The Musical Ride

A NUMBER of eye-catching maneuvers, the Mounties' musical riders do a sudden gallop each other in what appears to be an almost certain head-on crash but which actually is into this striking circle of men and horses. The maneuver is called the Dome. The RCMP ride will be performed at the Royal Tournament in London after the Coronation.

English Duke Buys B.C. Island Establish Industrial Site

VICTORIA (CP)—The wealthy Westminister has bought an island which, it is estimated, will cost him a $150,000,000 site.
 J. Hardman, British representative of the company, announced completion of the purchase of Anand in the Fraser River, southwest of New Westminster, and said its development as an industrial community will go ahead as soon as possible.
 Vancouver businessmen, who have followed negotiations on the project, are credited with putting the $150,000,000 tag on ultimate development.
 Hardman said he could not estimate the ultimate investment, but commented:
 "You can imagine the project as big as the whole downtown district of Vancouver. The Duke's personal fortune will supply the money."
 Blueprints for Anand Island, it is stated, show development similar to Trafford Industrial Park near the Manchester ship canal in England, where 200 to 250 industries are concentrated and employ 50,000 to 70,000 persons.

Kinsmen Coronation Contest Backed by City Businessmen

Almost every business man in Prince Rupert is backing the Kinsmen Club's Coronation Contest which begins this Saturday.
 Details of the contest—to run four weeks—will be announced Saturday.
 Dick Bell, agent here for Canadian Pacific Airlines, said his firm is working with the Kinsmen to make the contest a "real success" and hinted that a plane trip to Vancouver may be one of the prizes.
 Frank Skinner of Union Steamships also is backing the contest. While he did not disclose any details of the contest, Mr. Skinner said he was certain it would be well-received by the public and "some lucky person will be getting a boat trip."
 Another plane trip is in the office aboard an Ellis Airlines plane according to Karl Lundstrom, who said his firm is among those backing the Kinsmen in their drive to obtain funds to build a new school for the children.

Port Simpson Native Acquitted On Charge Of Murdering Uncle

Jury Deliberated Only 50 Minutes

James Albert Dudoward, 26-year-old Port Simpson fisherman, was acquitted Tuesday on all counts of a murder charge in connection with the death of his uncle, Wilfred White, last September 5.

The jury returned its verdict of "not guilty" 50 minutes after retiring at 5:05 p.m.

Plea of self defence was entered by defence counsel Doug Hogarth. Crown Counsel T. W. Brown, QC, asked for a maximum verdict of manslaughter, saying "I cannot see murder in this case."

But Dudoward was freed on all counts.

Evidence in the two-day trial disclosed that White had attacked Dudoward on his fishing boat, wielding a beer bottle, after throwing heavy wrench, a hammer and a screwdriver at the accused.

Dudoward had defended himself with a broken beer bottle as a weapon, inflicting deep gashes on the face and neck of his opponent who died in hospital later that day.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson presiding over the case, extolled crown counsel in asking for a reduced verdict and placed an issue to the jury the matter of whether or not accused had been justified in using "such a barbarous weapon" to defend himself.

In explaining the law to the jury and summing up the evidence, Mr. Justice said to the jury:

"Was the accused justified in using the weapon he used in relation to the force of the attack by the deceased? That is the very essence of the case as I see it."

In his dramatic plea to the jury for an acquittal of the accused, Mr. Hogarth said that "Jimmie had his back to the wall. He couldn't escape. He was forced to protect himself."

Mr. Hogarth recounted events leading up to the fight on Dudoward's boat, the Laura Louise. White had seriously provoked the accused, he said, yet Dudoward "had done everything he could do to appease the man."

White had been living with the Dudowards at Port Simpson. He was Jimmie's uncle, but behaved in "a very aggravating manner."

What had brought the conflict to a head, said Mr. Hogarth, was White's continual assertion that he had built the Laura Louise, the accused's boat, when evidence had shown White only spent a little time at work; and when given $40 to buy tools, had returned without the tools and without the money.

Claimed He Built the Boat

On the day in question, White began telling a visitor on the boat that he (White) was the builder. Dudoward had told White to "forget about the boat, we are having a good time."

But White insisted, until Dudoward told him to get off the boat. Accused later called the police to remove his uncle from the boat "to avoid any trouble because Willie White was getting very quarrelsome."

Then White had challenged Dudoward to a fight, but accused countered with a bribe of liquor to have White leave the boat. In answer, White had kicked Dudoward on the head, following by throwing the wrench, hammer and screwdriver at him.

This was followed by White calling Dudoward filthy and obscene names. "You heard them here in court. Such names are enough to provoke any normal man to lose his self control," said Mr. Hogarth.

The name calling was followed by a final challenge to fight, then White began his attack, a beer bottle in hand.
 Dudoward picked up a bottle in his hand, broke the bottom and stood waiting, "but the accused did not intend to use that weapon then."

"Jimmie thought, as he told you from the witness stand, that the broken bottle would scare Willie, but he kept on coming."

"I can't think of anything Jimmie could do further to prevent bodily conflict. He was forced to use the weapon he had in his hands," pleaded Mr. Hogarth.

"It was as Jimmie's first words to police when he learned of White's death. . . . I did it in self-defence."

Mr. Brown, in asking for a manslaughter verdict, said that Dudoward "was in a rage. He had it in mind to punish, mutilate and destroy."

Mr. Brown at one time called the preamble to the bodily encounter between the two men "a Maggie and Jiggs fight of throwing things. The accused wasn't really frightened of Willie White."

"But I would like you to be as fair in your judgment as you yourself would want to be judged by a 12-man Indian jury," ended Mr. Brown.

American, British Ideas Differ on War Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP)—Britain and the United States have somewhat different ideas of what to do about released war prisoners who have been touched by Communism during their Korean captivity.

The British war office is sending home repatriated British prisoners home promptly, believing that if any "disindoctrination" from forced Communist teaching is required, the place for it is around the family hearthstone.

The American idea is to offer returned soldiers psychological treatment if they want it, and if not to send them home whenever their physical condition permits.

A few of 22 released British soldiers who landed in England had kind things to say of their treatment and some denounced the Korean war. But their government evidence no great alarm.

A U.S. Army spokesman here preferred to make no comment on the British policy. But he asserted there is nothing compulsory about the U.S. program to provide psychological treatment.

The U.S. Army last week announced that it would accept of Americans who "have shown symptoms of having succumbed to Communist indoctrination" were being flown to Valley Forge, Pa., army hospital for mental as well as medical treatment.

The army spokesman said Saturday:

"No one is required to take any psychiatric treatment without his own consent. The men have been told they can take treatment or if they don't want it they are free to go home. It's up to them, entirely."

No Progress In Truce Talks

PANMUNJOM (AP)—A United Nations truce negotiator said today "zero" progress had been made toward Korean armistice after the Reds rejected a proposal to free 32,000 North Korean prisoners who refuse to go home after a truce is signed.

The Reds again ignored Allied nomination of Pakistan as a neutral custodian of 48,500 prisoners who refuse to return to their Communist homelands.

THE HORSES PERFORMING in the RCMP musical ride don't frighten easily. A four-engine aircraft skims overhead but they don't budge an inch. Flags, bunting and tin cans have been used to train the horses not to bolt when big crowds act up.

Father Welcomes Son With Hug As Young Man Walks Free

By LARRY STANWOOD

"It is wonderful to feel that wind in my face again."

Those were the first few words spoken by 26-year-old James Dudoward late yesterday as he left the court house.

A few moments earlier, the same man had been sitting in the prisoner's dock in the court room while a 12-man jury filed in to return one of three verdicts:

"Guilty of murder; guilty of manslaughter;" or "not guilty."

When the climactic moment came and George McAdams, foreman of the jury stood and faced the judge to say, "Not Guilty," Dudoward looked straight before him.

But as the prisoner heard the verdict, his countenance did not change. It remained as impassive, as stolid, and as expressionless as it was throughout the two-day trial for his life.

He realized only slowly that he was a free man.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson said: "The accused may now be dismissed."

Dudoward stood up, six-foot tall, in the box, but he didn't move for several minutes. Mr. Justice Wilson said again, that the accused was free to go.

First to greet him was his lawyer, Doug Hogarth, who had pleaded for his life and won.

"I must see my father," said the husky, dark-haired young man then—who had been separated from his family since Sept. 5 last—eight months—waiting in prison cells while his life hung in the balance.

Father and son hugged each other. Others pouring from the crowded spectator gallery shook his hands, silently.

Red-coated policemen came and shook his hand. The freed man's sister, Audrey Dudoward, ran from the court house to bring the news to an anxious mother, waiting in a downtown hotel room.

During the trial there was evidence of drinking which had taken place during events leading up to the tragic moment when young Dudoward had to defend himself from an aggressor who was his uncle.

After the trial Dudoward said: "I'm never going to touch another drop of any kind of liquor."

"It is hard for me to think that I'm free."

The Dudowards are going back to Port Simpson, to their home on the reserve.

"Your boat is ready to go fishing," the 62-year-old father told his son.

Jimmie, who spent some six months in the army during the final stages of the Second World War, is well known along this part of the coast. He is a fisherman and a trapper, but has also been employed as Indian constable on the reserve for over two years, as an employee of the Hudson's Bay Company store at Port Simpson, off and on, for several years.

 Now he's going back to fishing, but he says he has greater respect for his country than ever before.
 "I put myself at their mercy. Today I am a free man. Thank God."

MORE THAN 500 SAVED IN CHANNEL FERRY CRASH

HARWICH, England (AP)—The channel ferry Duke of York, carrying 437 passengers and crew of 70 was torn in two today in a collision with the American transport Haiti Victory in the North Sea.

All passengers—including a mother and baby trapped several hours in the after-part of the British vessel—and most of the crew—were rescued by ships in the area.

Trial of Terrace Resident Opens in Assize Court Here

Standing trial on two counts in the second case before the spring assizes of the Supreme Court here before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson is Philippe Auguste Vachon of Terrace.

Vachon faces a charge of breaking and entering with intent to steal, and of having in his possession by night, house-breaking instruments without lawful excuse.

T. W. Brown, QC, is prosecuting attorney. Robert F. Dumont of Terrace is defence counsel.

Mr. Brown told court at the opening of the trial this morning he would call evidence alleging that Vachon entered the premises of Little, Haugland and Kerr Ltd., Lakelse Avenue, Terrace, on the night of October 28 last "intending to steal the property and chattels of the owners."

Mr. Brown said evidence would also show that house-breaking tools, a drill bit and a wrench were found on Vachon's person, and how these tools could be used for housebreaking.

Further evidence would show, said Mr. Brown, that Vachon had been surprised by a police officer and that the accused had attacked the policeman. When finally subdued and arrested, accused had been searched and the items found on him.

When the owner was notified by police after Vachon's arrest, several items in the store and office of Little, Haugland & Kerr Ltd. had been found disappeared.

A safe had been mutilated, and other goods removed. Nothing, however, was found missing.

First witness to be called was Corporal Bruce, RCMP, who arrested Vachon.

Jurymen chosen were: Albert Dickens, foreman; George Ferguson, Carl Mattson, Edward Capstick, Melville Peak-Voke, Henry Arne, Lloyd Mooney, Frederick May, John Davidson, Robert Menzies, James Caruso, John Thompson.

Debate Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today ended its longest debate in 15 years by passing the Eisenhower-backed bill to establish state ownership of oil riches lying under coastal waters. The vote was 56 to 35.

Before approving the bitterly-fought legislation, the Senate rejected a dozen last-ditch amendments.

Cellulose Plant Closed Due to Mechanical Trouble

Due to mechanical difficulties the Columbia Cellulose Company plant at Watson Island will be closed for "several days," W. C. R. Jones, manager, announced today.

Cause of the trouble is a fracture which developed Monday in the giant chipper shaft which processes all logs on their way to becoming pulp. To arrange for a replacement, Mr. Jones departed this morning by plane for Everett, Washington, where another shaft is stored.

During the shutdown the annual inspection of machinery and boilers, which had been planned for late in the summer, will be carried out, Mr. Jones said. He added that in the meantime a number of employees will be occupied with necessary repair work.

Setting an Example

Dear Mr. Casey: It is with disappointment that we learn you propose to air your grievances on city affairs at a public meeting because everything is "all balled up."

Have you considered, Mr. Casey, that the "lively time" you promise will probably be made at a greater expense to the city than some of the incidental expenses you propose to challenge?

With all deference to the years of generous public service you have given to Prince Rupert, it is timely to remind you that, besides yourself, we have elected seven other aldermen and a mayor to decide on our civic affairs.

It would therefore seem that you are asking us to regard this as a poor investment because you are better informed. So, far from suggesting that the people know best, by carrying your appeal to the public forum, you are actually inferring that they have shown bad judgment.

To make any such inference is not, of course, your intention and we honestly believe that you are acting with an earnest desire to do what is in the greatest interest of Prince Rupert.

For these reasons your views have importance. We submit for your conscientious thought, however, that they are not so far superior to anyone else's that you have the moral right to flaunt them in the face of the rest of the elected body in the way you propose.

Is that, in your opinion, equivalent to good city management?

Chamber of Commerce Calls For More Liberalized World Trade

OTTAWA.—The Canadian council of the International Chamber of Commerce has endorsed pleas for freer world trade, elimination of exchange restrictions and abolition of unnecessary customs formalities.

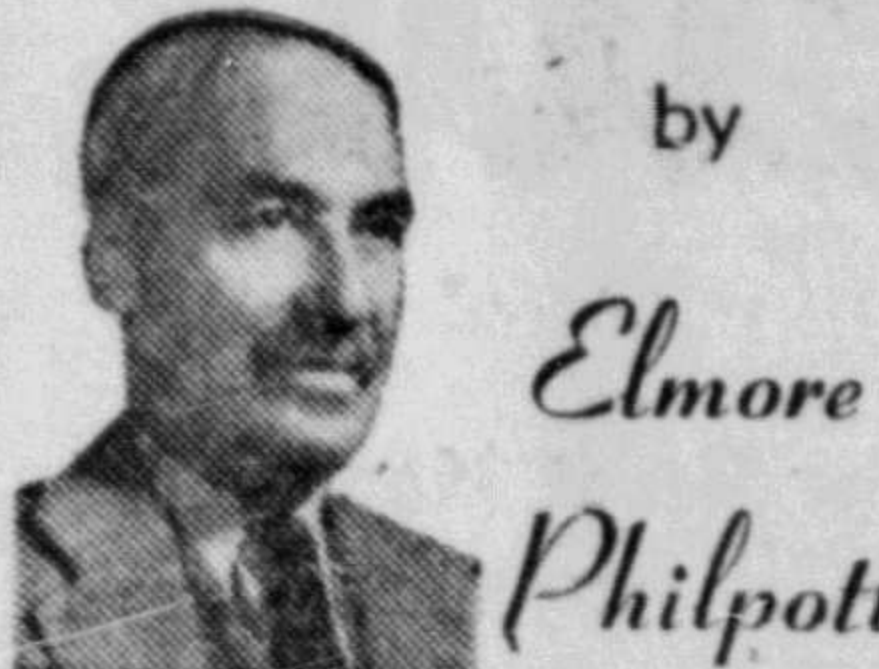

Views of the council were outlined in a brief presented to the Senate committee on Canadian trade relations. The brief was presented by a delegation headed by D. P. Cruickshank of Ottawa.

- More liberalized world trade, with an expanding volume of imports as well as exports;
• Reduction of special trade restrictions and formalities to a minimum;
• Free convertibility of currencies;

The brief recalled that the international chamber has drafted a treaty under which government would agree to provide fair treatment for foreign capital.

"The chamber believes that the capital-importing country should treat foreign investments on the same favorable basis as investments made by its own nationals," said the brief.

As I See It

Who Blundered?

LLOYD GEORGE once made a famous wise-crack that "strategy is too important to be left to generals."

The incredible happenings in Korea show that peace talks are too important to be left to generals.

On April 29 while the whole world waited for agreement on a cease fire in Korea the cable services reported that the U.S. generals in the truce tent had flatly rejected India or any other Asian power as the custodian of the war prisoners.

Thanks to Mr. Pearson's prompt phone calls to Washington, the U.S. government soon denied the Associated Press and British United Press reports from Korea. But it looks to me as if the press services were made the goat.

NEWSPAPERS and radio stations pay very large sums of money for wire and cable services. I think they should therefore demand and publish an explanation from the Associated Press and British United Press if only for their own standing with their readers. Everybody should know who slipped.

On Wednesday April 29, the CBC and other radio stations carried on their ten p.m. newscasts the flat, unqualified statements that the "UN has rejected India" or any other Asian power as the custodian. The whole world heard those reports. The Vancouver News Herald carried the Associated Press cable in its morning issue of April 30.

It read as follows: "PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The Allies today rejected any Asian nation as a neutral to supervise Communist prisoners-of-war who do not want to return to Red rule."

The Vancouver Sun on the same afternoon carried side by side British United Press despatches from Ottawa and Korea which certainly show somebody is fibbing.

Mr. Pearson was quoted from Parliament: "The report on this matter which appeared in the press does not seem to be completely accurate. I am informed that no such stand has been taken."

It is obviously a stand which would not command the support of this country.

IN THE adjoining column the British United Press cable from Korea states flatly: "United Nations chief delegate Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison also told the Communists Thursday that the UN is not favorable to naming an Asian nation as the supervising neutral. But it was generally believed India might be accepted if named by the Reds."

Bill Would Aid Sick Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg moved in the Commons a resolution preliminary to his bill to extend unemployment insurance to some sick workers.

The measure will provide insurance benefits for workers who become ill after being put out of work for other reasons. Now, persons must be available for work before they can collect benefits.

VICTORIA REPORT

... by J. K. Nesbitt

VICTORIA—One wonders now, if, after all, Premier Bennett didn't really tell Salmon Arn's Mr. Reid that the Reid attack on education was O.K.

After Mr. Reid's speech in the Legislature, the Premier and Education Minister Tilly Rolston went into a hurried huddle. Within an hour, Mrs. Rolston had publicly repudiated just about everything Mr. Reid said about education.

A few days ago, Mr. Reid reported that the Premier, in caucus, had said he was 100 per cent with Mr. Reid.

There's some double-talk going on somewhere. There was Mrs. Rolston that day in the House castigating Mr. Reid. Yet, so far, in this election campaign, Social Crediters have been attacking B.C.'s education system.

Health and Welfare Minister Martin, not noted for his tact, says B.C.'s education is filled with Socialists. As for the Reid, says Mr. Martin, "where there's smoke there's fire."

OTTAWA DIARY

By Norman M. MacLeod

Most interesting rumor travelling the political grapevine these days is that Lt.-Col. Edmund George is going to have a fight on his hands to recapture the Liberal nomination in the New Brunswick riding of Westmoreland.

Earlier this session Col. George was ambushed by Carl Nickle (PC, West Calgary), who launched a surprise attack against him on the grounds that, while collecting his constituency as a Member of Parliament, he also had been paid as the commanding officer of a reserve army unit in New Brunswick.

Col. George readily admitted the facts and said that he saw nothing wrong in them. Apart from the obviously politically motivated PC's, Parliament Hill circles agreed with him. A good deal of his time even while in the capital is taken up with correspondence on reserve army affairs. But quite apart from any such merits of the case, any member of the armed services is entitled to claim leave to attend to parliamentary duties, and to continue to receive his pay and allowance while so engaged.

Notwithstanding the fact that in parliamentary circles he is considered to be "in the clear" in respect to the Nickle charges, the New Brunswick colonel is reported to be facing heavy weather in his own constituency. Whether his riding difficulties stem from the Nickle charges isn't known. But the prevailing and persistent rumor is that the Westmoreland colonel has two fights on his hands—to win the constituency nomination first and to win the election battle after that.

Actually, veteran parliamentarians cannot remember another session in which the personal conduct of different MPs has served so prominently as an issue. In addition to the onslaught of PC Nickle against Col. George, a member of the cabinet—Mines Minister George Prudham—was on the firing line. Then in the closing days of the session, the resignation of Austin Dewar, Liberal MP for Qu'Appelle, climaxed a string of allegations uncovered by an Ontario daily newspaper, the Toronto Evening Telegram.

Already as a result of the sudden avalanche of stones against the glass house in which MPs perform have to dwell, Dewar has lost his seat in the Commons and Col. George is reported to be in jeopardy of losing his nomination. So far no retribution of any kind has overtaken Mines Minister Prudham. But the session isn't quite ended. And eleventh-hour intimations from PC sources are to the effect that the Drew forces haven't yet exhausted their attempts to embarrass the mines minister. NO JOBS AVAILABLE

The Editor, The Daily News: Could you or any of your readers, advise me as to how to obtain employment in this fair city? I feel I must be going about it the wrong way.

I reasoned that the employment office was the best place to obtain my objective, but the lady clerk there looked at me in amazement, "work, no nothing at all." Then how does one get a job? I asked. Oh just go in and ask the managers that's all... as easy as that I thought, so I selected the place where I thought I might be most useful.

The bank manager was pleasant, but sorry. "We like to employ young people, you are rather old for the job."

My next effort brought: "We recruit our employees by examination, apply in writing to Victoria."

The next... Have you been living five years in Rupert? we require people with local knowledge.

Feeling depressed a bit, I reported to my landlady. "Get out more and meet people, go to a beer parlor and talk to folk, you will hear about jobs that way was her advice."

So self consciously I slid into a corner seat in the beer parlor, and sure enough before long a brightly dressed woman joined me.

"Hi sister, what's cooking? I returned per smile and told her "not much." "Lousy weather" I agreed... sure is... "What are you doing?" Looking for work I replied... "You are early sister, nothing much doing till after six o'clock. Have you anything lined up? I shook my head... Well stick around sister, I have more work than I can handle, I could pass some of it along."

Thank you "sister" for the beer and cigarettes, sorry I have not had experience in your line, and would prove a miserable failure... but again thanks for your touch of human kindness.

Then I landed at a fish plant. Can you use the knife? asked the burly manager. And to my look of bewilderment... Oh a beginner... nope, you must have worked one thousand hours before we could take you on the unions, you know, cannot employ anyone outside the list... sorry no gum.

At a small smoking outfit, where a few women worked silently, I was told native labor only wanted here.

A kindly fireman suggested that I try the hospital. Maybe there is a chance for me there that is if I do not enter as a patient first.

TAKE ACTION NOW! The Editor, The Daily News: A good many of us have been making a spring cleanup even out in the drainage ditch to try and make our city a more desirable place.

Then a seemingly new system of garbage collection comes into effect—that of leaving cans on the street overnight, without lids, strewing refuse every which way.

What an eyesore, as well as being unsanitary. Before long, we'll have visitors, little four-legged ones right from the city limits, lots of them!

Let's see some action from some source and rectify this very unnecessary condition.

NOT FOR CASEY The Editor, The Daily News—Does it ever occur to Mr. Casey that he is probably more interested in keeping up his name of the "fighting alderman" than he is in sparing the taxpayers a few dollars?

Speaking of "waste," it is quite apparent he could save the city council a good deal of "time" instead of bickering about every subject that comes up. Just because Alderman Casey seems to be alone against the rest of the council (regarding the $17.50-a-day business), does it necessarily stand to reason he must be in the right? No doubt Mr. Casey thinks so, but it brings to mind the old story of an Irish mother, watching her son march for the first time in the army. "Be gory!" she was heard to remark. "If they're not all out of step but me Patrick!"

A DIFFERENT STORY

The Editor, The Daily News: Your May 1st edition contained an extremely misleading story regarding relations between the Native Brotherhood of B.C. and the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union. Headlines of "Indians TO BARGAIN SEPARATELY IF FISH PRICE DEAD-LOCK ARISES" and "UFAWU PROPOSAL REJECTED AT MEET" were followed by a story which is not in accord with the facts.

The Native Brotherhood convention at Hazelton did hear a proposal for joint negotiations in respect to salmon prices presented on behalf of the UFAWU by the writer. A closed session of the convention on Thursday, April 30 considered our proposals. Later the same afternoon Chief William Scow, president, stated from the chair in an open session: "We met this morning to consider the UFAWU proposal. We were very glad to receive it and we discussed it very fully. Our convention adopted the following motion and we would ask Mr. Stevens to report it back to his organization: "That we negotiate with all parties concerned on salmon prices only."

The writer asked President Scow if the above motion signified joint negotiations with the UFAWU and if it meant the Brotherhood would be represented at our salmon price conference on May 8th in Vancouver. President Scow in reply said the Brotherhood would most certainly be represented at the conference.

We were not present at a closed session where our proposals were debated. However, as are much more inclined to accept President Scow's version of the proceedings than you led account. After all, your reporter was also excluded from the session in question.

George Mitchell Elected Chairman of CNIB Branch

George Mitchell was elected chairman of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind at the annual meeting here last night. He succeeds A. St. John.

It is the recognized social agency for services to the blind, both by the dominion and provincial governments and it operates under dominion charter. Regular reports are submitted to the departments, in connection with the work.

He said he has found the reports "invaluable." It was suggested that the incoming executive ask Miss Wrathall to attend the annual meeting of the CNIB in Vancouver, May 25.

Miss Wrathall read the annual report and then Mr. Madeley praised the work of treasurer Ted Boulter.

Peter Bird, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, who took over from Mr. Boulter, drew up the financial statement which showed a balance on hand at January 31 of $3,531.

Mr. Madeley extended thanks to the Job's Daughters for their excellent job in tagging, under the direction of Mrs. Alex Mitchell, and also mentioned the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club and Miss Jean Ramsay, who helped in addressing envelopes and mailing circular letters sent out by the branch.

He also mentioned the "wonderful co-operation" received from the Daily News and C.F.P.R.

"KING OF PAIN"

The evening was made both entertaining and educational by music adjudicator, Mrs. Mary Wood, of Victoria. She found it hard to criticize and gave a great deal of praise and encouragement to all participants.

The evening opened with "O Canada," played by the Alyansh Silver Harmonic Band, who were the first contestants of the evening. Mrs. Wood was particularly pleased with this fine band because of their real feeling for music and good harmony.

The Ladies' Rotary choir was given high praise by Mrs. Wood for "a very moving performance."

DIFFICULT PIECE
Next contestant, Ernest Morven, gave a very stirring performance of "Stars in a Velvety Sky" — an extremely difficult piece. Mrs. Wood encouraged the artist, telling him that with experience, he will develop fine skill and become a true artist.

The two Native choirs which followed were a "moving experience" to the adjudicator, who seemed particularly thrilled with the "soul" that the singers put into the music.

The Rotary mixed choir gave a beautiful performance and received the same praise that the ladies' choir did earlier. Mrs. Wood felt that the soprano section was a little shrill at times.

The evening closed with a performance by the Prince Rupert Shrine Band, who were in competition with the opening band and received almost as high praise. After the final adjudication this band closed with "The Queen."

Class 94 — 1. Alyansh Silver Harmonic Band, conducted by Henry MacMillan (a) The Sky Pilot Overture, 87; (b) Chicago Marine Band March, 86. 2. Prince Rupert Shrine Band, conducted by Peter Lien (a) Lustspiel Overture, 86; (b) Chorale, 86.

Class 15 — Rotary Ladies' Choir, led by Charles Balagno (1) Indian Mountain Song, 85; (2) Waltz of the Flowers, 84.

Class 103 — Cornet solo, by Ernest Morven of Alyansh (a) Stars in a Velvety Sky, 83.

Class 13 — Adult Church Choirs 1. Alyansh Church Choir, conducted by Hubert MacMillan (a) Come Let Us Join Our Cheerful Song (test piece) 85; (b) The Radiant Morn Hath Past, 84. 2. Kitwanoon-St. Mark's Choir, conducted by Gregory Rush (a) Come Let Us Join Our Cheerful Song, 80; (b) Hallelujah Chorus, 8.

Class 14 — Rotary Mixed Chorus, led by Charles Balagno (a) Triumph, Thanksgiving, 85; (b) Let Us Break Bread Together, 85.

High Fashion Colors Brighten Shower Curtains

By ELENORE LESTER

A neglected item in home decoration is the shower curtain. You jump merrily out of bed in the morning into a pleasant shower bath—only to find yourself surrounded by a depressing shower curtain.

Drapery fabrics, wallpapers and linoleum have all received the attention of fine designers in recent years, but the shower curtain has lagged behind with the old staple water waves on colors either dull or glaring.

At last, however, something is being done. The manufacturers of shower curtains have gone all out this season with new patterns, colors and materials.

High fashion shades like avocado, turquoise, French blue, warm brown, charcoal and lime are now available, as well as metallic shades of copper, bronze burnished gold, or antiqued silver. These are in frosty, opaque, or translucent plastics or silky taffetas.

The patterns are influenced by the abstract or humorous designs now found in fine fabrics. One curtain has ladylike kittens in a setting that suggests an eighteenth century drawing room. A taffeta striped curtain is derived from an old Mexican design, and other smart stylized patterns are offered in great variety.

Cleveland Fails in Bid To Stop Yankee Drive

NEW YORK.—Cleveland's first effort to knock New York Yankees out of the American League leadership has ended in a resounding failure.

The Tribe threw their Sunday punch at the Yankees Tuesday night as they started ace right-hander Bob Lemon, winner of three of his four previous starts. Results were disastrous.

The Yanks said a regretful goodbye to Lemon in the fourth inning as he headed for the showers after yielding the first six runs of an eight-run frame. The world champions went on to pound Lemon's successors for an 11-1 victory. Only a home run by reserve outfielder Wally Westlake saved the Indians from a shutout.

Bombers Sold To Businessmen

SEATTLE (AP)—The Seattle Hockey Club of the Western Hockey League has been purchased by a group of businessmen who will jump into the player market with cash and a desire to bring the city a winning team.

E. V. Gene Walby, Seattle merchant and president of the National Sporting Goods Association, is president of the club, which will retain the nickname of "Bombers."

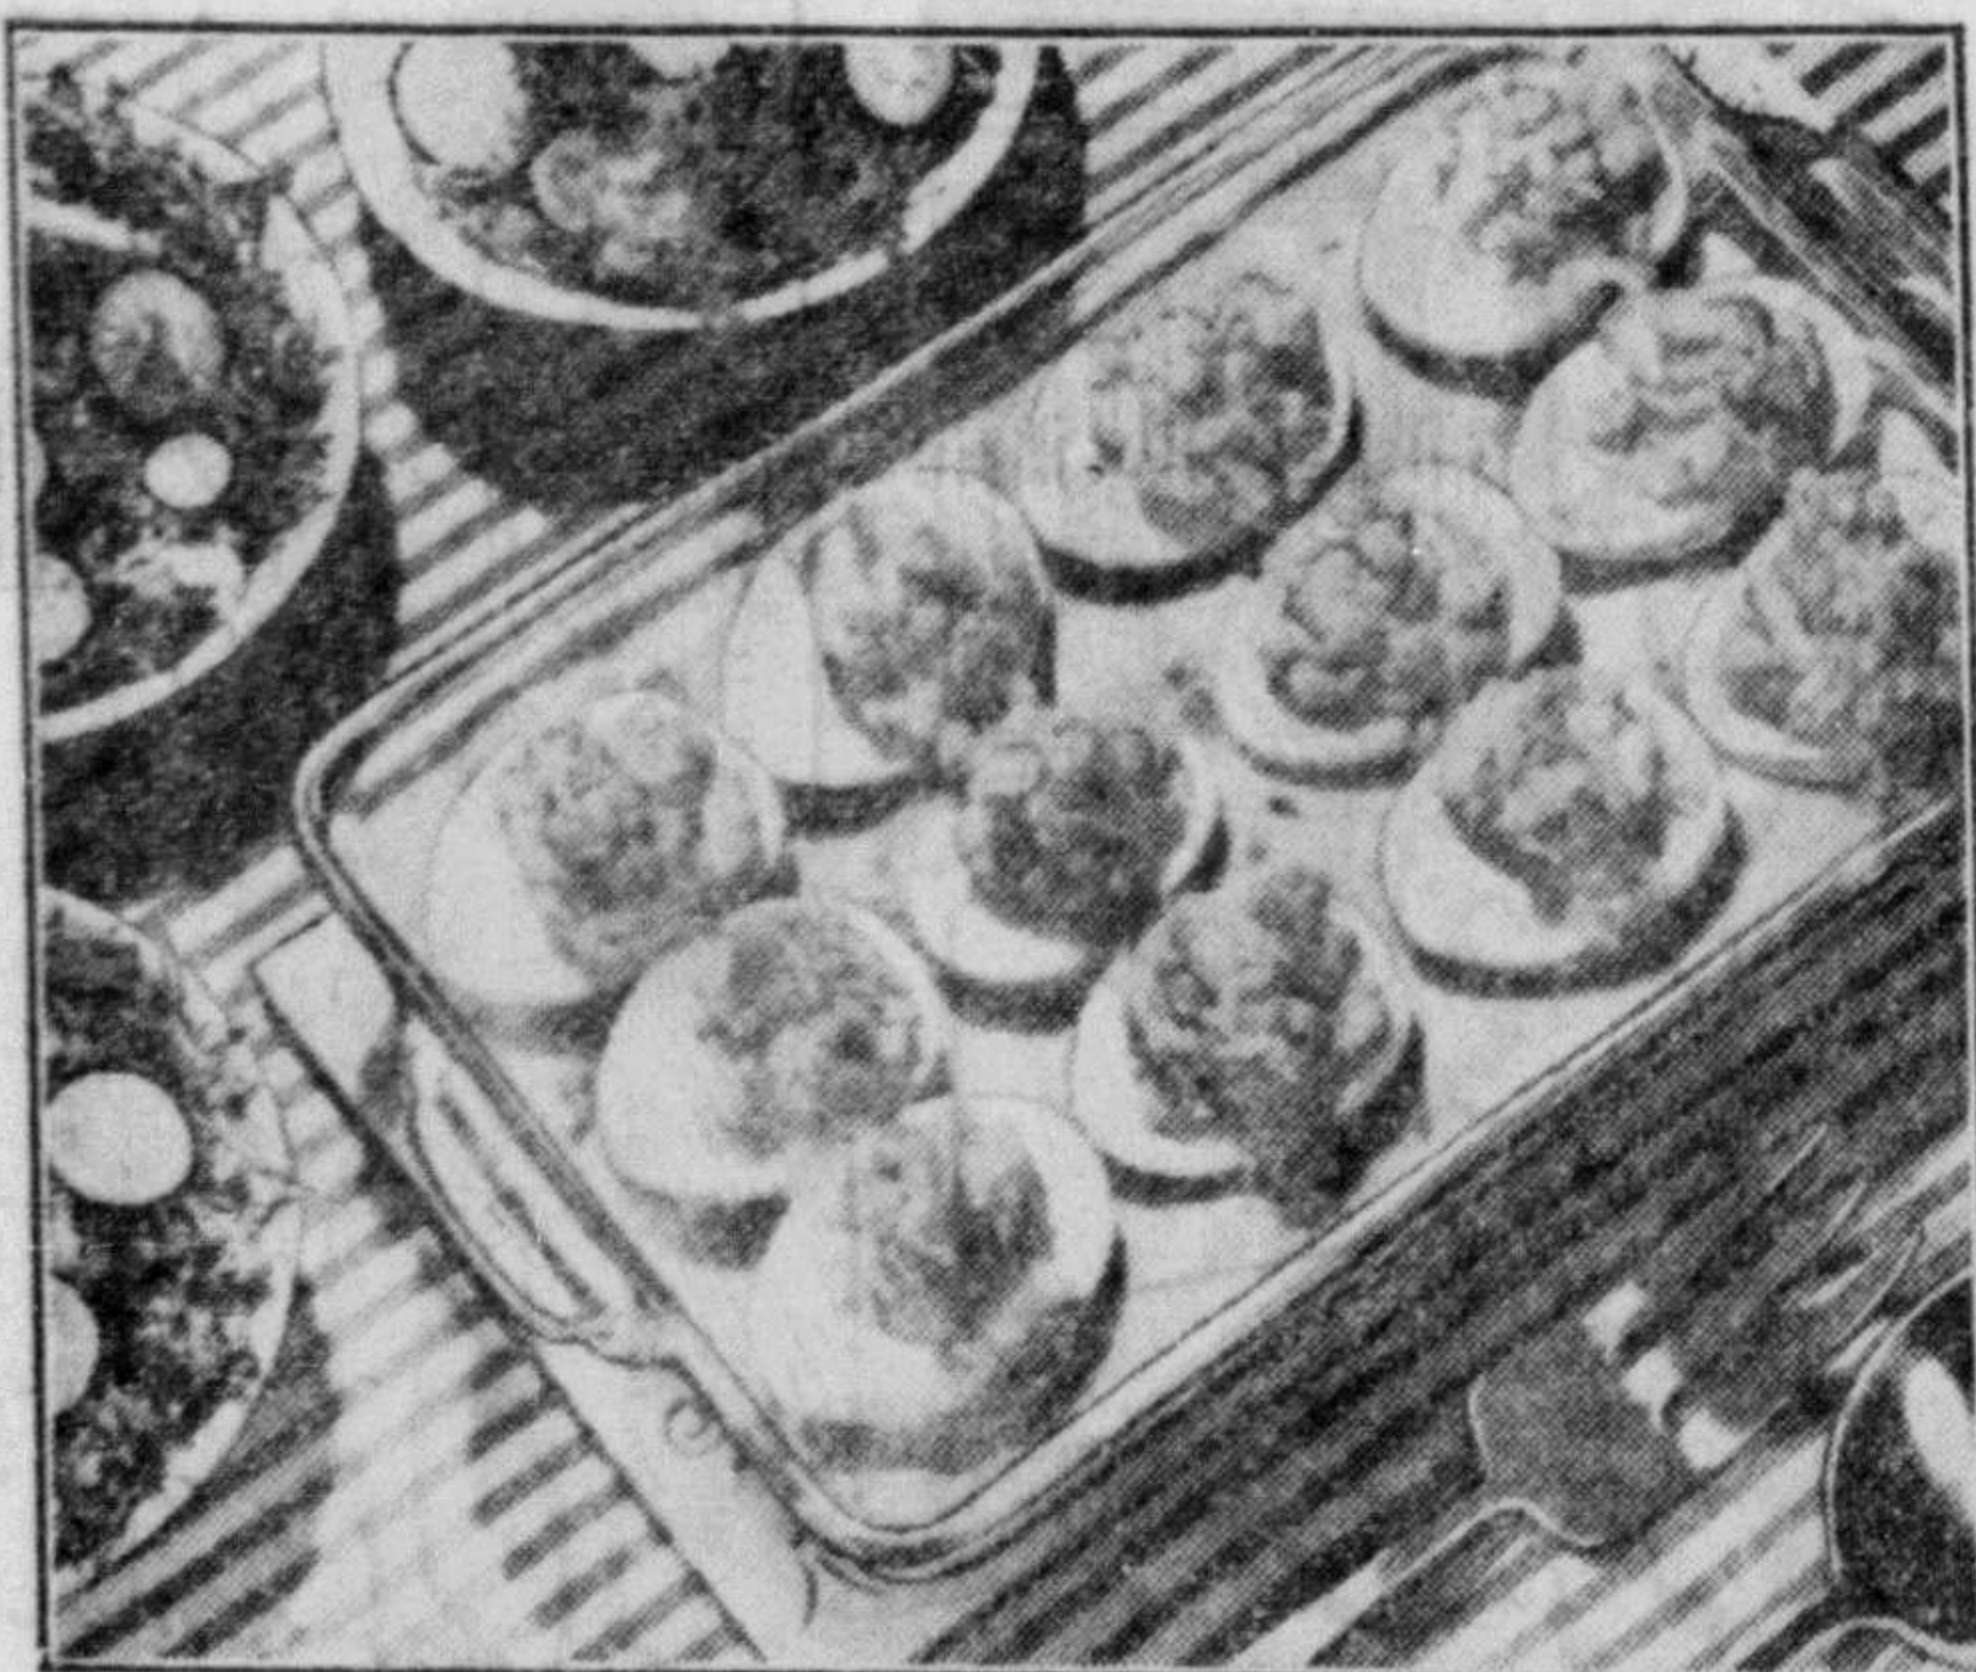

Frank Doten will remain with the club as director and general manager.

"The first thing we are going to do is buy as many topnotch players as we can," Walby said today.

"Doten and I are going east next month to the hockey meetings in Montreal and we hope to do a lot of business there."

Devil Eggs—And Bake In Mushroom Sauce

FOR lunch on a May day, spread the sunny atmosphere at your table. How? With peppy deviled eggs, baked in a sauce of cream of mushroom soup.

This is a luncheon dish you can practically fix while you prepare breakfast. That is, you can cook the eggs then, and later, devil the yolks with zippy seasonings. Some tips on the eggs will help to give best results. Have the water simmering instead of boiling as eggs cook. Otherwise they may be tough. Cool the cooked eggs quickly by running cold water over them; this helps prevent yolks turning dark. And cool eggs are easier to shell and to cut.

Eggs baked in a mushroom sauce, with a generous sprinkling of cheese, have real melt-in-your-mouth flavor. A crisp salad of greens, radishes and cucumber accompanies the eggs nicely. Last course, rhubarb betty with cream.

Baked Deviled Eggs With Mushroom Sauce

- 1 hard-cooked egg, cut in half lengthwise
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- Dash salt and pepper
- Dash Worcestershire sauce
- 1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup shredded, sharp process cheese

Blend egg yolks, mayonnaise, mustard, salt, pepper and Worcester-

Boom Operators Take Top Honors In CCC League

Top honors for the season were taken by the Boom Operators, who after winning the second half, defeated Woodbutchers to take first place in the 300 Club five pin bowling league.

The International Harvester trophy was presented to team captain Ernie Vaughan at the annual bowlers banquet by the Mill Production Superintendent Roy Evans.

Individual presentations were also made to each member of the team—Helen Vaughan, Mona Menard, Roger Menard, Jacob Dewagd and Cliff Nilson.

Following these Mr. Evans presented trophies to the top bowlers of the season. Ladies high average was received by Mildred Wide with 192; high three games, Dot Graham with 783, and high single, Clara Bellamy with 315.

In the men's section Helge Holkestad had the high average of 197, Rupe Goodlad high three of 783, and Jerry Estey, high single of 368.

SPECIAL PRIZES

Special additional prizes were given this year. To Ted Parker was a trophy for the champion "striker" with 243. Win Gardiner who managed to pick up all those odd "spares" to make a total of 296, and Carrol Brentzen who was the "hardest working bowler" of the year taking the prize for the most blows, 133. Carrol took her prize in good fun and who knows next year she may be in that "top" group.

When the presentations were complete, league president Dick Mills introduced Bill McKinnon who entertained the company, for a short time with his brief recitations. Roy Evans then led the group in a merry sing song which everyone thoroughly enjoyed.

Dancing followed and guests and bowlers alike enjoyed reminiscing about the season's many ups and downs, with their good bowling, lucky breaks, and tough luck.

Waiting Room Facilities At Station To Be Improved

Plans for improvement of waiting room facilities in the CNR depot have been submitted for inclusion in the system's 1954 budget. G. G. Withers, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce transportation committee, reported at the organization's monthly meeting.

Mr. Withers said that, if the plans are approved, greater use will be made of the depot's lower floor with the installation of new washrooms and other fixtures. Study of the situation was made following a complaint by the Associated Boards of Trade of Central B.C. that the waiting room facilities were "inadequate, poorly equipped and in most cases poorly maintained."

"In making our inspection we found both waiting rooms are kept under lock and key during the hours when passengers are not either boarding or departing from ships or trains arriving and leaving the city of Prince Rupert," Mr. Withers reported. "We found both rooms to be of ample size and to be in a clean and presentable condition."

"The purpose of the rooms being locked is to keep out undesirable characters as a safeguard to the travelling public."

It might also be mentioned that janitor service is provided, with the toilets, wash-basins and floors being cleaned daily.

Lou Felsenthal expressed the opinion that since the facilities had previously been found inaccessible and uninviting, the improvement should be commended.

Other members remarked that since the waiting rooms are used by only a small percentage of the travelling public, efforts should be made to introduce an additional arrangement whereby there would be shelter on both CP and CN docks for passengers getting in and out of cars.

The matter was referred back to committee for further study.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball players are normal young men with money in their pockets and much spare time on their hands while they are on the road, and we greatly fear they will go right on gambling among themselves no matter how many times Commissioner Ford Frick tells them he's against it.

They'll simply go underground while the heat is on and do their card playing exclusively in hotel rooms. They'll do no talking about it within earshot of their manager, so that he can look properly bewildered the next time a warning note pops up.

We have found no one yet who knows what set off the Frick blast against the friendly games of chance. We have heard no recent reports that stakes were beginning to run high on a particular club and that players were being hurt. Such things get around as a rule.

Frick must, however, have heard something. He travelled with ball teams too many years back in his reporting days to become worked up about quarter-limit poker and cent-a-point gin rummy, which are the normal games on most clubs. He knows they are fine, healthful pastimes and that no players who can count to 10 will be injured seriously in either.

There are some extremely fine card players in baseball, good enough to operate in the fastest company, and occasionally one of these will pluck his teammates. That is when the kind of trouble comes that can wreck a club. Frick has known it to happen.

The average game we have seen concerns only a set of young athletes who have just discovered poker and who feel certain they will win if they only stay in every pot to the bitter end. They get much fun and relaxation from the game.

It is our opinion that, as a class, baseball players do not compare either with golfers or tennis players in gambling skill or in willingness to risk important money. The average ball player is on the cautious and frugal side.

Seattle Bids For Davis Cup

SEATTLE (CP)—Davis Cup tennis matches between the United States and Japan will be played here in July if the Japanese are willing to compete on concrete courts, Victor Denny said today.

Denny, president of the Pacific Northwest Tennis Association, said Alrick H. Man, Jr., chairman of the Davis Cup committee, would confer soon with the Japanese on the subject.

Should the Oriental team prefer grass courts, said Denny, "we hope the matches will go to Vancouver, B.C." If the vote is for clay, the cup round probably will be decided elsewhere than the Pacific Coast.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

His Skillful Play, Not Luck, Won for Mr. Masters

Mr. Champion considered his hand too strong for a double raise of his partner's spade bid. He decided to "wait" with a bid of two clubs until he found out more about Mr. Masters' holding.

Mr. Masters' second bid, a jump to three no trump, showed a hand well above a minimum opening and, with that information, Mr. Champion checked on aces and finally put the hand in six spades. There was a possible loser in hearts and another in clubs. Mr. Masters took 12 tricks in a manner which amazed his faithful kibitzers, Mr. New and Mr. Muzzy. The opening lead was a small diamond and Mr. Abel's queen fell to the ace. After taking three rounds of trumps, Mr. Masters lost no time in laying down the ace and king of hearts, dropping the doubton quoen. "Such luck," said Mr. Muzzy, shaking his head. Of course, he would have missed the jack of hearts, losing to the queen. He also would have had to lose a club trick for down one.

Scow to the effect that the Brotherhood because of its Christian principles and Christian ideals cannot link itself with other organizations. We heard no such statement from the president or any other officer of the Brotherhood either during or since the convention. Therefore we must take it with a very heavy dose of salts. In the first place, since reading your misleading story, the writer has personally checked with delegates from the convention, including a member of the resolutions committee. In every instance the delegates are of the firm opinion that the Brotherhood will work closely with the UFAWU during salmon price negotiations this year. Your version is news to them and is being received as another brazen attempt to split and divide the fishermen rather than as accurate journalism. Secondly, it is difficult to find anything in Christ's teachings which would prevent Christians from linking themselves with their fellowmen to advance the common welfare. On the contrary Christ taught men to love their neighbours and to work together in unity for the good of all.

In conclusion may we point out that the only people who stand to gain from divisions between the UFAWU and the Brotherhood are the owners of the fishing companies. Their policy of "Divide and Rule" is well known to the fishermen who suffered heavily through "separate bargaining" during the "hungry thirties." The overwhelming majority of fishermen, and this includes the majority of native fishermen, realize that unity is an absolute necessity in order to obtain decent minimum prices.

HOMER STEVENS,
 General Secretary-Treasurer, United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union.

(The Daily News quoted President Scow as saying: "We will co-operate with any organization only in salmon price agreements." This is substantially the same as Mr. Stevens' quotation and by no stretch of the imagination can be interpreted as acceptance of the UFAWU's three-point proposal calling for a signed pledge of co-operation. Chief Scow's later statement was made to our reporter personally and was quoted accurately. Vancouver papers, each with its own reporter present, carried similar reports of the convention.—Editor.)

Historical Abbey Being Reconstructed On Same Spot Where it Was Demolished

By JAMES NORRIS

ROME (Reuters) — Montecassino Abbey, which 400 tons of Allied bombs reduced to rubble in 1944, is rising again and by the end of 1955 will show no scars.

It is being rebuilt on the same spot where at various times during its history it has been pillaged, demolished by earthquake and at last completely destroyed by aerial and artillery bombardment.

Italy's ministry of public works has already spent more than 2,000,000,000 lire, about $3,220,000, on the first seven stages of the reconstruction, and will spend another estimated 1,000,000,000 lire, about $1,610,000, on the last three stages.

Some 400 workmen and scores of craftsmen are working on the project, under the direction of an architect who is himself a Benedictine monk, Don Angelo Pantoni.

Although the abbey as an institution is 1,400 years old, none of the buildings was of earlier date than the sixteenth century.

The oldest art relic was the great bronze door of the cathedral church which was forged in Constantinople in 1066. It survived the bombardment. Books and archives were sent to the "open city" of Rome for safe keeping during the war, but many frescoes and paintings were destroyed. All that was left was the crypt and the tomb of St. Benedict who founded the abbey in 529 A.D., and his sister St. Scholastica.

★ SCREEN FLASHES ★

Joseph Cotten, who co-stars with Marilyn Monroe and Jean Peters in "Niagara," Twentieth Century-Fox's suspense drama opening tomorrow at the Totem Theatre, celebrated 23 years of movie stardom with his role in the picture.

As the insanely jealous husband of Miss Monroe in the story, he is at one and the same time hero and villain. Somewhat unusual for a star, he wore a shoddy wardrobe believed to be the least expensive that any star has worn in years.

"I thought I was in for an easy time when I donned a 99-cent canvas hat, shabby shoes, a torn T-shirt and wornout gray flannel trousers," Cotten explained, "but I didn't reckon with the heavy mist and spray which hangs constantly over and around Niagara Falls where we filmed all the exterior scenes for the picture."

"I came out of every scene drenched and had to change into dry clothes. That made it necessary for the wardrobe men to make up ten sets of duplicate clothing, and my outfit became as expensive for the studio as well-cut business suits and evening clothes would have been. I changed clothes so often that I have a new-found sympathy for strip-tease artists."

When not changing clothes, Cotten became an unofficial researcher for the troupe of actors who spent a month in and around the Falls filming "Niagara" and regaled Miss Monroe and Miss Peters with historical lore about this natural wonder of the world.

The Twentieth Century-Fox company added to the history of the falls by erecting a ten-unit

Spokesman Denies Secret Jet Developments Leak to Russia

LONDON (AP)—A Labor member charged today that Britain's secret jet developments leak to Russia within a month and quickly turn up in MIG fighters. A government spokesman denied it.

George Wigg said in the House of Commons the British fighters were built into MIG fighters attacking United Nations forces in Korea. Supply Minister Duncan Sandys denied the charge. He said "under the present administration we take good care to see that our secrets are not passed over to the Soviet government."

Sandys countered by charging that the former Labor government's sale of Nene jets to Rus-

U.S. Jeeps To Be Used By Canadians

IN KOREA — Canadian units here are scheduled to receive the United States army's new-style jeeps and 2½-ton trucks, the 25th Canadian infantry brigade has been informed.

Eighth Army headquarters has told the brigade that it will be "phased into" the change-over from old to new-style vehicles as part of the Korea theatre's over-all program.

Actual switch is expected to take place during the summer, and should be completed by early autumn, brigade staff officers say.

The turned-in vehicles, after reconconditioning in U.S. Army workshops in Japan, will be re-issued to Korean Army units. For certain types of equipment, and rations, the Canadians here have been in the American pipeline. It was not considered practicable or economical, when the force was set up in 1950, to establish a Canadian pipeline for so small a formation.

The problem was to maintain not only a flow of vehicles to replace those knocked out in action or damaged in accidents, but parts to service those in operation.

It was almost a foregone conclusion, when the theatre change-over was decided, that the Canadians, too, would make the switch.

The new jeep has many refinements suggestive of civilian vehicles, a longer wheel-base affording more foot room in the rear, and a moulded hood that gives it a dressier look.

Major difference in the truck is that it is hydraulically driven, has a more comfortable cab for the driver, and also is generally better looking.

The theatre program is to effect the switch from the base forward. During the last two months most base and lines-of-communications units have drawn theirs.

Ottawa Maps Giant 5-Year Health Program

OTTAWA — The federal government has mapped out a $212,000,000 health spending program for the next five years, including a three-way boost and aid to disabled persons and mothers and their babies and to provide increased X-ray and other laboratory facilities for the sick.

The three-fold expansion was announced by Health Minister Martin as he initiated the Commons debate on health department estimates.

Spokesmen for the CCF suggested the government should have gone farther, bringing in national health insurance.

Coal Deposits To Be Probed

VICTORIA — The Victoria Times said in a newspaper story Monday that interests in the United States are planning an "extensive examination of coal deposits in southeastern British Columbia and Alberta."

The story said a government source said coal would be used for steam generated electricity to make up for water shortage for electrical power generation in the Pacific northwest United States.
