Coronation Day Parade Route

THIS IS THE ROUTE the Coronation Day parade will take in Prince Rupert tomorrow. The area is prohibited to parking. At 10 a.m., floats will begin to form up two abreast behind the Court House. School children will line up near the Civic Centre. At 11:30 a.m., the parade will move off in succession of divisions, RCN (R) color party and guard leading. Some 25 marching units will include the Navy, Reserve Army, U.S. Navy, Sea and Air Cadets, bands, RCMP, Indian chiefs, etc. (Complete program for the day is found on page 4.)

Bonner Says Secreds to Give B.C. Best Government in History

His attorney-general, R. W. Bonner, talked for two hours today at an open air rally at the park where an estimated 450 persons gathered. Bonner was speaking in support of Social Credit in general and on behalf of local candidate, Bill Murray. The speaker's platform was the back of a gaily-decorated truck, and before the rally began a cowboy band beat out a gay rhythm for several minutes. They also played after the speaker finished. Then, Art Murray, campaign manager and last year's candidate; his namesake, Bill Murray, this year's candidate, and Mr.

Bonner ascended the truck. Meanwhile, a horse—the only such animal seen in this vicinity for many years—was being ridden down McBride Street by a young lad and followed by a score of curious children.

The horse had been on the park about an hour before the rally opened. Although the arrival of "Currie"—name by which the horse was dubbed—was widely advertised by the local Social Credit League, his presence was not referred to in campaign speeches by the two Murrays or Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general told his audience of the past record of the Social Credit government. He said:

"I want to tell you that we are making only one promise, that we will give the best government B.C. has ever had."

Mr. Bonner stressed the financial policy of Social Credit. He said that in the past session, his government had saved more than $20,000,000 by cutting the provincial debt by that amount.

The former Coalition government, he said, had forecast it would be necessary to borrow $28,000,000 this year.

"And I want to tell you that even by cutting down our budget we have given the province its biggest public works construction program in history."

"That is the way we are going to operate."

Mr. Bonner said it was the intention of the Social Credit government to get "a much better deal" with the federal government concerning income and incorporation taxation. He said the province now gets $43,000,000 of $260,000,000 collected through taxation by the federal government, "which certainly isn't enough. Our long range program is to get it all."

In answer to a question from the audience, Mr. Bonner said if the Social Credit party is re-elected on June 9 it will implement the "Rolson formula" of education costs "pretty well" the way it was outlined in the Legislature.

"But it is subject to modifications from time to time. That is what we meant when we said

Thousands Seek Positions

Hundreds Sleep In Parks, Streets

By The Canadian Press

LONDON.—Thousands upon thousands of excited people began the great rush for standing room along London's glittering Coronation route today a full 24 hours before the historical procession and crowning of Queen Elizabeth.

Traffic along the teeming six-mile Coronation route was virtually at a standstill as solid swarms of pedestrians all but took over the many main thoroughfares. The crowds are good natured and gay.

OUTDOOR CAMP

The capital took on the appearance of a great outdoor camp.

Hundreds slept in parks and along the streets in the chilly Sunday night air.

Nearly 500,000 squatters are expected to spend tonight, Coronation Eve, in the open to await the start of the biggest show in a lifetime.

They brought bed rolls, blankets and even hammocks to swing between trees.

Between this morning and the small hours of Tuesday 6,500 trains will bring an estimated 2,500,000 more people into London to join the millions already here.

For most Britons, it is the biggest holiday in more than a decade since austerity has begun.

Lucky ones—about 250,000 in all will have seats in specially-built painted stands along the route—will start taking places early Tuesday.

But perhaps 4,000,000 more will see the Queen on the way to and from the crowning in ancient Westminster Abbey before 7,500 invited guests.

The Queen held a morning reception and luncheon party in Buckingham Palace for representatives of the Commonwealth. On Sunday she worshipped in the gold-pannelled chapel in the grounds of Marlborough House.

When the Queen returned to Buckingham Palace from her prayer a crowd estimated at 40,000 surged toward the car crying "The Queen. The Queen."

SENTRIES MOVED

Palace sentries, unable to walk normal beats outside the gates, were ordered inside the grounds where they march protected from the throngs by the iron fences.

Chants of "We Want the Queen" broke out from the crowds until nearly midnight but the Queen, resting for the coming ordeal, did not appear.

At midnight some soldiers and their girl friends danced outside the palace gates.

The weather is giving Coronation officials the most worry. Latest forecast covering Coronation Day is for continuing cool weather with "occasional rain or showers but some sunny intervals."

No Paper Tomorrow

The Daily News staff, with the majority of other citizens across Canada, will enjoy a day off tomorrow—Coronation Day. Publication will resume with Wednesday's regular edition.

Most Gracious Sovereign:

I have the honour, on behalf of the Government and People of the Province of British Columbia, humbly to renew, on the occasion of Your Majesty's Coronation, the assurance of our loyalty and support and to offer our most sincere good wishes for Your Majesty's reign.

Symbol of the unity and free association of all peoples within the British Commonwealth, the Crown continues to embody those principles of government of which we are most justly proud, and to signify our common attachment to the ideals of freedom and peace.

We cherish the hope that Your Majesty, under divine blessing and guidance, may be given the wisdom and strength commensurate with your exalted and exacting task.

We pray that the Almighty in his Providence will spare Your Majesty long to reign over us, and will bless Your Majesty with health and happiness.

I have the honour to be, Madam, with my humble duty and profound respect,

Your Majesty's most faithful and obedient servant,

W. A. C. Bennett

Prime Minister of British Columbia.

Elizabeth Sets Precedent Knighting Sports Figures

LONDON.—The Queen conferred Knighthood on two of Britain's greatest and best-loved sports figures—Jockey Gordon Richards and former cricket player Jack Hobbs—in a long list of Coronation and birthday honors announced today.

Elizabeth shattered all precedent in making Knights of Richards and Hobbs. Never before has a jockey or professional cricket player earned knightly accolade.

The Queen awarded honors and orders to 1,450 men and women, third and longest honors list of her reign.

She created three Barons and five Baronets and made Lord Wollton, wartime food minister, a Viscount.

Other honors went to Britons from all walks of life. Most of the awards were made on the advice of Prime Minister Churchill, but some were the Queen's own personal choices.

Chris Spencer Pioneer B.C. Merchant Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Christopher Spencer, pioneer British Columbia merchant who built up David Spencer Ltd., retail store chain, died here Sunday. He was 86.

Familiarly known as "Chris," Mr. Spencer sold his eight stores throughout the province to the T. Eaton Company in 1948 for a reported $14,000,000. Up until that time, he still put in a full working day at the company's head offices here and it was said he knew each of his 2,800 employees by his or her first name.

The Spencer family also controls large tracts of ranchland in the B.C. interior.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Activities Start At 10 a.m. Tomorrow

The whole of Prince Rupert and surrounding population now converging upon the city is ready and waiting to join the British Commonwealth in observing and celebrating the crowning tomorrow of Queen Elizabeth II of England.

After more than a month of preparation, the city's celebration promises to be the biggest event in history here.

Activities begin tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. with crowning of the May Queen, a ceremony the Kinsmen Club has coincided with Coronation Day this year.

Following this, the longest, most colorful parade ever seen here will move off from the vicinity of the Court House on McBride Street, headed by the RCN color party of HMCS Chatham.

There will be about 25 marching units in the parade, including three full bands, pipers and buglers, followed by more than 40 colorful floats stretching for several city blocks.

When the parade reaches the Post Office, His Worship Mayor

Whalen will take his place on the dais for the salute.

The parade then returns to the Court House grounds via Second Avenue where the mayor will read the official proclamation and make his speech of welcome at 12:15.

The program to follow includes a religious service, singing of hymns, selections by the Rotary Mixed Chorus and bands.

At exactly 1 p.m. Queen Elizabeth will speak. Her remarks will be heard over a public address system.

The Queen's speech will be followed by a 21-gun salute delivered from a mobile 12-pounder by the RCN from the Court House grounds. It is believed the first such salute given in this city.

Show Goes on, Rainor Shine

While the weather forecast isn't the most promising—possibly a few showers—no part of the day's show will be cancelled, says F. E. Anfield, celebrations committee chairman.

"Rain or shine, the show must go on. It's too big to make any alternatives."

The traffic and parking problem also has been taken well in hand. It was outlined today by Inspector Taylor of the RCMP and prohibits any parking in the court house area from midnight tonight.

There will be no traffic permitted on the parade route after 10:45 a.m. tomorrow. After this time, traffic will be rerouted at Sixth Avenue through Summit, Borden and downtown, or from McBride and Third Avenue East and then to First Avenue.

No traffic will be allowed in the parade mustering area between Third and First Avenues on McBride Street from 8 a.m.

until the parade has dispersed.

All taxi companies having stands along the parade route have been asked to have cabs clear of the area by 10:45 a.m.

Between 8 a.m. until the parade is over, there will be no parking on Third Avenue between McBride and Sixth Street.

Other NO PARKING areas are on Sixth Street between Second and Third Avenue; on McBride between First and Second Avenue; on First Street between Third Avenue and First Avenue; on Second Avenue between McBride and Sixth with the exception of the northern side between the Lookout and Sixth Street (cars can be angle-parked clear of the blacktop in this area); on the west side of Third Street between Second and Third Avenue; on First Avenue between First Street and the circle behind the Court House to where it joins Third Avenue.

Normal parking will be allowed in all other areas.

Special Treats For Children

A special deal has been arranged for the kiddies. School children, with exception of high school pupils, will take part in the parade. Pre-school children will assemble near the Civic Centre.

After the May Queen's crowning, the pre-schoolers will be led to First Street (near the Totem Theatre) where two booths will be erected by the Kinsmen to serve treats.

School children get their chance at the booths after they leave the parade on its return on Second Avenue.

Another special program has been arranged for senior citizens.

Members of the Over-70 Club are asked to be in the ladies' lounge of the Civic Centre by 10:30 a.m. if they wish to have a good view of the parade. Those wishing transportation should contact Mrs. T. J. Boulter, Red 182, who will arrange for cars. After the parade refreshments will be served. A short program of entertainment also has been arranged.

In the afternoon, beginning at 2:30, sports take the spotlight at Roosevelt Park, including baseball and soccer exhibition games.

Band concerts in the evening will be followed by three Coronation balls, at HMCS Chatham, the Legion, at the Armories.

A special attraction will be a searchlight and fireworks display from the top of Lookout Hill at 10:30 p.m.

'Vivat Elizabetha Regina'

WITH PRIDE The Daily News today presents its special Coronation issue in honor of an occasion which will go down in history as long as man inhabits the earth.

Within a few hours after this appears a lovely young woman will be crowned Elizabeth the Second, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and Her other Realms and Territories, Queen, Head of the Commonwealth, Defender of the Faith. Throughout that realm bells will ring, guns will roar and her subjects will go slightly hysterical with jubilation.

As first sovereign to ascend the throne as Head of the Commonwealth, Elizabeth II is likely to have closer ties with her domain abroad than any other previous ruler. God granting her a long life, she is likely also to see some members of her Commonwealth become major powers in the world. Already Canada is close to attaining such rank and it is almost certain that within the century she will realize it.

For these reasons the second Elizabethan era could be as brilliant as the first for the British Empire, as it was once called. The principal difference will be that Britain herself will be not so much head of a family as partner in an association. That is not to say that she will become less, but that her dominions will become more.

Thus it is probable that the reign of Elizabeth II will be written into history in bold type. Those who speculate on the dissolution of the Commonwealth are failing entirely to assess its real strength. Together its members represent one of the greatest forces influencing the affairs of the world today. Their association takes on added power because it is a voluntary one. Separately these countries would be reduced in importance.

So we have much to celebrate tomorrow. But however great the historical significance of the occasion, our thoughts will be primarily with the Queen herself as a human with a leading part in an extraordinary drama. We wish her well as one person would another who is taking on a tremendous responsibility.

As the Queen's Scholars of Westminster School will shout tomorrow in the Abbey, "Vivat Elizabetha Regina! Vivat! Vivat! Vivat!"

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

... by J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA.—In last June election it was the candidate with the least money to spend wooing the voters who won.

The big spenders—the Liberals and Conservatives—came out on the better of the heap; those with least money—Social Credit and CCFers—came out on top. Total expenses reached about $1,000,000. Extra, of course, was the $750,000 the election cost to operate, the taxpayers footing that bill.

This campaign money doesn't seem to be so plentiful. All parties—even Liberals and Conservatives—are passing the hat at public meetings to help pay election costs. Campaign funds have a way of drying up when a party is down.

It was just about the same in the ridings of the north as elsewhere—the big spenders lost out. In Prince Rupert, the Liberals spent $1,225 trying to hold the seat for John McRae. The Conservatives wanted Prince Rupert riding so badly they put out $4,033 on T. M. Christie. Social Credit Arthur Murray spent $333. George Hills won Prince Rupert for the CCF with expenses of $780.

In Atlin, the Conservatives put out $4,000 on expenses for Thomas Sutherland MacKay; the Liberals spent $1,938 trying to get W. D. Smith elected, but Frank Calder won for the CCF with expenses of $128—just about the lowest of any candidate in the province.

To the west of Prince Rupert riding, in Skeena riding, the big spender, E. T. Kenney of the Liberals, with expenses of $3,338 kept the seat. The Conservatives spent $2,801 on Frederick Macklin and the CCF $478 on Frank Howard.

East again, in Omineca, the Conservatives were the big spenders—$3,870 on George Ogston. The Liberals spent $2,500 trying to keep the seat for R. C. Steele. The CCF spent $229 on W. R. Taylor—but the low spender, Cyril Shelford, won for Social Credit with expenses of $204.

In Fernie riding, the Liberals put out $3,350 trying to beat old Tom Uphill, who won with $1,240.

In Oak Bay, the Liberals found $6,031 to spend on P. A. Gibbs, who beat Conservative chieftain Herbert Anscomb, so sure of himself in Tory Oak Bay that he spent by $762.

In New Westminster, Liberal Byron Johnson spent $4,951 and Conservative Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, $3,254, but they were defeated by CCF Rae Eddie, whose expenses amounted to $649.

Next door to Prince Rupert riding, in Mackenzie, Liberal B. M. MacIntyre was the biggest private spender of the entire election—$8,481—but he was beaten by CCF Tony Gargrave, who spent $1,202.

So it was that last June an awful lot of money was thrown away.

Generally speaking, expenses of the candidates this election won't be anywhere near as high. The lesson of last year's campaign, as far as expenses are concerned, seems to be that it's the candidates who must pinch pennies—the boys with the nickles not the dollars—who make the biggest hit with the people—and they're the important ones on election day.

God Save the Queen

THE BRITISH world kingdom defies successful explanation or even definition.

Anybody can half-explain how it grew to be the greatest world power that ever existed on this earth. But at best it is a mere half-explanation.

And nobody can explain why the British world kingdom has not long since broken up, and fallen apart into bits and pieces.

Churchill, the most memorable phrasemaker of this great age of change, tossed off the wisest and wittiest comment on the strange paradox that I have seen yet:

"We lost half of it trying to keep it, and we made it infinitely greater trying to give it away."

He was of course referring to the loss of the revolting American colonies in the first part of his oup, and to the growth of the free overseas associated nations in the second.

WHEN the crown is placed upon the head of young Queen Elizabeth, she will reign over more human beings than have ever owed allegiance to any other monarch in all history.

But apart altogether from that mathematical fact, the young Queen's position is quite unique. She will reign, but she will not rule, over a single inch of the one fifth of this earth over which she holds sway.

There is not a single free nation in the British world kingdom of nations which is not free to declare itself a republic, and to cut clean loose from the Commonwealth, if it so chooses by free lawful process. Even more important, there is not one remaining non-self-governing colony within the Queen's overseas realm that does not know that it can attain full nationhood as soon as it is really ready for it.

TO ME, the British world kingdom is the finest proof in all history of the majestic truth taught by Saint John when he said, "In the beginning was the word."

Take Magna Charta. A gang of rich nobles and bishops were tired of paying such heavy taxes to a rotten, crooked king.

They ganged up on him. They got up a petition which they made the wicked king sign—for the alternative to signing was in plain sight. It was certainly to lose his throne, and probably also to lose his head.

They meant to no rich nobles like us should the king deny justice. But that is not what they said—not what they wrote.

In century after century more and more classes in Britain demanded and got themselves the "justice" and equal rights which the nobles had wrung from an unwilling king. Always they harked back to Magna Charta.

THE British world kingdom freed the slaves a full half century before slaves were freed in the U.S.A. so the British did so without shedding a single drop of blood—and with fairness to all.

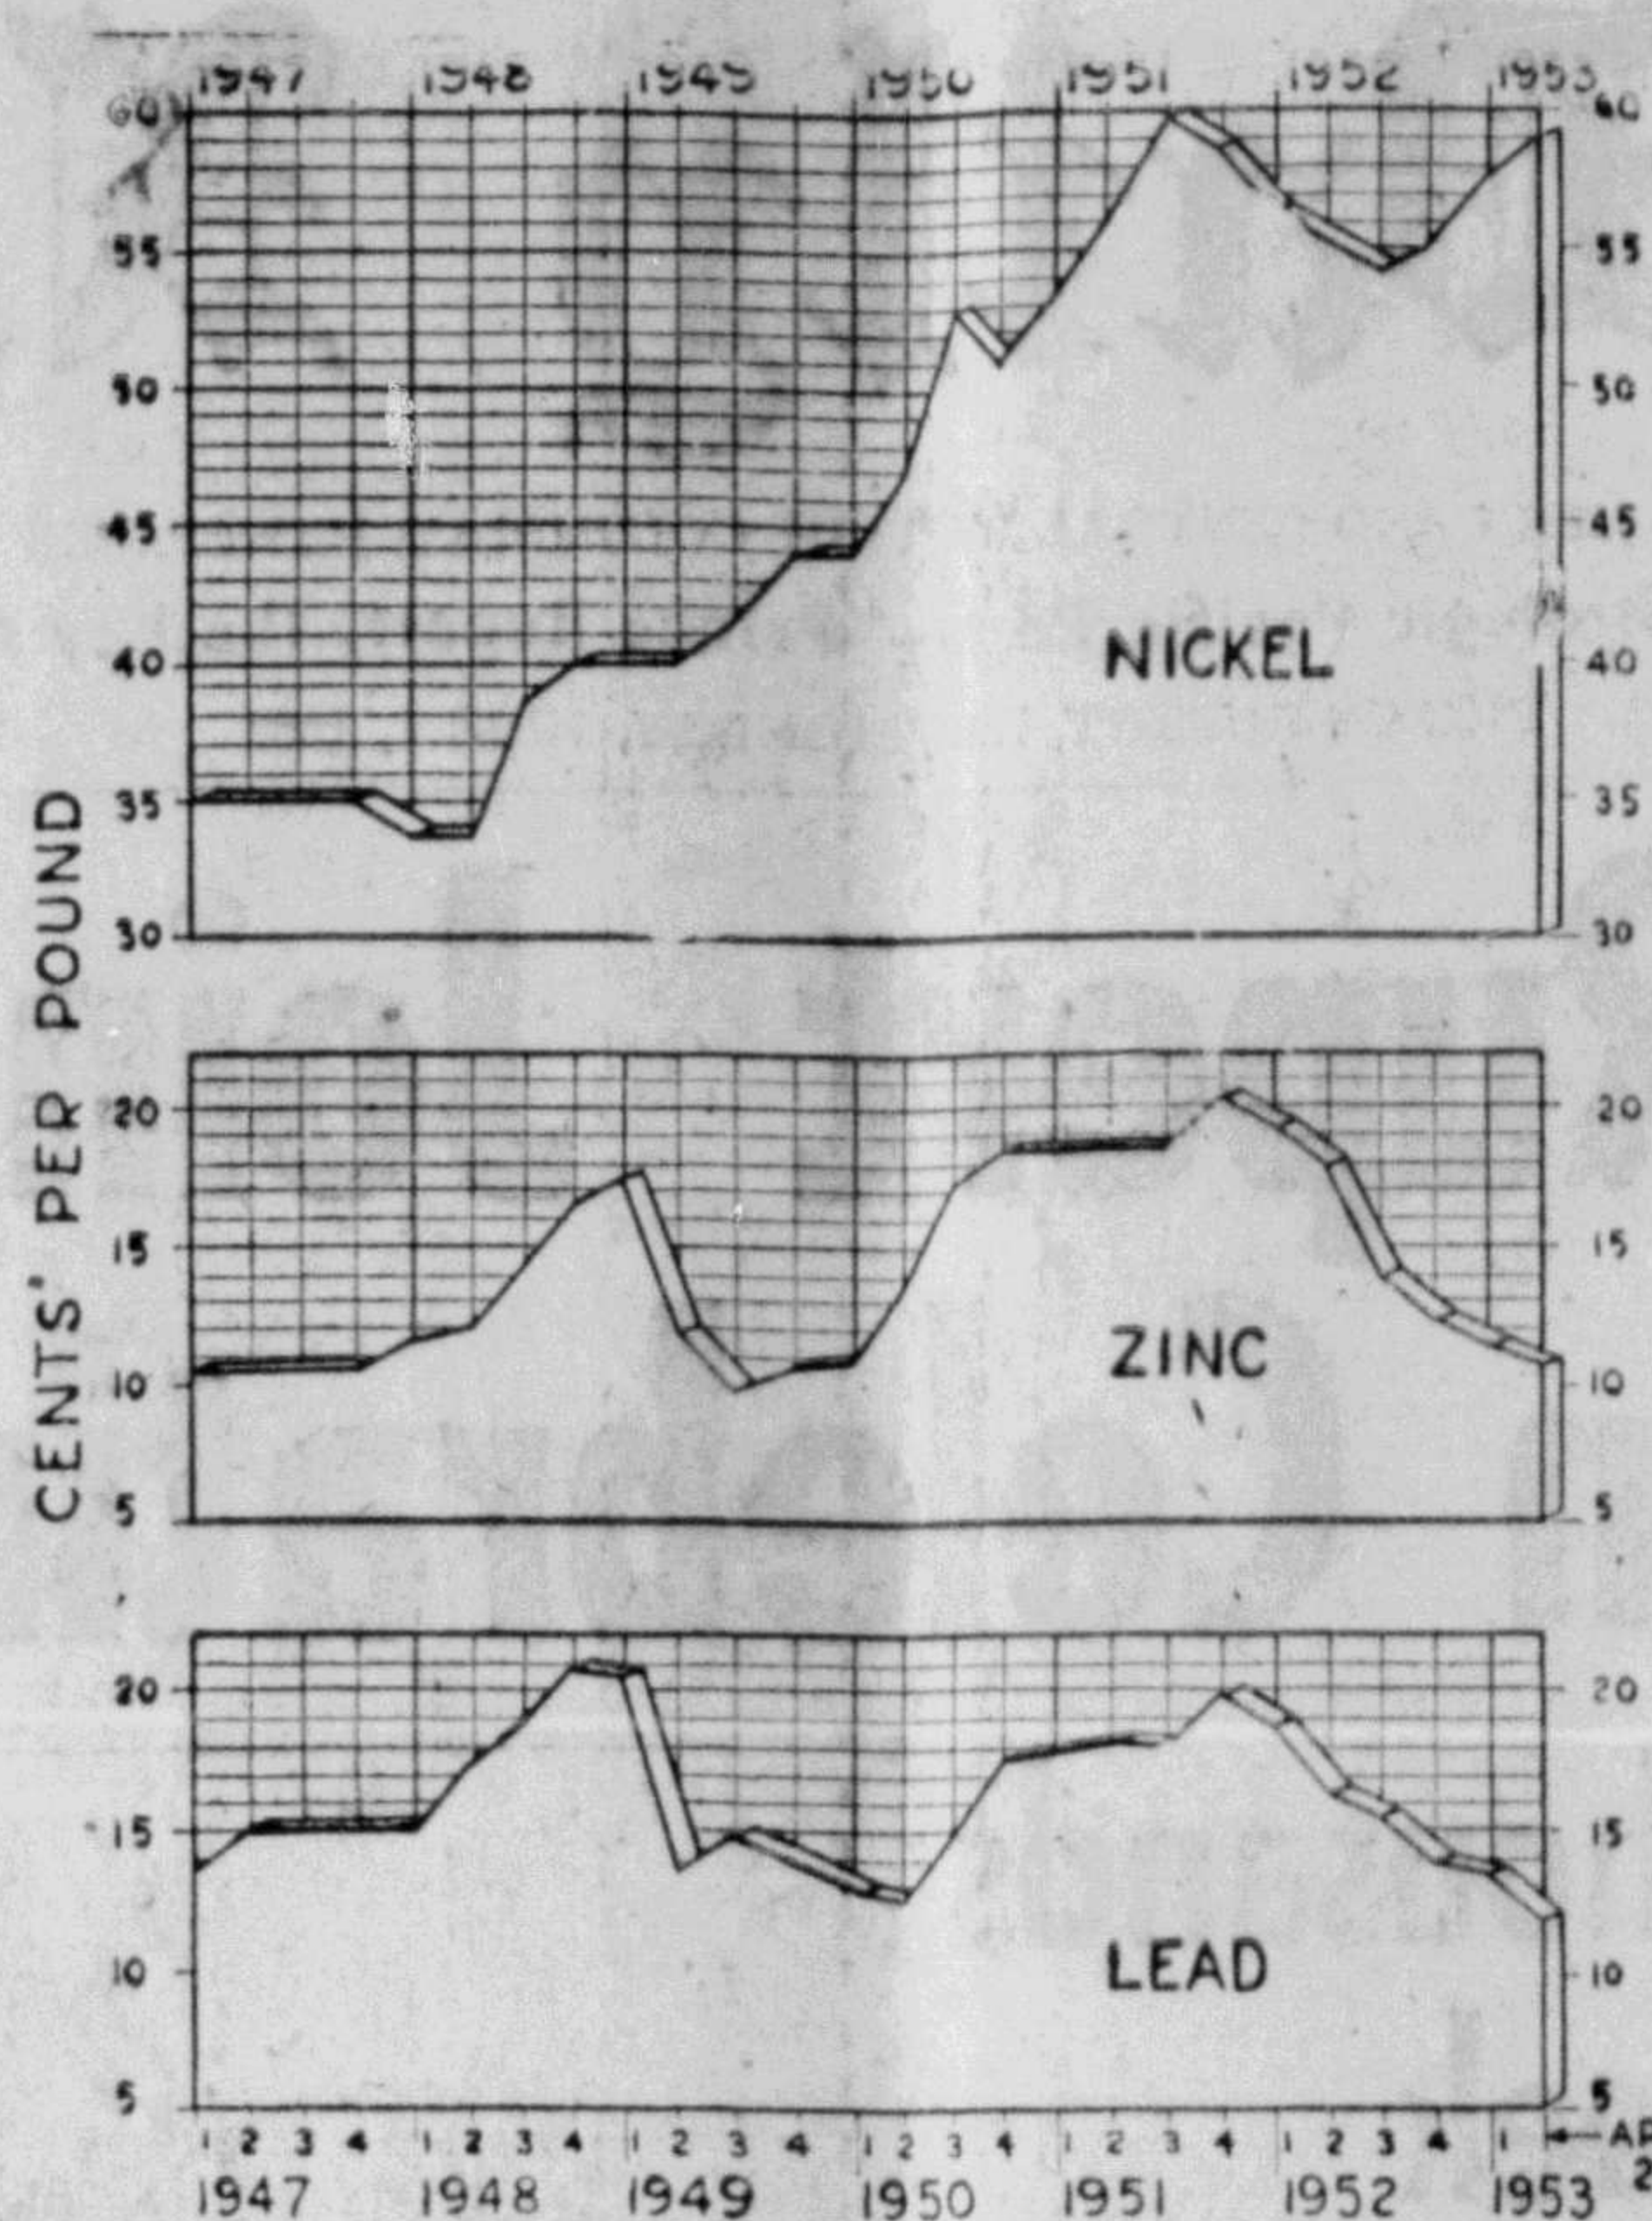

You could cite dozens of examples of similar evolution. That is why our Queen is the world's Queen of Hearts.

Jet Airliner Flies Pacific

OTTAWA.—The RCAF's first jet airliner, a $3,000,000 Comet, touched down at Uplands Airport Friday afternoon, completing a flight from London that is believed to be the fastest trans-Atlantic crossing any transport plane has made.

The airliner took 10 hours of flying time compared with an average of 18 hours for such 3,545-mile flights by the RCAF's North Stars and 16 hours, 15 minutes by TCA planes on regular flights.

In the 1953 British Coronation service the two royal sceptres are designated sceptre with cross and rod with dove.

DRASTIC DECLINES in lead and zinc prices during the past year are shown in this graph prepared by the Mining Association of British Columbia. These price drops have had particular significance in B.C. where lead and zinc are the most important products of the mining industry. The graph for nickel offers a dramatic contrast, since the price of that metal has continued to rise.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

There must be a thousand correspondents in London, with each trying to outdo one another in filing tiresome paeans of praise. So a story sent by a Vancouver man comes as a contrast and is refreshing. He reminds the coronation that in September, 1870, Trafalgar Square was packed with great public meetings, called by some of the nation's foremost leaders, demanding the "Republic of England"—a feeling that had long been growing. But it couldn't kill the miracle of Victoria's reign.

For practically half a century the city of Seattle has taken as a matter of course her supremacy as the hub—that is she came first in all things pertaining to Alaska and Alaskans. Seattle made it stick, too! But that era has gone for ever. Seattle struggles to hold her ground but it cannot be done. The north, and what is expanding today in the way of time and distance around Prince Rupert, and the southeast, give priceless advantages.

The other day a woman gave birth to a baby in a telephone booth. What some people will do rather than end a conversation!—Ex.

Any number of persons have long held the idea that it costs more to eat in a restaurant than aboard a dining car. Not having travelled much in recent years, we're commencing to doubt it, yet there is no substitute for fine food graciously served. The latest says breakfast 65c to $1.75c to $1.25 for luncheon and $1 to $1.50 for dinners. It even makes one think of Third Avenue.

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

One of the situations that is giving pause to the Capital's politicians these days is the noticeable reluctance on the part of correspondents in the Parliamentary Press Gallery to court journalistic fame by picking the winner of the coming general election.

The newsmen and commentators just don't want to stick their necks out by predicting the victory of a party leader whom events may prove to be only an also-ran.

This is a rare evidence of restraint on the part of the usually enterprising Parliament Hill newsmen. Ordinarily they are less noted for their discretion in the hazardous field of political speculation than for the vigor of their opinions—which in the majority of cases have a disturbing faculty to the politicians of proving right.

At the present moment the politicians are finding the unusual neutrality of opinion amongst the correspondents more than a little disturbing. They'd give a lot—speaking, of course, in a wholly figurative sense—to know just what the new journalistic caution portends.

It's as plain as day to the high commands of all the political parties that it's a development of major significance. As recently as six months ago the press gallery correspondents were prophesying the victory of the St. Laurent government with almost unanimous abandon. It is true that none of them today is predicting a sweeping victory for PC Leader George Drew. But the former note of expectation of triumph for the Liberals is notably absent from current despatches. The correspondents, when they write gingerly on the subject of election prospects, are showing an interesting disposition to play it safe by hinting darkly that no individual party may win—that the next government may have to be formed by some process of coalition after the election.

Experienced party strategists have learned to have a whole respect for press gallery reactions on the grounds that they generally have been found to reflect public psychology to a degree that, for practical purposes, is highly accurate. Naturally, ally, therefore, the Liberals are more disturbed than they admit publicly over the increasing premonitions of a minority result. They don't relish the possibility of a coalition to stay in power. Long years of a steamroller majority have developed a distaste for compromise of any kind.

The result down in Nova Scotia furthermore, wasn't sufficiently clear-cut to be reassured to federal Liberal morale. The PQ gains against the strong Angus L. Macdonald regime obviously don't suggest that cause that is generally conceded to be considerably weaker should become optimistic.

The Coronation is top topic of conversation today and if the weatherman co-operates there'll be sunny skies and thousands of people out to witness Rupert's most colorful page in history tomorrow.

The chairman of the celebration committee—Frank Anderson—says all plans have been laid and everything should go off like clockwork.

There were strung across the main street Sunday morning a group of hard-working men, including Fire Chief Becker, George Cook and others.

Matheson, chief engineer on the Camosun, is spending a short vacation here with his daughter and son-in-law, and Mrs. Gerry Woodside. Matheson drove from Vancouver. He's spending his time with old friends and getting a bit of fishing.

Another Rupert couple have been for other surroundings. Line Roberts boarded a train Sunday for Soda Creek, where her husband has purchased a small store and gas station. Line came here during the war in the armed services. Ron left about a month ago.

Veteran captain John Boden of the Camosun has done a lot of things during his life. But to play the coast. While riding Sunday's sunshine and ship here, he recalled he fished for flatfish off Fish Bay when there was one fish store in Vancouver and had to dump most of the catch back into the water because he couldn't sell it. He was in the logging business and one time staked a claim of 40,000,000 feet of land on an island. He paid the necessary government fees four years and, as he says, he had enough left over to start a suit, then someone came there one night, left his fire and the whole stand was burned out. The captain was offered $40,000 for the timber but his advisers told him to hang on for more. Anytime he doesn't regret the experience because he's right home on the bridge of the Camosun, meeting hundreds of people up and down the river.

Robbie Robinson, purser aboard the Camosun, didn't say which way he wanted to vote next Tuesday's provincial election but he says he's a disfranchised because the ship will be en route here on election day. There's a crew of 55 on the Camosun and usually there's a full load of passengers which, if Robbie is right, means a lot of people won't vote, either.

Canadian Stevedoring Company's new boss here, Captain Campbell walked into a real prize when he boarded the ship Pasadena last week. One of the crew members, Dick Underwood, used to work under when he was a sea captain of the East Asiatic Company.

Gordon Rothwell, badly injured last October in a car accident, expects to be returning to Calgary within a few days to see his father. He is staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Rothwell, on Sherbrooke Avenue.

A man who watched Prince Rupert develop from a small port into a sizeable city—Fred Shaw—is revisiting his old home. He is the father-in-law of Jack Judge, pioneer trader, and for many years has been living in Los Angeles. He has a lot of important things here.

DR. MARTHA LAW of Toronto, president of the Canadian Federation of University Women, will preside at the council meeting of the organization in Winnipeg June 5-6. Dr. Law, elected last year for a three-year term, was the first full-time appointee to the dental division of the Toronto health department.

RCMP Honor Comrade Lost In CPA Crash

More than 20 members of the RCMP detachment in Prince Rupert sub-division paid final respects to the late Constable Steve Kasper at a memorial service here Sunday in Annunciation Church.

Led by Inspector Taylor, the squad marched from the city hall to the church where they attended 10:30 a.m. Mass, followed by a special service.

Constable Kasper, a member of the city detachment RCMP, lost his life in the Canadian Pacific Airlines crash here May 11. He was returning to duty after escorting a prisoner to Vancouver. His body has not been recovered.

Rev. J. O. McMahon officiated at the service and recited special prayers for Constable Kasper, a member of the congregation here since his transfer from Chilliwack only a few weeks ago.

Four beautiful wreaths of spring flowers were placed around a catafalque in front of the altar in the church, and the Mounties, in full-dress, occupied pews on either side.

Following the church service, the detachment paraded to Cow Bay floats where they boarded the police boat and went to the scene of the crash where the wreaths were sunk after Father McMahon recited burial service prayers.

The wreaths were sent from the officer commanding, non-commissioned officers and constables from the Chilliwack, Victoria and Prince Rupert subdivisions and Miss Kay Budz, a close friend.

Following the ceremony, the detachment paraded to the court house for a final practice before tomorrow's Coronation Day parade.

George Casey Park Officially Turned Over To Children in Seal Cove Neighborhood

The city of Prince Rupert and particularly its children living in the neighborhood of Seal Cove, got a new park yesterday and its opening was marked by fanfare of pipes, joyous children and city officials.

The park was named officially the George Casey Park, in honor of veteran Ald. Casey for his service to the city.

Officiating at the ceremony was Pat Forman, chairman of the board of park commissioners. Hundreds of children attending were given ice-cream and other treats—"just about as much as they could handle," said one park commissioner.

The park, known during construction as Plaza Park, is located off Sixth Avenue East opposite McKay's Store. It is stocked with modern playground equipment, supplied by the Gyro Club here.

In a brief address, Ald Casey said he was "moved to a state of humility through the honor conferred on me."

"I appreciate the fact that it is not for whom I am but rather what I have done for the city during my 43 years here, out of which 34 years was in the service of the city in one form or another."

Ald Casey has served on the school board, the hospital board, parks and fair boards, and has had 22 years on city council.

"But I regret that similar recognition has not been given to an old friend of mine, the late Frank Dobb."

CHANGE TO

FORD

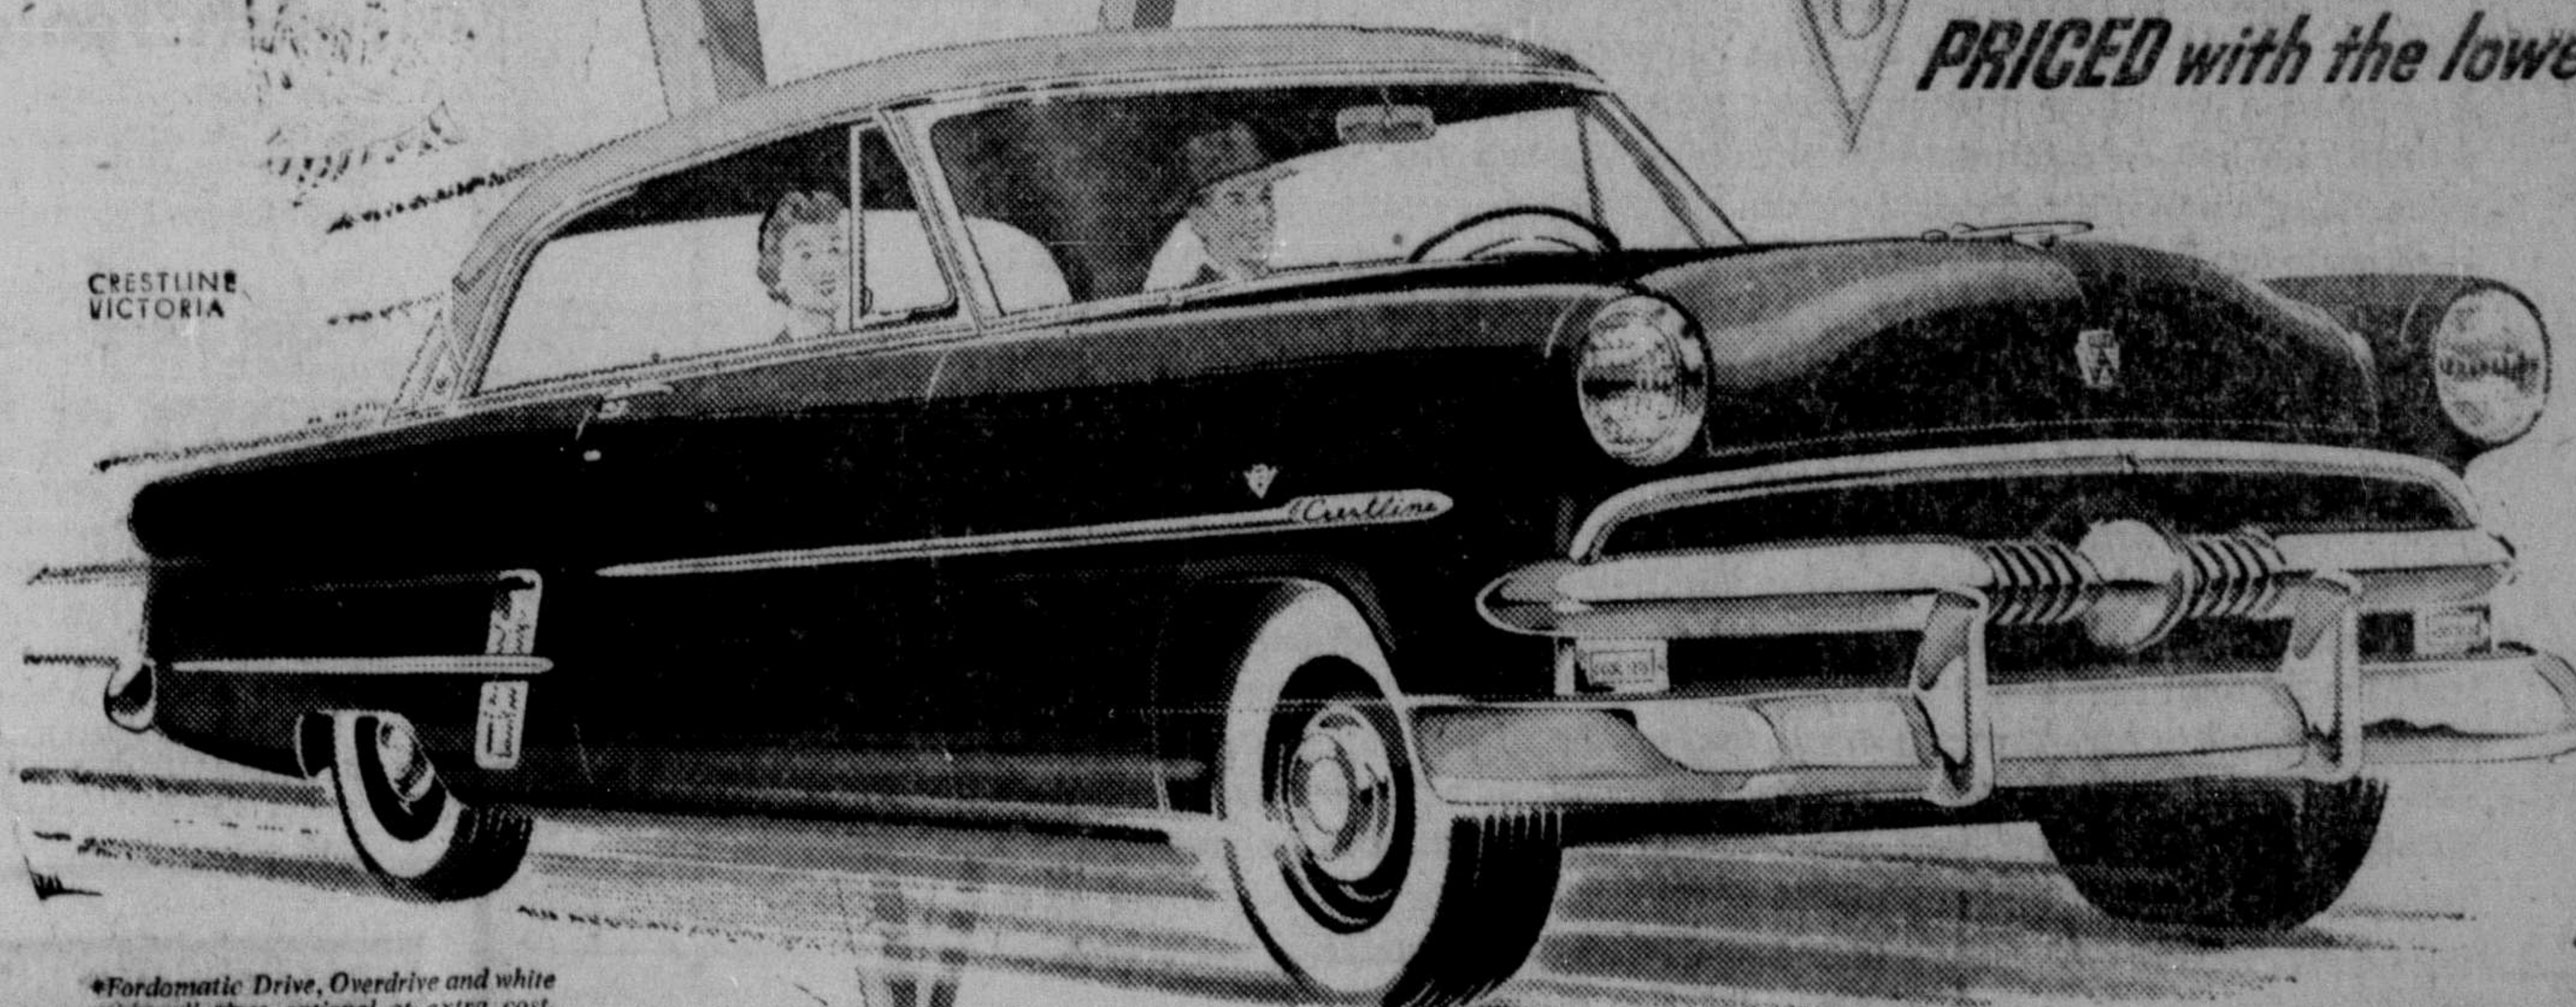

It's not hard to find the reason why so many car buyers are turning to Ford this year. It's just a matter of comparison. When you turn to Ford, you find an engine that challenges comparison with those in far more costly cars—the smooth, powerful Strato-Star 110-Hp. V-8 engine.

You'll experience the unique combination of big-car comfort and effortless driving ease which we sum up in the phrase "Wonder Ride". You'll appreciate the choice of three modern transmissions—Fordomatic*, Overdrive* or Synchro-Silent shift. You'll notice the Ford extras that have such a positive appeal for the careful buyer.

Test-drive Ford—and you'll see for yourself the many reasons why Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it!

Commercial Hotel Squad Irounces Terrace In Both Games of Doubleheader Here Sunday

Prince Rupert's Commercial hotel baseball club yesterday felled a total of 25 runs as they walloped Terrace in a doubleheader here, 14-5 and 11-7.

Credit fell high on Commercial's rookie pitcher Bob Cameron who went all the way in the early afternoon game, then came back at night to relieve Lazaruk in the sixth inning.

Although the young right-hander fell into a pack of trouble right off because of several fielding errors which allowed four runs to come in, he stopped the visitors in the seventh and final inning.

In the first game, Commercial pounded Terrace pitcher B. Paulson for nine hits and the same number of runs in the fourth inning, then slammed him again for four more in the seventh and topped it off with one in the ninth frame.

In the same game, Terrace CCs were held down to five runs off 10 hits. Cameron also claimed his share at bat, hitting two for five in the first game and one for two in the second.

The evening game came close to a riot as first Commercial threatened to fall apart, then recovered and Terrace split completely at the seams.

It was a hopeless task for Terrace pitcher Jimmy Gray, who held the home team down five scattered hits until the seventh inning.

In that fateful frame, Commercial poured in five runs after they had two down for an eight-run inning to by-pass their 7-3 deficit for the win.

Two major fielding errors, several muffed plays and some

Remember When

St. Louis Cardinals traded themselves into the National League pennant nine years ago today when they sent outfielders Coaker Triplett, Buster Adams and Dain Clay to the Phillies for Danny Litwhiler and Earl Naylor. Litwhiler's timely hitting sparked the Cards to the flag and in the World Series they beat the Browns four games to two.

Fresno Driver Wins Auto Race At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (U.P.)—Big Bill Vukovich, 34-year-old Fresno, California, driver roared to victory Saturday in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

He grabbed the lead at the start and held it all the way except for a short stretch.

Vukovich was timed at an average of 178.749 miles per hour, slightly under the record 128.922 set last year by Roy Ruttman.

Second place was won by Paul Russo of Hammond, Ind., who beat out Art Cross of La Porte, Ind., in a stirring last-lap battle.

Champion Sumo wrestler Kagamisato holds his year-old son on his lap while catching up on the latest wrestling news in Tokyo. Judging by the bandage on the tot's forehead, it looks as if he took a "fall."

SPORTS ROUND-UP

NEW YORK (AP)—You'll hardly know it unless you watch the papers closely, but the greatest of the United States' three-year-old horse races, the one they pay off on, is scheduled to be run a week from Saturday at Belmont Park.

The secrecy with which the event is conducted has never been satisfactorily explained. The most popular belief is that the proprietors of Belmont, a notable social set, simply do not wish to attract the trainloads of oil millionaires and other assorted new-rich who clutter up the Kentucky Derby and, to a lesser degree, the Preakness.

The word is passed around quietly to the better stables that the Belmont Stakes, at a mile and one-half, will be raced on a certain date, with an added prize of $100,000, and on the appointed day the gates are opened to the public as usual. The public is not urged to show up, but it may.

ADVANCE NOTICE

The only reason we are breaking a confidence and calling attention to the race this far ahead is that one of the runners this year will be Native Dancer, a grey colt about which there is much dispute lately. There may be racing fans living at a distance who would like to watch young Alf Vanderbilt's beauty face his sternest test if given advance notice.

The dispute centres around whether the Dancer, which has won 13 of his 14 races the last two seasons, is a truly top start fit to rank with such equine immortals as Man O' War, Citation, Count Fleet and others, or merely is the best of an ordinary lot of thoroughbreds. This colt, which stretches the glamor colt and his supporting cast out a quarter-mile farther than they ever have run before, is supposed to supply the answer.

PERFECT RIDE

Even the experts cannot know for certain that Jamie K, as of last Saturday's Preakness at Baltimore, was not a superior race horse. He was given a perfect ride by the country's finest jockey Eddie Arcaro. The Dancer won in a terrific stretch duel, and now he must prove in the Belmont that he belongs among the elite.

FAMILY MEAT MARKET

Mr. Terrence Ruttle, a member of our firm, was honored recently by being chosen to select the ermine for the Queen's Coronation robes.

This is what "Time Magazine," February 23rd, 1953, has to say:

Ermine for the Queen

Fur Broker Terry Ruttle, 47, sensed right away that his assignment was important. The cabled instructions from a London fur house read: "Buy 700 long-tailed ermine. Essential finest quality, clean-white." A second cable significantly added that price was no object.

One day last month Ruttle, for the first time in his career free to bid as high as necessary to get the best, sat smugly poker-faced with some 30 rival traders in a Winnipeg auction room. Broker Ruttle knew precisely what he wanted; he had spent three days thumbing through the bales of silky weasel skins, lining up his pick. By auction's end, after much eyebrow-raising to indicate 5c raises to the auctioneer, he had bought 1,111 ermine pelts at bids of from $3.25 to $3.50 apiece—the season's highest prices on the North American continent. After re-sorting the lot three times, Terry Ruttle shipped the 700 choicest pelts off to London.

Last week, about 500 super-choice ermine skins were delivered to Chancery Lane's venerable firm of Ede & Ravenscroft, Ltd., which got a running start in business in 1685 producing royal robes for the coronation of James II, and has since turned out many a bit of exclusive finery. In keeping with their austere tradition of total discretion, the robe-makers kept resolutely mum on all details of their current order. But months earlier, word had got around Chancery Lane that Ede's had received the order for the royal robes to be worn by Queen Elizabeth II on Coronation Day. When she enters Westminster Abbey on June 2, the Queen will be wearing her Parliamentary crimson robe, but she will depart in her purple robe, trimmed with Canada's finest ermine, marking her a crowned sovereign.

Bible Society Needs Money For Its Work

"It is well that at this time of coronation the people of the Commonwealth and Empire should remember the words of Queen Victoria, who once declared, 'The secret of our Empire's greatness is the open Bible.'"

This statement was made Sunday night at a largely attended rally at First United Church by Rev. J. A. Raymond Tingley, Vancouver, secretary for the province of the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Stating that the freedoms that are cherished today in this country and others have come to us through the truth which makes men free—the truth which in 149 years the Bible Society has shared with the people of 80 countries of the world in 818 languages.

He said the society's essential and urgent work of translating, publishing and distributing the Scriptures is seriously hindered by the lack of financial support.

Deploring the fact that last year the city of Prince Rupert gave only $150 to the work of the Bible Society, he expressed the conviction that during 1953 there would be a record contribution in view of the unprecedented and ever-increasing demand for Bibles throughout the world.

Declaring that it has been the purpose of the society to place the Bible on the table in every home throughout the world in the language of the home, the secretary presented an outstanding motion picture entitled "The Bible on the Table," which portrayed the transforming power of the Bible in the life of the home.

P. H. Linzey is president of the Prince Rupert branch of the Society and Miss Curine Helde is secretary-treasurer. Each congregation of the city is being asked to name a representative to the local executive. The ministers are vice-presidents.

Sunday's rally conducted by Rev. L. G. Sieber was the last to be held by Mr. Tingley on his itinerary through central B.C. He left for Vancouver on the Princess Norah.

MOST ENCOURAGING. Mr. Tingley reported that his visit to the Society's 15 branches in the 1,800 mile area covered during the past three weeks had been most encouraging, as everywhere he had found a willingness to seriously accept responsibility for supporting the work.

On Sunday morning Mr. Tingley conducted the special coronation service at the Presbyterian Church, and in the evening directed the service at First Baptist Church where he showed the society's film "Frontiersmen." This story of the courageous and sacrificial work of the society's colporteurs in Western Canada was also shown on Saturday night at the Salvation Army Hall.

He was working in the yard of his farm home when stricken. The 62-year-old bearded giant beat 19 men in one day in 1919 to win the King's wrestling tournament in London and later gained fame in the movies.

in the House that we would have to take a "second look" at the measure after it was introduced.

He said the Rolston formula would provide equitable taxation throughout the whole province for school costs and would mean a saving to all municipalities.

In Vancouver, he said, it would mean a reduction of three mills had the formula been instituted this year.

Mr. Bonner did not speak about B.C. hospital insurance, but he spoke at length on the Doukhobor problem, reading and discussing a letter he had written to Justice Minister Garson in Ottawa outlining the Social Credit government policy on Doukhobors.

He said he believed a "suitable solution" would be found and would lie in a new government statute directly concerning the Sons of Freedom.

The former Vancouver lawyer did not lash at political opponents, but said the "Social Credit government has been the brunt of the most severe criticism from certain quarters in this province's political history. It is most unjust criticism."

He did condemn the CCF's policy of nationalizing industry, saying the province "just couldn't afford buying out industries like Alcan as has been proposed. Any other way of expropriation would be outright robbery."

"There may be a time when we will be ready to go into the aluminum or the brewery industry, but I don't see that it is for many years to come."

He said he didn't think "there are really many socialists in B.C.," but it was up to the voters on June 9 to "make a clear-cut decision between socialism and free enterprise, and Social Credit offers you the best in free enterprise."

Mr. Bonner said his government had "no policy" on the separate schools question.

Art Murray, however, said that the local Social Credit League had recommended to the government that all property of private schools be exempt from taxation, referring to a similar policy in the Liberal election platform.

A Deceptive Play Alerts Bidder — To Wrong Hand

Mr. Masters says the best time for a false-card play is when you feel sure it will damage declarer more than partner. He made such a play in today's deal.

The opening lead was the jack of clubs. Mr. Abel won with the ace and after some thought returned the seven of diamonds. Mrs. Queen ducked, playing the eight spot, and Mr. Masters won with the king. A small diamond was led back and taken on the board with the jack. Mrs. Keen playing the 10 spot.

Now Mrs. Keen led a heart and finessed the 10. Mr. Masters promptly dropped the nine. Mr. Masters had done a little rapid calculation after the play of the first three tricks. Mrs. Keen's play to the two diamond tricks had made it fairly clear she had started with precisely A Q 10 8 in that suit. Also she had started with a singleton club. That left eight cards in the major suits. If only two of these were spades, apparently there was no chance of beating the hand.

But if Mrs. Keen had five hearts and three spades, that was another matter. If he won with the king of hearts, Mrs. Keen could win any return, take one more round of trumps after cashing dummy's two top spades, then cash her two good diamonds, throwing the two losing spades from dummy.

Mr. Abel would be out of trumps after the second heart lead and Mr. Masters would have to follow suit helplessly on the third and fourth diamond leads and watch Mrs. Keen ruff a losing spade with dummy's last trump.

In fact, this line of play had been mentally planned by Mrs. Keen. But when Mr. Masters played the nine of trumps on the first heart lead, it appeared to her that Mr. Abel had started with K 4 3 2 in hearts. Now it was hopeless to try and run the diamonds to get rid of dummy's two bad spades. Mr. Abel would surely ruff in.

Well, the contract could still

Italian Prime Minister's Record At Stake In June 7 General Election

By PATRICK GROSSE
ROME (Reuters) — Alcide de Gasperi, 72-year-old prime minister of Italy, has set a record for stability in one of the most uncertain periods of Italy's turbulent history, but he may fall by a few months to beat another of his country's political records.

BOB PARKER LTD.
"The Home of Friendly Service"

His only predecessor to approach this record was Giovanni Giolitti, the Liberal leader, who totalled nine years as prime minister, but in five separated periods between 1892 and 1921. Dictator Benito Mussolini, who governed Italy for 22 years, began his reign with the title of prime minister, but soon switched it to "cap del governo" (head of the government).

If the democratic parties in Italy win the general elections June 7, de Gasperi may exceed, in one continuous period, the total compiled by Giolitti in five. But there are indications that, even with a democratic victory at the elections, de Gasperi's future passage will be rough. One of the chief reasons for this is that his own huge Christian Democrat party is divided on how to cope with Italy's Communists.

Eight years of post-war democracy and hundreds of millions of dollars in United States aid appear to have made practically no inroad on the Communists' following in Italy.

De Gasperi has consistently argued that the fact of having to live with and fight the biggest Communist party outside Russia should not panic all her Italians into abandoning democracy.

Reid Takes Daughter Out of School

IN ARM, B.C. — J. Alan Reid, Social Credit member for Salmon Arm, has taken his daughter out of high school because she has been persecuted by other students.

It was Mr. Reid who made the now famous "sex in schools" attack on the B.C. educational system during the last session of the legislature.

Reid confirmed the removal of his daughter from school, but declined to comment.

First word came from school trustee Ed Codd, who has supported Reid in wanting the controversial Effective Living course removed from the school curriculum. He spoke at a meeting of the school trustees.

During the meeting school board chairman J. L. Jackson told Codd he had used the situation for political purposes.

"That can go both ways," replied Codd, accusing students in the school of persecuting Reid's daughter as a result of which Reid had to take her out of the school.

Codd promised chairman Jackson he would no longer discuss the subject.

— Footlights —

By LILIAN MILLER
Little Theatre is packing it up after a season of fun.

There'll be no more meetings or plays until the summer is done.

All plans are sorted and filed away.

All work and hamming is through.

To Ray and Beth is said "Farewell."

To others, "Be seeing you."

One last gathering was held to complete the work of this year.

That really was a busy time, cleaning and packing the gear. Jim Cumming, Keith Faught and Lilian Miller.

Are asked to plan a program.

That will start next season off well.

And satisfy every ham.

Everyone is welcome in this happy group, so let's be seeing you all.

Please keep in mind September fifteenth—the starting date next fall.

And please remember—don't forget—

Experience isn't asked for at all.

All that you need is a will to try.

And for grease paint and lights you will fall.

There's plenty of work and twice as much play.

With heartaches and successes lining the way.

The house lights dim, and footlights glow.

A voice backstage says, "ON WITH THE SHOW."

WORLD'S GREATEST TIRE TEST AGAIN PROVES FIRESTONE SAFEST FOR YOUR CAR
For the 30th consecutive year Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars at Indianapolis — the world's greatest tire test. 500 miles on the speedway equal 50,000 miles of ordinary driving — 5 years of average service crowded into a few hours! For many years the winning drivers have bought Firestone tires because no driver is willing to risk his life or chances of victory on anything less than the safest tires that money can buy. You, too, can have the world's safest tires on your car — Drive in to your nearby Firestone Dealer and let him take care of your tire needs.
