailors and soldiers; orphans; and above all missions and missionaries.

4. Self Denial — Self shows itself in wilfulness, temper, carelessness or unkind speech. Therefore — restraint of speech; of luxuries; of self-pleasing amusements; of food, as far as health will permit.

5. Virtues to be won — We should make a firm resolve to win from God those virtues in which we are most lacking — perhaps unselfishness, kindness, courtesy, gentleness, good temper, patience, concentration of attention, the use of time.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in Heaven. St. Matt. 5:16.

Full-Time Tourist Bureau To Be Set Up

A full-time tourist bureau for the Prince Rupert museum is the aim of the newly-formed Prince Rupert Tourist Bureau.

Prince Rupert Public Relations Council is no more and the tourist bureau has taken its place in an attempt to publicize the Prince Rupert district and assist the museum.

An office for the bureau is to be built in the museum building and it will be staffed by a person selected by the museum board as curator and representative of the tourist bureau.

At a recent meeting attended by representatives of the old publicity council it was decided to spend $600 on a new pamphlet pointing out the district's points of interest and interesting sites. The provincial government will be asked to supply suggestions for the folder.

The new bureau will be composed of one city alderman, two citizens at large, representatives from the Senior and Junior chambers of commerce and the museum board.

Attending the organizational meeting were G. N. Moore, chairman; Orme Stuart, M. Johnston, J. A. Crawley, F. E. Anfield, W. C. R. Jones, Ald. G. P. Lyons, Mrs. J. Laurie, Dr. R. G. Large, R. Allen, W. F. Stone.

DICK AYRES

Faith in a project that is destined to perform a great service to the youth of this city was demonstrated this week when four sponsors stepped forth to support a quartet of teams in an official Prince Rupert Little League baseball circuit.

First in line was Edward Lipsett Ltd., who last year, before even the "unofficial little league" was formed, was willing to gamble the money necessary to sponsor a team. This year the same company was right on the doorstep of the new Little League association with the money to put a full team in the field.

Just as speedy and eager to help were Super-Valu, North Star Bottling Works and the Prince Rupert Kinsmen Club, each of which with Lipsett's are guaranteeing $350 to outfit 15 players per team with each team having a farm unit of 20 players from which to draw.

When the franchise certificate of the Little League Baseball Incorporated gives the Prince Rupert league the official stamp of approval the young baseball players, 8 to 12 years old, here will abide strictly by the international groups regulations. The league schedule calls for 18 games for each team. Teams will be picked by the point system to prevent "packing" a team with talent and players on one team will not necessarily be drawn from one district in town. It is the intention of the local league to take out both group accident insurance for the players and group public liability and property damage insurance which is available through the parent body at a nominal fee.

Plans for registration of prospective Little Leaguers and formation of teams will be completed shortly. Main concern of the association at the moment is the lack of a suitable playing field for games and also space for league and farm team practices.

Not to be left out, if hopes are fulfilled, are the boys over 12 years old. The Moose Lodge has already expressed a desire to sponsor a Pony League team and it is hoped that two more sponsors can be found to run an unofficial Pony league this summer. One thing, however, is certain. It needs the fathers of the older boys to do the ground work and form the Pony league association. The Little League group will have its hands full.

Another gracious and generous project under way in the city is a collection sparked by Johnny Odowes with Gunnar Anderson as secretary, to send three Prince Rupert fighters to the Golden Gloves tourney in Vancouver. The collection is going well but as usual the merchants of the town are taking the shot. It is hoped that sufficient funds to pay a one-way fare for Bill (Mouse) Morrison, lightweight champion, Andy Marshall, middleweight titleholder and Billy Tsuchiya, contender for the lightweight crown. The Vancouver Province which sponsors the Golden Gloves pays the other half of the fare and usually foots the hotel and food bill. Should there be any money left over it will be used for a banquet to fete the fighters or could be utilized to send them onto the Seattle Golden Gloves and further, should there be enough. But any donations from the private citizen would not only swell the fund but would be sincerely appreciated. As we've said in a previous column there is nothing more heart-breaking to an athlete who gives up his time and effort to train religiously only to find that he has reached a peak of perfection for nothing, as happened to Morrison and Marshall, Diamond Belt champions.

Speaking of the Diamond Belt, a Vancouver paper featured a pix of both Marshall and Morrison in a Sunday feature on the annual tourney, but there was not a word about the Prince Rupert boys in the story. Commenting on this Andy remarked that the pictures spoke for themselves. At the same time the paper forgot a photograph of heavyweight champ Tiny Carlson. . . . Both parents of Little Leaguers and the young players will have the opportunity of seeing the real McCoy, Monday, February 22, when the association will show two films, "This is Little League" and "Little League Basics" at the Civic Centre. There will only be one showing at 7 p.m. . . . On the senior baseball front we learn that the three sponsors of teams in last year's Prince Rupert Senior Baseball association are planning on setting up a local insurance fund. Gordon and Anderson, Esquire Men's Wear and Commercial Hotel plan to contribute $5 per player of a 15-man team with the total fund to be set aside for possible medical bills that might be incurred during the season. Smart move men!

Canucks Down Royals 4-2 To Take 6-Point WHL Lead

Vancouver Canucks appear in fine shape for their trip next week to prairie points in the Western Hockey League.

Thanks to a 4-2 win over the neighboring New Westminster Royals Friday night, Canucks have a six-point lead over their nearest rivals, Calgary Stampede.

League members in the Prairies still persist in going nowhere in the league standings by the simple device of alternately beating one another and they did it again Friday.

Edmonton Flyers foiled Saskatoon Quakers 4-3 and while Saskatoon hoped to be pressing Calgary for second place with the final whistle, Quakers are finding themselves bothered for third place by Edmonton.

Things looked blacker for the last-place Seattle Bombers after their visit to Victoria. Cougars boosted their lead over the last-place Bombers to eight points with a 2-1 win.

Bowes Chalks Up 20 Points; Ormes Top Junior Boys Loop

A. Bowes was the man of the hour in Junior Boys League basketball last night as he scored 20 points to pace Sports Shop to a 35-16 victory over Annunciation.

In the other Junior fixture Ormes took Bulgars into camp by a 33-21 score, to move into first place in the league standings with 7 wins and only two losses.

Bowes netted three points in the first quarter, three in the second, six in the third and eight in the final frame. The Sports Shop squad took the lead 7-2 in the first quarter and completed the slaughter 7-2, 7-6 and 14-6. Top man for Annunciation was D. Bury with 10 points.

Bulgars took the first quarter of the second game and managed to hold Ormes to a 10-10 tie by the half, but led by D. Leeman the druggists took over

Prince Rupert Cage Group Passes Up B.C. Semis For Tournament at Juneau

The Prince Rupert Basketball Association last night decided to pass up the British Columbia Basketball Association semi-finals and instead apply to take part in the Gold Medal tournament in Juneau in the near future.

The meeting, attended by 19 out of the more than 140 persons involved in playing basketball in Prince Rupert, estimated that it would cost the Prince Rupert Challengers somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,600 to take part in the semi-finals and then proceed to the finals if they won. Such a financial barrier was too much.

A Senior B team going to the Interior of British Columbia and then to Vancouver for the finals would be faced with raising nearly $900 before March 29. The association had $200 on hand had been promised only $200 from the BCBA and would have to win the $300 first place expense money offered to the winner of the International basketball tournament scheduled early in March to even get a start on a travelling fund.

There would be far more prestige, the meeting believed, if a Prince Rupert team won the Gold Medal tournament in Alaska than if it won the BCBA final for British Columbia.

Commissioner Sam Davidson's assertion that if it wasn't for the insurance gained by belonging to BCBA he was in favor of formation of a Northern British Columbia basketball association, won approval from most of those present.

It was decided to stage the International series in Prince Rupert with Ketchikan, Metlakatla, Sitka and Wrangell teams to be invited. Following that the association would, it hoped, take part in the Juneau tournament.

The meeting was informed of the resignation of Jack Marchant as commissioner due to pressure of business.

Bill McChesney was nominated and elected unanimously as commissioner and also as the association's secretary.

No action of major decision was made concerning referees.

Bill Morrison and Doug Sankey were named to continue to referee Senior B games and the playoffs of the Senior B league. Fred Calderone agreed to help out on the refereeing as did Don Hartwig who said he would referee senior games if coaches Minor Simundsen and Bill McChesney agreed. They both gave their consent.

A motion by Jimmy Flewin that the basketball association start its refereeing classes next year at the same time as basketball practices began was carried unanimously. It was also agreed that at the beginning of next season coaches and referees should meet and agree on the interpretation of the rules.

Canadiens Meet Leafs At Toronto

This is an excellent week-end for the Montreal Canadiens to be in a hockey-playing mood.

Locked in a second-place tie with the Maple Leafs in the NHL, and with Jacques Plante up from Buffalo to replace the injured McNeil in the nets, they are in Toronto tonight to play off the New York Rangers for first place in the fourth-place Bruins.

Boston, with a two-point margin over New York Rangers for the last play-off spot, need home victories over the Canadiens and over the Rangers, the night before to solidify their position in preparation for a four-game road trip.

In other Sunday night play the Rangers entertain the Leafs and Detroit Red Wings, who lead the league by eight points, visit the last-place Black Hawks.

BLACKWOOD on BRIDGE

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
Tricky Plays Not Necessarily Best

"Well, at least your defense is consistent, Muzzy," said Mr. Champion after the play of today's hand. "You are consistently of more help to declarer than you are to your partner."

"What more could I do?" Mr. Muzzy asked. "I did everything I could to fool him."

"That's just the point," replied Mr. Champion. "If you'd concentrate on making good plays instead of tricky plays, you'd do a lot better."

Mr. Champion was grousing because Mr. Abel made his very speculative three no trump contract on the following play.

Mr. Champion elected to open the ten of hearts and Mr. Abel won with the queen. Mr. Muzzy played the deuce. A small diamond was led toward the board and the queen won. A diamond was returned to the king and Mr. Champion won with the ace.

He made his best return, the four of spades. The jack went on from dummy and Mr. Muzzy decided to false-card by winning with the king, thus denying possession of the queen. This deception was successful in that Mr. Abel now placed the queen of spades on his left. However, Mr. Champion placed that card in Mr. Abel's hand and considered further spade leads from his hand as hopeless.

At trick five Mr. Muzzy led a low heart and the jack in the closed hand won. Mr. Abel now led the deuce of clubs. Here Mr. Champion could have beaten the hand by going in with the ace and returning a spade, setting up the queen while Mr. Muzzy still had a club stopper. But being completely in the dark, he played low, the queen went on from dummy and Mr. Muzzy won with the king.

Mr. Abel won the heart return and fired another club. Mr. Champion won but now Mr. Abel had nine tricks.

On the defense it occasionally pays to make a deceptive play. As a general rule, however, it is more important to help your partner than to deceive the declarer. Remember, declarer can see his partner's hand but your partner cannot see yours.

Foreign Ministers Tackle Austrian Treaty Again

By PRESTON GROVER
BERLIN (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers decided today on another discussion of Austria's independence, treaty despite a deadlock over Soviet conditions which appears to have blasted their last chance for a European settlement at this conference. Foreign Minister Molotov said Friday that Russian troops will remain in Austria until a German peace treaty is written. To this new condition he added an old one—the troublesome Trieste problem also must be solved first.

Western delegations indicate clearly that the conditions cannot be accepted. They now see no chance for completion of the German peace treaty for years. And a Yugoslav-Italian squabble blocks efforts of Britain and the United States to pull their troops from Trieste, the strategic free territory at the head of the Adriatic. State Secretary Dulles denounced the Russian tactics as shabby. He said the Molotov proposal "gives me a cold chill."

AUSTRIAN GLUM
Austria's foreign minister, Leopold Figl, who had pleaded at the ministers' table for his country's independence, was glum. Within Austria, still waiting for redemption of the Big Four's wartime pledge to restore her sovereignty, the reaction was deep gloom. Hitlerian and Allied occupations have stretched out 16 years.

As Molotov has outlined Russia's position, there now cannot be an Austrian independence treaty until both the Trieste and German problems are settled; there cannot be a German treaty until both the North Atlantic treaty organization and the European Defence Community project are liquidated; and there cannot be peace in Asia until Red China is granted an honored place among the world's big powers, a place the West insists she does not deserve.

Only on the Asian front do the Western ministers see any hope in the closing days of the conference.

Parliament Settling Down To Study of Criminal Code

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament is settling down to its study of a revision of the Criminal Code, the first complete redrafting of Canada's criminal laws in some 60 years.

A special 27-member Commons-Senate committee is expected to start work next week on three contentious questions, hanging, whipping and lotteries.

Another and more technical issue, the plea of insanity as a criminal defence, will be studied by a royal commission which the government plans to establish this session.

Missouri, Kansas Drought Reaches Grim Proportions

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Many communities in Missouri and Kansas, wrecked only three years ago by devastating floods, are faced with a different crisis today: they're drying up.

A merciless drought that lasted through the summer shows no sign of abating. It's no longer just the preoccupation of worried farmers, but has moved into the cities and towns.

The water shortage varies in acuteness but there are communities which have little more than a month's supply left.

At least one, has run dry—Olathe, Kan., 20 miles southwest of here, where the level of the reservoir has dropped below the intake pipe. Trucks will haul water from a nearby lake while this source holds out, then arrangements will be made for hauling it from Kansas City.

Dr. Warren A. Kramer, chief of water supplies for the Missouri health division, said many towns already have reached the crisis stage, and there's no immediate relief in sight.

Mrs. Comerford sued the estate of the pilot, Douglas D. MacQueen, but the settlement will be paid from insurance carried by Queen Charlotte Airlines.

Water for car washing and other non-essential use has been banned in some areas. Pastors are offering prayers for rain at Sunday services. Daily prayers for rain are being said at Ursuline College.

The water rate has doubled in Paola, Kan., and officials say another raise is inevitable if Paola, as is likely, is forced to import water from nearby Kansas City.

QCA To Pay $23,355 Award In Damage Suit

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Alice Comerford of Vancouver, whose husband was killed in a Queen Charlotte Airlines plane crash near Nanaimo, B.C., Oct. 17, 1951, was awarded $23,355 damages in Supreme Court here Thursday. She also received $3,500 for each of her two sons.

All passengers and crew members in the plane were killed when the aircraft crashed while en route from Kitimat to Vancouver.

Mrs. Comerford sued the estate of the pilot, Douglas D. MacQueen, but the settlement will be paid from insurance carried by Queen Charlotte Airlines.

Protest Bylaw

VANCOUVER (CP)—Protests were threatened Tuesday to follow on the heels of a new city bylaw requiring proprietors of small food stores to hold a butcher's licence and prohibiting them from selling frozen meats and fish after 5 p.m., normal closing time for butcher shops.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—June Haver admitted today that she is dating no one else but Fred MacMurray, but said: "It's too early" to discuss marriage.

The MacMurray-Haver combination became the talk of Hollywood when they first started dating a few weeks ago. Talk of a romance will increase when the two movie stars leave for the Brazilian film festival next Thursday. They will be in the Hollywood goodwill contingent that will also include Rhonda Fleming, Jeanne Crain, Irene Dunne, Edward G. Robinson, Jeannette MacDonald and Gene Raymond.

So far both are cautious about statements. "She's a wonderful girl to be with," MacMurray says. "I've known her for a long time, and I'm company."

"I'm not going with anyone," says June. "Anytime I can't say now."

The pair met when she starred in "Where Do We Go From Here?" in 1945. Since both lives have been in tragedy, MacMurray's last year after a long illness.

Miss Haver's first husband, musician Jimmy Haver, died in divorce. Her second husband, Dr. John Haver, a young dentist died last year after a long illness.

Feb. 8 last year she was the Roman Catholic Charity convent at Santa
