Rupert Secreds To Nominate Candidate Here Next Monday

Rupert Social Credit Party will hold its nominating convention here next Monday, it is announced today by Art Murray, party organizer for the district.

A Social Credit candidate in last year's election campaign during which he gained his way to popularity by unorthodox-type meetings and outdoor rallies, Mr. Murray said he would not enter the race this year.

A likely candidate rumored to be nominated, however, is Bill Murray, well-known city hotel proprietor, (no relation to Art.)

Whether the Social Credit will name a candidate for the Atlin riding is not certain, although the party has indicated it will contest every seat in the June 9 provincial election.

Art Murray said at least two Social Credit ministers—including Premier W. A. C. Bennett—will speak here during the election campaign.

Wounded UN Soldier Released By Reds After Talks Conclude

Prisoner-Exchange Agreement Reached

PANMUNJOM, Korea.—An agreement for exchange of sick and wounded prisoners-of-war between United Nations forces and Chinese Communists was agreed to in principle at the truce meeting last night.

Almost immediately after the business-like truce talks broke up, the first wounded UN prisoner was released to his unit.

A badly-wounded marine was rescued from no-man's land after Chinese Communist soldiers carried him part of the way to UN lines and called for U.S. marines to come and get him.

Four marines and a chaplain picked up the wounded Puerto Rican while a squad of Communist soldiers stood nearby.

While the UN terms of the prisoner exchange were agreed to in principle by the Communists, the actual mechanics still must be worked out. But these are only minor disagreements and allied officers said they anticipated no trouble in reaching a quick settlement.

The Reds said they would report within the next day or so how many disabled prisoners they would deliver to Panmunjom for exchange, which could start within a week after the plans were completed. Civilian war internees will be included.

The Communists agreed to exchange of all sick and wounded prisoners including those with minor disabilities. This means direct repatriation to homelands of all prisoners, including those who, under the Geneva Convention of 1949, would otherwise be sent to neutral countries.

Both sides will report the number of sick and wounded to be traded, and break the figure down by nationality.

Communists made only one reservation:

"We reserve the right to ask for accommodation in a neutral country of those prisoners-of-war in custody of your side who will not be directly repatriated."

This puzzled allied negotiators, since it already had been agreed to by-pass Article 110 of the Geneva Convention, which assigns to a neutral country prisoners with minor wounds who might be able to fight again within a year.

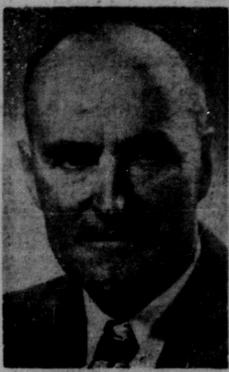

The UN holds 132,000 Red prisoners. About 51,000 have said they don't want to go back home. The Reds said last December 18 they hold 3,198 Americans, about 1,000 British and Commonwealth soldiers, and some 9,000 South Koreans.

At Washington, President Eisenhower said today that even if peace comes in Korea "our men and those of our allies will have to stay in that region quite a while."

Eisenhower made the statement in a brief informal talk at the annual meeting of the United Defence Fund, Inc.

His suggestion that peace seems a possibility came atop an earlier White House description of the United Nations Communist agreement on repatriation of sick and wounded prisoners as "encouraging."

The President added at the meeting that the post-armistice period would be a "trying period."

E. T. Kenney Announces Retirement

E. T. Kenney, lands and forest minister in the previous Liberal government, is retiring after 20 years in the B.C. Legislature.

Mr. Kenney said in Vancouver today that he has wired the Liberal Association in the northern constituency of Skeena that he will not run this year.

He has represented Skeena since 1933 in 24 sessions of the legislature.

Mr. Kenney, 65, was leader of the six-member Liberal group in the last legislature.

Purchase of two training aircraft will be made as soon as possible.

Russians Fire Key Communist Party Official

By The Canadian Press

MOSCOW.—The Russians have fired a key Communist party official for failing to detect the falsity of the "doctors' plot" charges, Pravda announced today.

He is Semyon Ignatiev, member of the party's five-man secretariat.

The official party newspaper said Ignatiev, who was given the secretariat post only last month, had been "released from his duties."

Pravda disclosed Monday that he had headed the security ministry during the time when the charges against 15 doctors were being prepared.

Western observers speculated that the attack on such a ranking leader might indicate a coming purge within the Kremlin.

The government announced last Friday that the doctors had been released after investigation provide charges against them were false.

They had been accused of killing two Soviet leaders and plotting to murder several others by faulty treatment.

Russia Asks U.S. Drop Germ Warfare Probe

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Russia appealed to the United States today to drop its impartial investigation of Communist charges that American troops waged germ warfare in Korea.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin told the 60-nation UN Political Committee there is "no need for the committee to consider details" of the charges now.

He urged instead that the U.S. ratify the Geneva Convention against bacteriological warfare and indicated such action would close the incident as far as Russia was concerned.

He expressed "surprise tinged with regret" that the U.S. reacted so vigorously against the charges, briefly reviewed Red "evidence" supporting the charges in one of the shortest speeches the Soviet Union ever made on a major international issue, and then called for an end of committee discussion on the subject.

Zorin added: "If the U.S. pressed the proposal, the Soviet Union cannot agree to an impartial investigation since the U.S. has opposed the presence at the UN of Communist Chinese and North Korean authorities to present their side of the case."

Sinclair Won't Seek B.C. Post

VANCOUVER.—Last minute move to draft Fisheries Minister James Sinclair as provincial leader of the Liberal Party failed Monday.

A leader to succeed former Premier Byron Johnson will be chosen at the party convention here Wednesday.

"No," said Mr. Sinclair when asked if he would be a candidate for leadership. "My field is not provincial politics."

"I am happy in the federal field, not that I am uninterested in the provincial field."

Mr. Sinclair represents Coast-Capilano riding in parliament.

Arthur Laing, another Federal MP whose name has been prominently mentioned as a possible provincial leader has been silent.

The member of parliament for Vancouver South, frequently mentioned as a candidate for the B.C. Liberal leadership, returned from Ottawa last Saturday.

But he declined to say whether he would stand for the post.

Duke Available For Any Post

NEW YORK (CP)—The Duke of Windsor said today he is still available—as always—for a post in the British government, but no such assignment is in sight.

"I was always available and I am still available," the Duke said in an interview on his return from England where he attended the funeral of his mother, Queen Mary.

Since her death there has been speculation he might return to England to live or to take a government job. However, he said there has been no change in his plans.

Candy Company Fire Claims Veteran Fireman

BRANDON.—A smoke-filled basement claimed the life of a Brandon fireman Monday as flames gutted one of the city's major business blocks.

Frederick J. Brown, 58, veteran of the brigade, entered the building shortly after the blaze was discovered and was apparently overcome by smoke, police said.

Preliminary estimates placed damage to the building owned by the Olympia Candy Company at $250,000.

Rail Workers Wages Cut

WASHINGTON.—Falling retail prices clipped three cents an hour from the pay cheques of 1,300,000 rail workers.

The government announced on February 15 its old style consumer price index stood at 188.6 per cent of the 1935-1939 average, enough of a drop in the cost of living from last November to assure a three-cent hourly wage reduction.

Rail wages are adjusted each three months to correspond to the rising or falling of living costs.

The three cent pay cut means a payroll saving for carriers estimated at $7,500,000 a month.

Swedish Ship Captain Jailed

CANAKKALE, Turkey.—A Swedish ship captain has been jailed on charges of "at least partial" responsibility in connection with the sinking of the Turkish submarine Dumluinar which went down with the loss of 99 lives after a collision Saturday in the Dardanelles.

The captain is Oscar Lorentzon, skipper of the Swedish steamer Habiand, which collided with the Dumluinar.

Vigil For Son Reported Lost During War Proves Fruitless

LONDON (Reuters)—A 70-year-old Canadian stood under the clock at King's Cross station on Easter Sunday for several hours.

As darkness fell, he took one last look around, then walked sadly away.

Grey-haired John Sutherland, a cement manufacturer from Vancouver, has done this every Easter for five years.

For on Easter Sunday, 1948, at 2:15 p.m., standing on this same spot, Sutherland believes he saw his lost son—Flt. Sgt. Wilfred Sutherland, reported missing, presumed dead, when his Stirling bomber was shot down over the Netherlands in 1943.

"He was only six feet away," the father said. "He looked at me but clearly did not recognize me and hurried off towards the ticket office. I was so startled I could not move. And when I went after him he had gone."

In the hope that his son will return to this spot, Sutherland comes over every year from Canada for a month's stay and spends hours at the station.

"I know my son is alive," he said. "I think he is suffering from loss of memory. But one day I know I'll find him. He would be 35 now."

"I'll come back next year and the year after that... I'll never give up."

An independent daily newspaper devoted to the upbuilding of Prince Rupert and Northern and Central British Columbia.

An Airport Is Overdue

A DEFINITE measure of the growing importance of air transportation for the northwest area is seen in the fact that last year additional flights in this general region accounted for most of the increase of eight per cent in aircraft miles flown in Canada by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

The Canadian Pacific annual report explains that operations were increased "to meet demands arising out of the quickening development of natural resources in British Columbia and the Yukon."

It is to the credit of CPAL that its management has been alive to the requirements of this country and has done its best to meet them in spite of such disadvantages as the absence of an airport at Prince Rupert.

Far from doing the minimum necessary to get by, however, CPAL has steadily built up the service and lately replaced its Dakotas with fast Consolidated Vultee Convairs.

The efforts of CPAL and other airlines to handle the traffic adequately cannot escape the attention of Ottawa authorities. No matter what improvements are made in other transportation services, the northwest will continue to need corresponding modernization of its facilities for air travel.

An airport here will be a big step in the right direction and one which, in fact, is already overdue. At present, for example, we must bear the mortification of being so poorly prepared for air travel that the CPAL "flight" between here and Terrace on the run to Prince George is actually made by limousine.

In any case, it is gratifying to know that plans are in hand for the airport in question. It is hoped that these will materialize soon and that the time will come when we can with amusement look back on the present as a bad dream in which no one loved or even remembered us.

Scripture Passage for Today

"I am he that liveth, and was dead." Rev. 1:18

OTTAWA DIARY By NORMAN M. MACLEOD

A fair percentage of the personal correspondence that lands on the desks of the M.P.'s these days concerns the recent changes in Soviet policy. Individuals in all parts of the nation are both curious and concerned to know the significance that should be attached to the change in the Moscow party line.

The MP's wished they knew. They would like to be able to answer their correspondents in definite terms and preferably in terms of authoritative re-assurance. It would give them a warming feeling to be able to tell their constituents that the end is in sight of both the hot war in Korea and the cold war on the diplomatic front.

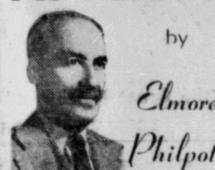

They hope that's the case. There's at least one theory that's fairly widely held in diplomatic circles here which supports such a view.

economic support as well as military aid. Furthermore, the attitude of the Churchill government obviously may be taken as typical of the policy which Tito may expect from the Western allies generally.

That being the case, it should only be a matter of months at most before conditions in Jugoslavia commence to show rapid improvement. But any great advance in living standards in the Tito domain could be depended upon to feed discontent in the entire company of Russian satellite nations, if not in the Soviet Union itself.

This explanation of the Russian change in attitude is only a theory. But diplomatic circles that are as well informed as limited Russian information sources make possible, believe that it is a theory which is close to fact.

As I See It

North Pole of Peace

THE PAST few weeks have produced greater hope of peace than for years past.

The best news of all, is that the big powers have unanimously agreed on a practical Swedish peacemaker as the new Secretary General of UN. There is only one thing against him—his name is so hard to spell—Dag Hammarskjöld.

I have reasoned, ever since Malenkov made his sensational peace gesture to the west, that the acid test of Russian sincerity would be on UN.

If she wanted to keep the world all snarled up she would keep the UN snarled up—and the chance to do that would be on the election of the Secretary-General. But if she was willing really to make the UN work, as it was supposed to work, then she would agree to a really good man as Secretary General.

IN OUR own lifetime we have had striking proof of the profound truths taught by the Prince of Peace himself, in his sermon on the mount.

Gandhi the modern Wise Man from the East demonstrated better than anybody who previously lived, that the positive principles of social action taught by Jesus were not just pious platitudes, but keys to titanic human progress.

Later, in the case of India and Sweden, we have proof of the truth of the saying "Blessed are the peacemakers." Together they form a Peace Axis.

India and Sweden have annoyed some short-sighted power-politicians by refusing to line up, in advance, with either bloc. Had they done so—would the world be nearer to possible peace than it is? Or would the atomic war be on, now?

I cannot see how any realist can miss the truth. Had there been no India and no Sweden in the mediating position it would have been a great deal more difficult to get the world as close to peace, as it is.

THE HISTORY of Sweden as a nation seems to me as inspiring as the life story of Gandhi.

In the case of Gandhi, you can actually trace the growth of a great soul. You can see how one who began as a quite ordinary man let the power of God work in and through his heart. You can see him making small social victories, by his principle of Satyagraha. "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." Saint Paul said it could be done—but Gandhi actually did it.

You see him in the end scoring one of the mightiest political triumphs in all history—and doing it in such a way that not a single drop of blood was shed, by his will or wish.

SWEDEN seems to me to demonstrate national political evolution. The forefathers of the Swedes were as fierce and blood-careless as our own. Like ours, they grabbed what they could. Sweden was once a mighty imperial power—that is a nation governing large areas in other countries, held by sheer force.

But Sweden was one of the very first of modern nations to see the futility and iniquity of that. Sweden abandoned war "as an instrument of national policy long before that phrase was loosely bandied about. She did it willingly. Perhaps the last step on to the firm path of peace was when a family war threatened between the Swedes and their kinsmen the Norwegians. Some call it "the war that never came off." For farmers on both sides of the border made a secret pact "We won't fight. And we simply won't march over the border to invade the other fellow's land."

SWEDEN and India today are like the north and south poles of peace. This hell-bent, war-bent world might still be saved by such practical peacemakers.

American Soldiers May Declare They Don't Want To Return Home

WASHINGTON (AP)—Communist "brain washers" may have so twisted the minds of some American soldiers captured in Korea that after the Korean war ends they will publicly declare they do not want to come home.

This possibility is receiving increasingly serious study in official quarters here as prospects brighten for actual agreement on an armistice.

It has been a possibility all along that the Reds would hold back some United Nations soldiers as a propaganda counter to the fact that about 38,000 prisoners held by the UN side are said to have stated they would resist repatriation to Red China or North Korea.

This has been the big stumbling block to a truce agreement, because the UN powers have refused to agree to forcible repatriation. In the current Soviet peace offensive, Chinese and North Korean Reds have recently indicated they might agree to some voluntary repatriation plan.

The new possibility which now emerges from authoritative studies of Communist "brain washing" as practised in China is that some Americans—estimated as high as 100 or more—may be forced into a frame of mind in which they will publicly assert a preference for Red rule.

Two events have impressed authorities here with what they consider the startling, almost unbelievable accomplishments of the Reds with techniques for removing from men's minds their established beliefs and causing them to say things which the Reds want them to say. The best expert opinion available to the government is understood to hold that neither physical torture nor drugs is employed.

One of the events is the testimony by three American airmen who "confessed" to carrying on germ warfare against the Communists. Their "confession" was filmed by the Reds and distributed by Communist propagandists. A copy of the film came into the hands of the United States government.

Authorities who have seen it are impressed with the detailed story told by the airmen, all of which has been described as having not one word of truth in it. Yet the men gave no evidence of being under compulsion or of struggling with any mental conflict.

Another incident is the story told by a returned Presbyterian missionary, John D. Hayes, who was arrested by the Chinese Reds in 1951, subjected to "brain washing" and caused to "confess" as a "spy."

Hayes not only disclosed his experiences with authorities, but put them on the record in a copy-righted interview with the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

In the arduous process of questioning which he underwent during much of his 10 months in jail, Hayes reported that his mind finally began "to find it difficult to distinguish between what the court was suggested as having happened and what one had known to be the facts."

His experience, Hayes related, threw light on the "confessions" made by European church leaders and others by demonstrating "that their minds have been brought by sheer mental torture to such a condition that they think they are saying the truth."

INCOME TAX QUIZ

Q If a taxpayer received in 1952 a single lump-sum payment from an approved Pension Plan in full settlement of his claims under the plan, must the amount be reported as income in that year?

A. The taxpayer has the option either of including such lump-sum payment as income in the year in which he received it or of paying a special tax on the payment at his average effective rate of tax for the last year of employment preceding the tax year and the two years preceding that year. In many cases it is advantageous to elect to pay the special tax.

Q Are tips taxable?

A. Yes. Tips must be reported in your income tax return.

Q I live a considerable distance from my job. May I deduct bus fares and other transportation expenses in going to and from work?

A. No. Payments of this nature are personal expenses.

Q Am I required to report my Reserve Army pay in my income tax return?

A. Yes. Reserve Army pay and allowances must be included in your income tax return in all cases except where the member has been called out on Continuous Duty. Members of the Reserve forces who are called out on Continuous Duty are taxable as if in the regular or active forces and would therefore not be required to file a return in respect of service pay and allowances.

Q I am regularly employed and, in addition, I had part-time work after regular hours, for which I received wages. Is the income from such part-time work required to be reported in my income tax return?

A. Yes. You must report wages or salary from all sources.

Q Must I include the value of free board and lodgings provided by my employer?

A. Yes. The value of free board and lodgings constitute part of your income for the year.

Q I am a Commuter living in Canada earning my living as a factory worker in the United States. Is it necessary that I file a Canadian income tax return?

A. Yes. It is necessary to file a Canadian income tax return. United States income tax paid by you may be claimed as a credit against your Canadian tax. U.S. tax receipts or other evidence of payment of U.S. tax should be filed with your Canadian return.

CLEAN UP THE LOTS

The Editor, The Daily News: What is the matter with labor and its leaders in this town? How can the people who have the most to gain be content to live in this broken-down community and do nothing about it?

Just what is labor after in this town? Health, happiness and the pursuit of wealth, or just the latter?

They say but they do not—it would do well for some of these men to once more get out their Bible and let God lead them for a change. It is most certain the Lord never advocated they should live in such dismal surroundings and do nothing about it.

How about a little voluntary labor to clear up the brush-covered lots, etc. Union rules can be relaxed enough for that.

It makes me wonder just what union leaders are really interested in.

Many Youngsters Attend Port Edward Cub 'Parley'

A large turnout of youngsters and many parents attended the Port Edward Cub Pack "parley" held at the community hall for fun and frolic at the generally quiet fishing centre fronting Porpoise Harbor.

A smart group of Cubs greeted F. E. Anfield, district commissioner of scouting, who presented the pack with a real wolf head as their totem.

RCMP, the cub master, and his assistant, Stu Shelly, "who are doing a grand job with the boys."

Six new clubs were invested and given a warm welcome into the pack by fellow members. Movies, shown through the courtesy of the RCMP, were followed by a banquet dinner. The event was also attended by Jack Davies, chairman of the group committee, and Mrs. Davies. A letter was read expressing gratitude on behalf of the Japanese population at Port Edward for the "good work that is being done by scouting in the district."

In addressing the crowd at the hall, Mr. Anfield paid tribute to the splendid service to the com-

Teen Age Club Annual Ball On Tonight at Civic Centre

For the past six months the Civic Centre Teen Club has been successfully holding bi-monthly Saturday night dances at the Civic Centre.

They have become increasingly popular. So much so that due to the large attendance the dances are now being held in the small gymnasium instead of the common lounge as they were in the beginning.

Purpose of these dances is to provide entertaining get-togethers for the young people, both students and those who are now out of school. So far the plan has been carried out with unusual success.

The dances have been in charge of Teen Club executive members, Bill Becker, Pat Hill, Jean Smurthwaite, Bill Tipton, Eugene Nelson and Bob Pederson.

Fred Jones, secretary manager of the Civic Centre, said today: "The success of any organization such as the Teen Club depends greatly on the participation of the members as well as enjoyable activities. Actually the latter depends on the co-operative efforts of the former. The success, and they have been successful, of the Teen Club has fallen on a few. This indicates that the club has a long way to go. Although this route will not be an easy one it can only be achieved if more teens put their efforts to club development."

Ben Svenson, popular sponsor of the club has worked hard with the executive to make the dances a success.

"It has been a real pleasure to work with the Teen Age Club and I would like to thank those of the executive for the work that they have done as it would be impossible to sponsor the club without such help."

Tonight the club is holding its second annual Easter Ball in the Civic Centre Auditorium. An invitation is extended to all teachers and parents to come and enjoy the fun with the young people.

IODE Members Honor Queen At Meetings

The monthly meeting of the Queen Mary Chapter IODE was held in the ladies' lounge at the Civic Centre under the chairmanship of Mrs. G. W. Graham, first vice-regent.

The members stood two minutes in silence in tribute to the late Queen Mary. An interesting article on the "Life of Queen Elizabeth II" was read as Empire study.

Queen Mary Chapter decided to send children's books and magazines to the Inverness School.

A donation was sent to the "fire fund" for those who lost their belongings in a recent fire. Members were asked to wear a purple ribbon with their badges until the period of mourning for Queen Mary is over.

The annual church parade is to be held May 31. Mrs. F. Hill and Mrs. J. McRae offered to canvass for the Cancer Society from Queen Mary Chapter.

Final arrangements were made for the daffodil tea to be held April 22 at the Civic Centre. A minute's silence also was observed at the monthly meeting of the Cambrial Chapter, IODE.

Regent Mrs. G. P. Lyons was in the chair. Purple ribbons were distributed to be worn during the month of mourning.

A donation was sent to the Dental Clinic and members asked to help in the coming cancer drive.

Plans were completed for the "spring bonnet" tea to be held in the Civic Centre April 30. A special colored film on beauty culture will be shown and free samples will be given each guest.

Mrs. John Tasman will attend the IODE convention in Victoria as Cambrial delegate. The Empire Day program was discussed and members will visit the city schools on that day.

The door prize was won by Mrs. J. Tasman. Refreshments were served by Betty Patterson, Helen Stokoe and Evie Rivett.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

In India, scientists have worked out a way to cook food by sun-power. A polished aluminum bowl suspended above a cooking pot directs the sun's rays to a mirror, which reflects the heat to the bottom of the pot. It sounds a bit complicated to us—but the fact is that the solar cooker turns out a meal as fast as a 300-watt electric stove.

It's just one more indication that food and aluminum go together—in containers, utensils, foil and in the equipment used by the dairying and food processing industries. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

WE WERE BROKE...

BUT WE TACKED A COLLEGE DEGREE RIGHT INTO OUR BUDGET-PLAN

Well, I simply mean that young Doug is going to get what I've always missed. I'd have a better job in my company today if my family had been able to give me a college education.

It happened a year ago. Maisie and I had just about given up the idea as hopeless. Doug had just started high school, which meant a good deal of expense, and then he fell desperately ill with rheumatic fever. Our debts had us crippled.

Then one day, when I was cashing my pay-check at the bank, I happened to get into conversation with the Accountant—chap called Henry Baldwin who goes to our church... and before I knew it I was pouring out my troubles.

He asked me a few questions about my job, my salary... if I had any securities or life insurance. I told him I had no bonds left, but did have a bit of insurance I took out when we got married.

Pretty soon—to my surprise—Baldwin came up with what seemed like a solution to my immediate problem—how to meet my pressing bills. Something I'd never thought of—my 15-year old insurance policy had quite a good cash surrender value, which Baldwin said was first-class security for a personal loan.

"But how am I going to pay off a loan?" I asked. "We seem to need every cent I earn just to make ends meet."

"You can probably do better than that, I think... if you really want to," said Baldwin. "But," he added, "you've got to have a real budget-plan to do it."

Next thing I knew he was telling me how to go about it. Told me some things about money management I'd never thought of before... and he gave me one of the bank's booklets called "Personal Planning" outlining his ideas in detail.

Next day, Maisie and I pulled out of the doldrums for the first time in months. Hopefully, we went to the B of M together and saw Henry Baldwin. Got a $300 loan fixed up, and right then and there opened a joint account.

Boy, that account's been working overtime ever since... first paying bills with the loan we got, and then getting regular deposits—not just to pay off the loan, but to really save money.

We were mighty relieved to get that bank loan a year ago, but I think we're more thankful for what we learned when we were in a jam—that we really could save dough if we made up our minds to it and got a really practical budget-plan working for us.

Personal Planning has given us that... and let me tell you that boy's going to college—for sure.

Saving is the only way to move ahead of your worries, and stay ahead. And—sometimes—borrowing at the B of M is the best way to save. Find out how to save despite today's high prices. Ask for your copy of "Personal Planning" at your neighborhood B of M branch. It's yours for the asking.

Basketball Playoffs to Start Here Thursday Against Kamloops Merchants

Games Set Ahead To Allow Visitors Time To Get Home

The climactic finish of this year's basketball season gets underway here Thursday with the first of two games to decide the B.C. senior "B" hoop champions when the Prince Rupert Challengers meet the semi-finalists from Kamloops.

Originally scheduled to open here Friday, the games were set ahead a day because of lack of air transportation out of here on Sunday.

Kamloops Merchants, who defeated Cloverdale 118-110 in a two-game series last week-end, will drive to Prince George by private car, then fly by CPA to Terrace and come here by the airline's linousine.

Several of the players on the Kamloops team are teachers who have to return in time for Monday's school opening, coach Sandy Barton said in a telephone conversation.

The Basketball Association said advance tickets purchased for Friday's game will be good on Friday; those for Saturday's game will be exchanged for Thursday tickets.

The visiting team will bring eight players and coach Barton. The Kamloops squad was narrowly beaten here four years ago in the senior B finals.

Meanwhile, coach Alex Bill, assisted by Don Hartwig, is whipping his Challenger lineup into shape to meet an expected tough opposition.

"Between the two of us, we're getting our team ready in half the usual time," said Bill. "Besides, we are able this way to develop a few new techniques by pooling our efforts."

"The whole team is enthusiastic with our arrangement," explained the veteran coach of several senior "B" victories.

Following is the lineup chosen to represent the Challengers in the finals: Jim Platen, Joe Davis, Rupe Holkestad, Ray Spring, Don and Sid Scherk, Mickey Webster, Art Olson, Ted Arney and Ron Webber.

A strong defenceman and capable centre Bill would have liked to see on his lineup is Glen Carlson, whose injured right hand prevents active participation in the playoffs.

Meanwhile, the third inter "A" playoff game scheduled for tonight will either bring the championship to North Stars or, if they lose to Fraser & Payne, tie up the series 2-2.

Stars broke the 1-1 tie Saturday night by edging the clothiers 43-42 in a closely-fought contest.

Both teams are made up of Booth Memorial High School students and present a fast brand of ball. Stars are coached by Jack Evans, F-PS by Don Hartwig. Both coaches are high school teachers.

Emile Francis On First All-Star Team

SEATTLE — Edmonton and Saskatoon each landed two players on the Western Hockey League all-star team and Vancouver and Calgary the other positions, league president Al Leader announced.

Vancouver's winner was goalie Emile Francis, who drew 118 of the possible 120 points in the voting to lead the all-star nominees. He was followed by Vic Stasiuk, Edmonton right wing, with 116.

Each member of the first squad receives $100 from the league. A second squad, consisting of two players each from Victoria and Saskatoon and one each from Edmonton and New Westminster, also was named. These players get $50 each from the league.

Remember When

Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers and then 44 years old, replaced the injured Lorne Chabot in goal in the second period of their Stanley Cup game against Maroons at Montreal 25 years ago tonight. Lester allowed only one goal as Rangers won 2-1 in overtime. Rangers captured the cup that year by three games to two.

SEVEN MEMBERS OF YUGOSLAVIA'S OLYMPIC rowing team (above) have arrived in Canada to start a new life. Landing at Halifax, they said emigration to Canada was not a quick decision. "We had been thinking about it a long time." The seven are engineers and will live in Toronto. The eighth member of the team became ill before they sailed from Germany but will join them later.

Top Canadian Football Club Promised to Annis Stukus

VANCOUVER — Annis Stukus, new manager-coach of the British Columbia Lions, got right down to business after his arrival from the East.

He has opened a downtown office as headquarters for Vancouver's entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Stukus knows he has carved himself a man-sized job in molding a new club. Work, not worry, he explained, is his specialty.

"Sure, I know it'll be tough, but you just wait, we'll have the best football club in Canada."

Juniors Race For Derby Awards

Race for the biggest fish in the Rupert Rod & Gun Club open salt water derby is getting more competitive each day in the junior division with 10 fish entered headed by a 10-pound, 4-ounce grey cod.

The top entry by Billy Watmough is followed by another one of his weighing 10 pounds even. Third spot is a tie between Johnny Clausen and Gordon Stenset, each having weighed in a 9-pound, 14-ounce cod. In fourth place is Lynn Galbraith, with an 8-pound, 8-ounce entry.

The derby closes April 25, after which prizes will be awarded for the first three heaviest fish. Weighing in station is at John Clausen & Son, Cow Bay. Entry forms are available there, too.

In the adult division, (for entrants 16 and over), a 7-pound cod leads the field.

Meanwhile, a 12-pound, 9-ounce entry by Joe Latoski is the only competitor so far in the Rod & Gun Club steelhead derby which opened last Friday. The derby extends to May 3.

Chess Federation Grants Tournament Status to Six-Move-a-Minute Game

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The austere British Chess Federation is granting tournament status next May to the six-moves-a-minute brand of the classical game.

The occasion is the annual Whitsun chess congress at Ilford, Essex, where individuals and teams for the first time will participate in the Lightning Chess Championship.

The hopped-up version calls for a move in 10 seconds, compared with the usual world tournament pace of a minimum of 16 moves an hour.

Eileen Trammer, former British champion, seems to sum up the reaction of leading players. She called it "enormous fun and a relaxation from slow chess."

Miss Trammer added that the game, described by a chess authority as being old as the hills, "is particularly interesting because a certain slickness can take a mediocre player a long way against an expert used to deep analysis."

"The trick of lightning chess is to be slick without making obvious blunders. This helps your serious game, particularly when you tend to overshoot your 10-minute game limit."

The time element in chess came in about a century ago, says Brian Reilly, editor of the British Chess Magazine. Before that, big-time chess boiled down to a war of attrition with the winner the player hanging on the longest physically.

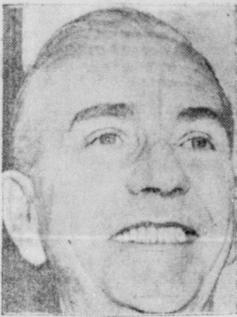

Reilly says some moves—now games—lasted 24 hours.

Nowadays, aside from world tournaments, London league matches have a time limit of 20 moves an hour and ordinary league matches 15 to 24 moves an hour.

The Whitsun congress, which will have the standard chess championships as usual, of course, expects 100 players in the individual bracket of the lightning tournament. It can take 65 games. The

Outdoors ... with Marty

Next day we were at it again—more good fish, several in excess of 15 pounds, but no more super fish at fabulous Moricetown Falls.

So it continued until October 5. Around mid-afternoon a fish took the lure right at my feet, and immediately he broke water, lots of water, and several gallons drenched me. Then began the twisting, writhing, bulldogging, and all the many slashing tricks of the freshrun steelhead. Away went 300, 400 feet of line, then he came back only to repeat the whole performance time and again.

Although Betty and I fish only five paces apart—that is all the space we have on the rock ledge—it is our rule to reel up when the other has a fish on, to take note of the time, never to offer advice, and never to gaff the other's fish. So the fight was all mine, and again I had visions of landing a record steelhead.

At the 30-minute mark I was in control, and knew that this fellow was not the size of the fish of a few days ago, for by now there was only about 75 feet of line between us. Slowly the line was shortened, and then I had him at my feet. I reached for the gaff, but he took one look and went away from there. All that work to do over again, and work I surely did.

At 42 minutes he was quite docile, so I took him out and we left for home. Stopped at the store and on the scales he showed 23 pounds 10 ounces bled out; 39 inches length; 21 inches girth—a clean fresh-run fish with the faintest blush of crimson on the cheeks. This ended the fishing for nine days, as we were to hunt with a doctor and his wife from Oregon.

So it was boots and saddle, rifles and the mountains, and we brought in two good moose and a fully grown brown bear, the latter believed to be the only one of his color ever killed in this vicinity.

On October 15th, back at the canyon, Betty was ready before I, and on her first cast into the well-rested water she hooked the roughest-acting steelhead I have ever known. He took the lure as soon as the retrieve commenced, 100 feet out, and immediately fought on the surface, whipping the water to white foam. How that Mustard hook ever stayed put, I cannot tell. I know my fingers were crossed, and I had a hard time keeping silent. Betty handles her rod beautifully, but that steelhead was terrific, and I felt little hope of her success. We lose lots of fish too, for no one can land all that strike.

The fight remained on the surface in full view, then he came swiftly to Betty's feet, tall and dived and savagely threw his head from side to side. This time Betty got the soaking, and I enjoyed watching her clever tackle handling.

At the 27-minute mark she made a neat stroke, and her fish was ashore with the gaff in his head, a grand fighting fish, a male, with much more color than mine. He also measured 39 inches in length, while the girth was but 19 1/2 inches. He weighed 21 1/2 pounds and a No. 2 Jaemac spinner was his undoing. Add to the foregoing facts the 19 1/2 lb steelhead from the Copper River recently, the 17 pounder out of the Cloyah last week, and the many others of similar caliber taken each year, and there stands clearly limned the pinnacle on which this country may rightly place itself as tops for steelheaders.

The time is come to place our wares before the world and expand the Steelhead Derby to include anglers from the south, anglers whom I know to be prepared to travel all the miles necessary to obtain their sport; there is no better steelhead fishing on the continent than here and the easiest way to tell the world about it is by entering any worthy catches in the Field and Stream contest.

This year let us make a concerted effort to use this excellent and inexpensive medium, let there be no thought of keeping the thing to ourselves for it cannot be done, the influx of new people has already spread the word Province-wide, better share with good fellows everywhere and maybe we can learn a trick from them.

Grain Strike Loss Totals $3.5 Million

VANCOUVER (CP)—The seven-week-old strike of grain handlers at five coast terminals has cost an estimated $3,600,000.

A grain official estimates the tieup has cost the railways about $2,000,000 in revenue, the elevators $700,000 and ship operators $400,000.

The 250 workers at the terminal elevators in Vancouver and New Westminster walked out when elevator operators refused wage demands.

The men sought a 12 1/2-cent hourly pay boost. The operators asked a renewal of the 1952 contract with a basic wage of $1.50 an hour.

The dispute is still deadlocked. The federal government proposed binding arbitration, but there has been no comment on the proposal from union or operators.

The workers have lost about $100,000 in wages, and allied workers idle because of the strike have lost about $150,000.

A fleet of 12 grain ships has been tied up for many days while an embargo is in effect on rail shipments from the prairies.

Zero Weather Doesn't Worry Miner's Wife

REGINA (CP)—Mrs. R. J. Smith of Toronto, one of six white women to spend the winter of 1952-53 in northern Saskatchewan's booming mining centre of Uranium City, is heading back to the bush following a brief visit "outside."

The northern winter with its temperatures of 40 to 50 degrees below zero holds no fears for the former big city girl.

With her husband, a mining prospector, she arrived at Uranium City, north of Lake Athabasca, in October, 1952, and set up housekeeping in a tent that was to be their home throughout the winter.

Mrs. Smith says she beat the below-zero temperatures by sleeping in her clothes—in a winter costume that consisted of "red flannels," a sack suit, riding trousers, a ski suit and flight boots.

"My clothes weighed more than I do," says Mrs. Smith, who is in the 90-pound class.

Mrs. Smith was fascinated by northern pioneer life after surviving the initial shock of doing without electricity, water for washing clothes and the quick transportation that city dwellers take for granted.

"There's going to be a real boom in Uranium City this summer," she says. "I certainly advise any wives who are young and without responsibilities to come with their husbands. It's a great experience."

But they had better be prepared for high costs. Mrs. Smith says food prices are very high. Potatoes, flown in from Edmonton, cost 15 to 19 cents a pound. Meat is more than $1 a pound.

The staple diet is vegetables but Mr. and Mrs. Smith were lucky last winter to obtain some caribou meat. Mrs. Smith described it as "delicious—it tastes much like fine beef tenderloin."

Plans Made For Festival In Smithers

Exhibits of national arts and creative talent are being sought. Prime purpose of the festival is to encourage unity among various national groups and to foster development of latent talent in young and old alike.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD
Mr. Dale Fails To Get Setting Trick With Uppercut Play

Miss Brash was not to be outbid on her big hand, and against her five diamond contract Mr. Dale led the king of spades.

With the ace of hearts and two club honors turning up in dummy, the chances of defeating the contract appeared bleak indeed.

Mr. Dale thought his partner might be able to win a trick in either hearts or clubs and, of course, one spade winner had already been taken.

To pick up the setting trick, Mr. Dale decided to try the play known as the uppercut.

He knew both Mr. Abel and Miss Brash were out of spades and if Mr. Abel could ruff a second spade high enough to force one of the three top diamond honors from Miss Brash's hand, his jack of diamonds would eventually be a winner.

Mr. Abel would not ruff a high spade, so at trick two Mr. Dale carefully led the deuce of the suit. Mr. Abel rose to the occasion and ruffed in with the 10 of diamonds.

This was a fine defensive manoeuvre but Miss Brash countered it with a good play of her own. She did not over-ruff but instead discarded her six of hearts, which was a loser anyway.

She won the queen of hearts return with dummy's ace, ricked up the trumps in three leads and spread the hand for five-odd.

Most players would consider this quite a favorable result, but there was silence from across the board. Mr. Heinsite was in deep meditation. Finally he said, "You can make five if you over-ruff Abel's 10 of diamonds with the queen. A squeeze develops, you can cash your ace and king of diamonds and give Dale a trick with the jack. Then you win any return, play the rest of your trumps, leaving all four clubs on the board. On the last trump lead Abel would find it impossible to guard both clubs and hearts."

"Played that way, I'd make exactly five-odd, wouldn't I?" asked Miss Brash.

"Yes, you would," replied Mr. Heinsite proudly.

"Excuse me, then," said Miss Brash, "while I change our trick score from 100 to 100."

Taxation Agreements Should be Continued

By The Canadian Press

HAMIOTA, Man.—A high-ranking cabinet minister has indicated that the federal government favors an indefinite continuation of its tax agreements with the provinces.

Carol's Son Won't Attend Funeral Service

LISBON (CP)—Former King Carol of Romania, who died of a heart attack early Saturday, will be buried beside the kings of Portugal at the St. Vincent National Pantheon.

Premier Oliviera Salazar gave permission for burial there to Carol's third wife, former Mme. Elena Magda Lupescu, who was alone with the one-time playboy ruler when he collapsed and died in his villa at nearby Estoril. He was 59.

Carol's son, former King Michael, who succeeded his father on the throne the Communists have since abolished, was informed of the death at Lausanne, Switzerland. He issued a statement expressing "deep regret" but saying he would not go to Portugal for the funeral because he "must stay with his wife. Her Majesty Queen Anne, who recently gave birth to their third girl."

There had been a noticeable coolness between father and son for years.

Justice Minister Garson, back in his home province for a speech in this rich farming centre 180 miles west of Winnipeg, said "nothing is more important" than that the federal-provincial taxation agreements be "perpetuated." It was assumed that he meant indefinite continuation.

Under the agreements the provinces turn over certain fields of taxation to Ottawa in return for certain fixed grants. All provinces except Quebec have signed such agreements for a five-year period expiring four years from now.

The question of the tax-rental agreements has been one of the most-contentious issues in provincial-federal relations.

Premier E. C. Manning said Alberta regards the agreement as "only interim" and takes the stand that a permanent agreement would not be satisfactory.

Manitoba's Premier D. L. Campbell would not comment on the question of perpetuating the agreement but said he thinks the agreement is a "good thing" for his province.

Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario, who signed a tax agreement with the federal government this year for the first time, had no direct comment. He pointed to a part of his recent budget address which said: "We should like to see the federal government's action in repealing the security transfer tax broadened to include the entire fields of succession duties, liquor, and cigarette taxes."

Mr. Garson said: "No one should think that the purpose of these agreements is to enable the federal government to invade the constitutional jurisdiction of the provinces. In fact, the purpose is the very opposite, to make sure that every province has sufficient financial resources to carry out fully the functions allotted to it by the constitution."

Under the guidance of St. FX's crusading extension department, working in close co-operation with federal and provincial governments, farmers, fishermen and industrial workers in the Maritimes have organized themselves into co-operative groups doing millions of dollars worth of business each year.

Two of four Canadian experts now in Southeast Asia under the Colombo plan are St. FX men, Rev. M. J. MacKinnon, director of the extension department, is studying co-operative education possibilities and J. Ed O'Meara, of the federal department of agriculture, is exploring co-operative marketing.

On St. FX's trim, 50-acre campus, with its Georgian buildings of native sandstone, sons of city men rub shoulders with sons of farmers and fisherfolk. FOUNDED BY BISHOP
The university was founded in 1853 by Rt. Rev. Col. Francis MacKinnon, bishop of Arichat, to prepare young men for the priesthood. The emphasis has long since shifted to more secular considerations, but St. FX still turns out its fair share of seminarians.

St. FX is holding year-long celebrations to mark its 100th birthday. Highlights this summer will include observance of the 25th anniversary of the adult education movement, a general alumni reunion and a conference of United States and Canadian mining engineers.

St. FX's president is a silver-haired physicist of 65.

"Doc Pat," as the students call him, holds honorary degrees from four Canadian universities and is a past president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

The philosophy behind the university's adult education movement has always been, essentially, a dynamic and positive one.

Army Blamed With Stupidity In Barc Loss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tugboat operators have charged the Army with "criminal stupidity" in the loss of its new experimental Barc and her three-man crew off the Santa Cruz county coast March 17.

The charges were made by Thomas Crowley, Jr., operator of the Red Stack Tow Boat Co. and B. L. Havside, vice-president of the Havside Co., derrick barge operators and shipchangers.

They said they had written letters to Bay Area congressional representatives in Washington, D.C.

The Army declined to comment. It has an officer investigating the sinking.

"The simple truth is that this large Army tug towed the Barc under and sank her," Crowley declared in a letter to Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif.).

Crowley said loss of the Barc was caused by use of a tugboat which was too powerful, and a tow line which was too heavy. He said the combination actually pulled the Barc under the water.

The sunken craft was located Thursday by Navy divers.

ST. FRANCIS XAVIER university at Antigonish, N.S., long noted as a socially-minded college, is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

St. Francis Xavier University Celebrates 100th Anniversary

By JACK BEST
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—St. Francis Xavier is known as a socially-minded university. This year it is celebrating its 100th anniversary.

With a full-time undergraduate enrolment of 855 students, including Mount St. Bernard College for women and Xavier Junior College in Sydney, the university is among the smallest in Canada.

But there are thousands of others St. FX is teaching who never write exams and who never set foot on a university campus. These are the men and women learning the way to economic prosperity through the Antigonish movement of adult education, named for this eastern Nova Scotia town of 3,800 in which the university is situated.

NOTABLE MOVEMENT

Under the guidance of St. FX's crusading extension department, working in close co-operation with federal and provincial governments, farmers, fishermen and industrial workers in the Maritimes have organized themselves into co-operative groups doing millions of dollars worth of business each year.

Two of four Canadian experts now in Southeast Asia under the Colombo plan are St. FX men, Rev. M. J. MacKinnon, director of the extension department, is studying co-operative education possibilities and J. Ed O'Meara, of the federal department of agriculture, is exploring co-operative marketing.

FOUNDED BY BISHOP

The university was founded in 1853 by Rt. Rev. Col. Francis MacKinnon, bishop of Arichat, to prepare young men for the priesthood. The emphasis has long since shifted to more secular considerations, but St. FX still turns out its fair share of seminarians.

St. FX is holding year-long celebrations to mark its 100th birthday. Highlights this summer will include observance of the 25th anniversary of the adult education movement, a general alumni reunion and a conference of United States and Canadian mining engineers.

St. FX's president is a silver-haired physicist of 65.

"Doc Pat," as the students call him, holds honorary degrees from four Canadian universities and is a past president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

POSITIVE APPROACH

The philosophy behind the university's adult education movement has always been, essentially, a dynamic and positive one.

"Our idea was to stress the positive approach," says Dr.

Moses M. Coady, the rugged, silver-haired director emeritus of St. FX's extension department. When Dr. Coady started out in September, 1929 to organize Maritime fishermen for the federal government they needed nothing so much as leadership and a plan of action.

He started at Canso, N.S., where Dr. J. J. Tompkins of St. FX had planted the seeds of group enterprise seven years earlier. Roused by officials of the fisheries department the people gathered 600 strong to hear what Dr.

Coady had to say.

After 10 months the job was finished, and in June of 1930 about 200 delegates gathered in Halifax for the first meeting of the United Maritime Fishermen. Today the UMF, minus Prince Edward Island which broke away early to form its own organization, is a vast enterprise with a $3,500,000 annual business turnover. A $45,000 federal grant for organizational and educational work is administered through the St. FX extension department.

$100,000 Worth of Fish Lost in Waterfront Fire

VANCOUVER (CP)—Stubborn flames chewing at heavy wooden planking caused $500,000 damage to the National Harbors Board fish plant here last Thursday.

An official of the plant said it was insured for $450,000 and $100,000 worth of stored fish was ruined.

A city fireboat sped to the scene and squelched flames that charred the walls and ceiling of two-thirds of the 200-by-30-foot building. The three-alarm blaze was fought by firemen from six halls.

Archbishop Sees Hope In New Offers

CANTERBURY, Eng. (Reuters)—Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, Archbishop of Canterbury, says there are gleams of light in the darkness of "this bitter phase of human history."

In an Easter address at Canterbury Cathedral, he spoke of evil that took "devilish and ghastly forms, producing criminals, driving men into the terrible atrocities of the Kikuyu or the long-drawn-out miseries of Korea."

But amid all this, "Moscow adds to words of peace some signs of willingness to co-operate. China speaks the simple word about prisoners-of-war which India asked for and failed to get and for which the world has been waiting."

"In this brighter air the chief powers have agreed upon a new secretary-general of the United Nations organizations. We can measure how deep is the darkness brooding over us by the fact that these few flushlights of hope have seemed to shine like suns."

Brewery Pays Funeral Bill

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—A century-old "coffin register" owned by an undertaker here records that in 1862 a local resident "was smothered to death by the foul air in a beer tavern."

He was given a stylish funeral with the best hearse and a team of horses—and a local brewery paid the bill.

AMMUNITION DUMP BLAST KILLS 37, INJURES 200

TAIPEH, Formosa (CP)—An ammunition dump at Taipei blew up with an earth-shaking roar Monday, killing 37 persons and injuring more than 200 others, at least seriously.

The blast happened as workmen were removing an explosive, intended for blasting purposes, from an old Japanese torpedo.

A factory next to the dump collapsed and farmhouses in the vicinity were levelled.
